Andy Card Confident Despite Poll Ratings

By TOM HENSHAW

Just about every poll taken in the past few weeks shows Rep. Andrew Card of Holbrook trailing well behind his two rivals for the Republican nomination for governor.

But that doesn't faze Card in the least.

"I've been the underdog in every race I've run and I've always won," said Card on a recent visit to The Quincy Sun. He has run for state rep four times in a district overwhelmingly Democratic.

The most recent poll, he said, one that was taken for Channel 7 in Boston, had a sampling of only 100 to 200 people — "and sometimes those people in the polls don't necessarily vote."

"My field organization is the best of all the Republican candidates," he said. "About 150,000 voters will be out Sept. 14 and I know who they are. I'm in constant communication with them."

"The polls show my opponents (John Sears and John Lakian) are ahead but neither of them has it wrapped up so it must still be wide open. People will be seeking an alternative and I'm that candidate."

Card's latest position paper, issued shortly before his appearance in Quincy, proposes an amendment to the state constitution requiring that 40 per cent of the state's growth revenues be given to local aid.

"There should be two state budgets," he said. "One for local aid and passed prior to May 1 so that the cities and towns can make plans for it; the other for the state itself."

"This would take state aid out of the legislative process and reduce the political involvement. If the state government has fewer dollars to spend on itself then it will spend them more wisely."

"This will put the horse back in front of the cart where it is supposed to be."

Disabled Persons Guide At Crane Library

The Thomas Crane Library has received "Access To Boston: A Guide For Disabled Persons" published in 1981 by the city of Boston.

The book, which is over 200 pages long and includes information on over 350 locations, was the idea of a Boston University student who wanted to take a positive approach to eliminate architectural barriers.

Boston University students, now organized a H.O.P.E. (Helping Other People in Every-way), the Mayor's Office on the Physically Handicapped, Boston Public Facilities Department, the National Parks and Recreation Service, and the Information Center for Individuals with Disabilities, utilized their professional and personal resources to produce the guide.

The book is organized by neighborhood, transportation services, day trips, half-day trips, telephone/TTY access for the deaf, and alphabetically.

It includes neighborhood information and fold-out maps, categorical listings (restaurants, night spots, museums, fast food emporia, drug stores, optical services, etc.), access symbols, site descriptions and more.

Special lists of volume-controlled public telephones, restaurants with Braille menus, museums with touchable exhibits, and sources of hand-controlled car rentals are, according to experts in the field, the best available.

It is available at the Main Library Reference Desk.

For more information, call the reference department at 471-2400.

Police Alert

By LT. WILLIAM MURPHY
Quincy Police Dept.

Don't Make It Easy For Burglars

Don't make it easy for a burglar to select your house as his target for the night.

Society dictates the publication of weddings, funerals and social functions and systematic burglars read such notices regularly to determine when you will be away from home.

If you have to be away for a wedding, funeral or similar function, arrange to have your home occupied or watched or made to look lived in at the time.

If you are a woman living alone, use your first initials only in the telephone directory and on the mail box.

Store all outside furniture and ladders where a burglar can't get at them. They are useful to him in gaining entry to your home.

Don't accept complimentary tickets to social or sports events from unidentified sources. It could be a ruse to lure you out of the house.

If you have a dog, advertise it with a sign "Beware of Dog." Don't discourage your dog from barking when strangers come to your door.

If you must display your family name in front of your home, have an unlisted phone number. Some burglars will call to see if you are at home.

Most burglars don't like to take chances or work too hard for what they get. They like easy pickings. Don't give it to them.

Stay Alive!

By John Valante

KILLER IN THE GARAGE

Gasoline engines of any kind can kill when operated behind closed doors. They all emit lethal carbon monoxide. Failure to remember this can cost the operator his life and can also be hazardous to building occupants when the garage is located beneath the building. Those who may open the garage doors while running the engine may overlook the fact that exhaust gas needs no door to penetrate sleeping quarters. Any opening, especially at or near the ceiling level can provide a passageway for escaping gas.

A Hamilton, Ontario's minister's wife and the couple's 18-year-old son were killed after carbon monoxide from a car left running in the basement garage seeped into their house. A similar episode happened in Houston, Texas when the Astro's star pitcher, Don Wilson, was found dead with his six-year-old son in their car in the garage and fumes seriously injured his wife and another child in rooms above. They were brought to the hospital in comas.

Roslindale Beats Quincy, 5-1 For Twi Title

Frank (Slow Motion) Milliken limited Quincy to six hits and survived a shaky eighth inning by striking out Buck Freeman, the league's leading hitter, with the bases loaded in leading Roslindale to a 5-1 victory and the championship of the Boston Twi League.

The seventh and deciding game of the playoff series was played before 2,000 fans at Fore River Field.

Roslindale led 5-0 going into the eighth when Jerry Shanahan beat out an infield hit and Hal Janvrin singled. Jimmy Munroe scored Shanahan with the third single of the inning and Blondy Ryan reached on a fielder's choice to load the bases.

But Freeman looked at a third strike and Pat Concannon whistled a liner that second baseman Paul Chisholm snagged and doubled Munroe off second to end the inning.

Another promising Quincy rally was nipped in the fifth by fine defensive work. Walter McQuinn opened with a double. Spike Bonafini smashed a long drive to center that looked like extra bases but Billy Buitenhuis ran it down on the dead run and doubled McQuinn off second.

Quincy pitcher Norman Sims allowed Roslindale only eight hits but three of them were doubles and the visitors stole four bases on catcher McQuinn.

The lineup for Quincy included: Shanahan 3b, Janvrin 1b, Munroe rf, Ryan ss, Freeman cf, Concannon 2b, McQuinn c, Bonafini lf, Sims p, Mullowney ph.

The sixth game of the series, with Quincy leading three games to two, was played in Fenway Park, Boston, four days earlier and this time Milliken threw a four-hitter for the Quincy team for a 5-0 victory to even the series.

HOLMY WINS 6-MILER

Quincy's own Johnny Holmy was the star of the 28th annual New England AAU track and field championships at Plafman's Oval, winning the six-mile run in 32 minutes, 51 4/5 seconds from a field of 30 long distance runners.

Holmy, a 23-year-old pattern maker who lives on Albertina St., South Quincy, hit the tape some 15 or 20 yards ahead of Smiling Jimmy Henigan of Dorchester and 40 yards in front of Joe Quirk, also of Dorchester, with whom he traded leads for most of the way.

LARSON, BRESLIN WIN

Middleweight Ring Larson decided Steve McDermott of South Boston and Lightweight Tommy Breslin defeated Joe Silva of Taunton to bring titles home to Quincy in the final open air boxing show of the season at Fore River Field.

Favored bantamweight Fran Garcia of Quincy lost a disputed decision to his old nemesis, Louis LaBate of Brockton, in a semi-final bout in their weight class.

CLAN TOPS LUCY RECS

Dougy Logan booted four goals and Hutchinson had two as the Clan MacGregor soccer team overwhelmed the Lusitania Recreation Club of Cambridge 11-1 in the opening game of the Boston and District Soccer League's Southern Division at Faxon Field.

The Clan MacGregor lineup included: Moir g, Mills rb, J. Hay 1b, A. Allison rh, T. Hay ch, Mitchelson lh, Rae rf, R. Allison rf, Logan cf, Hutchinson lf, Creighton lof.

Quincy Has Experience And Tough Schedule

The Quincy football squad will face one of its toughest schedules this fall but Coach Tom Fitzgerald appears to have the personnel to meet it.

"I feel we are playing one of the toughest schedules around," Fitzgerald said. "We added Everett (a perennial Greater Boston League power) and Fitchburg (annually one of the best in Central Mass.) to replace Weymouth South and Weymouth North. We also play two other tough non-league teams in Revere and New Bedford. And we are playing in one of the strongest leagues (Suburban) in Eastern Massachusetts."

Fitzgerald, starting his fifth year as Quincy coach, greeted 120 candidates (70 juniors and seniors and 50 sophomores) last week and he has a wealth of experience and good size to meet the tough schedule.

"I think we should do all right," he said. "We have a lot of veterans and we had an outstanding sophomore team last year, most of whom are out for the varsity. We have good size and some speed."

On offense John Carr is back at center and junior Mark Walsh is another fine prospect. Brian Callahan will snap the ball on punts.

For guards there are veterans Bobby Willard and Danny Mahoney, John O'Donoghue, Bob McIsaac, Gary Menassian, Bobby Zupkofska, Dennis Obert and Jim Donahue.

The tackles are led by veterans Jamie Gravalese and 250-pound Joe Harte, who should be two of the best around this fall. They are joined by Bobby Buccella, Tom Deason, Eric Jolley and Pat MacDonald.

Captain Kevin Riggs is the top end and Mark Glynn and Paul Gilbode also look good.

Bobby Mudge is back at quarterback and battling him are Kevin Cabezas and Jay Conte.

The halfbacks are experienced with Chris Dracchio, Willie Cullen, Mike Miller and Mark

Righini all veterans and Mike Notarangelo, an outstanding Quincy wrestler, a fine prospect.

Ted Walsh is back at fullback and big Chris McCray, Greg Keefe and John Pickering are also fighting for the job.

"We have two fine sophomores, Darren Tucker and Gerry Frazier, who were outstanding last year at Sterling Junior High and they look good," Fitzgerald said. "They are fine running backs and have a good chance to stick with the varsity." Frazier's father was one of Quincy's best running backs several years ago.

On defense Rich Ready, Deason and Bobby Burns are the leading middle guard hopefuls.

Gravalese, Harte, Mahoney, Jim Kelly, Buccella, Mark Walsh and McIsaac are the defensive tackles and McCray, O'Donoghue, Carr, Don McAuley and Austin O'Malley are the ends.

There is a wealth of fine defensive backs, some of whom will play the corners and others at safety. They include veterans Rich Gustin, Glen Oriola, Darren DeCosta, Han Ha and John Marsters.

Others are Righini, Miller, Cullen, Burns, John Cacciatore, Gilbodey, Chris Shaughnessy, Tucker and Pickering.

Obert, Callahan, Riggs and Cabezas are the leading line backers.

Fitzgerald has Peter Cella and John Sullivan back as assistant coaches. Jackie Wier is again the equipment manager.

"The freshmen haven't reported yet and I am not sure who will be coaching them," Fitzgerald said. "It is going to be rough with no junior high program, but I've lined up several games for the freshmen."

The Presidents scrimmaged Weymouth North last week and are scrimmaging Boston Tech and Arlington this week.

They open their season Sept. 18 against Suburban League rival Cambridge Rindge and Latin at Cambridge in a 2 o'clock game.

For North It's A New Coach, New System, Almost New Team

By TOM SULLIVAN

North Quincy begins its 50th year of football with a new coach, a new system and a virtually new team.

Ken McPhee, a former Raider star himself and a North assistant for the past 10 years, has taken over as the new head coach, succeeding Dave Burke, who retired following the 1981 season after seven years at the helm.

McPhee greeted 87 candidates (not including ninth graders) last week and has been pleased with the showing of his squad in early workouts considering the inexperience and the installation of an entirely new system.

"With a new system, it is going to be slow, but the boys are working very hard, they are a fine group of kids and I'm very pleased with their desire and enthusiasm," said McPhee. "With the many restrictions forced upon us by Proposition 2½, I have to be happy with the way things are progressing."

"We have very little experience and are building almost from scratch both on offense and defense. Our co-captains, Jim Kelly and Gerry Connolly, are going to be forces both ways and they are fine leaders."

On offense Kelly leads a fine group of ends who include Tony Befera, Peter Clark, Jack Bolster, Larry Nialitz, Vic DiGravio, whose grandfather was a Quincy standout in the 1930's, and Kevin White.

Connolly is the leading tackle and behind him are Frederick Peterson, Nick Gelsomini and Al DiBella.

Battling for the guard spots are Neil Leonard, Brian Maginnis, Bob Walker, Rich Ragusa, Dave Ceurelles and Jerry Martin, and the center hopefuls are Ken Wright, Mike Costa and Pat McDonough.

Dave DiCarlo and Rich Brown, who saw a little varsity action last year, head the halfback corps and John Ward, Mike Gill, Scott Messina and John MacDonald are other good looking prospects.

At fullback Mike Cullen and Bob Leonard, who also saw a minimum of varsity service, are fighting it out with Shawn Cunningham and rugged John Kozlowski. Kozlowski, playing for the first time, is one of North's outstanding wrestlers and McPhee is impressed with him.

"We have a big group of quarterbacks and all show promise," said the new coach. "We are going to have a lot of competition for the starting spot, just as we are at fullback."

The quarterbacks are Vin Barry, John Comeau, Dan Ceurelles, Steve Hogan, Dave Zurmons and Rich Brooks.

"We have a lot of juniors who looked good last year as sophomores, all they need is a little more work," McPhee said.

Defensive coordinator Jack Raymer is also handicapped by a lack of experienced players and a lack of depth at some positions. Many of the Raiders will be playing both ways.

"We are small and I hope we can compensate for our lack of size with good speed," Raymer said.

Connolly, Peterson, Joe Spellman, Ben Klingenstein, Ragusa and Maginnis are the top tackle hopefuls and Kelly, McDonough, Befera and Comeau are the leading ends.

The linebacksers are Neil Leonard, Cunningham, Gelsomini, Kevin Kelly, Mike Barry and Jim McNamara.

There is a large group of cornerbacks, Bob Leonard, Rich Tapper, Brown, Jim Kennedy, Mark Balzarini, Mark Wilkins, Martin and Paul Ceurelles.

At halfback are Jay Pillard, Bolster, MacDonald, Brian Ellis and Dan Baker.

"We are probably strongest at cornerback and halfback, as there is more experience there," Raymer said.

Steve Mallory, who suffered a broken leg last year, is unable to play this season but will be with the squad, helping out in any way he can.

McPhee has Raymer, Ted Sadowski and Pete Zoia back as assistants and one new aide, Mark Mulvaney, another former Raider standout.

The Raiders scrimmaged Braintree last week and are scheduled to scrimmage Scituate this week.

They open their season Sept. 18 at home against oldtime non-league rival Milton. In addition to their Suburban League rivals, they will play Milton, Catholic Memorial and Somerville.

Dave Burke Assistant Coach At Thayer

Dave Burke, who retired as North Quincy football coach following the 1981 season after seven years as the Raiders' skipper, will be coaching again this fall -- as an assistant at Thayer Academy.

"Art Valicenti, Thayer's highly successful coach for many years, took a sabbatical to go to Bowdoin College as an assistant coach," Burke said. "He called me and asked if I'd be interested in helping out Don Badger, Thayer's new head coach. Having played at Bowdoin, I felt I would be helping them out if I accepted, so I said I would do it."

Free Concert Sunday At Ruth Gordon Amphitheater

The Quincy Tourism Association will raise the curtain at the Ruth Gordon Amphitheater, Merrymount Park, with a free concert Sunday 2 to 4 p.m.

The "Red Branch Knights", an Irish folk group, will headline the first performance by any group at the site.

A three piece jazz group will sit in during the afternoon.

The Quincy Tourism Association hopes to generate interest in completion of the amphitheater as a place for outdoor performances.

"It's hoped that enough interest will be generated by this concert to enlist volunteers from various non-profit organizations to lend their time, talents and materials to complete this outdoor theater," said association president Loren Strout.

About $20,000 in materials would be needed, according to Strout.

"We hope that not only will Quincy residents enjoy the concert but the people coming in for the Presidents Cup races will stop by," said Garry Brennan, public relations director for the association - and a concert organizer along with Strout, Paul Hoadley and Ardy Peterson.

Construction of the amphitheater, named for actress Ruth Gordon from Wollaston, started in 1977.

WEEK OF: SEPTEMBER 9

AQUARIUS - January 21-February 19
Financial news is generally bright, but collecting debts requires a firm approach. Romantic instinct is not as sharp as you believe. Try taking a tip from a friend.

PISCES - February 20-March 20
Career project may come to a standstill, but the lull is followed by a bustling period. Stuffy relationship becomes less formal. Out of town news should be followed up.

ARIES - March 21-April 20
Offers you issue now may be taken very seriously - don't get carried away. Ambition is strong, but make an effort to devote time to the private side of your life.

TAURUS - April 21-May 22
Voice from past may ask for a favor, allow some time before making a commitment. Career path is taking some unexpected turns, but don't jump to premature conclusions.

GEMINI - May 23-June 21
Delays at this time may be expensive, so expedite matters where you can. Neighbors are in a cordial mood, and you may find yourself striking a pleasant new friendship.

CANCER - June 22-July 22
Educational activities are favored, but don't take on an unrealistically heavy load. Actually, in all areas - notably health and romance - remind yourself that moderation is the key.

LEO - July 23-August 22
Keep out of reach of matchmakers and other do-gooders. You're your own best friend and adviser now. Be generous about boosting the morale of youngsters and seniors alike.

VIRGO - August 23-September 22
Avoid taking financial or other risks as hunches are on the weak side. On the other hand, taste is impeccable - an excellent week for designing, decorating, and the like.

LIBRA - September 23-October 22
Hobbies are accentuated as a healthy and perhaps profitable outlet. Weigh pros and cons before making a career or other critical choice; decisions rendered now are long-lasting ones.

SCORPIO - October 23-November 21
You excel in a management role, but matters involving shared finances need some quick ironing out. Friend's romantic successes do not mean that your own situation should be taken for granted.

SAGITTARIUS - November 22-December 22
Plans are being laid for upcoming advancement or award. Tempers start flying at the drop of a feather. New fall wardrobe emphasizes the warm, conservative sides of your personality.

CAPRICORN - December 23-January 20
Sensitive, thoughtful, thrifty and tidy. Your strengths, yes, but in excess these are also your weak areas. Friendship circle will expand over the next 12 months. To maintain or upgrade your present financial status, hard work coupled with creative touches are emphasized from October onward.

Coast Guard Vs. Clam Diggers Criticized

Cong. John J. Douglass of the North Shore appeared in Quincy District Court on behalf of 16 clam diggers from his district who were arrested on the mud flats off Squantum after a fight with coastal officers and Coast Guardsmen.

"I am here to put a stop to the alleged practice of using the United States Coast Guard boats and men for chasing clam diggers," he said. "The Coast Guard service is maintained for enforcing federal laws and not petty state regulations."

The arrests were made Aug. 29 following an hour and a half battle involving three Coast Guard boats, one of which was rammed and nearly sunk. The clam diggers were from East Boston and Chelsea.

When nine of the clam diggers were convicted, Douglass promised to take the issue of the use of Coast Guard boats up with the Treasury Department in Washington.

DUMP BLASTED

A quantity of dynamite was exploded in the old Merrymount quarry off Quarry St., which had been used by the city as a dump for two years, in an effort to redistribute the waste and end the fires and foul odors that annoyed residents.

"There was a muffled roar," said an observer, "and up from the middle of the pit rose a black mass 60 or 80 feet and where all had seemed to be solid debris in the pit was a yawning expanse of blue-black liquid."

"For hours thereafter the contents of the great hole in the hilltop was seething and bubbling."

RECORD ENROLLMENT

A record enrollment of 13,659 students taxed the capacity of the Quincy schools and led Supt. James N. Muir to observe that one of the city's outstanding needs was a new high school in the north end or an addition on North Junior High School.

Muir said that there were 300 too many students in the high school and North Junior, which was built three years ago with a capacity for 750, now had an enrollment of 1,026.

A Letter To The Voters of Quincy

I am concerned about the election for Norfolk County Clerk of Courts.

You don't see the Clerk of Courts on television or read about him in the newspapers, but its an important position and my job as District Attorney could be very difficult without a capable professional as Clerk of Courts. The successful prosecution of violent criminals and dangerous felons requires experienced and knowledgeable people in the court system. THEREFORE, I AM PUBLICLY SUPPORTING THE ELECTION OF THE PRESENT CLERK OF COURTS, NICHOLAS BARBADORO.

NICHOLAS BARBADORO has worked in the Clerk's Office for 17 years, he was First Assistant Clerk for six years, and was unanimously appointed Clerk of Courts by the Supreme Judicial Court of Massachusetts. Because of this background, "NICK" BARBADORO IS ONE OF THE MOST HIGHLY RESPECTED OFFICIALS in the Massachusetts court system today.

It is critical to me as District Attorney and to law enforcement generally to have an experienced and capable Clerk of Courts on the job. Your present Clerk, NICHOLAS BARBADORO is such a person.

Please vote on Tuesday, September 14. Please remember that the Clerk of Courts is an important position.

PLEASE VOTE TO RETAIN THE PRESENT CLERK OF COURTS, NICHOLAS BARBADORO.

Nicholas Barbadaro, the veteran assistant clerk, lost his home city of Quincy to Joseph J. LaRaia but piled up the votes in the outlying towns to insure himself a full term as Norfolk County Clerk of Courts.

The victory in the Democratic primary Tuesday was tantamount to election for Barbadaro, who will have no opposition in the November general election for the six-year court post.

LaRaia, a Quincy city councillor and former mayor, came out of his home city with an 8,308 to 7,431 lead over Barbadaro but with 17 out of the 27 communities in the county reporting Barbadaro had 21,714 votes to 16,289 for Elizabeth Laing and 14,141 for LaRaia.

David C. Ahearn of Norwood apparently won reelection as county commissioner although Joseph E. McLaughlin of Weymouth, a former assistant planner in Quincy, captured his former home city by the overwhelming margin of 11,089 to 4,974 for Ahearn and 3,442 for Terence W. Lynn of Braintree.

Again, it was the outlying towns in the county that provided Ahearn, the incumbent, with what appeared to be a winning margin. And again, the victor in the Democratic primary will have no opposition in the general election.

While former Gov. Michael S. Dukakis prevailed over Gov. Edward J. King statewide, King was the favorite among Quincy Democrats by 11,970 to 10,816.

It was almost the identical margin by which King beat then-

McCauley Names Koch To Oversee Cemeteries

Mayor Francis X. McCauley, faced with myriad complaints about conditions in the city's burial places, has placed Park Department Chief Richard J. Koch in overall charge of the Cemetery Department.

McCauley said that, under his new plan, J. Vincent Smyth will continue as provisional superintendent of the Cemetery Department pending the results of a Civil Service test taken last December.

Smyth, who has held the post since 1977, will report to Koch, said McCauley, in the same manner that Forestry Supt. John Koegler reports to the Park Department head.

The mayor said that since he took office last Jan. 4 "the preponderance of complaints that this office has received has been about the cemeteries." He said the complaints numbered about

RICHARD KOCH, SR.

200. "Not a week goes by when I don't get one or two verbal comments on the cemetery," he said.

McCauley said that having Koch in charge of the Park, Forestry and Cemetery Departments means that men and equipment can be shifted around to do landscaping and maintenance work as needed.

Crews from Koch's Park Department were used last May to get the city's burial places ready for Memorial Day when it became apparent that the Cemetery staff of 18 people were unable to keep up.

Park Department people are working on the cemeteries now, said Koch, to put them in shape so that they "can have a full growing season and be under control in the spring."

McCauley said the work crews of the departments will remain separate because of union contracts but, he added, "we would like eventually to have an interchangeable crew for the three departments."

Koch said he is looking forward to working with Smyth "in harmony" to upgrade the Mayor To Ask For Sewer-Water Dept.

Mayor Francis X. McCauley is moving to rearrange the divisions of the Public Works Department and create by ordinance a Sewer, Water and Drain Department.

Such a department was created through the budget last spring but its validity has been questioned by the State Civil Service Commission in the wake of the Owen Eaton case.

Eaton was the superintendent of the Water Department who lost his job in the merger of the Sewer and Water Departments and is fighting his ouster through Civil Service.

McCauley said he will ask the City Council at its Sept. 20 meeting to reorganize the Public Works Department into five subordinate departments, instead of the current nine in the ordinance.

The new departments will be the Administrative Department, the Engineering Department, the Public Buildings Department, the Highway Department and the Sewer, Water and Drain Department.

Under a current and largely ignored ordinance, the divisions of the Public Works Department include:

Engineering, Parks and Water Departments; Administration, Public Buildings, Highways, Parking Areas, Sanitation and Sewer Divisions. Sanitation has disappeared and Parks and Parking Areas have been separated.

Thief Takes Van Load Of Television Sets

A van load of television equipment was stolen Tuesday from the South Shore Television Co. on Revere Rd. by a thief who apparently grabbed the keys to the van from the store and drove off.

Remo DeNicola, proprietor of the store, said he had just returned from Boston with the van, placed the keys and invoices on a counter just inside the door and went in back to talk to a salesman.

He returned momentarily to see the van moving down the street.

DeNicola said he had no estimate of the loss, which included three 13-inch portable TVs, four 19-inch portables, one console TV, a video recorder and tapes, plus tools and other equipment.

DeNicola speculated that the thief may have followed him to Quincy from Boston, ducked into the store to grab the keys and drove away.

"It happened too quickly," he said. "One-two-three."

Sheriff Marshall Foils Clothesline Theft

Three men who made off with the wash from a Quincy Point clothes line early Sunday morning picked the wrong family.

The man of the house, Sheriff Clifford Marshall, grabbed his .38 pistol and caught one of them.

Marshall said he was in bed at 2:30 a.m. Sunday when his wife spotted the three men walking by the house on Edison St. Suddenly, they disappeared and the Marshall suspected they were up to no good.

"We didn't know what they were doing," he said. "There are four girls in the family living next door. I grabbed my weapon and my oldest son (Chuck, 19) and we ran into the yard."

Two of the men took off with clothes from the line but they grabbed the third man who, said Marshall, readily admitted what they had done and even named his two companions.

Marshall said he had no idea how much the stolen clothes were worth but that one pair of warmup pants on the line was valued at $35.

Asked about grabbing a gun for clothesline thieves, Marshall said:

"I didn't know what they were after. You don't expect friendly people to be fooling around in your back yard at 2:30 in the morning."

Lodging House License Rescinded

A lodging house license granted to Wayne K. Keith for 38 Greenleaf St., Quincy Center, was rescinded at Tuesday's License Board meeting.

The board had granted the license last week, but reversed its action because the dwelling "did not meet the approval of the joint inspection team" according to Fire Chief Edward Barry.

Improper location of fire detectors, rubbish in the cellar, gas stoves in closets, hot plates in rooms, and problems with off street parking were among the deficiencies cited by board members.

The board was to forward a list of the deficiencies to Keith.

Building Inspector Allan MacDonald recommended that the dwelling be converted to a three room apartment.

"You'd be better off, and the city would be better off," said MacDonald.

Asks For Feasibility Study Finn Eyes Pollard School As Possible Police Station

By TOM HENSHAW
Police Chief Francis X. Finn, angry and "depressed" at the condition of his Police Department, has asked for a study of the feasibility of converting the abandoned Pollard School in Quincy Point into a badly needed new police station.

If nothing is done to upgrade working conditions in his department, he said, then he could resign or retire.

"I spent 16 years building up this department," Finn told The Quincy Sun this week. "The last two years I have watched it being gradually dismantled."

"I am interested in staying on the job and helping to put together a new police station and building the department into a fine police force, even under Proposition 2½."

"But I can also see myself not continuing on the job if the department continues in the direction it is going now."

Finn's unhappiness with the state of his department first came to light last week at the City Council meeting when he told the Council things are so bad "I am even considering resigning."

Later, he pulled back slightly from that statement, saying that, while the idea of resigning has entered his mind, "it's not something that I am planning to do at this moment."

Finn said the city's handling of his department, which he said is more than 30 men short, in the wake of Proposition 2½ was one of the reasons for his unhappiness.

"The Fire Department got 22 men back," he said, "and I got nothing. How many serious fires do we have in the city?"

"My men are out there night after night. We don't even have enough men to protect ourselves let alone the public. That was the final thing for me."

Another complaint is the condition of the police station, which was built in 1925.

"We can't go on much longer with a police station that absolutely stinks," he said. "It is putrid. I mean the smell is beyond belief and it's not the fault of the custodians."

"On a three-day weekend we have no custodian for three days. Sometimes we will have three people to a cell. The people we deal with are not very clean. We have to put up with it for three days."

"Our people go to the toilet in the same place these people go. They are supposed to use the same facilities these undesirable use. It's so bad that some officers leave the police station to go to the toilet."

Police officers echo the chief's comments on the station, particularly the lack of facilities in which to wash and take a shower and simply keep an extra change of clothing.

"These are not choir boys we deal with," said one officer. "They bleed on us and they puke on us. There's no place to wash. There's no change of clothes. You finish out your shift with blood and puke on your clothes."

"Usually," said Chief Finn, "contract negotiations are concerned with money and working conditions. But under the negotiations that are going on right now they are seeking to have the ladies' room cleaned and painted. Imagine that, a contract provision to clean the ladies' room!"

The chief said he is also concerned about the legal effects of working in a station that is deteriorating to the point of no return.

"I can't see myself getting involved in a lot of civil suits because we can't do the right thing," he said. "Civil suits these days are large and there are more and more of them."

"Our cell block goes back to the turn of the century. We have one or two attempted suicides every month. I have been trying to get plates on top of the cells to prevent attempted hangings. I can't get them."

"The boilers in the station have not worked in some time. It gets cold, even on summer nights. We will strip a prisoner to prevent him from hanging himself. It's cold sitting in the cell in your underwear. They turn blue.

"How much more are we going to take?"

"We've been trying for years to have something done about the station. Federal funds for the station are drying up now and we are still on ground zero."

Thank You For 'Historic Quincy'

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

Thank you and your staff for giving us the magnificent supplement "Historic Quincy" of July 8, 1982. I picked up a copy at Dutton's, when I was recently home on vacation in Wollaston.

Your supplement interested me so much because on page 6A "The Adams Family" you write that Joseph Adams II married Hannah Bass, granddaughter of John Alden and Priscilla Mullins. This lead me to the Quincy Genealogical Library to learn Hannah's mother's name. Her mother was Ruth Alden, one of the 11 children of John Alden and Priscilla.

This is so exciting to me because Priscilla was the daughter of William Mullins and Alice (also Allis) Atwood, sister of my ancestor John Atwood of Surrey County, England. John never came to the Plymouth Colony, but many of his sons did. Among his sons is Stephen, named Stephen of Eastham, now Wellfleet, who is my ancestor nine generations back. Stephen and Priscilla Mullins were first cousins; as was Harmon Atwood who married Ann Copp (famous for Copp's Hill in Boston).

Charles Francis IV, still living, is also nine generations removed from Alice (Mullins) Atwood. If it is within your jurisdiction, could you send me Charles Francis' address. He is 10 years older than I. Perhaps he would like to learn that his distant cousins have been living in Quincy since 1919. I believe.

My older sister, Margaret Atwood passed away April, 18, 1982, and she was living in the Atwood residences, in Wollaston. Thanking you for the extraordinary edition of the "Supplement" and helping me to learn our Atwood relationship with the Adams, and the Quincy families.

Sincerely,
Rev. Joel Clifford Atwood, S.C.S.
Catholic Priest

Concerned Over Old Former Church Building

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

A grave concern of The South Quincy Civic Association is the huge wooden former church building now empty, located at the corner of Water and Quincy Streets, South Quincy.

Another major neighborhood fire here will indeed be a sad commentary upon officials who should expedite removal. It is a dangerous attractive nuisance to some miscreants drawn to this site.

Ironically, it is the sword of Damocles pointed across the street to the office of The Quincy Neighborhood Housing Services — who are doing a good job in the south west Quincy area, improving properties.

A Commendation For Brownell

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

Massachusetts begins its 1983 Fiscal Year with a state budget in place which addresses many of the major concerns of the people of the Commonwealth. And an important share of the credit for this year's successful and smooth budgetmaking process is due to Representative Thomas F. Brownell of your district.

It is important to understand that close to two billion dollars, or nearly one-third of the entire state operating budget, will be returned to local cities and towns through either direct dollar aid or through programs paid for by the State. This includes $155 million in new state aid to cities and towns this year, eighty percent of that in cash assistance.

Also included in the Fiscal 1983 budget are a series of provisions designed to improve the delivery of various state services. For example, a pilot program of personnel reforms has been instituted. Additional funds have been allocated for the Office of the Handicapped; for state agricultural development; for safe housing, rental assistance and fuel assistance for the elderly. State aid to libraries has been increased. And public higher education budgets have been increased by more than $43 million.

There are literally hundreds of other such items which we hope will aid the local property tax payer and the users of public services.

Many other dollars have been earmarked to help offset expected cutbacks in Federal aid to local, regional and state programs.

Your Representative has played a key and positive role in helping make this year's budget effort a successful one.

Burgin Writing Memoirs

Another book by a former Quincy mayor appears to be in the works.

The author: Thomas S. Burgin who became mayor at age 33 in 1935 and today, at 80, is Quincy's oldest statesman and one of the city's all-time popular political figures.

Burgin served nine years as mayor — seven under Plan A between 1935 and 1942 and two under Plan A in 1950-51. He was Quincy's first mayor under the ill-fated latter plan.

Well, we've already had a book by a former mayor — Joseph LaRaia — which was somewhat on the sensational side, sprinkled with accusations.

What will Burgin be like?

Burgin confirms he's writing a proposed book of his memoirs of old Quincy. He's not only writing it himself, but he's doing the actual typing, too.

He's been thinking of it for quite sometime but until lately just hadn't found the time to park himself in front of a typewriter.

"Certainly, I'm no author," he muses. "That's for sure. But I have no use with a title for my 'memoirs' that might arouse the interest of some of our older citizens, and possibly some of the younger generation who seem to know very little about what might be called 'the old days' of early Quincy."

The title: "Remembering Quincy — At 80"

Burgin adds:

"Following a preface, personal background, etc., it will include eight 10-year periods from 1902 to 1982. Although not in book-form and when completed may never be, I hope in some manner it may be published.

"Other than being more or less a historical record of things, events, and people, it might be considered as a 'semi-autobiography' and should be a bit more personal than some of the other books on Quincy history.

"In any event, keep your fingers crossed until we see how my writings turn out."

With his keen memory and long-time involvement in the Quincy community, it should make good reading.

And, accurate reading.

ONE DONATION for the Jerry Lewis Muscular Dystrophy Telethon on Labor Day didn't get to the Quincy Sun pledge center until two days later. But, then, it came a long way.

Senator Paul Harold cablegrammed a $25 pledge — from Hong Kong. It arrived on Wednesday. Coincidentally, he sent a post card two days before from the same area and it arrived with the cablegram.

Harold's donation brings the pledge center's weekend total to $29,522. Special events money is still coming in putting that category over $32,000 and the year total over $62,000. With more yet to come.

WELL, if you're wondering what Joanne Condon will be running for next year, it'll be for her Ward 6 City Council seat. "The Committee to Re-elect" her is holding a reception for her Thursday, Sept. 23 from 7 to 9 p.m. at the Quincy Neighborhood Club. Tickets are $35.

THE ART WORK in the entry blank for the third annual City of Presidents Marathon to be held Sunday, Oct. 17, was designed by Jennifer Seamans of Merrymount, daughter of advertising agency owner Bob Seamans. And, it's quite appropriate. Shows Presidents John and John Quincy Adams, who of course were number 2 and 6 in the line of presidents. And the Presidents Marathon is 26 miles.

Cerasoli Rated High By Taxpayers

Rep. Robert A. Cerasoli of Quincy is one of the favorite Democratic legislators of the Citizens for Limited Taxation.

CLT, which shepherded Proposition 2 1/2 into law, gave Cerasoli a 76 per cent rating on votes related to Prop. 2 1/2, the sixth highest among 124 Democrats.

Rep. Michael W. Morrissey got 56 per cent and Rep. Thomas F. Brownell 41 per cent ratings. The average score for all state reps was 52 per cent, for Democrats 44 per cent, for Republicans 84 per cent. The ratings are based on what CLT called 25 key roll call votes.

Finn Eyes Pollard School As Possible Police Station station was first raised by City Councillor Theodore P. DeCristofaro and Finn is all for it.

"I don't see it as perfect," said Finn, "but it is a viable and reasonable alternative to what we have now."

"It appears to have twice the space that we have here. It's on a main artery with good access too and from it. There's a lot more parking. It's all on one floor with easy access for the handicapped."

"There is space in it for lockers, a gym for the men to work out, a shower room and an auditorium to serve as a training academy and guard room and a place to stage drug raids and handle strikes."

"We would need to have a cell block installed and the movement of our communications system would be a major task. The rest of it would be just a remodeling thing."

"The old building? They can blow it up as far as I'm concerned."

Finn's highly emotional appeal to the City Council came while it was considering changing a classification in the Police Department from Executive Director at $18,500 to Office Machine Operator at $17,719.

Actually, the ordinance change means that a man already employed by the Police Department is being retained to replace numerically Donald Hanson who resigned to become personnel director for the city.

"I have had to give up an executive position that is sorely needed in order to keep one of my more valued employees," he said. "This

JUVENILE CELL is used for storage in the station that was built in 1925 to serve fewer people than today.

The Council sent the ordinance change to the Ordinance Committee.

After listening to Finn, the Council also adopted a resolution offered by Councillor Richard J. Koch that the mayor bring in a private consultant to make a detailed examination of the Police Department.

And City Solicitor William Golden urged that the city establish a policy for dealing with law suits filed against city employees as individuals, including police officers.

Costly Street Lights May Not Exist

A recent study of street lighting in Quincy indicates that 5.5 per cent of the lights for which the city is charged by Mass Electric may not even exist.

Public Works Commissioner Paul Anderson told the City Council last week that considerable savings could be made if the city did not have to pay for the lights that could not be located.

A series of such recommendations were made in the study by the Boston accounting firm of Touche Ross.

The report of the study said that about 95 per cent of the city's bill for street lighting could possibly be saved by converting from mercury vapor lamps to high pressure sodium vapor lights.

It also suggested that the city would be charged less for electricity if it purchased certain parts of the lighting system from Mass Electric.

Anderson told the Council that about $50,000 electric bill for fire alarm boxes had already been reduced to $3,000 simply by replacing 67 watt bulbs with 15 watt bulbs that serve the same purpose.

Huge Crowd Seen For USS Massachusetts Launching At F.R.

Quincy Police and Bethlehem Steel Co. officials were making preparations for a crowd of 75,000 to witness the launching of the $75 million battleship USS Massachusetts Sept. 23 in the Fore River Shipyard.

Bethlehem announced that only invited guests would be permitted inside the shipyard for the launching ceremony but several thousand invitations were issued and all of the 16,000 shipyard workers were given passes for their wives and children.

Police, expecting 30,000 to view the ceremony inside the yard and another 45,000 from vantage points outside, set up strict traffic rules for the Quincy Point area starting at 10 a.m., some two and a half hours before the scheduled launch time.

The sponsor of the ship, Mrs. Charles Francis Adams, wife of the former mayor of Quincy and former Secretary of the Navy, said that in lieu of the customary dinner, she and members of the christening party will entertain at the Adams mansion.

Massachusetts, 750 feet long with a standard displacement of 35,000 tons, is believed to be the largest ship ever launched in the United States. She would be the first battleship launched at Fore River since the Nevada in 1914.

POLICE REORGANIZATION

Rumors of a coming upheaval in the Quincy Police Department were rampant as Mayor Thomas S. Burgin inaugurated a series of promotions designed to bring younger men into positions of authority on the force.

Lt. William Ferrazzi, 38, was promoted to acting captain and Sgts. William McIntyre, 40, and Edward G. Riley were elevated to lieutenant. Ferrazzi was to fill the position of third captain recently created by the City Council.

It was expected that Capt. Ferrazzi would become head of a newly created Traffic Division while Capt. George W. Fallon would be in charge of Criminal Investigation and Capt. Daniel H. Doran overseeing the Personnel Department.

COUNCILLOR OUTRAGED

The city seal in the City Council Chamber was removed so that a cast of concrete could be made for the Quincy Point Fire Station and the proposal outraged Councillor Neil McDonald.

"While Quincy granitemen are trying to tell the world that granite is everlasting, you cast a cement seal for the Quincy Point station," he cried. "It is a disgrace."

Quincy Cablesystems Commended By City Council

Quincy Cablesystems Corporation has been commended for its superior performance and active community participation by the City Council.

The cable company, which just completed its first year of operation in Quincy, was described as "abounding in community spirit, being most cooperative and congenial, and displaying great interest in all facets of community life" in the unanimous citation presented by the City Council last week.

"I am extremely pleased with the Quincy City Councillors' vote of confidence," said David J. Keefe, Quincy Cablesystems' General Manager. "With their help and the active participation of so many residents and community organizations, we are creating a system tailored to the interests and needs of our citizens."

Quincy Cablesystems won the city's cable TV franchise in the spring of 1981. With construction on schedule, the company now has about 9,000 subscribers and expects half of the city's 32,000 homes to sign up for cable.

Quincy Cablesystems is a subsidiary of American Cablesystems Corporation, a four-year-old Boston based company which operates 25 systems in New York, Virginia, West Virginia, Tennessee, and Massachusetts.

197 Candidates For QJC Presidency

So many people have applied for the post of president of Quincy Junior College that a screening committee will be set up to decide who to interview for the job.

School Supt. Dr. Lawrence P. Creedon told the School Committee Wednesday night that he has received 197 applications from across the country and more were expected before the Sept. 15 deadline.

Creedon recommended a 12-member committee to do the screening and interviewing.

Former QJC President Dr. Edward F. Pierce, who announced his resignation in May, recently became president of a junior college in Pennsylvania.

Police Alert

By LT. WILLIAM MURPHY
Quincy Police Dept.

Beware Of The 'Con Man'

Often they are well-dressed, talkative, intelligent. They don't deal in force. They try to gain your confidence, which is why they are called "con men." They play on your natural desire to be helpful. They also rely heavily on every man's weakness — something for nothing.

Older persons should be especially aware of these schemes for they are often the victims.

Two of the most frequent bunco schemes are these:

The Pigeon Drop - This one accounts for about half of the con games that come to the attention of the police. The swindlers claim to have found a large sum of money and offer to share it with you. But first you have to put up "good faith" money to secure your share. Arrangements are then made to meet later to divide up the windfall. But you, the mark, are the only one who shows up.

The Bank Examiner - This con game is particularly directed against an older person. A man who identifies himself as a bank examiner calls you and asks your help in catching a dishonest bank employee. The "examiner" asks you to withdraw a certain amount of money and turn it over to him so — he can check the serial numbers and catch the thief. And that's the last that helpful you will see of the money.

If you are contacted by someone using one of these schemes or something similar involving any amount of your money, don't turn any money over to them. If possible, call the police promptly. The next person they contact may not be as wary as you.

(News note - There is a family of gypsies working Quincy right now, father and small son and daughter, trying to con residents out of money and even free shelter. Sometimes two of them will get your attention while the third, a child, pockets cash and small items in your house. If you are approached by them, be wary.)

'Will Eliminate Eyesore' Quincy Point Donut Shop Gets License

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN
With the approval of the Ward 2 Civic Association and Councillor Ted DeCristofaro, the License Board granted common victualer and Lord's Day licenses Tuesday for a "Doughboy" donut shop at 618-622 Washington St.
"The association is happy with what the owner said he would do," said DeCristofaro, "and it will eliminate another eyesore."
Atty. Robert Langlois, representing owner Paul Barry, told the board that the shop will be located at the former Tom O'Brien Pontiac annex.
The existing structure will be expanded out front for the coffee shop and deli which will have 52 seats and 38 parking spaces, according to Langlois.

Hours will be 4 a.m. to 1 a.m. according to Langlois who told the board lighting will be kept inside the property, an exit on Washington Court closed, the dumpster enclosed and better fencing installed at the requests of abutters.
Barry told the board that he has three other shops in Boston, and that if a problem with cooking odors should arise, he will correct it.
That stipulation and others were written into the license.
"No abutters had anything negative to say (about the shop)," said DeCristofaro.
"Now we'll only have one more empty lot (in the area)."

PROMOTED—Russell D. Hodgkins, Jr., a 1976 graduate of Quincy High School, was recently promoted to first lieutenant in the U.S. Air Force. A 1980 graduate of the U.S. Air Force Academy, he is stationed at Vance Air Force Base, Enid, Okla., where he is an instructor pilot.

Abe Greenspan and Leo Lofchie are co-presidents of the Congregation.

Rosh Hashanah, which in Hebrew means "first of the year," comes in the autumn and begins, not at midnight, but at sunset of the day before and ends with sunset of the Holy Day itself.

Rosh Hashanah is the beginning of the Jewish religious holidays, called the "High Holy Days" or "Days of Awe." Yom Kippur, the "Day of Atonement" which comes 10 days after Rosh Hashanah, concludes this holy period.

According to Jewish tradition, Rosh Hashanah is the day on which God judges the deeds of very man.

On Rosh Hashanah Jewish people resolve to live better lives. They pray for forgiveness and a year of peace and happiness for themselves and all the world.

Orthodox and Conservative synagogues celebrate Rosh Hashanah for two days in accordance with ancient tradition, while Reform synagogues observe the holiday for only one day.

The shofar, made from the horn of the ram, is sounded during the morning services. It was used in ancient Israel to call the people together for emergencies or for peaceful assemblies.

In the synagogue on Rosh Hashanah, the call of the shofar reminds the congregation of the need for doing good and for living an honorable and God-fearing life.

The cry of the shofar calls upon worshippers to repent any misdeeds. Often the prayers are changed in Hebrew, the language in which the Old Testament was written. Nowadays in almost all synagogues some prayers are recited in English, too. This is done so that everyone, whether he knows Hebrew or not, may take part in the services.

Many High Holy Day Prayer books contain English translations alongside the Hebrew text so that even though the cantor or congregation may be reciting the Hebrew, everyone can follow and understand.

Among the very stirring prayers recited during the service is the following litany:

"Our Father, our King, hear our prayer

"Our Father, our King, we have sinned before Thee

"Our Father, our King, have mercy upon us and upon our children

"Our Father, our King, keep far from our country pestilence, war and famine

"Our Father, our King, cause all hate and oppression to vanish from the earth

"Our Father, our King, inscribe us for blessing in the book of life

"Our Father, our King, grant unto us a year of happiness

"Our Father, our King, be merciful and answer us; though we plead no merit, deal with us according to Thy loving-kindness and help us.

"Amen.

At home, the Rosh Hashanah table is set with kiddush cup, candles and candlesticks, two challahs, (holiday bread) and special challah cloths.

It is customary to have round challahs to symbolize the unbroken circuit of the year and continuous happiness.

A piece of apple or challah is dipped into honey for a good and sweet year.

Yom Kippur (the Day of Atonement) is the last day of the "Ten Days of Penitence" which begin with Rosh Hashanah.

This 10-day period, according to Jewish tradition, is a time of repentance, prayer and charity in preparation for the holiest day of the year, Yom Kippur.

On this solemn and important day almost all Jewish men and women abstain from eating and drinking and even young children try to fast for at least part of the day.

The Bible (Leviticus 16:29-31; 23: 26-31; Numbers 29-7) also requires that Jews do no manner of work on Yom Kippur. The people spend the entire day in prayer and worship.

The word "atonement" explains the nature of the day, for "atonement" is made up of two words — "at" and "one". And on the day of "at-one-ment", Jewish people try to be "at-one" in harmony with God.

Yom Kippur is, above all, a day on which Jews seek forgiveness, not only from God, but also from man. Judaism teaches that one cannot ask God's forgiveness for wrong-doing unless he has also asked others to forgive him for any evil he may have done to them.

But simply asking for forgiveness is not enough. The wrong must be righted whenever that is possible. There must be a true feeling of repentance. God recognizes the sincere desire of the worshipper to undo his evil and to live his life better.

Just as the best-known part of the Rosh Hashanah service is the blowing of the shofar, so in the Yom Kippur services the part best known and loved by the Jewish people is the famous Kol Nidrei prayer, which means "all vows".

One of the more beautiful prayers recited in many synagogues on Yom Kippur eve is: "O Lord, our God, let thy presence be manifest to us in all Thy works, that reverence for Thee may fill the hearts of all Thy creatures. May all the children of men come before Thee in humility and unite to do Thy will with perfect heart, that all may acknowledge that Thine are power, dominion and majesty, and that Thy name is exalted above all."

Also on this Holy Day, Yizkor prayers for the departed are recited.

At nightfall the end of the fast is announced by a single blast of the shofar, after which worshippers return to their homes joyous and glad of heart.

Local Seniors Invited To Get 'Nostalgic'

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN
Local senior citizens are invited to get "Nostalgic" with music from the 1930's-1960's and other entertainment Sundays from 3 to 7 p.m. "Golden Oldies Time", a new event, has begun at Nostalgia, formerly the Beach-comber, at 797 Quincy Shore Drive.

"Owner Jim McGettrick has wanted to do something special for senior citizens for a long time," says Ed Bennett, a well known local showman who is coordinating the entertainment.

"And we also wanted to tie in an event with our new name," adds McGettrick.

The shows will include music by Harmony Plus as well as other entertainment, contests like "Name That Tune", and sing-a-longs, according to Bennett who will be at the emcee.

"We want to give older people in the community a place to meet," says Bennett.

"We're planning the type of entertainment seniors like."

"We'll cater to older people, although the show is not just for seniors."

"Most seniors don't like to go out at night, so we planned it for the afternoon."

Refreshments will be offered at cost, he says.

"If we get the crowd," says Bennett, "this will be a permanent fixture 52 weeks."

About 40 people attended the first show last Sunday, according to McGettrick.

"They all said they had a good time," says McGettrick. "we got great comments."

This Sunday's show will feature a magician as well as three or four other surprise entertainers, says Bennett.

"In the future, we'd like to give amateurs a chance to perform," he says, "mostly local people."

Bennett, who has put on hundreds of senior citizen shows over the past five years, is looking forward to greeting local residents at the shows.

"Come on out on Sundays," he says, "it's a chance to see old friends and make some new ones."

cemeteries.

"Whatever success I have had has been due to team effort," he said. "It has been like that in the Park Department and it will have to be like that here, too."

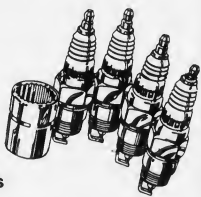

"My immediate concern will be to rectify the cemetery situation and make the cemeteries the pride of the people of Quincy. We can't do that overnight but we can do it as quickly as possible."

McCauley said the City Council will be asked at its next meeting to approve an ordinance change making the move possible.

Eaton's Retirement Request Approved

Ousted Water Supt. Owen Eaton apparently is retiring, even while he is fighting to regain his city job.

Eaton's request for a pension was routinely approved by the City Retirement Board on Aug. 25, it was disclosed Thursday.

The exact amount of his pension would have to be determined by the State Division of Insurance but he is eligible to receive two thirds of his yearly salary for the past two years.

Eaton, 52, has worked for the city since 1955.

He was dismissed from his $26,000 a year job in July when the Water Division was combined with the Sewer Division in the new Sewer, Water and Drain Department.

He lost in federal court a bid to regain the post he lost, claiming he was dismissed by Mayor Francis X. McCauley because he supported Daniel G. Raymond in the 1981 mayoral election.

Eaton also has an appeal pending before the Civil Service Commission.

Shipyard Loses Contract Many Layoffs Expected

Some 200 workers a month at the General Dynamics Shipyard in Quincy could be laid off until the spring according to union officials Friday responding to the loss of a large government contract.

But the shipyard is pursuing other Navy work which could reduce the expected layoffs until work begins in May on a $272.64 million contract.

The local shipyard lost out on a share in $180 million contracts to convert four Navy ships. The contracts went to shipyards in Pennsylvania, San Diego and New Orleans.

Shipbuilders Union President Jonathan Brandow, said that he has heard from unofficial company sources that the yard's workforce could go down to 400 people.

The work strength of the yard has gone down from 5,500 three and a half years ago to 1,800 currently, according to Brandow.

He said about 500 shipyard workers have been let go in the last six weeks.

Brandow stressed that the loss of jobs at the shipyard will be felt in surrounding South Shore towns.

McPhee Makes Coaching Debut Raiders Host Old Time Rival Milton

By TOM SULLIVAN

North Quincy begins its 50th year of football and former North all-scholastic Ken McPhee makes his official bow as Raider coach Saturday when North hosts old-time rival Milton in a 1:30 p.m. game at Veterans Memorial Stadium.

A year ago North squeezed out a 3-0 win at Milton, coached by former North assistant Jack Bowes, on a 26-yard field goal by Bill Bradley.

McPhee, who succeeded Dave Burke as the Raiders' head coach and who has been an assistant at his alma mater the last 10 years, faces a difficult task this fall.

North is the smallest school in the strong Suburban League and the Raiders face a tremendous challenge with an inexperienced squad.

"We are building, with very few veterans," said McPhee. "However, we do have some size and pretty good speed. I'm installing an entirely new offensive system and it will take a while for the boys to learn it. The defense looks strong and once the offense catches up, we could pull some surprises."

"We scrimmaged Braintree and Scituate and we have progressed to the point where I thought we would. I'm not disappointed and I'm satisfied with our progress."

North is led by two returning starters, Co-Captains Jim Kelly and Gerry Connolly, both of many Raiders will play both ways and who are looking good.

McPhee will start an offensive team of Kelly and Tony Befera at end, backed up by Peter Clark and Jack Bolster; Connolly and Nick Gelsomini at tackle and sophomore Al DiBella behind them, Neil Leonard and Dave Ceurvels (a question mark due to an injury) at guard, backed up by Brian Maginnis (also hurt), sophomore Jack Hannan, Rich Ragusa, Jerry Martin and Shawn Cunningham, and probably Mike Costa at center.

"The center job is strictly up for grabs," McPhee said. "Costa could start but Ken Wright, Rich McDonough and Rich DeLuca all have a chance."

There is also a lot of competition for the starting quarterback berth with Vin Barry having the edge. Steve Hogan and Dan Ceurvels are right behind him, however.

Dave DiCarlo, who has looked good, will start at halfback and the other will come from among Rich Brown, Scott Messina, Mike Gill, John Ward and John McDonald.

Mike Cullen will be the starting fullback but Bobby Leonard, John Kozlowski and Jim McNamara are looking good and will see action there.

Defensive coordinator Jack Raymer has been pleased with the progress made by the defense, but looks for steady improvement as the season moves along.

He will start with 195-pound Befera at nose guard, backed up by 200-pound DeLuca, Connolly and Fred Peterson, both 240, will be at tackle and Kelly (200) and McDonough (190) at end. Gelsomini (190) and Kevin Kelly look like two of the top line backers, but McNamara and Cunningham also look good.

The starting cornerbacks will come from among Bob Leonard, Rich Tapper, Paul Cervels, Brown and Mark Wilkens.

There are several good looking defensive backs, and Raymer will select his starters from among Bolster, Jay Pillard, Jim Kennedy, Mike Gill and John Delappe.

"Our biggest question marks are at linebacker, where we are very inexperienced," Raymer said. "We have a lot of juniors, who will come along and get better. We also lack depth. We have a lot of boys over six feet."

McPhee is joined by returning assistants Ted Sadowski and Pete Zola and newcomer Mark Mulvaney, another former North standout.

Woodward Takes Perkins Lead

Defending champion Woodward Spring has taken a 2-0 lead in the finals of the Roy Perkins Softball League playoffs and hoped to sweep the series in three straight games over Caldwell Construction when they play Tuesday night.

Woodward took the opening game of the series, 7-3, as Tom Woodward pitched his best game of the season.

Woodward edged Caldwell, 4-3, in nine innings to take a 2-0 series lead, overcoming a 3-0 deficit in the seventh inning. Woodward won it in the ninth on doubles by Mike Hapenny and John Babson. Kevin Rooney was the winner in a well-pitched game which featured excellent defense.

Woodward gained the finals by eliminating North Quincy Taxi in three games.

Woodward won the opener, 11-7, Taxi came back to even it up, 8-6, and Woodward won a wild third game, 14-8.

In the final game Taxi had a 4-1 lead but Woodward tied it up and exploded for 10 runs in the sixth to wrap it up. Rooney was the winning pitcher and Dick Papilli was the loser.

Caldwell made the finals by defeating the Sixty Niners in three games.

Caldwell won the opening game, 8-4, but the Sixty Niners evened the series, 13-12. Caldwell won the clincher, 10-7.

Fleischer's Run Gives Quincy Win Over Brockton

Glenn (Shorty) Fleischer, a 133-pound halfback, ran a punt back 34 yards and bucked three yards for the score on the next play to give the Quincy High School football team a 7-0 victory over Brockton, its first over the Shoe City eleven since 1925.

With little more than three minutes left to play, Fleischer took the Brockton punt on the enemy 37-yard-line and raced down the sidelines to be pushed out of bounds on the three. He then went through the middle for the score and Craig Capaccioli added the point.

The victory was no fluke. Quincy completely dominated Brockton in first downs, 8-1, in rushing yardage, 120-63, and in passing yardage, 45-0. The Blues also blocked a Brockton punt and intercepted a pass.

The Quincy lineup included: L. Papile lc, Craig, Mollica lt, McHoul, Salvucci lg, J. Papile c, Pecce, Oliverio rg, Holbrook rt, Mattson re, Conroy qb, Capaccioli lhb, Fleischer, Monaco rlb, Malone, Paolucci fb.

BROOKSIDES WIN TITLE

Tony Settino hit four batsmen and walked seven but he limited Milton to only three hits while his teammates pounded out a 13-2 victory to give the Brookside of South Quincy the South Shore Baseball League championship for 1941.

Each of the nine Brookside players had at least one of the team's 16 hits, including two triples and a single by Aaron Locke plus triples by Wally Cassell, Paul Duggan, Jackie Nelson and Peachy Reggie and a double by Joe Sullivan.

It was a pitching duel between Settino and Milton's Dave (Lefty) McKeag until the sixth inning when Brookside drove out McKeag and continued their assault on Marty Kaukola and Bill Chamberlain.

The Brookside lineup included: J. Sullivan 3b, Locke lb, Murphy rf, Cassell 2b, Slattery c, Duggan cf, Nelson lf, Reggiess, Settino p.

WEIRD FIELD GOAL

Spike Wallace was allowed to kick an unmolesited field goal from the one-yard line after the game was over as the North Quincy High School football team bowed to Dedham, 18-3, in the season's opener which was played in Norwood.

With seconds to go, Wallace signalled for a fair catch on a Dedham punt but the oncoming tacklers hit him nevertheless. Referee Doc Mooney penalized Dedham to the one-yard line and sent the players off the field while Wallace was given the free field goal attempt.

MANETS IN UPSET

Joe Condon, a Rockland High School graduate who formerly starred for the Portland, Me., Sagamores, kicked a 44-yard field goal with less than a minute left in the first half to give Jake Casna's Quincy Manets an upset 3-0 victory over the Providence Steamroller.

The Manets lineup included: Harrison, Naimo, lc; Cessarini, Mahan, lt; Schwartz, lg; Dublinski, Condon, c; Kaufman, Costello, rg; Prather, McIntosh, rt; McDonald, Lanata, re; Cislighi qb; Donovan, Spirida, lb; Adukonis, Sweeney, Montgomery, McNulty, rlb; Cignetti, fb.

SHORE ALL STARS

The annual South Shore League all star team included outfielder Paul Duggan, pitcher Tony Settino and catcher Fred Slattery of Brookside and outfielder Ralph McLeod, pitcher Bob Howitt and utility outfielder Frank Courtney of Squantum.

WARRIORS TOP WANDERERS

Lanny Lombardi scored two touchdowns and Mike Barba added a third as the Quincy Point Warriors piled up all their scoring in the second half for a 19-0 victory over the South Quincy Wanderers in a City Football League game at Municipal Stadium.

APPRENTICES BACK

Halfback Cecil Kilrain and guard Tupper Tropea, both of whom sat out a year of ineligibility, were among more than 50 candidates out for Tony Colucci's Fore River Apprentice football team. The Apprentices open the season under the lights against Dean Academy Sept. 26.

NORTH ALUMNI SCORELESS

Moody, Phinney and Zoia ran the ball to their opponents' five-yard-line as the game ended and the North Quincy Alumni were forced to settle for a 0-0 tie with the Rockland AC at Memorial Park in Rockland.

REACH TENNIS SEMIS

Mario Pettiti, Bill Fitzgerald, and Irving Risi advanced to the semi-final round of the annual fall tennis tournament at Quincy High School played under the direction of Coach Almon Denney at the Faxon courts.

SHOWN WITH some of the trophies to be awarded to the winners of the Quincy Tennis Tournament are representatives of the sponsors. From left are Ken Fallon and Robert J. Petrelli of the Granite Co-Operative Bank and John Franceschini and Barry Welch of the Quincy Recreation Dept. Match play began Sept. 7 and the tournament will end Sunday.

Quincy Tennis Tourney Finals Saturday, Sunday

The 12th annual Quincy Tennis Tournament co-sponsored by the Granite Cooperative Bank and the Quincy Recreation Department is in full swing at Quincy Vocational Technical High School courts every night this week.

Finals will be held Saturday and Sunday.

On tracing a brief history of the tournament, Recreation Director Barry J. Welch said, "The Tournament for years was held on the old Faxon Courts located on the site of the Voc-Tech School gym and parking lot. It was a yearly event until the late forties."

"In 1971 Ken Rickson, a Quincy teacher, coach, and administrator teamed with the late William F. Ryan, who was the City of Quincy's first full time recreation director, to present the tournament as part of the Recreation Department Program. Ken Rickson, Jr. succeeded his father as tournament director in 1974. Kevin McGinley, former North Quincy High and Babson College varsity tennis star, followed the Ricksons.

John Franceschini, the current tournament director has run the tournament for the past half dozen seasons. With the co-sponsorship of the Granite Cooperative Bank, the tournament has grown into ten divisions through Franceschini's impetus.

Many of the tournament winners have received help with college scholarships. Tony O'Malley, four time men's singles champion from '78 to '81, is attending Salem State. Gary Durante, who O'Malley defeated in the 1981 finals, is attending Northeastern. Wayn Peterson, a 1981 semi-finalist, is attending Brown University.

Sally Rickson, 1972 champ and daughter of Ken Rickson, turned professional and played for the Boston Lobsters. The Cuniff sisters, Chris, a three-time women's champion, and Marcy, who succeeded her in 1978, are attending Boston College and the U. of Southern Florida respectively.

Sue Murray, 1980-1981 champ is No. 1 and Sue Coleman, a six times doubles champ is No. 3 on Northeastern University's women's team.

With most of the better young players in college both divisions are wide open.

Favored in the men's singles are Ed Lamp, a Massachusetts ranked player, who is entered for the first time, and Bill Courtney, who upset No. 2 seed Al McDonald over the weekend.

The women's division favorites are Bernie DePietro, No. 1 Quincy High School player and Dana Loeb, No. 1 at Archbishop Williams. They are past women's doubles partners and doubles champions in 1980.

Franceschini, a past men's doubles and mixed doubles champion together with Gary Durante, are favored in the men's doubles along with Ed Lamb and Dick Hutton a Quincy Junior College Professor.

Neil Cronin, a Boston School Department Headmaster is defending champion in both the over 35 and over 50 men singles divisions and is favored to repeat.

Hildy Gillis, a Marshfield teacher, winner in 1980 and 1981 in the women's over 35 bracket, is favored to repeat.

The quarterfinal round began last night (Wednesday) with boys' 16 and under playing at 3 o'clock, men's 35 and over at 6 and mixed doubles at 8:45.

Action today (Thursday) will include girls 16 and under semifinals at 3, men's singles quarterfinals at 6 and women's doubles at 8:30.

Friday the boys 16 and under semifinals will be held at 3, men's doubles quarterfinals at 6 and women's singles quarterfinals at 8:30.

Saturday semifinals will be held in all 10 divisions between 8:30 a.m. and 11 p.m.

Faces One Of Toughest Schedules

Quincy Opens At Cambridge Rindge & Latin

Quincy, with size and experience but not a lot of depth, opens one of its toughest football schedules Saturday when it travels to Cambridge to face Suburban League rival Cambridge Rindge and Latin at 2 o'clock.

The Presidents will be trying to avenge a surprise 6-2 loss to Cambridge a year ago.

Coach Tom Fitzgerald has 20 veterans and an offensive line averaging 230 pounds. But a lot of the players will be going both ways and there isn't a great deal of depth.

"We have good experience and good size, but we are facing a tough schedule," Fitzgerald said. "Our league is one of the strongest in Eastern Mass. and we are one of the smaller schools in it. We also play four tough non-league opponents, Revere, Everett, New Bedford and Fitchburg."

Quincy will open offensively with Capt. Kevin Riggs and Paul Gilbody at end, 225-pound Jamie Gravales and 250-pound John Hart at tackle, Dan Mahoney (230) and Bob Willard (215) at guard and John Carr (225) at center.

Bob Mudge, who has looked good running the club and passing, will open at quarterback with Mark Righini or Mike Notarangelo and Willie Cullen or Mike Miller at halfback and Ted Walsh at fullback.

Among others who will play on

Starters on defense will be McCray and Carr at end, Gravales and Hart at tackle and Bobby Burns at middle guard. Linebackers will be Riggs and Brian Callahan.

The corner back and halfback spots are up for grabs and among those who will play are Righini, Han Ha, John Marsters, Glen Oriola, Rich Gustin, Tucker, Chris Shaughnessy and John Cacciatore.

Also due for defensive action are backs Tom Deason, Brad Hart and Paul Kennedy, linebacker Kevin Cabezas and Lineman Fran Gaudiano.

"I'm satisfied with the way we have progressed," said Fitzgerald, whose team has scrimmaged Weymouth North, Boston Tech and Arlington. "The defense has been a little bit ahead of the offense, but the offense has been coming along well."

"Gravales has been doing a great job both ways as has Righini. McCray has been coming along well as a running back and Ted Walsh has been blocking very well."

Two of Fitzgerald's former players, Glen Straughn and Steve Spencer, have been helping out as volunteer coaches.

Miller, Gary McNamara and George Hartford.

The third period opened with Apache quarterback John Broadbent racing 64 yards for a touchdown. Danny McCarthy, McNamara and Miller again stood out defensively.

The final touchdown was scored late in the fourth quarter on a

SAFETY Q'S AND A'S

QUESTION: When driving behind a motorcycle should you follow closer or further back than if you were following another car?

ANSWER: Follow further back because the motorcycle can stop in a shorter distance than a car so you need more stopping distance.

QUESTION: If your rear wheels start skidding off to the right, should you turn your steering wheel to the left or right to correct the skid?

ANSWER: Turn your steering wheel to the right, in the direction of the skid. Otherwise, you're apt to end up sideways or possibly spin all the way around.

QUESTION: What is the most important factor in tire safety and mileage?

ANSWER: Proper inflation. Under-inflated tires can be ridden right off the rims on tight turns, increase tire wear and create inadequate traction on ice and snow.

'Tunes And Tales' Musical Program At Quincy Historical Society Sunday

A program of music from times past will be presented by Alexander Demas for the Quincy Historical Society at its Adams Academy Building Sunday, Sept. 19th at 7 p.m.

The short business meeting and program, which is open to the public, will be preceded by a dinner by reservation at 6 p.m.

"Tunes and Tales" is a program of history through music dealing primarily with the mill era of the 1800s. Included will be songs of the mills, weavers, immigrants; also ballads and melodies of the Civil War and the women's rights movement. Demas accompanies himself on various stringed instruments appropriate for the different tunes.

Demas is a self-taught musician and collector of folk music instruments. He has lived in Massachusetts since 1968 and became especially interested in music of the Merrimack Valley and the mill era. His tunes and anecdotes relate to the industrial revolution. He has won several competitions at folk festivals in various parts of the country. For the past three years he has been associated with the National Park Service as a Project Coordinator at the Lowell National Historic Park for which he created "Tunes and Tales."

Reservations for the catered buffet dinner must be made at the Quincy Historical Society office before Thursday, Sept. 16. Dinner price is $7.50.

A portion of the Quincy Historical Society's operating funds for fiscal 1982-1983 has been provided through the Massachusetts Council on the Arts and Humanities, a State agency, and through a grant from the Institute of Museum Services, a Federal agency in the Department of Education, which offers operating and program support to the nation's museums.

WEEK OF: SEPTEMBER 16

AQUARIUS - January 21-February 19

Emphasis is on putting finishing touches to existing programs, not starting grandiose schemes. Partnership arrangement may need some redefining of responsibilities. Don't delay.

PISCES - February 20-March 20

Thursday-Friday accent thrift and budgeting. Weekend includes chance for renewing friendship - don't pass it up. A hint of a bonus or promotion may be grasped Monday Tuesday.

ARIES - March 21-April 20

There's some truth to the rumors that circulate Thursday-Friday, but keep mum. Friend is demanding on your emotions, you may decide to draw a limit. Finances receive boost on weekend.

TAURUS - April 21-May 22

Your profile is low through Sunday; then you're in demand. Receiving or being nominated for an award is suggested. Information should be updated before you submit a report.

GEMINI - May 23-June 21

Weekend may find you combining business with pleasure, don't sacrifice former for sake of the latter. Negotiations may be tough and go. It's crucial that you don't force anything along.

CANCER - June 22-July 22

The opinions you hear may be less than completely honest. Friday Saturday offer opportunities for earning spare cash. Time shared with ailing friend is important Monday Wednesday.

LEO - July 23-August 22

The pressure's on to improve your performance, which may mean additional hours, additional headaches and - by Wednesday - additional prestige. Long distance communication offers optimistic note.

VIRGO - August 23-September 22

Strained relationship improves after a needed break. A higherup cuts right through a bureaucratic entanglement. Family member cheers up - your presence has much to do with this.

LIBRA - September 23-October 22

Your timing has been better - on one occasion at least this week, expect to show up at the wrong place at the wrong time. News from faraway or about foreign friends is highly encouraging.

SCORPIO - October 23-November 21

Focus is on budget cutbacks and intimate gatherings. Legal problems can be handled to your advantage. Check with family before making long-term travel commitments.

SAGITTARIUS - November 22-December 22

Week tests ingenuity, you're asked to handle a string of neighborhood problems and family negotiations. There's also a romantic side to the period, beginning dramatically on Saturday.

CAPRICORN - December 23-January 20

Social activity centers on small-group functions, with the chance to get to know friends of friends. You begin to question your psychic powers when some recent predictions come true.

BIRTHDAY THIS WEEK

Practical, realistic, finicky and generous about helping others - especially if they follow your suggestions. Your romantic streak is prominent from late '82 onward. One reminder in important relationships, give more praise than advice.

Gov. Dukakis in 1978 when he had 11,726 to 9,477 for Dukakis and 1,024 for Barbara Ackerman, a liberal who drew from the Dukakis column.

John F. Kerry of Newton, former assistant district attorney in Middlesex County, won the Democratic nomination for lieutenant by a narrow margin, which may have been supplied in Quincy.

Kerry took the city with 7,388 votes to 4,803 for Sen. Samuel Rotondi of Winchester and 4,726 for Evelyn Murphy, who was the candidate endorsed by the Democratic State Convention.

Trailing in Quincy were Rep. Lou Nickinello of Natick with 3,191 and Lois Pines of Newton with 1,893.

In the only contest on the Republican ballot, John W. Sears of Boston, a former Boston city councillor and state representative, won handily over John R. Lakian, a Westwood businessman, and Rep. Andrew H. Card Jr. of Holbrook.

Sears piled up 1,622 in Quincy with Card second with 929 and Lakian, who was the victim of a mid-campaign attack by the Boston Globe, with 706.

So the battle lines for November have been drawn with a ticket of Dukakis and Kerry going for governor and lieutenant governor for the Democrats and Sears and Rep. Leon J. Lombardi of East on running in tandem for the Republicans.

The voter turnout in Quincy was a surprisingly high 26,646 out of 47,134 registered or a whopping 56.5 per cent. It had been forecast last week that no more than 33 per cent would go to the polls, largely because there were no exciting local races.

Most of the excitement in Quincy was furnished by the clerk of courts race, which featured eight candidates. In the Quincy voting they finished like this:

LaRaia 8,308; Barbadoro 7,431; Robert Flynn of Canton 1,950; Laing 1,901; Robert Bloom of Braintree 906; Paula O'Brien-Killion of Milton 601; Michael J. Joyce of Quincy 599 and William G. Bergin of Needham 174.

Barbadoro picked up quite a few votes by being billed as the present clerk of courts, a post to which he was appointed when the former clerk, John Concannon of Braintree, was named a judge on the Boston Juvenile Court.

LaRaia won four of the six wards in Quincy, piling up margins of 1,537 to 1,084 in Ward 4, his home ward, and 1,865 to 1,183 in Ward 2, where he used to live.

McLaughlin far outdistanced the opposition in Quincy in the race for county commissioner but apparently it was not enough to enable him to survive elsewhere in the county.

It was a late night for most Quincy election watchers for the last precinct, Precinct 2 of Ward 1, did not come in until well after 2:30 a.m. Wednesday.

With the primary election out of the way, the card for November will feature the following races:

U.S. Senator - Edward M. Kennedy, Democrat, Barnstable, vs. Ray Shamie, Republican, Walpole.

Attorney General - Francis X. Bellotti, Democrat, Quincy, vs. Richard L. Wainwright, Republican, Brockton.

State Secretary - Michael Joseph Connolly, Democrat, Boston vs. Jody DeRoma Dow, Republican, Brookline.

Treasurer - Robert Q. Crane, Democrat, Wellesley vs. Mary J. LeClair, Republican, Berkley.

Auditor - John J. Finnegan, Democrat, Boston vs. Michael S. Robertson, Republican, Berkley.

Congressman - Brian J. Donnelly, Democrat, Boston, unopposed.

Governor's Councillor - Peter L. Eleeey, Democrat, Quincy, unopposed.

Senator - Paul D. Harold, Democrat, Quincy, unopposed.

State Rep., 1st Norfolk - Michael W. Morrissey, Democrat, Quincy, unopposed.

State Rep., 2nd Norfolk - Thomas F. Brownell, Democrat, Quincy, unopposed.

State Rep., 3rd Norfolk - Robert A. Cerasoli, Democrat, Quincy vs. Gerard E. Lawler, Republican, Weymouth.

District Attorney - William D. Delahunt, Democrat, Quincy, unopposed.

Register of Deeds - Barry T. Hannan, Democrat, Braintree, unopposed.

Kinney Gets Contract Parking Area Rates: 25¢ Per Hour

By TOM HENSHAW

Mayor Francis X. McCauley has selected Kinney Systems, Inc., of Boston to operate the city's downtown parking areas at proposed rates of 25 cents an hour, $2 a day and $25 a month.

Kinney will lease the Hancock and Ross Parking areas and the Ross Parking Garage from the city for $67,000 a year plus a percentage of the gross over $300,000 for a period of five years.

"If this works out," said McCauley, "it could change the image of Quincy as a place where shoppers get parking tickets."

Also included in the plan, but yet to be worked out, is a system of validated parking under which downtown merchants would purchase coupons to pay parking fees for their customers.

McCauley said Kinney will be responsible for maintenance of the comfort station in the Hancock lot, which has been closed for about a year, as well as 1,442 parking spaces.

"We have no target date for the takeover," said the mayor. "The general thought was that we may be able to get it ready for Christmas but personally I don't believe we can make it."

"We went slow on this because it is something new and we wanted to be careful."

McCauley said the city will be seeking a grant from the State Offstreet Parking Program to cover the cost of ticket booths, signs and other access equipment.

"We're talking about a low of $50,000 or as much as $100,000," he said.

Arthur Foley, the mayor's administrative assistant, and Robert Denvir, the city's parking clerk, said Kinney was chosen for the contract because "they gave us the best financial deal."

Foley and Denvir handled the interviews and investigation that narrowed the selection of a company to two, Kinney and Metropolitan Parking Systems, Inc., also of Boston.

"They both are quality firms," said Foley, "but Kinney offered us rates that were half those of Metropolitan."

McCauley said Kinney and city officials will meet later this week to discuss details of the lease and there will be a meeting later on with merchants to explain validated parking.

The mayor said it will probably work out that merchants will purchase books of 25-cent coupons which will be given to their customers to be presented when they drive out of the parking areas.

Hunting School Demo Approved For House Lots

The City Council Monday night voted to authorize the demolition of the abandoned Nathaniel Hunting School building in Adams Shore to make way for 10 single family house lots.

Planning Director James Lydon told the Council that the lots will be substandard in size but, with the aid of a zoning variance, they will be the same size as surrounding house lots.

The zoning of the area is inappropriate for conversion of the school into condominiums, said Lydon, and the single family houses will probably bring a slightly higher tax revenue to the city.

He said the process of demolition should take between two and four months.

NEXT WINTER'S supply of wood is cut by City Councillor James A. Sheets in his backyard on Furnace Brook Parkway. Sheets, who uses wood to heat his house, shares the wood, the expense and the work with next door neighbor.

Council Wary Of Pay Hikes For Mayor, Selves

The City Council Monday night listened to Mayor Francis X. McCauley's eloquent plea for a pay raise and then ended the hearing abruptly without coming to grips with the question.

McCauley is seeking a raise for himself from $25,000 to $37,500 and then to $48,500 and an increase for the City Council from $1,500 to $7,500 per councillor.

The issue has become something of a controversy in the wake of Proposition 2½ budget-cutting.

"The mayor should be the highest paid official in the city," McCauley told the Council's Ordinance Committee. "It's ridiculous that the office of mayor is a fulltime job yet pays less than other city jobs."

The mayor said his recommendation to raise the Council stipend from $1,500 to $7,500 is not an attempt "to buy my raise by sweetening the pot for the councillors."

"I don't think that's an excessive amount of money for nine people."

But the Council apparently wasn't as concerned about what the mayor was thinking as it was about what the voters of Quincy might be thinking.

Councillor Patricia Toland wanted to postpone any vote on the matter "for a short time" to give councillors an opportunity "to consider other options."

Councillor James A. Sheets questioned a move that joined the two raise orders together as one order for advertising purposes when they had been introduced separately.

After a brief recess, Sheets was satisfied that the merger of the two orders was done legally, but, he added, "the significant issue is if we vote for both raises as on order."

It turned out to be a moot point for the evening because Councillor John J. Lydon Jr. noted at that juncture that a very important hearing on the South Shore Bus

Co. was about to begin and the raise hearing was adjourned.

McCauley told the committee that a committee he appointed to study the subject of raises had recommended that the mayor get $48,500 starting in 1984 and the Council go to $4,500.

"The recommendations were not cast in bronze," he said. "Some areas I accepted; some I modified."

The mayor's proposed raise to $37,500 would go into effect next Jan. 1 and to $48,500 on Jan. 1, 1984. The Council would get its raise next Jan. 1.

"In recent years," he said, "we have taken on some heavy responsibilities, particularly under Proposition 2½. We have dealt well with it. We have not cancelled any areas of city government."

"Yet we have reduced the tax levy by $18 million or 27.6 per cent over the past two years. The time is right. We have earned the money and we will continue to earn it."

Two Gunmen Sought In $70,000 Squantum Robbery son, Kevin Jr., 6, came home from Boston with the weekend receipts.

Mrs. Kelley was handcuffed to her car, police said, while the men fled in a blue Buick. Mrs. Kelley and her son were not harmed. Her husband, Kevin Sr., is one of the owners of Durgin Park.

One of the robbers was described as about 6-foot-3 with a heavy build and flat nose, wearing a blue jacket and a scally cap.

A car believed to have been used by the robbers was found abandoned at the corner of East Squantum and Dorchester Sts., Squantum. It was reported stolen by Avis Car Rental at Logan Airport.

SS Bus Banned On Burgin Pkwy.

The City Council Monday night voted to ban the South Shore Bus Co. from picking up or discharging passengers on the Burgin Parkway side of the Quincy Center MBTA station.

But Patrick Coles of the South Shore Bus Co. told the Council it didn't really matter since the company is getting permission from the MBTA to use the Hancock St. side of the station.

The Council promptly voted 9-0 to change the wording on the company's permit from Burgin Parkway to Hancock St.

Several residents of Burgin Parkway appeared at the hearing in support of the order to ban the buses, which bring passengers to the station from areas of the South Shore not served by the T.

Walter Protasowicki of 141 Burgin Parkway pointed out that the large amount of traffic on Burgin Parkway already created a hazardous situation.

"We've got all kinds of problems now," he said. "We don't object to buses coming to Quincy but not by our houses."

FAA To Monitor Helicopters In W. Quincy

The city has wrung a few concessions out of the Federal Aviation Administration on the thorny problem of helicopter traffic over the Southeast Expressway in West Quincy.

One helicopter crashed, killing three people, and three others have been forced to land in the area in recent years.

Robert E. Whittington, regional director of the FAA, assured Mayor Francis McCauley in a recent letter that several steps have been initiated to "ensure harmonious use of the environment."

"Traffic reporting helicopter operators are being contacted and advised to fly as high as weather and air traffic permit over West Quincy," said Whittington in the letter.

"This will provide for substantial, immediate aviation noise abatement over the area."

"Surveillance of the helicopter traffic over West Quincy will be increased to assess whether the routes and altitudes being flown in the area are in compliance with federal air regulations."

"A review of the operational helicopter procedures now in effect in the Boston area will be conducted to determine if more effective alternative methods of relief exist."

McCauley said he was told that the FAA has no authority to limit the number of helicopters that are used by the individual Boston radio stations to monitor rush hour traffic.

He said Herschel Jones, the manager of the FAA district office in Norwood, told him that the safety record of helicopters is good and that those forced down in West Quincy made "non-emergency-type landings."

McCauley said he has written to Gov. Edward J. King, Senators Edward M. Kennedy and Paul Tsongas to see if their offices could look into the matter and make suggestions.

Video Licenses Granted

Video machine licenses were granted to two establishments by the License Board Tuesday, and a request from a third applicant was continued to next week's meeting.

Rouillard's Cafe, 139 Copeland St., West Quincy, was granted a license for one video machine.

A license for one video cocktail table was granted to Alfredo's Restaurant, 73-77 Franklin St., South Quincy.

The licenses were granted subject to approval by the fire department.

A request from Doherty's Pub, Inc., 3 School St., for two video machines was continued for one week.

A Building Department representative will inspect the premises to see if there is enough room for the games.

LaRaia, Kelly Unhappy With New Revaluation Move

By TOM HENSHAW

The process of revaluing Quincy real estate to 100 per cent of market value goes on and on — and Councillors Joseph J. LaRaia and Leo J. Kelly aren't happy about it.

The Council Monday night voted to appropriate $120,893 to help pay for an update of the $600,000 job done by P.R.C. Jacobs, which is expected to be finished any day now.

LaRaia and Kelly voted against it.

"It's an endless process that goes all the way back to 1965," said LaRaia. "We haven't seen any final product yet and we keep pouring money into it."

Kelly noted that when the final valuation figures do come out it will be the updating company that will sit on the appeal hearings and not the Jacobs company which made the original reval.

"People are confused by reval already," he said. "This will just make it more confusing."

Chief Assessor Elmer Fagerlund told the Council that the contract to update the valuation figures has been given to Municipal Appraisal of Fall River, which was not the low bidder.

Municipal Appraisal bid $180,000 while Finnegan Associates of Action bid $140,000.

"The low bidder is not necessarily the best," said Fagerlund. "Municipal Appraisal had a track record. We had confidence in them."

Fagerlund said he hopes that the reval figures will be updated by March 1 so that a tax rate can be set and tax bills for the second half of 1982-83 in the mail by April 1.

Jacobs' reval figures, based on values of Jan. 1, 1981, have been approved by the state, said Fagerlund, but the state has indicated that some are 14.8 per cent too high and some 14.8 per cent too low, based on projected figures for Jan. 1, 1982.

Councillor LaRaia said he couldn't understand how the State Department of Revenue "can make a judgement in a few days when it has taken Jacobs two years to revalue the city."

"This whole thing has been bungled right from the start," he said. "We are approaching a million dollars spent for revaluation. It's like throwing money off a bridge."

Burger King Asks Earlier Opening Hour

"All we have in that area is trouble," said City Clerk John Gillis on a request Tuesday from Burger King, 670 Adams St., Lakin Square, for earlier opening hours.

The License Board voted to continue until next Tuesday the request which would have the restaurant open at 6:30 a.m. Monday to Saturday, and at 7 a.m. Sunday.

Hours have been 11 a.m. to 11 p.m.

"It's a little unfair to the people in the area," said Gillis, "6:30 a.m. is too early in a residential area."

Building Inspector Allan MacDonald agreed.

Gillis said that Ward Councillor James Sheets was also against the request, and the matter was continued so that the board could speak with Sheets about a possible 8 a.m. opening hour.

Brousseau has been manager at The Hollow, Quincy.

Foreign Trade Zone Okayed For Shipyard

The City Council Monday night voted to endorse an application by General Dynamics Corp. to establish a foreign trade zone at the Fore River Shipyard.

City Solicitor William Golden told the Council the move would help to give the Quincy shipyard a competitive edge in its battle for contracts with southern shipyards.

The foreign trade zone would enable General Dynamics to import raw materials duty free, provided they are used to build ships at the yard for use in foreign commerce.

City Councillor James A. Sheets made a futile attempt to learn from Carter Eltzroth, a General Dynamics executive, why the shipyard was not landing more contracts.

"Is the cost of operating the Quincy shipyard not in line with the rest of them?" he asked.

"I simply don't know," said Eltzroth.

"Have we been overbidding," asked Sheets.

"I suspect that the Navy has some overall plan," said Eltzroth, "but I don't know the answer."

"I see other yards up and down the coast busy and I wonder why we are not sharing in their good fortune," said Sheets, giving up the attempt.

Sun 14 Years Old

The Quincy Sun is 14 years old — going on 15 — with today's issue and proud of Quincy in its name.

The Sun, established in September, 1968 completes its 14th year today. And with next week's issue, begins its 15th.

It has been a most eventful and historic year for us as Quincy's community newspaper expanded into community television.

On Feb. 11, The Sun began news telecasts on Ch. 8 on Quincy Cablesystems which now has over 9,000 subscribers.

The Sun's Ch. 8 operates 24 hours a day, seven days a week bringing the latest Quincy news furnished by Sun staffers and up to the moment regional and world news from the Associated Press. There is also display and classified advertising.

The Sun became the first newspaper in the South Shore and one of the first in the state to provide news coverage over cable television.

The Sun thus gives Quincy an electronic daily newspaper on Ch. 8 with the latest in local, regional and world news around the clock.

Meanwhile, we are continuing our in-depth coverage of Quincy in our role as Quincy's weekly community newspaper. And, we have plans to expand that role.

The Sun was founded in a small second-floor office on Foster St., Quincy Center with a little money but a lot of hope and faith in Quincy. A few people, though, said we wouldn't last six months. And, there were times in those early days we thought they might be right.

But, fortunately, a lot of people thought Quincy would be a better community with two newspapers instead of one. And, with their help, we stayed in there.

A year later we moved to another second floor office at 1601 Hancock St. and then in March, 1975 to the present street floor location in the old Quincy Savings Bank building at 1372 Hancock St., Quincy Square.

In 1980, the historic Hingham Journal, which dates back to 1827 was purchased and modernized.

Like The Sun in Quincy, The Journal in Hingham continues its important role as a community newspaper.

This year, The Sun and Journal won three New England Press Association awards, two for editorials and one for photography.

The Sun, as we have said before, has been blessed with loyal readers from the very first issue. They are readers of all ages who want a community newspaper — a newspaper devoted exclusively to their community interests.

A newspaper has a responsibility to its community and to its readers to report the news fairly and accurately.

We have tried to do that — giving those on both sides of an issue the opportunity in our news columns to present their side of that issue.

We don't write editorials just for the sake of having an editorial. But when there is something to speak out on, we speak out — loud and clear. You don't have to wonder where we stand.

You may not always agree with us editorially. That is your right. We respect it. We have a right to our opinions, too. Most of the times, it seems from reader reaction, we see things the same way.

We will continue to offer responsible persons on both sides of an issue or controversy the opportunity to air their views. And we will continue to speak out editorially when there is a reason to.

As we prepare to begin our 15th year, we want to again thank you — our readers and advertisers — for your support and encouragement.

And, as always, a special "thank you" goes to our growing army of faithful newscasters who bring The Sun to your home in all kinds of weather.

We've said it before, but we'd like to say it again: All of you are as much a part of The Quincy Sun as we, the staff.

Without you, we never would have reached this 14th milestone. In fact, without you we might not have reached those first six months.

With your continued help — and encouragement — we look ahead with confidence to our 15th year and the years after that. Again, thank you — all of you, from all of us — sincerely.

Thank you for making it all possible.

LaRaia Between Floors

Nicholas Barbadoro has an exclamation point after his name this week and Joseph LaRaia a question mark.

Barbadoro rolled to a fairly easy win for the Norfolk County clerk of courts Democratic nomination in last week's primary election.

BARBADORO

In this case, it's the same as being elected. He has no Republican or Independent opposition in the November final election.

He will thus be the clerk of courts for a six year term starting in January. Exclamation point.

LaRAIA

Some political observers have taken that exclamation point, bent it a bit, shaped it into a question mark and put it after LaRaia's name.

Their question: Has he had it, politically?

LaRaia, who on election night looked like a third place finisher, slipped to fourth by late morning when all the votes had been counted. That's not impressive in an eight-man field.

Barbadoro polled 33,419 votes to 21,625 for newcomer Elizabeth Laing of Braintree, 20,642 for Robert Flynn of Canton and 18,389 for LaRaia.

LaRaia topped Barbadoro in their hometown of Quincy, 8,308 to 7,431. But that's only an 877 vote-margin.

And, it was only Barbadoro's second run for public office since he lost a bid for the Quincy School Committee about 30 years ago.

It was the second loss for LaRaia in a county race. He failed to win the county treasurer's office in an earlier bid.

After being ousted by Arthur Tobin as mayor in 1977 following a two-year turbulent term, LaRaia made a successful comeback in 1979 barely edging then newcomer Richard Koch, Jr. by 97 votes.

He then came roaring back to top the City Council field in both the 1980 preliminary and final city elections.

But now, some political observers are writing him off as a serious candidate for anything but city councillor because of his showing in last week's county race. They don't think he will make it back as mayor. They don't think there's anything left for him to run for countywide and they doubt he would do it again, anyway.

The fact LaRaia could only top Barbadoro in Quincy by 877 votes is also being examined closely. A good share of the big and important Italian vote bloc LaRaia ordinarily would have gotten went to Barbadoro.

LaRaia opponents already looking ahead to next year's city elections think an attractive candidate of Italian extraction could give LaRaia trouble for City Councillor.

The appointment of Barbadoro to fill the vacancy Norfolk County clerk of courts post before last week's primary election was a key, although not critical, move in electing him to a full term.

"The appointment obviously helped," says Barbadoro, "It was very important because it showed the confidence that the State Supreme Court had in me. It helped the voters to decide."

"The last minute appointment hurt," says LaRaia. "I don't think I would have run for the office if there had been an incumbent."

"I won because I had the experience," says Barbadoro who has worked in the clerk's office for 17 years, six as first assistant clerk.

"I think the voters realized that clerk of courts is a judicial office, not political or municipal. If it was another type of race, I think Joe would have done better."

Barbadoro is a lawyer. LaRaia not only isn't a lawyer, but during his stormy days as mayor, he was an outspoken critic of lawyers. He certainly wasn't going to woo them over to him in a clerk of courts race.

"I can't see how somebody could run for this job without some knowledge of the law," says Barbadoro. "You're talking to attorneys all the time and you've got to know their language."

"I think the voters understood that and I certainly appreciate their show of confidence in me and I can assure them that I'll do all I can to merit their trust."

LaRaia says the two biggest areas of disappointment to him were Quincy and Brookline.

"I did all right in the towns," he says, "But a Quincy candidate for county office should come out of Quincy with a 2-1 margin. Obviously, I didn't."

"Brookline is the most horrendous place I've ever seen to campaign. You need to campaign a year there. I figure I spent $7 a vote in Brookline. I know the cost of living is high but that's too much."

"The next time I run for county office is the day after Brookline is severed from the county."

LaRaia got only 296 votes in Brookline, compared to a surprising 3,199 for Laing, 2,431 for Robert Bloom of Braintree and 1,850 for Barbadoro. LaRaia was eighth out of eight in that town.

LaRaia, of course, has his staunch followers. You really can't write him off as a political factor. But his stature right now is on the low side.

LaRaia's political career has had as many ups and downs as an elevator. Last year he was somewhere near the penthouse. This year, after last week's performance, he's closer to the basement.

He has a question mark hanging over him and his political future. It will be interesting to see what button he pushes in next year's city election. And, what floor he gets off at.

Dedication Ceremonies At Quincy Center Plaza

Dedication ceremonies for the new Quincy Center Plaza, the 10-story office building at Hancock and Granite Sts., yesterday (Wednesday) were scheduled to include a flag-raising on adjacent Christmas Island.

Christmas Island, recently dedicated to the late George Fay, longtime chairman of the Christmas Festival Committee, is the divider in Hancock St. in front of the plaza.

The flag-raising ceremony was to be held at 4:30 p.m. on the island, which has been refurbished. City Councillor Leo J. Kelly has arranged for national, state and city flags to be flown.

The Plaza itself would be dedicated at 5 p.m. along with the city-owned UDAG garage that provides parking for the building and the Della Chiesa Family Pedestrian Mall in front of it.

Quincy Center Plaza was built on what used to be a parking area that honored the memory of the late Lt. Walter Della Chiesa, who died in the crash of his Army plane off Okinawa June 22, 1950.

The mall in front of the Plaza will honor Lt. Della Chiesa; his father, former Mayor Amelio Della Chiesa; and his uncle, former City Councillor Aldo Della Chiesa.

$220,000 In State Grants For QJC, Work, Inc.

Rep. Robert A. Cerasoli announces a grant of more than $220,000 to Quincy Junior College and Work, Inc., to operate a skills training program in the Quincy area.

The state grants are matched by funds from the private sector.

Quincy Junior College would receive $120,000 to expand its training of registered nurses and licensed practical nurses. The trainees would work with five area hospitals and nursing homes.

Work, Inc. (the South Shore Rehabilitation Division) was granted $100,928 to train mentally retarded persons in assembly, janitorial and machine operation skills.

This training will take place in the Consolidated Products and Services Company in Quincy and Waltham.

"I am very enthusiastic in seeing both institutions develop a cooperative relationship with private employers in the Quincy-South Shore area," said Cerasoli.

"I believe that the combination of business and education will prove an effective and successful training method."

The grants were made by the Bay State Skills Corporation, which has made about $1,296,674 in 21 matching grants to training Massachusetts citizens for jobs since it was founded in 1981.

Council Rejects Brett Proposal To Hike Parking

The City Council refused to support a proposal by Councillor Joseph E. Brett to increase parking meter charges from the present rate of five cents an hour to five cents for a half hour in order to boost revenue from municipal parking areas.

The Council's Ordinance Committee effectively killed Brett's idea by voting that no legislation was necessary.

The Committee voted the same way on a proposal to permit all-day parking for 50 cents in 150 stalls in the John Hancock Parking Area after Councillor Thomas S. Burgin suggested that the proposal would put the city in competition with private all-day parking lots.

But the Committee looked favorably on a proposal for three-hour parking for 25 cents in 150 stalls when Councillor Edna B. Austin told members some women had complained that they were unable to have their hair done in the present two-hour limit.

TAXES OPPRESSIVE

Francis X. McCauley, 29, of 9 Medway St., Houghs Neck, an executive trainee at the Shipbuilders Cooperative Bank and a candidate for the City Council at large, listed "a tax rate which is becoming oppressive" as the big problem facing the 1960-61 Council.

"The Council will have to cope with problems that are mainly financial in nature and it will need to differentiate between projects that we actually need and those we would like but cannot afford at present," he said in answer to a question by the League of Women Voters.

McCauley said the projects he considers important include a municipal incinerator, increased recreational facilities in the form of improved playgrounds, beaches and programs, and a program for the development of the Granite St. area.

Consecration Of Paraments At Bethany Church Sunday

As part of Bethany Congregational Church's 150th Anniversary year, a new set of red paraments will be consecrated during both the 9 a.m. chapel service and 10 a.m. sanctuary service Sunday.

Paraments are cloth hangings used in church chancels on the altar, pulpit and lectern, designed to bring color and beauty, as well as symbolic meaning into the sanctuary and worship services.

In addition, there are matching Bible book marks and clergy stoles.

Traditionally, they are in four ecclesiastical colors and are changed according to the season of the church year and holy days. White is used at Christmas, Easter and Communion Sundays; purple for Advent and Lent; green for the Trinity season; and red for Pentecost, ordinations and church anniversaries.

The sanctuary paraments are being dedicated in memory of Mr. William A. Anderson, Sr., by his wife Lillian, and his children Eileen, Pauline, and William, Jr.

One of the stoles is being given in memory of Mr. and Mrs. John B. Rupp by the McLain family.

The chapel pulpit hanging is a memorial to Mr. Richard D. Chase, a lay leader and deacon for a half century, and a member of the Bethany congregation for 62 years.

The hangings are custom made of beemberg damask and raw silk and are embroidered with symbols of the Christian Faith. The Rev. J. William Arnold, pastor of Bethany Church, will discuss the importance of red paraments at both services.

Associate Minister, Joel F. Huntington, will assist in leading the worship. The sesquicentennial moment will be presented by Marion Sprague, and the scriptures read by Richard Sprague and Marion Lockwood.

The choir, under the direction of organist Dana M. Robinson, will present the anthems "To Our Redeemer's Glorious Name" by Tye, and "The Lone Wild Bird" arranged by Johnson.

Pastor Arnold will preach the sermon, "All Ears" based on Revelation 3:22. "He who has an ear, let him hear what the Spirit says to the churches."

Informal Service Popular At Squantum Church

Members of The First Church of Squantum participated in an early morning Lord's Supper Sunday at the first of the two Sunday services.

The first service at 8 a.m. is informal, evangelistic and includes much singing led by songleaders with guitars. The second one at 10:15 a.m. is traditional and retains the robed choir and organ music.

"We have been astonished at the interest in the early morning service," said church pastor Rev. Dr. Gene Langevin. "Eight o'clock is very early in the morning yet they come. In fact, we may soon have as many people at the early service as at the second one. We are delighted."

Sunday the sermon was "The Youth Ministry That We Have." It is always the same at both services.

Slides of youth ministry being supported by the church were shown at both services as well.

Lighting the candles for the first service were Dan Smith and Jimbo McKim. Bonnie Adams and Dave Williams collected the offering. Evelyn Ahearn and Grace Holmes assisted the pastor in the communion service.

Greeters for the second service were Genevieve and Charles Todd. Tore Wallin and Paul Paulson were ushers. The Chancel Choir sang "Because You Are God's Chosen Ones" by G. Alan Smith. The Fellowship Hour was hosted by Hazel Mayne after the first service and by Katherine Hansen and Diane Lindblad after the second.

Despite the success of the early morning service, there will be no 8 a.m. service for the next two Sundays. Next Sunday, while the pastor is attending a Preaching Convocation in Green Lake, Wisconsin, young people of the church will lead the congregation in worship at 10:15 a.m.

On the following Sunday, Oct. 3, the congregation will gather at 10:15 a.m. to renew their covenant with God and each other at the Lord's Supper.

The 8 a.m. service will resume Oct. 10 when the topic will be "The Second Coming of Christ."

Police Alert

Fear Of Crime Can Be Good

Most studies indicate that fear of crime ranks as the first or second cause of worry among senior citizens.

This concern can be healthy if it leads to positive steps to reduce the chances that you will be victimized.

At the same time, an unreasonable fear can become a very negative influence that will mar one's enjoyment of life.

By way of introducing a series of several columns on crime and the senior citizen, here are some basic facts that will put the subject in perspective:

Except possibly for purse-snatching, older people are not being victimized to any greater extent than the general population.

The crimes that senior citizens fear — that all of us fear, for that matter — are the crimes of violence, but they are the crimes that happen most infrequently.

Most murders and assaults are committed by relatives or friends as the result of disputes and not by strangers.

Despite widespread fear, the crime of rape almost never happens to women over 65. In fact, only about 1 per cent of all known rape victims are over 50.

The most frequent crimes are crimes against property, which are most likely to happen when you are away.

These facts suggest that many crimes can be dealt with before they happen by taking certain steps to reduce the opportunity.

Next week we will deal with some of the things senior citizens can do to prevent crimes from happening to them.

Brockton Rocky Rebound Route For Raiders

By TOM SULLIVAN

Milton's football team, coached by former North Quincy assistant Jack Bowes, spoiled Ken McPhee's debut as Raider coach last Saturday but McPhee, also a former Raider assistant, said he was "disappointed but not discouraged."

North, with an inexperienced team, especially on offense, dropped a 28-6 decision to Milton which, thanks to quarterback Brian Lenane, dominated the game.

And Saturday the Raiders face another busy afternoon as they must play Suburban League power Brockton in their league opener at Brockton's Marciano Stadium at 1:30 p.m.

Brockton had more trouble than expected last Saturday when it defeated New Bedford, 27-18, in a non-league game.

"I'm very disappointed, but I'm definitely not discouraged," said McPhee, who was an assistant coach at North the same time as Bowes for a few years. "Our offensive line is green as grass and it failed to give our quarterback, Vin Barry, much protection. But the big disappointment was our defense. I thought we'd do much better defensively but our tackline was very sloppy."

"However, I saw a lot of improvement in Barry's play at quarterback and was pleased with the running of Dave DiCarlo and Richie Brown."

McPhee pointed to the fact that he had installed an entirely new offensive system and it is taking time for the players to adjust to it.

"Jack Bowes did an excellent job of coaching," he said. "Everything I tried he seemed to be prepared for."

Defensive coordinator Jack Raymer was admittedly disappointed. "We weren't tackling as a team," he said. "I told them they looked like 11 individuals out there. They must get together and play as a team. The tackling was very sloppy and I was disappointed in the secondary. We couldn't stop their long passes. We couldn't stop their third down plays."

He did have good words for Bobby Leonard, Jim Kennedy, Jim Kelly, Shawn Cunningham, Jim McNamara, Tony Befera and Gerry Connolly for their play. Kelly and Connolly, the team's co-captains, played well both ways.

Lenane was outstanding for Milton. He scored three touchdowns, one on a 58-yard "neak" and passed for the other TD.

Milton ate up 200 yards on the ground to only 69 for North. It added 66 yards through the air as Lenane completed four of six passes, while Barry completed five of eight but they were good for only 20 yards. Milton had 13 first downs to only three for the Raiders.

Milton blocked a Kelly punt to set up the first touchdown late in the first quarter as it took over on the nine. Three plays later Lenane went over from the one and Joe Keohan kicked the first of his four extra points.

North scored its only touchdown midway in the second quarter as Bob Leonard intercepted a pass and returned it to Milton's 31. The Raiders clicked off two first downs and on third down Barry, getting set up to pass, found a gaping hole and went through the left side for seven yards and the score. Mike Barry's kick for the tying point failed.

Milton came right back and, adding three first downs, went to North's 23. Following a five-yard penalty, Lenane passed to end Mike Dillon for a touchdown and again Keohan kicked the point.

Midway in the third quarter Kelly kicked to Milton's 30. A few plays later Milton had third down and about two inches for a first down. Lenane, hoping to pick up the first down, suddenly broke loose from a horde of tacklers and raced down the sidelines for 58 yards to make it 20-6. Keohan again kicked the point.

Milton drove from North's 47 for its final score. On the third play of the final quarter Lenane again scored from the one and Keohan kicked his fourth point.

Hancock, S. Weymouth In Playoff Finals

Hancock Bank, which led the league in victories for the fifth year in a row, and South Weymouth Savings opened the South Shore Bankers Softball league's playoff finals Tuesday night.

They played last night (Wednesday) at Kincaide Park at 7 p.m. and the third game, if necessary, will be played tonight (Thursday) at 7 at Kincaide.

Trailing, 6-4, in the last of the seventh with two outs and no one on base, Hancock erupted for three runs and took the first game of its semifinal series with Bay Bank Norfolk, 7-6.

Tom Rizzo beat out an infield hit to ignite the rally. Jerry Reardon followed with a double and Terry McCormack ripped a homer to right center for the victory.

The following night Hancock breezed, 17-5, to sweep the series and enter the finals. Bob Marsh and Brian Griffiths had three hits apiece, Frank Eiske and Joe Silva had home runs and Jim Conniff, Joe Greene and eight-year veteran Tom Connolly, filling in for missing regulars, played fine games.

South Weymouth Savings provided a major upset by ousting Div. 2 champion State Street Bank in two straight games, 11-4 and 16-6.

Al Cutina and Lenny Greene pitched superbly for South Weymouth, silencing State Street's awesome batting order in both games. Bill Sims pitched well enough for State Street but was the victim of some poor defense.

Hancock is in the finals for the fifth straight time, having won the championship three of the four times previously.

Mistakes Cost N. Quincy 26-0 Loss To Stoughton

Early season mistakes by the North Quincy High School football team led to all four touchdowns as the Raiders lost to Stoughton, 26-0, in a gridiron opener at Stoughton that left Coach Jack Donahue unhappy with the play of his team and its treatment by the hosts.

"Two of their touchdowns were out-and-out gifts and our mistakes helped them score the others," said the longtime North Quincy coach. "I don't mind losing but I hate to hand them touchdowns on a silver platter."

Little Paul Sadlier was easily the outstanding Raider both on offense and defense, accounting for most of his team's 93 yards gained on the ground and making a number of open-field tackles after Stoughton backs had broken through the North line.

Walter Bryan, son of Walter "Cap" Bryan, star of Donahue's first North Quincy team 25 years before, also was a bright spot for the Raiders, completing only five of 18 passes but several others were dropped by nervous teammates.

Donahue was also displeased with his Stoughton hosts, who told him the game was to start at 1:30 p.m. when it actually was set for 2 p.m.

"We were all set to start at 1:30," he said. "You can't keep boys up for that extra half hour. Then they wouldn't let our cameraman up in the booth to take movies. They said only their own man could be up there. What kind of treatment is that?"

BROCKTON THUMPS QUINCY

The Brockton High School football team scored twice in 90 seconds to break a 6-6 tie and went on to roll up 455 yards on the ground en route to a 46-6 victory over Quincy in the season's opener for both teams at Veterans Memorial Stadium.

Quarterback John Walsh, Quincy's veteran power runner and passer, scored his team's only touchdown on a 15-yard hidden ball play in the second period and then was forced to leave the game with a pulled groin muscle. Sophomore Dick Moore replaced him.

"If it's any consolation," said a disappointed Quincy Coach Bill Sullivan, "I guess we can say we were beaten by a great team. That's as good a Brockton team as I've ever seen."

The new electric scoreboard clock at the Stadium was used for the first time, operated from the sidelines by Murray Lewis, commissioner of South Shore football officials.

The Quincy lineup included: Smith, Chase, Merrill, ends; Shugrue, Buccella, MacLean, Bertrand, O'Brien, Lynch, tackles; McGee, Valle, Harold, Leone, Pennio, guards; Sacchetti, Darraq, centers; Murphy, Zagami, Dixon, Mowbray, Natti, Moore, Burgess, Gacicia, Ivil, Landry, Pulsifer, Walsh, backs.

MORRISSEYS BOW

The Morrissey Club football team of Quincy racked up 16 first downs to three for the North Attleboro Jewelers at Veterans Memorial Stadium but the visitors won, 20-6, before 6,500 fans, believed to be the largest crowd ever to watch a semi-pro football game in Quincy.

The Morrissey Club lineup included: Wallace, Lehan, K. Halloran, Center, MacGillivray, ends; Casagrande, Paletta, Pike, B. Halloran, tackles; O'Hare, Smith, Dunn, Wanless, Gosselin, Caplan, Killiam, guards; McDougall, B. Mahoney, centers; Player, Thrower, DiLoreto, Crabtree, Pusateri, Berardi, Jones, Balducci, Eton, Stivaletta, Manuel, backs.

RAIDERETTES WIN TWO

Pat Drohan pitched a two-hitter in the first game and a six-hitter in the second as Chiminiello's Raiderettes defeated Cochituate, 2-0 and 4-3, to clinch second place in the Tri-State League. The Raiderettes ended the season with a 38-14 record.

FALLON CUP VICTORS

Dr. Harry Ernst of Winchester and Jack Barrett halted the last three holes to preserve their lead and win the Fallon Cup at the Wollaston Golf Club, 5 and 4, over Spike Clifford and Ray Marad in a match that was halted by darkness after 11 holes the week before.

QUINCY HARRIES WIN

John Mitchell won the race in a credible 13:03 and Frank Bruce and Bill O'Meara finished second and third as the Quincy High School cross country team whipped Weymouth, 19-36, over the Quincy course.

SPORTS BITS '59

Dick McLaughlin, former Archbishop Williams High School standout from Quincy, signed a baseball contract with the Los Angeles Dodgers . . . Joseph W. Lind appeared to have won election as commodore of the Quincy Yacht Club.

Quincy 33, Cambridge Rindge 16

Presidents Eye No. 2 Against Everett

Quincy football coach Tom Fitzgerald was a much happier man following last Saturday's game at Cambridge Rindge and Latin than he was a year ago when the Presidents handed Cambridge a win on a silver platter.

Quincy opened Fitzgerald's fifth season as coach with a convincing 33-16 Suburban League win at Cambridge.

This Saturday the Presidents will host non-league foe Everett in a 1:30 p.m. game at Veterans Memorial Stadium.

Everett, a former Great Boston League rival of Quincy, dropped its opener to Beverly, 20-0, last week, but Quincy's scout, assistant coach John Sullivan, was impressed with the team, which has both size and speed.

"I'm very happy," said Fitzgerald. "For an opening game I thought we played very well, especially on offense. Bobby Mudge did a fine job at quarterback and Mark Righini and Chris Draicchio ran well. Fullback Ted Walsh did some excellent blocking. Our offensive line played a line game and the defense, although spotty at times, did its job."

Assistant coach Peter Cella singled out tackles Jamie Gravalace and big Joe Harte, Bobby Willard, Dan Mahoney, John Carr and Capt. Kevin Riggs for their play in the offensive line.

He praised Riggs for his blocking and pass receiving (three touchdowns on passes from Mudge).

Fitzgerald had good words for Bob Burns, Gravalace, Chris McGray, Carr, Dennis Obert, Mike Miller, Willard, Riggs, Righini, Oriola, Brian Callahan and Paul Kennedy for their work on defense.

"Burns, Miller and Callahan were particularly outstanding," he said. "Callahan blocked a punt which set up a touchdown."

Quincy scored first early in the game when Draicchio ran 25 yards for a touchdown. Harte kicked the first of his three extra points.

Later in the opening quarter Mudge hit Riggs for a 40-yard scoring pass and Harte again kicked the point.

Quincy made its 20-8 at the half when Riggs caught his second touchdown pass from Mudge, this one covering 20 yards. Harte missed the kick for the time.

In the third quarter it was Mudge to Riggs again, this time for a 30-yard scoring pass and Harte added his third extra point.

Quincy completed its scoring in the final quarter when Mudge scored on a one-yard sneak. A rush for the two extra points was stopped.

The team presented the game

Plans Completed For Burke Testimonial

Plans have been completed for the testimonial Sept. 29 at the Morrisette Legion Post for former North Quincy football coach Dave Burke.

His feats as a former North three-sport star and football all-scholastic and successful Raider coach the last seven years will be recognized.

Burke is the only coach to lead North into the Super Bowl and also have the edge over Quincy.

Dave was a baseball and football letterman at Bowdoin College, quarterbacking under Coach Adam Walsh, one of Notre Dame's famed "Four Horsemen." He was co-captain of the team his senior year.

Burke's long coaching career started at the Canterbury School in Connecticut. He was an assistant coach overseas with the 169th Infantry 42nd Division, an assistant at the Peekskill Military Academy in New York, assistant for nine years at Browne and Nichols and a Quincy High assistant for 11 years before taking over as North's head coach.

His record at North was 41-26-1. Known for his offensive innovations, he inserted the Princeton single wing with much success along with his T formations.

QCH Employees Benefit Softball Marathon Friday

Some 40 Quincy City Hospital employees will hold a 30 hour softball marathon at Rotary Field Friday starting at 6 p.m. and ending Saturday at midnight.

Proceeds will be given to the pediatric nursing staff of the hospital to purchase special toys and amusements for the children.

"While this fund raising event was not initiated by the hospital," says hospital director, James E. Lowenhagen, "I fully support its purpose and commend its organizers for their efforts on behalf of one of the most important segments of our patient population.

"These toys will be put to good use when we open our new Pediatric Unit Oct. 4.

Players are soliciting pledges per hour, and several containers will also be placed on the field for donations.

McDonalds is providing food and several of their characters: "Grimace, Hamburglar, and Birdy the Early Bird," will be on hand Saturday.

Also on Saturday, there will be a special celebrity appearance.

For more information, contact Bill Stavros, at 773-6100, Ext. 247.

Courtney Wins 2 Titles In Tennis Tourney

The 12th annual Quincy Tennis Tournament co-sponsored by the Quincy Recreation Department and the Granite Co-operative Bank saw 11 champions crowned with Bill Courtney winning both the men's singles and the men's 35 and over championships.

In a hard fought contest in the men's singles, Bill defeated Jim Ahearn 6-1, 7-5. He then went on to defeat Neil Cronin in another fine match, taking the men's 35 and over crown, 6-1, 6-4.

On the women's side of the board, Linda Rickson battled Bernie DePietro close to two hours before taking home a 7-6, 6-3 women's singles title. But DePietro came back later with her doubles partner, Dana Loeb, to defeat Hildy Gillis and Louise Durante, 6-0, 3-6, 6-4, to take the women's double championship.

In an exciting match John Franceschini and Gary Durante had to hold on for dear life in the men's doubles final. After taking the first ten games of the match, Rich Landi and Neil Cronin came back to win the second set, 7-5. But Franceschini and Durante came back in the third set, 6-3, to win the crown.

Hildy Gillis continued her dominance over the women's 35 and over division, defeating Louise Durante 6-2, 3-6, 6-3. This win made it three consecutive years Hildy has captured the crown.

Neil Cronin made it two straight men's 50 and over championships by defeating Paul Bandini 6-1, 6-4.

The mixed doubles final saw two teams battle at night for the crown. After winning the first set, 6-4, Rich Landi and Hildy Gillis had to fight off numerous attempts by their opponents, Gary and Louise Durante, to hold onto a 7-5 second set win and championship.

The boys' 16 and under division saw newcomers Mark Scanlon and Chris Howley battle two tough sets with Scanlon winning the match 6-2, 6-1.

In another fine match Lynne Maloney defeated Joanne Doherty 6-1, 6-0 to win the girls' 16 and under crown.

Special praise goes to Joe Heafner and Joe Ryan, who lost close matches in the men's semi-finals. Henry McAulliffe made his presence felt again by reaching the quarterfinals in three events. Turning 70 soon, Henry continues to show excellence on the court and still is the tournaments most popular player.

With close to two hundred entrants, this years tournament, according to tournament director Franceschini, was the best yet.

TO CURE OR TO KILL

It is commonly known that driving and drinking don't mix. But most drivers are unaware that the antihistamines they may take for head colds, as well as sedatives, tranquilizers and some antibiotics, have much the same effect upon them as alcohol. They tend to slow down the reflexes and sometimes cause drowsiness or dizziness.

There are documented cases of drivers who lost control of a vehicle a few minutes after taking a tranquilizer or sedative. When alcohol and many of these medications are taken in combination, their effect can be increased and devastating.

On the other side of the coin, don't put too much faith in the effect of "stay awake" pills to overcome fatigue. They can actually put you to sleep with your eyes open. Heavy use of pain killers can also put you to sleep at the wheel - permanently.

Apaches Sink Sailors 30-12

The North Quincy Apaches rolled over the Squantum Sailors, 30-12, Sunday for their second straight Quincy Youth Football League victory.

The Apaches scored early, taking over the ball on the Sailors' 15. George Hartford, on a handoff from quarterback Jeff Norton, went the distance and he also added the two extra points.

A few minutes later Gary McNamara, Dan McCarthy, Brian Durgin and Hartford combined to bring the ball to the Sailors' four from where McCarthy scored the second touchdown. Hartford added the two points.

The next TD came after Hartford ran 20 yards to the Sailors' 30 and McCarthy went the rest of the way. McNamara added the two points.

The junior varsity finished up the first half and got some fine defense from Tom Walsh, Mike Ainsley, Keith Gott, Karl Staskiewicz and Matt Norton.

The second half opened with the Apaches' jayvees still on defense and Walsh, Ainsley, Gott, Ed Herman and Ed Ryan came up with big plays.

The Sailors did get through for a touchdown and the Apaches led, 24-6.

An onside kick recovered by Apache Steve Miller set up the fourth touchdown. McCarthy racing 55 yards for his third score.

In the final quarter the jayvees turned in some fine efforts again but the Sailors' Mike Capone scored his second TD to end the scoring.

For the Apaches Steve Miller, Tim Kelly, John Broadbent, Jim Mulvey, Gary McNamara, Pete Quevillon and Hartford played outstanding defense.

Sunday the Apaches will play the Quincy Point Panthers at 1 o'clock and the Houghs Neck Manets will face the Sailors at 2:30 at Veterans Memorial Stadium.

Plymouth State Has Strong Quincy, North Look

The Plymouth, N.H., State College football team is off to a rip-roaring start with a 2-0 record while outscoring the opposition, 100-14, in its first two games.

Coach Jay Cottone's team is dominated by Quincy and North Quincy players, all of whom have played prominent roles in the two easy wins.

Freshman Joe Dudek, who led North Quincy to victories over Quincy the last two years (three touchdowns two years ago in a 27-20 win and the only TD last year in a 7-0 decision), is off to a fantastic start at Plymouth.

Two weeks ago in a 53-14 rout of Norwich, Dudek rushed for 174 yards on 13 carries and scored four touchdowns.

For this outstanding effort, Dudek was selected the ECAC Division 3 Rookie of the Week.

"Joe obviously was a key ingredient in our big win over Norwich and is very deserving of the ECAC award," said Cottone. "Our offensive line did a nice job in front of him making the holes and he did some real damage in the open field."

The speedy Dudek scored on runs of six and 31 yards to help give the Panthers a 24-14 advantage at the half and he then broke the game open with a brilliant 57-yard scamper and a 15-yard burst up the middle before sitting out the last quarter.

Last week in a 47-0 breeze over Nichols, Dudek carried for 158 yards on 18 carries and scored on a 30-yard run.

Former Quincy star Ed Iodice, playing cornerback, added a Plymouth TD when he returned a pass interception 25 yards.

Other Quincy and North Quincy players who are prominent members of the Plymouth State team are tight end Scott Anson, linebackers Glen Segalla and John Taglieri, guard Steve Leek and defensive end Neal Fisher.

FORMER North Quincy star Joe Dudek is off to a fantastic start with the Plymouth State College football team. In two games, both easy wins, Dudek has scored five touchdowns and rushed for 332 yards on 31 carries. He is one of seven Quincy and North Quincy players on the squad.

friends in Quincy and they recommended all of those players highly," Cottone said. "I'll tell you, I watched four films of games Dudek played in and I'm surprised a bigger college didn't go after him. He's a super athlete."

Plymouth is in the N.E. Footbal

Conference, which is getting stronger every year. "We are in a conference that has improved 100 percent in the past few years and I believe that we are now on a level with teams like Norwich, Trinity and Williams," Cottone said.

Keltic Liquor License Suspended For 7 Days

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN
Keltic Liquor, 301 Quincy Ave., Quincy Point, will be closed for seven days beginning Sept. 28 for a liquor violation of selling to a minor.

The license suspension will be the third in less than two years at the store for the same offense. The license board suspended the license for one day, June 29. The Alcoholic Beverages Commission suspended the license Oct. 26-Nov. 2, 1981.

The License Board unanimously took the action this week after a report by Quincy police officer Robert Edgar.

According to Edgar's report, a Quincy youth, then 18 years old, was observed exiting Keltic Liquors with two cases of beer July 31. The youth old police he had not been asked to show an ID in the past year, but he later told the License Board he had shown his older brother's ID on many previous occasions.

A second youth, then 17, told police his underage friends had been buying liquor during the summer without showing the clerk an ID, according to the report. The report also said that during the last year, two youths have been seen buying beer in Keltic Liquors. They were brought home to their parents and the liquor store owner advised, police said.

Owner James P. McGrath told the board he had asked the youth to show an ID eight to 12 times before.

"It has been an ongoing horror," said McGrath who told the board he has been trying to check IDs and patrol the premises for youths who harass customers. He said he intends to ask anyone under 30 to show an ID.

Building Inspector Allan MacDonald asked if the underage youth who bought the beer realized he "jeopardized a man's livelihood to support his family."

"I don't think he (the youth) should walk out of here scot free," said McDonald.

"That's up to the police," said Gillis.

Police Capt. Paul Nestor said that the youth has cooperated with the police and would be difficult to prosecute.

MacDonald said the board should let the youth of the city know that they will not receive a slap on the wrist for a similar offense in the future.

After MacDonald made the motion for a seven day suspension, Gillis addressed McGrath.

"If you're before the board again, I'm going to recommend that your license be taken away."

"You're getting off pretty damn easy with seven days."

"Remember what I'm saying."

QHA Moves Against Racial Problems

By TOM HENSHAW

The Quincy Housing Authority is moving swiftly to nip in the bud growing racial problems in the Germantown housing projects where there are six black families among 580 tenants.

"We are starting to have serious racial problems," said Director John Comer. "There are some hoods down there who are throwing rocks, making racial slurs and harassing people with phone calls at night."

"We're not going to take any of that baloney. We don't want to have a problem like they have had in Weymouth."

Comer said he recently sent letters to all tenants in public housing in Quincy pointing out the potential racial problems and how the authority plans to deal with them.

The QHA will not hesitate to evict tenants if things get out of hand, he said.

He told of a tenant in the Westacres housing project in West Quincy, where there is one black family among 36 tenants, who insulted a young black boy with a strong racial slur.

"We demanded and got a letter of apology or they would be out in 30 days," said Comer. "We haven't had a problem there since."

The Quincy police log for Sept. 9 reports what is believed to have been arson attempts on a Germantown apartment occupied by a black family.

"Believed incidents racially motivated," notes the log. Police cars were alerted to make frequent checks of the area.

Comer, who took over as director of the QHA earlier this year, said that since he has held the job, five families have been evicted, although not for racial reasons.

"Some were for non-payment of rent," he said. "Some were for hoodlum behavior. They were the first ones evicted in 15 years. We're not going to take any balcony."

Comer said he has been meeting with police and residents of public housing projects in an effort to head off any potential racial disturbances.

An expert from the Boston police racial unit is to meet with them next week.

"The real problem," said Comer, "is that the state and federal government consider security the last priority. They've got to realize it's important. They've got to give us money for security."

6 Votes Needed

Four Councillors Favor Pay Raises

Jan. 1, 1983.

Condon said four councillors, herself, Stephen J. McGrath, Leo J. Kelly and Council President John J. Lydon Jr., are in favor of the proposal as it was presented by McCauley.

"John Gillis, our parliamentarian, says that we need six votes to pass it," she said.

Of the others who were contacted by The Quincy Sun none appeared enthusiastic about the prospects of a raise for themselves, although they agreed that the mayor should get more money.

"I would not vote a raise for myself in the year that I have been elected," said Councillor

Patricia Toland. "City employees are not getting raises so it seems inappropriate."

"I haven't been on the Council long enough to know how difficult the job is and I'm not in a position to evaluate the time demands."

She indicated that she felt the mayor deserves a raise "and the range he proposed is not too great. But the timing is bad. I would consider filing an amendment to move the whole raise up to Jan. 1, 1984."

"I am absolutely opposed to city councillors getting $7,500," said James A. Sheets. "And I am not sure that I would vote on any raise for the Council."

Drug Case Report To Mayor, DA Next Week

was a daiquiri mix, but Finn said he doubted that explanation and that the substance wasn't the color of such a mix.

Finn said that reporters and officials from the Norfolk County District Attorney's office had access to the room where the seized drugs were kept, as did the Quincy police officers.

Also during the show, which will be aired tonight (Thursday) at 7 p.m. on cable Channel 3, Finn said that conditions at the police station have improved since he said he might resign two weeks ago.

Finn also said he was still interested in the vacant Pollard School as a police station site.

Meanwhile, Mayor Francis X. McCauley indicated that the city will move slowly on hiring an outside expert to study the needs of the Police Department, both in manpower and facilities. The reason: Money.

Donald Hansen, the city's personnel director who used to be a civilian employee of the Police Department, estimated that such a study would cost in the neighborhood of $30,000.

"There are no non-city funds with which to do that," said McCauley. "I would be inclined to go slow in putting up that kind of money. We'll wait and see how that financial picture shapes up."

"But I feel that a study is the route to go."

McCauley said he still looks with favor on conversion of the abandoned Pollard school into a new police station, although, he added, there had been some movement toward using it as a community center.

More Clinics Scheduled

1,331 Receive Flu Shots

Health Commissioner Dr. M. Grace Hussey strongly urges those individuals at greatest risk to build up their immunity before the flu season arrives.

Some 1331 Quincy residents took advantage of the free flu-shot clinic at the Kennedy Health Center Saturday.

Additional clinics will be held at the following locations for seniors and those unable to attend last week's clinic:

Sept. 30, Oceanview, 73 Bicknell St., 9-11 a.m.

Oct. 4, Fenno House, 540

Hancock St., 1:30-3:30 p.m.
Oct. 5, Granite Place, 125 Granite St., 9-11 a.m.

Town Brook House, 45 Brackett St., 1:30-2:30 p.m.

Oct. 6, 1000 Southern Artery, North Wing, 9-Noon.

Houghs Neck Community Center, 1193 Sea St., 1-2 p.m.

Those needing house visits may make an appointment by calling 773-1380, Ext. 458.

No flu vaccine will be given to anyone under 29 years of age without the written request of a physician. No flu vaccine is available for children under 13 years of age.

City Collects $627,000 In Back Taxes

Mayor Francis X. McCauley announced Tuesday that since January the city has collected $627,000 in back property taxes and interest and has agreements for payment of $1,263,000 more.

McCauley said that when he became mayor nine months ago he asked the city treasurer to compile a list of individuals and firms that owed the city more than $2.9 million in back taxes, some dating back to the 1960s.

Since then, he said, City Solicitor William B. Golden has been aggressively seeking payment of those overdue taxes.

"It is the policy of this administration to demand payment in full of all taxes and interest due," said McCauley. "No waivers or abatements have been granted to anyone owing back taxes."

"This administration will continue to pursue the collection of all back taxes due the city and will start foreclosure proceedings against those who do not indicate a willingness to pay what they owe."

Cash, Jewelry Stolen

A total of $1,200 in cash and jewelry was reported stolen Monday from the home of Nicholas Varraso on Stevens St., South Quincy.

The loot included an 18 karat gold chain.

Police said the thieves, who entered through a rear door, passed up a number of other valuables, including a camera, a television set and several Hummels.

A police spokesman suggested earlier that the missing packet

Lawn Bowling Clubhouse To Be Torn Down After Blaze

The lawn bowling clubhouse at Pageant Field, Merrymount Park, which sustained at least $10,000 damage during an early Saturday fire, will be torn down shortly according to Mayor Francis McCauley.

McCauley said Monday that the action would be taken because the building is a hazard to public safety.

"There's no question that the fire was set," said Dep. Fire Chief Carl Valenti who added that the fire is still under investigation by the Fire and Police Departments, and the State Fire Marshall's Office.

No arrests have been made.

"It looked suspicious," said Richard Koch, Sr., executive secretary to the Park and Recreation Board, who was called to the fire during the early morning hours.

"There were bowling balls scattered around," said Koch.

"The green seems to be intact and undamaged," said Koch who added that the Quincy Bowling Green Club, started in 1933, should be able to continue its games which conclude around Columbus Day.

Koch said that he intends to discuss with the mayor and city officials the possibility of rebuilding.

"But it will be just about impossible for the park department or the city to replace it," said Koch who hopes that donations and volunteers might be forthcoming.

"I'd like to see it replaced," said Koch who explained that the structure, with kitchen and rest room facilities, made the area a site of sociability as well as sport for the largely older age group.

"It's too bad. For some of the 70-75 club members, it's the only activity they have."

"It's going to be a heartbreak for a lot of them."

"There are a lot of memories there."

Meeting Set Oct. 6 On Elks, Standish School

A public meeting will be held Wednesday, Oct. 6, at 7:30 p.m. in the Atlantic Neighborhood Center, 12 Hunt St., to discuss the proposed use of the Myles Standish School by the Quincy Lodge of Elks.

City Councillor Joanne Condon said the Elks have expressed an interest in using the school as a temporary site until their new facility is built.

Condon said she asked the representatives of the Elks, the School Department, the Mayor's office and the city solicitor's office attend the meeting.

Area residents also are urged to attend.

Brownell Asks More

Bus Service

Calling the MBTA's failure to provide adequate bus service "unacceptable," Rep. Thomas F. Brownell (D-Quincy) has requested additional buses on selected routes in Quincy.

The request by Brownell follows reports by constituents that overcrowded buses are unable to pick-up passengers at scheduled stops.

In a letter to MBTA General Manager, James O'Leary, Brownell cited complaints from students who are late for classes, some of whom have received detention slips for their tardiness.

Brownell asked for additional service on an as needed basis in Quincy, and specifically the routes along Billings Rd., and Sea St. He said the additional service is essential to ensure equal access to public transportation.

PHARMACY TOPICS

"Old cure" has been invented by a Pennsylvania engineer. A clothespin-like device holds nostrils closed. It works, he says, by raising temperature inside the nose from a comfortable 91 to 98.6, which kills the virus.

Medical management of Meniere's disease — which involves the inner ear and often leads to dizziness and hearing difficulties — was successful in 72 percent of patients in a recent study at Northwestern University Medical School.

Biomedical engineer at Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute has devised a way to "listen" to fractures. Sending sound waves through a bone can spot smaller breaks than a standard X ray can, he says.

Aspirin may be dangerous to asthmatics, according to a study at the National Jewish Hospital and Research Center in Denver. About 20 percent seem to be affected.

Oral contraceptives containing estrogen and epilepsy medication, phenytoin, interfere with each other and should not be used together, according to Modern Medicine. Barbiturates, too, speed up destruction of estrogen contraceptives.

Robell's To Open Soon

Touraine Building Leased, Sears Tenants Seen

By TOM HENSHAW

Robell's, a department store with goods in the moderate price range, plans to open in 10 days in the old Touraine building at 1363 Hancock St. next to the Sears Roebuck building.

And Planning Director James Lydon said that lease forms for space in the Sears building itself have been sent to two other firms for consideration by their boards of directors.

L and S Department Stores, the parent firm of Robell's, signed a lease effective tomorrow (Friday) on the old Touraine building and Mayor Francis X. McCauley called it a good sign for downtown Quincy.

"I hope that this will lead to the occupation of the Sears building," said the mayor. "We have been meeting with Meredith and Grew, the rental agent, all summer to get someone in."

"Now that Quincy Center Plaza has been fully occupied the potential shoppers that it is generating might lead to filling the Sears building too."

Lydon said he was not at liberty to disclose the names of the stores that have taken an interest in the Sears building except to say they are retail businesses dealing in soft goods.

"I feel sure we will wind up with both of them," he said.

Both firms are interested in about 15,000 square feet of space in the building, one of them on the upper level facing Hancock St. and the other on the lower level facing the Parkingway.

Lydon said Meredith and Grew, agent for the Faxon Trust which owns the building, will continue to advertise for at least two more tenants for the building which has been vacant since Sears moved to South Shore Plaza in Braintree.

Robell's, which will open in the Touraine building, has one other store in Roxbury. A second store in South Boston recently closed its doors.

Burger King Withdraws Early Opening Request

The Burger King at 670 Adams St., Lakin Square, won't be opening early in the morning, at least for a while.

Joseph Sweeney, a supervisor for Burger King, withdrew without prejudice Tuesday the request for a 6:30 a.m. opening Monday through Saturday, and a 7 a.m. Sunday.

Police Chief Francis Finn suggested that Sweeney sit down with area residents and try to resolve some of their complaints with the restaurant.

During the License Board meeting, several residents complained of litter, noise and traffic from the establishment, as well as a green cleaning liquid which spills onto the sidewalk.

Sweeney told the board he was recently transferred to the Quincy area and expressed a willingness to rectify any problems.

Ward Councillor James Sheets said that he would "look with suspicion on any request to increase the traffic flow particularly early in the morning when it's quiet."

Sheets also said that there has been a management problem with Burger King, and the establishment's relationship with the community has been "jerky".

He suggested that the board observe any improvements at the restaurant before granting the earlier openings.

Sweeney suggested the opening hour request be changed to 8:30 a.m., but later withdrew all requests at the suggestion of the board.

Burger King can reapply.

Cash Box Stolen

A cashbox containing $703 in cash was reported stolen Monday from the Old Colony Liquor Store at 519 Southern Artery by a thief who apparently entered through an unlocked office door.

CVS Store Moving To Shop & Save

The Consumer Value Store (CVS) is moving out of the Greenleaf building at the corner of Hancock and Granite Sts. and into the Shop and Save building on Independence Ave., according to Planning Director James Lydon.

Lydon said CVS has picked up an option on the building and is now seeking the necessary permits plus approval from the Quincy Historic District Commission to renovate the building.

Anodyne Medical Services, a nursing placement agency, is going to move into the store left vacant by CVS, said Lydon.

Parking Lot Thefts

An electric clock and stereo speakers were reported stolen Sunday from a 1978 Dodge van owned by John Hiltz of Elmwood Park, Wollaston. Hiltz told police youths have broken into several cars in the parking lot recently.

Aquinas Jr. College Welcomes New Students

Aquinas Junior College, Milton, recently welcomed nearly 200 first year students during Orientation Week.

During the week, there were several opportunities for students and faculty to meet both formally and informally.

Emphasized throughout the week was the introduction to and reflection on the theme chosen for the academic year: Choose Life.

The theme was derived from Deuteronomy 30 where Moses set before the Israelites both "life and death, blessing and curse," and challenged them to obey the Lord and, through the quality of their lives, to consciously "choose life" that their descendants might live.

It will be celebrated throughout the year in a series of seminars and workshops which will be available to the public as a community service, as well as to the Aquinas community.

Some of the topics to be discussed are:

- Health Issues for the 80s; Stress and Disease; Alcohol Use and Abuse; Family Living (Parenting); Choosing Not to Use Drugs; and Preventive Medicine for Women.

- Search for Meaning. What Do I Believe?

- Social Justice: The Arms Race; Nuclear War Prevention; National Budget Priorities; Hunger and Housing; and Human Rights (global) and U.S. Intervention.

- Women in the 80s: Fair Employment Practices; (local) Battered Women; Rosie's Place; and FAIR SHARE.

For further information, call 696-3100, ext. 26.

When You Shop Here at Home You Help Create More Jobs

Many years ago, when our town was just beginning, it had few people, fewer stores and no manufacturing as we know it today.

Our community grew because more people moved here in our trade area. Soon there was a demand for more stores and a need for local manufacturing.

People moving here meant building more homes, more stores meant more jobs and our industries needed workers. The word got around, and a steady stream of people looking for work and homes settled here.

Today, the more business our stores do the more people they hire. More jobs in our industries mean more business for all, and help spread and lower the tax burden.

Nothing very mysterious about it. Nearly every community grew the same way. So, shop at home and do YOUR part to help us all continue to grow.

3 More Schools Turned Over To City

The School Committee voted unanimously to turn three more closed school buildings over to the city. The schools are the Willard, Pollard and Massachusetts Field.

that no specific use of these buildings has been planned at this time but he would be amenable to using the facilities of the Pollard school as a neighborhood or community center.

Delahunt Rides Winners

When it comes to political horse races, you'd have to say that Dist. Atty. William Delahunt knows how to pick 'em or ride 'em.

In the recent Democratic primary election Delahunt endorsed two winners in pretty good sized newspaper ads: former Gov. Michael Dukakis and Nicholas Barbadoro.

His endorsement of Barbadoro for Norfolk County clerk of courts played a major part in Barbadoro's victory. Even though it did irk some Democrats who thought he should have remained neutral in an eight-way party battle.

Delahunt had another winner, too. Back at the Democratic state convention he nominated John Kerry who won the lieutenant governor nomination.

And, Delahunt himself is a winner. He ran unopposed on the primary ballot and has no Republican challenger in November. So color him re-elected.

BUT, THERE WAS one flaw for Delahunt. A Wollaston resident, he couldn't deliver Quincy for Dukakis. Neither could a lot of other people.

City Councillor Leo Kelly notes that, in spite of a state-wide victory for Dukakis in the Democratic primary, Gov. Edward King swept all six wards in Quincy.

Kelly, of course, was one of the city's biggest supporters in the city.

Strangely enough, King drew his biggest vote margin in Ward 6, where City Solicitor William Golden and his attorney wife, Paula, were leaders of the Dukakis camp, and Councillor Joanne Condon was also in his corner.

DELAHUNT

KELLY

King's margins were 2,007 to 1,818 in Kelly's Ward 1, 2,185 to 2,079 in Ward 2, 2,170 to 1,965 in Ward 3, 1,754 to 1,692 in Ward 4, 1,847 to 1,730 in Ward 5, and 2,007 to 1,532 in Ward 6. King took 26 of the 39 precincts in the city.

ONE OF QUINCY'S all-time favorites, Larry Antonelli has been selected as "Man of the Year" by the Friends of Don Irione Home. He will be honored at the 16th annual Banquet, Saturday, Nov. 6 at the Copley Plaza Hotel. The black-tie event will start with a cocktail reception at 6:30 p.m. with dinner at 7:30 p.m.

ANTONELLI

THE DEATH in an auto accident of Princess Grace of Monaco, the former Grace Kelly of Philadelphia, struck Mrs. Margaret McCarthy of Butler Rd., Quincy particularly hard.

Just last year, Mrs. McCarthy dropped the princess a card on the 25th anniversary of her marriage to Prince Rainer.

"We're both Irish," she said. "I mentioned how proud we were of her."

Back came an answer on official Monaco stationery, thanking Mrs. McCarthy for her kind expression and signed by Princess Grace herself.

YOU MIGHT CALL the office at Hancock and School Sts. in downtown Quincy the Winner's Corner. It has been the campaign headquarters in Quincy for three recent winners: Mike Dukakis, Frank McCauley and Brian Donnelly.

During the first four months of each year, the office space is rented by "The Tax Man."

When political candidates lease the premises, they all quickly obliterate any visible sign that might give voters the wrong impression.

"The mayor's salary should be increased to at least $35,000. But how much beyond that I don't know. I'm open to advice."

Taking up raises for the mayor and for the Council at the same time, he said, is like apples and oranges.

"The City Council position is utilized more as a stepping stone to higher office," he said. "Councillors are investing their time. It's a parttime job that is more of an opportunity to give service."

"I would not feel comfortable voting for a raise to $7,500."

Condon said she was ready to vote on the issue last week when it first came up at an Ordinance Committee meeting and was postponed after McCauley had made his presentation.

"This year, next year, it makes no difference," she said. "We would be subject to criticism anyway. I have no problem with $7,500 but I am open to amendment."

"We receive a minimal amount of money for a community this size. Councillors in Boston get 10 times as much. I think a raise is appropriate at this time."

Councillor Richard J. Koch Jr. said his vote on the matter is still undecided.

"As it stands now," he said, "I'm not comfortable with it. My problem is more on the Council side of the raise package."

Koch said he has researched the subject and found that prior to 1958 when there was a charter change such raises had to go on the ballot and could not go into effect in the same term.

"That was a good idea," he said. "I won't vote for any salary raises in 1983."

He said he doesn't think that

$7,500 for councillors is too much, but he added: "Who is to say what an appropriate salary is? I'm a newcomer. Mayor McCauley has had much more experience than I."

Koch said he has no problems with a $48,500 salary for the mayor "but there are a lot who do not feel that a big jump is warranted. I would not support a jump in 1983."

McGrath, said he is also inclined to support a raise for both mayor and council in 1984, not 1983.

"We knew how much the salary was when we got elected," he said. "But I don't think it's proper to raise the salary this year."

"I'm not against it but I'm flexible on the issue. The Council would be better off to have the raise effective in 1984, not 1983."

Ross Blasts School Dept.'s Overspending

School Supt. James N. Muir disclosed that the School Department's $1.1 million operating budget will be exhausted by Dec. 1 and Mayor Charles A. Ross angrily accused the School Committee of breaking faith with the city, the state, "and thousands of school children."

"When the committee undermines the credit of the city by violating its agreement with the state, proposing to curtail the education of Quincy children and halt the payroll of faithful school workers, it's time for the city to act," said the mayor.

School Committee members Dr. Daniel B. Reardon and Joseph J. Kendrick assured parents that they need have no fear that the schools will close on Dec. 1, even if the School Department fails to obtain the $116,000 it needs to finish the year.

They expressed confidence that the teachers will "carry on" whether or not there is money to pay their salaries.

Kendrick said it was possible that the money could be obtained from the federal government through the National Recovery Administration which has a fund to provide for teachers' salaries on occasions where cities and towns fall behind in their payments.

Meanwhile, the Quincy Parents Teachers' Council, representing 5,000 members of the 10 PTAs in the city, was formed during a meeting at Adams Academy and given power to act on behalf of all the associations during school emergencies.

WORK FOR JOBLESS

The State Emergency Finance Board announced that construction projects in Quincy totalling $498,200 have been approved under the National Industrial Recovery Act with 30 per cent of the funding from federal grants and the remainder borrowed from the federal treasury.

The projects, aimed at putting the jobless to work, included $339,200 to construct new sewers to Squantum, Adams Shore and Houghs Neck and $159,000 for culverts and drains in the area of Adams St., Town Brook and Furnace Brook Parkway.

Meanwhile, 15 welfare recipients went to work at the Squantum Naval Air Station at no wages for a two-week period under a federal grant of $100,000 to the city which obliged Quincy to lend welfare recipients to work on federal projects.

Schools Must Tell Students Of Rights

Trade, business, vocational and correspondence schools must now advise students of their rights to terminate their education contracts, Paul D. Harold notes.

Legislation now in effect requires such schools, plus technical schools and dance studios, to include a printed notice on every contract setting for the student's rights to terminate, and advising the student of the amount of refund he can expect.

The law provides that if the contract is terminated within five days, and before starting studies, all funds must be refunded. After five days, but still before classes begin, all money except for listed administrative fees must be refunded.

A student who starts classes, but terminates during the first quarter must receive back at least 75 per cent of the tuition, minus administrative fees, Harold said.

The administrative costs must be listed, and cannot exceed $50 or 5 per cent of the contract price, whichever is less.

The new law applies to private non-degree granting schools, and not to public schools or colleges.

Failure to comply with the notice requirements to students carries a fine of up to $1,000 and a jail term of up to six months.

Bethany To Celebrate 150th Anniversary

Bethany's sesquicentennial jubilee year culminates with the Anniversary Celebration during the first weekend in October.

The Bethany family, representatives of the clergy, local administrators and former Bethany ministers will gather for a gala dinner Saturday evening followed by a program of reminiscence.

Expressions of the talents and concerns of Bethany people during the year are manifest in achievements which include a new publication of the history of Bethany to honor the 150th year of the church's "gathering".

An anniversary quilt, created, designed and embroidered by dozens of Bethany people, will grace the wall of the social hall.

The Parish House hallway will display a permanent gallery of Photos of Pastors.

Bethany's Book of Remembrance, illumined and leather-bound, now records in calligraphy memorial gifts over the past 50 years.

A 162 page 150th Anniversary Cookbook bound in ecclesiastical red, imprinted with Bethany's tower — 1832-1982 — culls the best of Bethany recipes from appetizers to preserves.

Boxed notepaper with the edifice of the church etched on cream stock is also a souvenir.

The Ramp, the anniversary project, located at the side of the sanctuary leading to the library door to make the building more accessible to handicapped persons, will be dedicated Sunday, Oct. 17.

The Anniversary Communion Sunday includes greetings and the Anniversary Prayer by the Rev. John D. Banks, recently retired minister at Bethany, and the celebration of his First Communion by the Rev. Joel Huntington, newly ordained Associate. The Anniversary Sermon will be by the Rev. Mr. J. William Arnold, pastor.

A Fellowship Hour and collation by Bethany women will be held after the service. There will also be an historical exhibit in the Parish House.

'Spiritual Gifts' Theme At Squantum

The young people of the First Church of Squantum led the congregation in a special service Sunday morning on the theme of "Spiritual Gifts".

Sarah Mildram gave the Call to Worship. David Williams read the opening prayer. Sandra Ahearn offered the Prayer of Dedication. Bonnie Adams read the Scripture, and Steve Williams led the congregational prayer.

Susan Scott narrated a play on the Parable of the Talents in which the characters were portrayed by other young people: narrator, Susan Scott; rich man, David Williams; first servant, Sarah Mildram; second servant, Debbie Stohberg; third servant, David Ahearn; banker, Mark Williams; guards, Jimbo McKim and Danny Smith.

There were three sermons during the service on various aspects of "Using Our Talents". Tom McKim's subject was "Let Your Talents Grow!" Ann Lombardi spoke on the topic "Discover Your Gifts!" Steve Williams preached a sermon entitled "Seek To Give God Glory!"

The hymns were "Morning Has Broken," "Lord Speak to Me That I May Speak; and a new hymn "The Master Gifter", which was accompanied on guitars by Mary Ruth Scott and Steve Williams.

The Organ Prelude was "St. Anthony Choral" by Haydn-Brahms.

The Postlude was "Open Now Thy Gates of Beauty" by Heinrich-Fleischer.

The Chancel Choir sang "I Believe in Miracles" by Peterson-Ferrin.

Nancy Ellis was the greeter. Jimbo McKim and Mark Williams were the ushers; The Fellowship Hour after the service was hosted by Barbara Anderson and Shirley Mason.

Next Sunday will be Covenant Renewal Sunday at The First Church of Squantum. There will be only one service that day at 10:15 a.m.

Howard S. Willard, Sr. moderator of the congregation, presented a monetary gift to Mr. Zuern and his wife, Norma, in recognition and appreciation of his dedicated service to the church and community.

Rev. Zuern for five years, 1977 to 1982, was part time associate minister of Bethany Church.

St. Joseph's Blesses New Parking Lot

St. Joseph's Church, Quincy Point, recently held an open air Mass to bless its new, 55 car parking lot which was donated by a parishioner at a cost of $180,000.

Bishop Daniel Hart, area bishop for the Brockton section, dedicated and blessed the 23,000 square foot lot which consists of three lots and was donated by Georgette Thomas Nickerson of Quincy.

Mrs. Nickerson is former president of Sahara Baking Company.

Rev. Joseph Downey, pastor of St. Joseph's stated, "St. Joseph's Parish is most grateful to Georgette Nickerson for not only purchasing the land - but also for personally planning and paying for everything for this beautiful shrine to St. Joseph."

The lot, across the street from the church, was constructed by Tia Construction Systems Inc. of South Weymouth.

It also includes a six foot, 1800 pound statue of St. Joseph. Made of white Carrara Marble, the statue was carved in Carrara, Italy.

The five foot base is made of Barre Granite from Barre, Vt.

Back in 1925, the parking lot area was a three family dwelling - Henry's Lunch, a cobbler store, and a variety store.

These were all torn down in 1939 and a used car lot was established.

In 1945, a mini-supermarket was constructed, and later converted to a laundromat in 1950.

Fire destroyed the laundromat and the property had been vacant since 1965.

St. Joseph's Parish was founded in July, 1917 by Rev. Michael J. Cuddihy.

The church was constructed in July, 1918.

A World War I barracks was moved onto St. Joseph's property Oct. 12, 1920 and used as a hall. It later became St. Joseph's Convent.

St. Joseph School opened Sept. 7, 1927.

We are now offering an exciting nine month Junior Catechism Course for young people ages eleven thru fourteen.

We have found catechism to be an effective means for imparting the teachings of the Christian Church. It is an interesting study employing questions and answers in order to arrive at concise truth.

The scripture says, "Train up a child in the way that he should go and when he is old he will not depart from it."

Registration begins Wednesday, Sept. 15 and will remain open for three weeks. Application forms are available at the Church Office. For more information please call 773-9797.

MRS. FLORENCE DELLA CHIESA, widow of former City Councillor Aldo Della Chiesa, and her son, Ronald, examined plaque dedicating mall to Della Chiesa family.

Della Chiesa Family Hailed At Mall Dedication

Fond memories of former Mayor Amelio Della Chiesa, his brother, Aldo, and his son, Walter, were recalled last week as the pedestrian mall at Quincy Center Plaza was dedicated to the memory of the Della Chiesa family that did so much for Quincy.

"He taught all of us a lesson in fiscal conservatism and dedication to the people," said James R. McIntyre, himself a former mayor. "He had a unique father image. The people of Quincy felt safe when he was mayor. He cared for everyone."

"For 25 years of his life, he ate, slept and talked of nothing else but this city," said his nephew, Ronald Della Chiesa, Aldo's son now a Ch. 2-radio personality. "He really believed in his heart that Quincy was the best city in the world and he was going to work his hardest to keep it that way."

Amelio Della Chiesa was a member of the City Council for 14 years, a state representative for 14 years and mayor of Quincy for 12 years, the longest of any of the city's 27 chief executives.

Brother Aldo was an artist, educator, army officer and city councillor for six years; and son Walter was an Air Force lieutenant who died in a plane crash off Okinawa in 1950 at the age of 24.

The municipal parking area at the corner of Hancock and Granite Sts. in which the $10 million, 10-story Quincy Center Plaza was built, was dedicated to the memory of Lt. Walter Della Chiesa in 1964.

Most of the talk at the rededication, however, was about the former mayor.

"One time I was in his office," said Ron Della Chiesa, "and there was this frantic phone call from somebody about a water main that had burst on Sea St. The problem was getting serious and traffic was backed up for miles.

"He said, 'I've got to get down there. Come along with me.' We raced out of his office and arrived on the scene a few minutes later. He opened the trunk, took out his plumbing tools, got right down in the ditch, rolled up his sleeves and proceeded to fix the broken main."

Mayor Della Chiesa, of course, was a plumber by trade.

Also dedicated at companion ceremonies last week were Quincy Center Plaza itself, the UDAG parking garage that serves the building and Christmas Island, the strip of grass and flowers that divides Hancock St. in front of the Plaza.

The Rev. Bedros Baharian, the city's development director during the administration of Mayor Arthur H. Tobin, called the building of the Plaza "one of the most important events that happened in the life of this city for 40 years or more."

Mayor Francis X. McCauley termed it "probably one of the most important projects and probably one of the most complex to put together." It required action, including financial support, from the city, the state and the federal governments as well as private interests.

"If anybody told me three years ago that this building would have been built I would have told them they were crazy," said Planning Director James Lydon. "It stands as a monument to the interest of people in the future of Quincy Square."

Lydon credited his predecessor as planning director, Walter J. Hannon, with getting the project moving.

"Hannon grabbed a fellow named Frank Crowley, vice president in charge of real estate development for Stop and Shop," he said, "and told him, 'I understand you're a pretty tough Irishman. If you are, why don't you come to Quincy and build a building?'"

JAMES R. MCINTYRE; 'The people of Quincy felt safe when he was mayor.'

MAYOR FRANCIS X. MCCAULEY; 'Probably one of the most important projects and most complex to put together.'

ARTHUR H. TOBIN; 'I hope it's the beginning for many more things to come.'

Crowley, whose company occupies six floors of the building, was at the dedication, as was Commissioner John Lawson of the State Department of Education, which has three floors in the building.

Also William Fish, president of Bay Bank Norfolk, and David Peresky, president of Crimson Travel, which share the bottom floor.

Other speakers on the program included former Mayor Tobin, in whose administration the building was begun; City Councillor Leo J. Kelly, Robert DeMarco of Campanelli Industries, the developer; Joseph Rowan from the office of Cong. Brian J. Donnelly.

Prayers were delivered by the Revs. William McCarthy of St. John the Baptist Church, J. William Arnold of Bethany Church, and Rabbi David

Jacobs of Temple Beth El. City Council President John J. Lydon Jr. introduced the following guests:

Councillors Joanne Condon, Patricia Toland, James A. Sheets, Stephen J. McGrath, Richard J. Koch, Theodore P. DeCristofaro; former Councillors John J. Quinn, Joseph E. Brett, Daniel G. Raymond.

Also Sen. Paul D. Harold, Rep. Michael W. Morrissey, School Committee member Nicholas Verenis, former Public Works Commissioner James J. Ricciuti and former City Solicitor Robert Fleming.

Flag raising ceremonies were also held at Christmas Island, which was dedicated to the late George Fay, longtime chairman of the Christmas Festival Committee.

The island has been refurbished, and Councillor Kelly arranged for national state and city flags to be flown.

Germantown Boy Scouts raised the state flag. Scoutmaster Frank Sullivan of 15 Empire St., led scouts John Sullivan, also of 15 Empire St., Charles Pitts, 32 Captains Walk; Edward Flavin, 12 Doyle Terr.; and Robert Cipitelli, 99 Talfrail Rd.

Houghs Neck Girl Scouts, led by Mrs. Joanne Dondero, raised the city flag. They were Jennifer Dondero, 29 Macy St., Erin Doherty, 106 Rockland St., junior troop 4211; Amy Dunn, 105 Edgewater Dr., Jessica Picarski, 101 Edgewater Dr., and Colleen Mitchell, 74 Darrow St., Brownie Troop 4191.

Civil Air Cadets raised the national flag. They included Leo Davis of Dorchester; and James Castillo, 45 Morton St., Sean Joyce, 96 Intervale St., Robert Dudley, Lincoln Ave., all of Quincy.

The Rev. David D'Olimpio led spectators in the national anthem.

Also on hand were members of the Fay family, Mayor McCauley and Harold Crowley.

Home improvement: keeping up with the times

A STYLIZED EXTERIOR is more than just a pretty face. The real beauty rests with the time and money realized from exterior maintenance freedom.

The stylized home: beautiful place to save time and money

Stylizing the exterior of a home can work much like a face lift — rejuvenating both home and homeowner.

Any standard siding job can be turned into a home stylization project that transforms an existing house into a distinctive "custom" home for a lot less money than it would cost to buy a new one. And homeowners are virtually freed from all costly and time-consuming exterior maintenance chores.

The investment in home improvements — no matter how minor — should not be taken matter of factly. A typical re-siding job represents the perfect opportunity also to change the exterior look of a home without substantially increasing the project cost," maintains Eric Hahn, residential siding product manager for Alcan Building Products.

"All it takes is an appreciation for everything that can be done to fully stylize a home while making it maintenance free as well."

Complementary colors, styles Many aluminum products, including soffit, fascia, gutters, downspouts and shutters, are designed in styles and colors that complement aluminum siding as well as offer the same tough, durable finish.

To fully stylize a home and enjoy complete exterior maintenance freedom, Alcan Building Products recommends incorporating the following products into the standard siding project.

The installation of aluminum soffit (eave covering) and fascia (roof trim) will protect the roof overhang area from the effects of moisture condensation that can destroy paint and promote decay of wood members. This also can help prevent insects from nesting in the wood overhang.

Maintenance concern

"Soffit panels should provide some ventilation, however, to prevent excessive moisture buildup in the walls and ceiling," cautions Hahn. "Soffits with lanced louver vents can be installed in combination with solid panels to provide proper ventilation."

Another maintenance problem arising from this home area is with rainware. Painted wood gutters can quickly peel and rot from constant exposure to climatic conditions such as rain, snow and humidity. Aluminum rainware will resist such deterioration. Aluminum rainware also protects sidewalls from roof runoff stains or streaks and helps prevent gardens, shrubs and foundation supports from being washed away.

Peeling and cracked wood window frames can be covered with aluminum window trim for long-lasting protection. And as a finishing touch, aluminum shutters can be added to accentuate window areas.

Stylization of the entire project can be achieved through the proper selection of product colors and finishes — those that best complement the house and its setting.

Before making a final decision, Alcan suggests visualizing the total effect of the products on a home. Because siding samples seen up close may look different once applied over the large exterior of a home, ask the home improvement contractor if he has applied the same products to another home in the area and drive by to take a look.

When choosing siding colors, remember that the lighter the color, the larger the home will appear. A light color also tends to make a home stand out against the dark shade of trees and shrubbery if there is abundant foliage around a home.

Darker colors can be used to give a home a warmer look if that is the preference.

Roof and window trim, shutters and even rainware can be used either as "eye catchers" to contrast the siding choice, or used to complement the siding choice.

A home stylized with aluminum products need be only periodically rinsed with a garden hose to remove light surface dirt, leaving homeowners plenty of time to admire the long-lasting fashion treatment from their chaise longue.

Fiber glass roof for fire protection

Roofing materials can fuel a fire if the shingles are not constructed with an inorganic fiber glass base. The recent fire in Anaheim, California which destroyed 50 buildings in a four-square-block area was fed, according to fire officials, by untreated wood shake roofs.

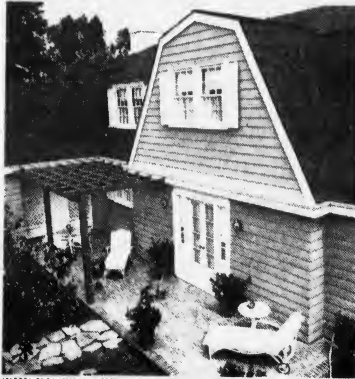

This is not the first instance where untreated wood roofs have contributed to the spread of fire. Similar conflagrations have occurred in San Bernardino, Houston, Tulsa and other cities throughout the country.

In each of these fires, burning embers carried by the wind from rooftop to rooftop were a major factor in spreading the fire. This is why, when choosing a roof, it is important to know what the shingles are made of and how well they protect against fire.

Untreated wood shingles are quite common in many parts of the country. Although attractive, they provide no fire protection. Untreated wood burns as well atop your roof as it does in your fireplace. Because of their potential fire danger, untreated wood roofs have been banned in many communities for both new construction and reroofing.

Another popular roofing material, conventional asphalt shingles, are made with a base of cardboard, saturated and coated with asphalt, and sprinkled with ceramic granules. While these shingles provide more fire resistance than untreated wood shakes, they have only earned UL's Class C rating for moderate protection against exposure to fire.

A better alternative to untreated wood and conventional asphalt shingles are Woodlands — laminated fiber glass shingles developed by Johns-Manville Sales Corporation, a subsidiary within Manville Corporation's family.

THE RUSTIC APPEARANCE OF WOOD and a UL Class A fire protective rating are offered by J-M Woodlands fiber glass shingles.

J-M Woodlands have earned a Class A fire resistance rating from Underwriters Laboratories. Class A is UL's highest fire resistance rating and is only awarded to shingles that resist severe exposure to fire.

During the November, 1980 San Bernardino fire, which destroyed more than 300 homes, owner John Manak saw houses burn on all four sides of his home. "When sparks and burning brands landed on my Johns-Manville fiber glass roof," he said, "they just blew off, not even leaving a scorch mark. When the fire would land on a wood shake roof, it would literally explode in seconds and the whole house would be gone in minutes."

Woodlands fiber glass shingles provide optimum fire protection and are backed by a 25-year limited prorated warranty when properly installed. They are available in a variety of styles and colors — all having the rustic, rough-hewn appearance of wood yet offering UL Class A fire protection rating.

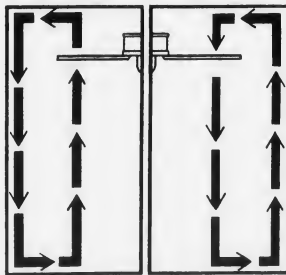

More information on Woodlands laminated fiber glass shingles and their fire resistance, including photographs of UL fire resistance tests, is available in a free J-M booklet (RF-307A). "The Woodlands Roof." For a free copy write: Manville Service Center, 1601 Twenty Third Street, Denver, CO 80216.

Proper hand tools can make fall fix-ups a breeze

Fall is the time to move from those outside-the-house maintenance chores to in-house projects that can be completed in less clement weather.

Doing it yourself can be both easier and more efficient when you do it with the right tool for the job. But since three of the most popular painter's hand tools — putty knives, wall scrapers, and taping knives — differ only in the width of their blades and degree of flexibility, choosing the right one can sometimes be confusing.

To help make the choice simple, Walsh has matched tools to the jobs they perform, starting with the most utilitarian, putty knives.

Putty knives are available with either stiff or flexible blades, in widths of either 1 1/4" or 1 1/2". A stiff putty knife can be used as a specialty scraper for most any small surface area job.

A stiff putty knife can be used to remove vinyl or paper wallcovering, scraping or removing loose paint, and, of course, removing loose putty. Its small size and stiff blade also make it perfect for odd jobs like removing rust and lumpy paint from outdoor furniture.

Flexible putty knives are right for most any fill-and-smooth operation involving, of course, putty or glazing and vinyl compounds, and plastic wood. For example, a flexible putty knife would be used to smooth over counter-sunk and filled nailheads on door trim or gypsum board.

Wall scrapers, like putty knives, are available with either a stiff or flexible blade, but their 3" blade is twice as wide.

A stiff wall scraper is used for many of the same jobs as a stiff putty knife, but on larger surface areas. It can remove vinyl or paper wallcovering, scrape or remove loose paint.

Flexible wall scrapers are generally used only for patching jobs such as repairing dents, cracks or holes in plaster.

Taping knives have flexible blades in 4", 5" or 6" widths. They are primarily used to seal drywall joints but they can also be used instead of a trowel to apply cement or mortar to home foundations or other areas.

Their flexible wide-blade design also makes taping knives useful in refinishing fine furniture. Using a chemical finish remover, a taping knife will remove the finish without scratching the surface of the wood because of the blade's flex.

Other uses for taping knives include fiberglass boat repairs and applying hard-setting fillers to auto bodies.

A solvent-resistant handle protects the tool from the alkaline found in filling compounds, and the steel nail-setting head allows the tool to be used as a substitute hammer for tacks and finishing nails.

Once you've got the right tool, it pays to pay the little attention required for proper maintenance. He points out that since putty knives, wall scrapers and taping knives are all used on flat surfaces, care should be taken to avoid denting their blades.

After each use, the handle and blade should be cleaned and lubricated with a light household oil since alkaline materials can darken and rust the blade if it is not protected.

Choosing and using the right tool for the right job is easy with just a little foresight, and the results can be well worth it. Try it yourself.

Modify home to capture solar energy

An increasing number of Americans are letting the sun shine in — using solar energy to heat their homes, according to the National Remodelers Association/National Home Improvement Council (NRA/NHIC).

They're finding that making minor modifications to their homes to capture the sun's energy brings a number of benefits. Not only do these renovations result in a lower energy bill and higher resale value, but they make for a far more comfortable living environment.

The sun provides radiant heat — a heat form which many find more pleasant than forced air or steam heat. And, the natural light streaming into the home creates a warm open atmosphere.

One of the simplest methods of utilizing solar energy is by using movable insulation. Movable insulation is an insulated shade, shutter, or curtain.

Opened by day, it allows warming sunlight to enter the home. Closed at night, it prevents heat from escaping and does so far more effectively than do storm windows.

A window loses ten times as much heat as a well insulated wall. But movable insulation can cut that loss in half.

Another popular renovation that utilizes solar energy is a sun space. This is a room addition which consists primarily of glass and is added to the sunny south side of the house. Varying in size from a full room to a window unit, the sun space traps the sun's heat, allowing it to be distributed through the house during the daytime.

On a brick home, you can install two layers of glass over the southern wall. That turns the wall into a large solar collector. The warm air rises, and flows into the house through a vent at the top.

Your local contractor can acquaint you with new developments in solar energy remodeling. He'll help you find ways to bring some sunshine into your life.

Family portraits: versatile art form for decorating home

Professional designers are using photographic art, especially family portraits, in home interiors today because of the medium's versatility for room decor.

Their innovative yet practical techniques of designing with photographs can be adapted by all homeowners and apartment dwellers to create or emphasize the special effect of any room.

One of the techniques is having the photographer take not only studio portraits but photographs in an environment that reflects the family's special interests and lifestyle — skiing, hiking, sailing, or at a beach, for instance.

The best of the photographs taken by a professional photographer at special occasions, such as weddings, anniversaries and graduations, can be enlarged, mounted and displayed in appropriate rooms.

Designers say that photographic art is so versatile, because they can control the size, color values and degree of impact in each picture. That is what makes photographic art such a strong element in interior design.

There are few limits on how family portraiture can be used in home decor. A professional photograph can be a straightforward reportorial treatment of the subject, or the photographer can produce an illusory print through manipulations in the darkroom. True-to-life colors can be altered, reduced to only elements of the original, or printed in black-and-white or monochrome.

The final print has a variety of choices, too, ranging from paper with a glossy or matte finish to canvas with a texture that appears to have been brushed on.

Many photography studios offer a framing service with a wide variety of styles to coordinate with any decor. Designers suggest choosing frames that let the eye concentrate on the photograph — simple wood or metal moldings are often most popular.

Wood windows add up to energy conservation

Plenty of sunlight, fresh air and outdoor views sound like attributes in a brochure for summer camp. Add energy conservation, beauty and low maintenance, and they also describe contemporary, well-made windows.

In these days of high fuel costs, choosing cheap windows when building or remodeling can be an expensive mistake.

Ordinary windows are one of the largest potential sources of heat loss in a home. The way to avoid excessive heat loss through windows is to choose those with wood in the sash and frames because wood is a natural insulator.

Add tight, factory-applied weatherstripping and either separate storm sash or double-pane insulating glass and you have the elements of a well-made window.

Though well-made windows may cost more when you buy them, they are less expensive to own because of the savings in heating and cooling costs.

Another way to save on costs is to install the windows yourself. Many window manufacturers provide do-it-yourself instructions. Anyone skilled in basic carpentry ought to be able to handle window installation.

When choosing windows, remember to pick the right size and style. Remember also that operating windows that are easy to open and close can be used for ventilation when there are prevailing breezes. This saves energy by reducing air conditioning loads.

Wood windows come in stock sizes and various styles at local lumber yards, home centers or building supply stores. Many also come with a low-maintenance exterior cladding that all but eliminates the need for periodic painting.

MAKING BUDGET-WISE KITCHEN IMPROVEMENTS

Chances are your kitchen needs remodeling. Even in newer homes, builders frequently have not put much thought into the kitchen design.

Yet, the kitchen needs the most design attention of any room in your house. It's a workplace — requiring optimum convenience and efficiency. And it's a place of entertainment and relaxation — requiring attention to aesthetics.

Proper lighting

Many kitchens are designed so that the light fixture is behind you as you work. This casts your shadow on the workspace, preventing you from seeing what you're doing. An easy solution is under-cabinet fixtures which focus light directly on your counters.

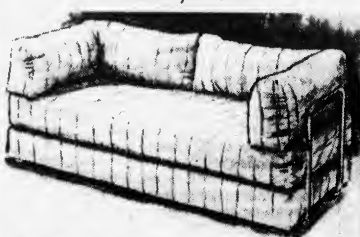

Another budget-wise idea is installing new energy efficient appliances. While the initial investment may be substantial, their energy savings do eventually pay off. In the meantime, you're enjoying the added efficiency and beauty.

Other ideas are refacing cabinets, installing new counter tops or a new sink. Your kitchen's appearance can also be significantly enhanced by new floor covering or wall paper.

If you have a bit more money to spend, there are a host of other improvements to consider. Installing new cabinets can go a long way toward improving your storage space.

Autumn decorating for a beautiful home this winter

Although mankind does not need to hibernate during the winter, most people do spend more time in their homes in cold weather.

Autumn, therefore, has become the season when homeowners repair and redecorate to make their homes more attractive and comfortable for the coming winter.

Fortunately, there are a number of ways to give a home a new look without going to the expense and trouble of buying new furniture or knocking down walls.

Home fashion experts, for example, recommend rearranging the existing furnishings or changing the accessories in a room.

Another simple way to freshen a room's appearance is to provide a new background for the existing furnishings by installing textured wall-coverings.

For years, interior designers have appreciated the beautiful look textured wallcoverings bring to a home. Now, do-it-yourself decorators have discovered that secret and are choosing textured patterns as the perfect background for nearly every room in the house.

Decorating versatility is important to consumers today, and the number of patterns and the colors available for textured wallcoverings is one reason for their popularity.

Wallcoverings manufacturers, like Stauffer, also are using new embossing techniques which have resulted in stylish reproductions of such popular fabric textures as suede, bur-lap, linen, and grass cloth.

Many homeowners have found textured wallcoverings made of fabric-backed vinyl, such as the Phoenix Textures® collection from Stauffer, the most desirable and practical choice.

The quality look of these reproductions rivals the original, but the use of vinyl makes them much less expensive, easy to hang, and easy to clean.

Textures also are easy to coordinate with many of today's popular home design styles, providing the homeowner with another type of decorating versatility.

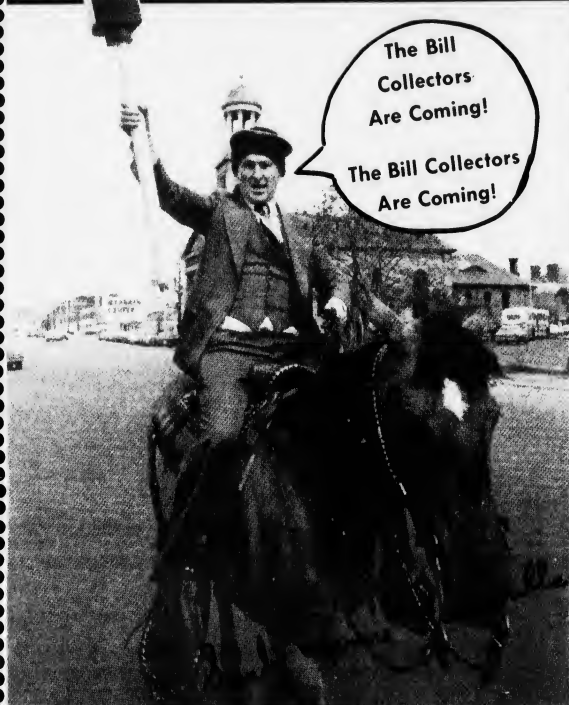

Rugged textures such as grass cloths or burlap, for example, provides the perfect setting for a rustic Early American interior.

A slubby linen texture, like the Marrakesh pattern from the Phoenix Textures® collection, provides the elegance needed to complement a contemporary interior.

Autumn is the season for football, brilliant foliage, and, for many people, to prepare and decorate the home for winter. Whether these preparations involve one room or an entire house, decorating does not have to be costly or difficult.

There are a number of ways to create a new look in the home, and one of the easiest — and most successful — is with textured wallcoverings.

Winterize your sunporch for year-round pleasure

As the fall season approaches, the luxury of outdoor recreation begins to fade. The chill of winter in the air quickly reminds us of the days spent in the screenhouse or on the sunporch will soon end. If you're already regretting giving up your seasonal recreation space, why not make this the year to winterize your sunporch.

By installing a modern kerosene heater, for example, you can sustain the "indoor summer environment" and keep warm while the temperature outside falls. A big advantage of heating with kerosene is that you need not sacrifice comfort for economy.

The heater pictured here, the Monitor 20 by Kero-Sun, Inc., is a self contained unit which requires no duct-work, eliminating high installation costs. By following the manufacturer's instructions, you can install the forced-flue venting system in a couple of hours by drilling a 2 1/2" hole in the wall.

The system draws outside air into the Monitor for combustion, thus avoiding air "infiltration" which robs your home of half its heat.

Kerosene heating keeps fuel bills to a minimum as compared with wood and coal stoves.

Heating with today's modern

Carry As Little Money As Possible

Money is a temptation to a thief. And there is no more tempting target than a senior citizen with money. You can reduce that temptation by carrying as little money or cash as possible.

If you receive Social Security or other retirement checks, have them deposited directly into your bank account.

In that way, you eliminate the chance that they will be stolen from your mailbox, or worse, that you will be observed walking to and from the bank with a month's living expenses.

Once you have the money deposited in the bank, use as little cash as possible. You may be able to pay some of your bills at the bank. Or, even better, pay for bills and purchases by check.

Never carry large amounts of cash on your person.

If you need to withdraw a large amount of money from your savings for a special purchase, get the amount as a bank check, not cash.

Many banks provide checking accounts for persons over 65 with no monthly service charge. You pay only for the printing of the checks.

Thus, you can use this safe way to pay for things at virtually no cost for the transaction.

Next week we will look at some of the ways in which senior citizens can discourage attacks by criminals.

License Board Briefs

The City License Board took the following action at Tuesday morning's meeting at City Hall:

- Granted a one day all alcoholic license to St. Joseph's Rectory for a Christmas Bazaar Nov. 5 and 6 at the Fore River Clubhouse.

The license is for Friday, Nov. 5, 6 to 10 p.m.

- Continued for three months a hearing on complaints of cars and a tow truck parked on the street and sidewalk by an Arco Station at 592-600 Hancock St.

Stephen E. Bonfiglioli said he would rectify the situation, and park the tow truck in back of the station as stipulated by the board.

- Granted for six months a request from Albert M. Zero, 471 Rear Hancock St., to amend a repair shop license to include the repair and maintenance of up to four motorcycles.

- Continued for two weeks a hearing to show cause why the license of Adams Pub, 35-37-39 Franklin St., should not be revoked after reports of the doors being kept open, customers drinking out on the sidewalk, and noise by customers after hours.

City Clerk John Gillis said the establishment wanted to discuss plans to expand.

- Granted a request from Willard St. Auto Body, 248 Willard St., for a permit to store 400 gallons of gasoline in tanks of cars inside the building, in addition to present storage, and to increase the size of the building to accommodate up to six cars.

Construction is to begin before April 1, or the license will be automatically abandoned.

On "Quincy Newsmakers" Finn Discloses Lie Detector Tests In Drugs Raid Case

Police Chief Francis Finn will be the guest on the "Quincy Newsmakers" program on Quincy Cable Ch. 3 tonight (Thursday) at 7 p.m.

In the program, videotaped last week at the Quincy police station, Finn discloses that lie detector tests have been administered to police officers regarding possible missing drugs from a 1981 drug raid.

Finn said that all the Quincy officers involved in the raid volunteered to take the tests.

Finn noted that reporters and officials from the Norfolk County District Attorney's office had access to the room where the seized drugs were kept as did the Quincy police officers.

Finn also reports that a study is underway to determine the feasibility of converting the closed Pollard School into a new police station. He said he thinks the Pollard School would be a good location.

He also said he would still consider retiring if the physical facilities of the present police station are not remedied and if his manpower shortage is not improved.

Finn was interviewed by Herb Fontaine of WJDA, Henry Bosworth of The Quincy Sun and Ray McEachern of the Patriot Ledger.

School Enrollment Figures Down

An unofficial tally of school enrollment figures for the new school year (1982-83) show a decrease of 640 students in the public school system.

The figures show there are 10,312 pupils in the Quincy public system, representing a decrease of 5.8 per cent over last year.

The official enrollment count will be based on the school population as of Oct. 1.

According to the unofficial tally there are 1680 students at North

The tally shows that 1085 students have enrolled at Quincy Junior College as compared to

A HORDE of Quincy players converge to bring down Everett's Tom DiNapoli after a short gain. Quincy players are Mark Righini (22), Brian Callahan (93), Jamie Gravalese (71), Chris McCray (32), Bob Burns (31) and Kevin Riggs (89).

MARK RIGHINI scores the second of his two touchdowns on a 37-yard run in Quincy's romp over Everett.

Quincy 39, Everett 16

By TOM SULLIVAN

Quincy football Coach Tom Fitzgerald was admittedly 'in a state of shock' following last Saturday's easy win over Everett.

"I knew we had a good team and a good offense, but I never expected anything like this," Fitzgerald said following his team's 39-16 non-league victory at Veterans Memorial Stadium.

In two games the Presidents have scored 72 points. They rolled over Suburban League rival Cambridge Rindge and Latin, 33-16, the previous week.

This Saturday Quincy plays another non-league foe, Revere, at Revere in a 1:30 p.m. game. Revere has lost two in a row, 14-0 to Wakefield and 3-0 last week to Arlington. Like Everett, Revere is in the Greater Boston League.

"Our offense really clicked today and the defense did another good job," Fitzgerald said. "Bobby Mudge played another fine game at quarter back, running the team well, and all our running backs ran very well."

Mark Righini was the Presidents' leading ground gainer and scored twice as Quincy, using long gainers, out-rushed Everett, 233 yards to just 40 on the ground. Quincy added 148 yards through the air as Mudge hit on five of nine, including three touchdown passes. Everett's Rick Alberigi completed four of 13 for 95 yards, with big end Paul Donatio making some spectacular receptions. Quincy had 14 first downs, Everett 11.

In addition to Righini, Willie Cullen, Ted Walsh, Chris Draicchio, Mike Notarangelo and sophomore Daron Tucker did some fine ball carrying.

Offensive line coach Peter

Chella was delighted with the work of his unit. "Our tackles, Joe Harte and Jamie Gravalese were superb, as were the guards, Danny Mahoney and Bob Willard," Chella said. "And John Carr was much improved at center. I feel Gravalese is one of the finest two-way tackles in the state. The entire line was outstanding and gave the quarterback excellent protection."

The defense was again outstanding. "Bob Burns, Gravalese, Steve Cabezas, Dennis Ober and Kevin Riggs were excellent," said Fitzgerald. "And the defensive backs, Mike Miller, Righini, Mudge, Glen Oriola, Chris McGray, Rich Ready and Shawn Wynn did a great job."

Quincy scored on the second play from scrimmage as Cullen broke loose and raced 62 yards for a touchdown and Harte kicked the extra point.

Everett fumbled the ensuing kickoff and Quincy recovered on Everett's 33. Seven plays later Righini scored from the eight. This time Harte's kick was blocked.

Everett staged its only sustained march beginning after the next kickoff, driving 64 yards, but it was helped by a costly penalty against Quincy.

Quincy sacked the Everett quarterback on fourth down but, instead of the Presidents having the ball on their 40, they were penalized 15 yards and Everett had a first down on Quincy's 15. Capt. Paul Strahan, who did virtually all of Everett's ball carrying, scored from the one. Alberigi passed to Donatio for the two points.

Altogether, Quincy sacked the Everett quarterback four times.

Quincy came right back to score again, this time Righini running 37 yards for the TD. Righini was apparently stopped at the line of scrimmage but managed to squirm loose.

Everett fumbled on a bad pass from center, Quincy recovering on Everett's 37 and two plays later Mudge passed to Draicchio for 37 yards and the fourth touchdown.

A few minutes later Quincy had another score. Mudge passed to Paul Gilbody in the flat. Gilbody took the ball on Everett's 40, was surrounded by Everett players but somehow managed to escape and go 40 yards, completing a 45-yard play. Harte kicked the point.

Just before the end of the third period Mudge hit Riggs with a 40-yard TD pass, his fourth touchdown pass to Riggs in two games. Harte finished the Quincy scoring by kicking the point.

Everett scored again against Quincy's shock troops when Donatio made one of his great catches on a pass from Ken Mayo for 27 yards and a score. Mayo rushed for the game's final two points.

Quincy's Walsh suffered a hip injury late in the game and was taken to Quincy City Hospital.

North Wins, Then Forfeits To Whitman

Walter "Cap" Bryan scored the only touchdown in the final period and the Red Raider defense blocked two punts for safeties as the North Quincy High School football team defeated Whitman, 10-0.

But North was forced to forfeit the game when it was discovered that Dick Fisher, a substitute tackle who played the last four minutes of the game, was ineligible to play football.

Headmaster James S. Collins acknowledged that Fisher had left school in the spring to go to work and returned in the fall. Rules specify that players must be in school continuously for three months before taking part in a game.

North Quincy took a 4-0 lead when Te Mitchell broke through to block a Whitman punt and Bryan fell on the ball in the end zone in the first period and Bryan blocked another punt and Riley fell on the ball for a safety in the third period.

Then, with Bryan and Pete Zoia alternating with the ball, the Raiders marched almost the length of the field for the game's only touchdown, Bryan blasting over on the first play of the fourth period.

North's first string quarterback Bat Nelson was out with a leg injury and Coach Jack Donahue was forced to switch Peanuts Ryan to that post and insert Mutt Mathurin into Ryan's old halfback slot.

QUINCY BOWS TO MELROSE

A disastrous fumble on its own two-year-line with 30 seconds left in the first half cost the Quincy High School football team a 6-0 defeat at the hands of Melrose at the Blue and White missed out on two fine scoring chances in the second half.

Quarterback Baldwin bobbled a punt on his own 10-yard line and Melrose recovered on the Quincy two. The Quincy line rose up to set Melrose back to the 16 on the next play but a third down pass from Grant to Malcolmson produced the score.

In the third period, Quincy moved to the Melrose 13-yard line where Nick Malvesti was stopped short of a first down. Again in the finale, the Blue and White swept to a first down on the Melrose 15 where two Malvesti passes fell incomplete.

Quincy played without the services of Sam Asnes, Milton Catler, Jacob Kovener and Harold Kapsis who were observing the Jewish High Holidays.

GLASGOW VICTORIOUS

Joe Glasgow of Quincy continued to cut a wide swath through the welterweight ranks by pounding out an easy eight-round victory over Hunter Welch of Lowell in the featured bout in Promoter Newman Savage's weekly boxing show at the Quincy Arena.

Glasgow won seven of the eight rounds on the card kept by Billy McGonnigal of the Patriot Ledger as Welch contented himself to keeping his chin hidden behind his shoulder, well out of the way of Glasgow's crashing right hand.

CITY LEAGUE ALL STARS

The Quincy Market and Copeland teams dominated the 1933 City League all star baseball team, taking 14 of the 18 positions on the first and second teams.

First team members included: Fallon, Market, catcher; Miller, Market, pitcher; Hughes, Copeland, first base; Bennett, Copeland, second base; Sullivan, Copeland, shortstop; Nichols, Market, third base; Greenhalgh, Pirates; Kiernan, Market; Culnan, Gear Works, outfield.

HARRIERS WIN

Braintree's Baker won the race in 14 minutes, 50 seconds but the Quincy High School cross country team piled up enough points in the later finishes to defeat the Wamps, 26-39, to extend its winning streak to 20 straight meets.

The Blue and White had not lost since 1929.

Runners scoring points for Quincy included: Davis, second; Patten, fourth; Evans, fifth; Wheeler, seventh; and Whitelaw, Deveau, Countway, Nousio, tied for eighth.

CARSONS BEATEN

Brown booted two goals, one from a penalty kick, and Davenport added a third but it was not enough as the Lynn Riversides edged the Quincy Carsons, 4-3, in a Boston and District Soccer League game at Faxon Field.

The Carsons lineup included: Logan, goal; Cosgrove, Russell, backs; Tirri, McGonnigal, Schofield, halves; Mitchelson, Davenport, Brown, Davidson, Glencourse, forwards.

Brockton 37, North Quincy 8

Raiders Hope To Rebound At Newton N.

Ken McPhee has found his first two games as North Quincy's head football coach anything but happy ones but he hopes for better things this week.

The Raiders, following a 28-6 loss to Milton, suffered a 37-8 setback last Saturday at Brockton and they face another rough assignment this Saturday.

North will face Suburban League foe Newton North at Newton at 1:30 p.m. Newton dropped a 20-14 decision to Medford in the final seconds last week after losing to Natick, 26-12, in its opener.

"I don't know just what the trouble is, we can't get our offense jelling and the defense has been very spotty," said McPhee. "We had only four first downs today at Brockton and had only three against Milton. Actually, we didn't do quite as badly as the score indicated today, and penalties hurt us considerably, but we just had a bad day both ways."

What little ground North gained was mainly through the air. North lost its No. 1 quarterback, Vin Barry, with an injury late in the first half and the No. 2 signal caller, Dan Ceurvels, early in the fourth quarter.

Steve Hogan took over and did a good job. A long pass from Zuroms to Jim Kelly accounted for the lone Raider touchdown.

Despite the score, defensive coordinator Jack Raymer was pleased with the secondary. "We shut down their passing, but we couldn't stop them at the line of scrimmage," he said. "They broke a few big plays and penalties definitely hurt us. It could just as well be scoreless at the half instead of 12-0."

He singled out Jack Bolster, Jim Kennedy, Bob Leonard, Jim McNamara, Fred Peterson and Gerry Connolly for their defensive efforts.

Two of the Brockton touchdowns came against North's reserves and The Boxers were still trying to score at the end of the game.

Odell Wilson got the first of his four touchdowns to open the scoring in the first period on a four-yard run.

In the second quarter Wilson scored his second touchdown from the seven to make it 12-0 at halftime.

In the third session Wilson raced 55 yards to set up the third score, Mike Hoadley going across from the five.

Wilson scored his third touchdown with 20 seconds left in the third period, going over from the 10.

The Brockton sophomore, who gained 165 yards on 19 carries, added his fourth touchdown early in the fourth quarter from the two. Chris Sarantos, who missed his first four tries, finally kicked his only point after touchdown.

North Quincy then averted a shutout when Zuroms hit Kelly with a nicely-thrown pass which went for 62 yards and a TD. On a fake kick, Dave DiCarlo passed to Rich Brown for the two points.

Brockton wrapped up the scoring when Greg McMurty scored on a 39-yard run late in the game.

Brockton's defense held North Quincy to just 23 yards net on the ground in the first three periods, during which time the Raiders ran only 23 plays.

North Buses

Stoned In Brockton

The North Quincy football team had double trouble in Brockton Saturday.

After absorbing a 37-8 defeat at Maricano Stadium, the squad left the parking area and, while starting up Belmont Street, two buses were stoned by a group of youths.

One stone cashed through a bus window but, fortunately, no one was injured.

"I saw these guys (teenagers) throwing stones and I told everyone on our bus to duck," said North coach Ken McPhee. "We were lucky nobody was hurt as one of the stones came through the window."

McPhee jumped from the bus and grabbed the youth who threw that stone and Brockton police were called. McPhee held the youth until police arrived and apprehended him and some of the others.

They will coach the freshman teams at their respective schools.

George Page and his Park Dept. crew will enjoy their every-other-year day off Saturday when both the Quincy and North Quincy football teams will be playing away from home.

The fourth annual Quincy Youth Hockey Association scholarship drawing was recently held and the presentations made last Saturday at the Youth Arena.

Apaches, Panthers Battle To 0-0 Tie

In an outstanding defensive game, the North Quincy Apaches and Quincy Point Panthers battled to a scoreless tie Sunday in the Quincy Youth Football League at Veterans Memorial Stadium.

The first half featured some outstanding defense by the Apaches' George Hartford, Jim Mulvey, Dan McCarthy, Wes Crowley, Gary McNamara, Brian Durgin, Jeff Norton and Steve Miller. The Apaches had some fine scoring opportunities with fine running by Hartford, McCarthy, Mulvey and McNamara, but the strong Panther defense stopped them.

The second half was similar with both teams threatening but unable to put the ball into the end zone. The Apaches had one last drive stopped when time ran out.

Sunday the Panthers and Manets will clash at 1 o'clock and the Elks will face the Sailors at 2:30 at the stadium.

Bregoli Sees Good Soccer Season Despite Injuries

Despite some early-season injuries, Paul Bregoli, North Quincy High boys' soccer coach, feels this year's Raider team could be his best ever.

The Raiders have made his expectations look good in the first three games with a non-league win over Oliver Ames, a Suburban League loss to Brookline and a big league victory over Brockton, their first win over Brockton in several years.

Bregoli has seven returning lettermen, all of whom started last year, but two of these, Jim Boudreau and Dwayne Wilcoxon, were out most of the pre-season with injuries.

Boudreau returned last week and gives the team a strong, aggressive forward and an outstanding defensive player when he plays halfback. Wilcoxon, probably the most versatile player on the team, is expected to return this week to play in the forward line. He is an excellent shooter.

Among the other returnees, Tri-Capt. Greg DiBella, a three-year varsity player, is another versatile performer; Tri-Capt. Alex Coutts, a league all-star last year, keys the defense, and Mike Bourikas, senior forward, is an explosive scorer.

Tri-Capt. Peter McGillicuddy, is another three-year starter. Terry Stark, a junior, is in his second varsity season and is probably the team's quickest player, and rounding out the starting eleven are George Dolbec, Dave Brown, John Joseph, Steve Golden, Jaime Paz and Mike Cocce.

Other varsity players are Frank Scanlan, Todd Caldwell, Nunzio Carbone, Mark McGowan, Chris Archer and Mark Scanlon, a freshman forward who was the leading scorer for Atlantic Junior High a year ago.

In goal, newcomer Bob O'Brien and veteran Dave Marcham have been battling for the final starting spot.

Chris Harrington, a senior fullback, broke his leg in pre-season and is not expected back until late in the season.

Tom White is back as Bregoli's assistant. Last year his junior varsity squad had a 10-4-4 mark. North overpowered Oliver Ames, 6-1, in its non-league opener, jumping out to a 3-0 first quarter lead. Brown, Dolbec, McGillicuddy, Mark Scanlan (his first varsity goal), Archer and Bourikas had the Raider goals. Dolbec had two assists and McGowan and McGillicuddy one each.

O'Brien and Marcham stood out in goal and Golden, Caldwell and Frank Scanlan played well.

North came out flat in its league opener and lost to Brookline, 4-0. The Raiders held the winners to a 1-0 lead in the first half but several North mistakes enabled Brookline to score three times in the second half.

Cocce and DiBella played well in defeat.

North showed it can play with the best with a big 2-1 decision over Brockton. North took a 1-0 lead in the first quarter on DiBella's goal. McGillicuddy got a corner kick and directed it to Stark, who made a fine pass to DiBella.

Brockton tied it up with a goal late in the second quarter.

North came out fired up and took the play to the Boxers and finally the pressure paid off as Carbone drilled a 20-yarder into the right corner with Boudreau getting an assist.

O'Brien made some fine saves and playing exceptional defense were Coutts, Paz, Joseph and Cocce. Stark and Brown shadowed last year's league scoring king, Jack Xavier, all day and didn't allow him a shot.

"We are off to a good start and the win over Brockton showed us we have the ability to win against anyone," Bregoli said. "The tournament is our goal and this game is going to help us, although we will take each team one at a time."

The Raiders played at Newton North Tuesday and will be at Cambridge Rindge and Latin Friday at 3:30.

In his final year of bowling in the league he set a new individual average of 117.2 for the 25 week schedule and over a three year (75 weeks) period rolled 300 or better for 70 or those weeks. Girls Volleyball Opens With Win

The Quincy High girls' volleyball team has started the Suburban League season the same way it left off last season -- winning.

The First Ladies, coached by Ray Whitehouse and Chris Prendiville, opened with a 2-1 win over Waltham. Quincy lost the first game, 14-16, but came back to win the next two, 15-11, 13-8.

Quincy followed with a 2-0 victory over Brookline, taking the games, 15-3, 15-5.

The wins improved Quincy's record to 2-1, the team having lost a non-league opener to Boston Latin.

Due to a superb junior high program last year, 13 new members have been added to Quincy's varsity-junior varsity program.

Twenty-six girls attended the U.S. Volleyball Association development camp the past summer at the U. of Rhode Island and five talented young ladies were privileged to attend the zonal championships at the U. of Tennessee in Knoxville in June.

"As the players become more highly skilled and experienced, so does the Quincy program," Coach Prendiville said. "In a recent play at Milford High School, Quincy left its mark, going home 8-0 on the day, defeating last year's central champion, Milford, and north champion Chelmsford with little trouble."

Under the coaching of Whitehouse and Prendiville, the Quincy girls are looking toward their second state tournament berth. This is a tough challenge due to the level of play in the strong Suburban League.

"We expect especially tough matches with Cambridge, Brockton and Newton North," Prendiville said. "Both Cambridge and Newton also qualified for last year's tournament."

Quincy has a young squad with only five seniors, Barbara Fain, Theresa Munroe, Susan Deehan, Janet Buttomer and Tri-Capt. Ellen Deady. Tri-captains Christine Gallery and Susan Beven lead a crew of talented juniors, which also includes Cindy Morrell, Carolyn Leonard and Karla Robertson. Rounding out the varsity team are two gifted sophomores, Karen Marnell and Colleen Dunn.

The junior varsity is made up of some of the city's finest athletes. Led by Co-Captains Terry McLaughlin and Beth Veneto, the jayvees are 3-0 with only four points a game being scored against them.

The squad includes Sandy Dunn, Karen Eames, Darlene Derbes, Leanne Dondro, Stephanie LeVangie, Kathy McGregor and freshmen Mario LaVargie, Donna McLaughlin and Stacie Nigro.

"Quincy High is proud of its tradition and we'd like to recognize several of its graduates who have gone on to college," Prendiville said. "They include Susan Callahan, a three-year starter at Northeastern; Maureen Walsh, a two-year player for Providence, and Nancy MacDonald, freshman starter for the U. of Rhode Island. All three are on volleyball scholarships."

Woodward Perkins League Champs Again

Woodward Springs defeated Caldwell Construction in three straight games to win the Roy Perkins Softball League title for the second year in a row.

Woodward won the first game at home, then traveled to Randolph where it pulled out an extra-inning 4-3 victory.

St. John's Basketball

Registration for St. John's boys' and girls' basketball teams, which will compete in the YMCA-Church League, will be held on the next three Sundays, Oct. 3, 10 and 17, from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. in the rectory hall.

Boys and girls 8-17 are eligible.

Game 3 was back in Quincy and Woodward out-slugged Caldwell, 10-8, to clinch the championship.

League founder and president Roy Perkins issued a statement thanking all players and coaches, the ASA umpires and the fans who gave the players encouragement for making the season a success.

Birth certificates and registration fee of $15 are required at these times. There will be no dues collected this year.

Further information can be obtained by calling Bill Luossey at 471-7976.

Stay Alive!

GASOLINE HAZARDS

Gasoline is extremely dangerous. Its vapors are heavier than air and can flow invisibly along the ground and be ignited by a flame or a spark from a considerable distance. Remember, gasoline is made to explode! Carrying gasoline in the trunk of the car is a dangerous practice. If you are hit from behind, there can be a fatal collision. You might just as well carry dynamite in your trunk.

Never keep gasoline in glass bottles. If you must store gasoline, store it only in an approved safety can which has a flame arrester and pressure-release valves. Even if it's in one of these safety cans, it's best not to keep it in your house.

One last comment on the danger of gasoline. It is made to burn not to drink. Hospital emergency calls go up during fuel crises from gasoline siphoning thieves. Never siphon gasoline by mouth. If it gets in your lungs, a few drops can kill you. If gasoline is accidentally swallowed, do not induce vomiting. Call a doctor immediately.

Girls Cross-Country

Tozzi Optimistic Despite Loss Of 3 Key Runners

The North Quincy girls' cross-country team had a 10-1 record last year, won the Eastern Mass. championship for the second year in a row and placed second in the all-state meet.

However, Coach Lou Tozzi lost three of his top seven runners, including No. 1 Nancy McCarthy, now at Holy Cross, and a lot of people are shrugging the Raiderettes off this fall.

"I've heard people saying we are not going to a factor in the Suburban League this year, but I still have some experienced and very dedicated girls and I think we will do better than most people think we will," said Tozzi, who is being assisted by Mike Burke.

Tozzi's top three runners finished 1-2-3 recently in the South Boston Police race with Sheila Barrett first, Linda Kennedy second and Diane Lindenfelzer third.

Barrett and Kennedy are seniors and last fall were in the top five in Eastern Mass. Barrett was an all-scholastic and was in the top 5 for the past two years. Lindenfelzer is only a sophomore but is an outstanding prospect.

Behind them are sophomore Meg Leary, an excellent runner; junior Tracy Corrigan and an excellent looking freshman, Mary Ann Kelleher.

Tozzi has several other fine looking prospects, most of whom will run with the junior varsity. They are seniors Mary Gannon, Teresa Jones, Nancy Wildes and Christine Comeau; juniors Kelly Coutts and Bernadette Murphy; sophomores Katherine Gorczyca and Geraldine Murphy, and freshmen sisters Laura and Sharon Barrett, not related to Sheila.

"As usual we are aiming for the top and I am encouraged by the excellent spirit and desire of the girls," said Tozzi. "I honestly think we could surprise a lot of people."

Many of the Raiderettes are members of the Quincy Track Club and gained a lot of experience there.

With Bart Petracca not coaching the boys this fall (he will help out), Tozzi and Burke are also handling the boys' team. The Raiders were only 2-7 last season and Tozzi hopes to improve this season.

The Petraccas are brothers of Bart, an all-time North running great who coached cross-country last year and coached the spring and winter boys' track teams.

Both North squads opened their Suburban League season yesterday (Wednesday) against Waltham and next Wednesday, Oct. 6, will host Brookline. The Quincy course starts and finishes at Adams Field.

STARSCOPE

by Clare Annsweil

WEEK OF: SEPTEMBER 30

AQUARIUS - January 21-February 19

It's easy to coast now, but why not motivate yourself with a new hobby that is stimulating as well as fun? Friends may tend to compromise; you can help them be more assertive.

PISCES - February 20-March 20

Observant Pisces can seize upon an advancement opportunity. Romantic life is slow paced, but there is some behind the scenes momentum. Patience and maybe a new look are encouraged.

ARIES - March 21-April 20

Long distance affairs can be wrapped up by the end of this period. Stubborn relative or neighbor remains unconvinced of your motives, and some tactical changes may be in order.

TAURUS - April 21-May 22

You're more resilient than you think and can turn a crisis into a coup. Building your self-esteem is the key and only you can do this. This is the week to begin!

GEMINI - May 23-June 21

Watch out that you don't take on more than you can handle - personally or professionally - during this extraordinarily ambitious week. Chansma, too, is strong: people gravitate in your direction.

CANCER - June 22-July 22

A deceptive force is at work, meaning that you shouldn't always believe your eyes. Your wit crackles; use it constructively. Financial gains favored after Monday.

LEO - July 23-August 22

Financial ideas are bright but they benefit from refinement. Powers of persuasion are impressive. In romance, accent the lighter side while remaining realistic about the future.

VIRGO - August 23-September 22

New romance or friendship is off to a quick start, but don't ignore emotional needs of established friends. Financial gains are gradually taking place, don't announce them to the world.

LIBRA - September 23-October 22

Emphasis is on commitment to health and recreation programs. Loved ones tend to misinterpret your remarks - perhaps on purpose. Work relationship improves; it may be time for a true.

SCORPIO - October 23-November 21

Before pursuing a business activity, find out about the parties concerned. In romance, whether involved in new or established relationship, you and partner feel more secure and comfortable.

SAGITTARIUS - November 22-December 22

The flattery you're offered is sugar coated, but basically it's sincere. At work speak out if you suspect a conflict of interest. On the homefront, the generation gap is narrowing.

CAPRICORN - December 23-January 20

Auditions and examinations are favored, so long as expectations stay realistic. Family member may take a risk for you, which shouldn't mean that you're under any obligation to him/her.

BIRTHDAY THIS WEEK

You relish the good things in life and have the gift of gab. But you find it hard to take a stand and stay with it. Spend the balance of '82 laying the groundwork for medium and long range goals. Romance is highlighted through mid-'83.

BORN THIS WEEK

September 30th, singer Johnny Mathis. October 1st, actor Tom Bosley. 2nd, singer Don McLean. 3rd, singer Chubby Checker. 4th, actor Charlton Heston. 5th, actress Glynis Johns. 6th, actress Janet Gaynor.

Board Approves Licenses For Wollaston Chinese Restaurant

After much debate over possible traffic problems, the Quincy License Board approved a license for a take-out only Chinese restaurant at 666 Hancock St., Wollaston.

Mei Yuet Lee of Charlestown was granted the common victualer license for the establishment which will be open 11 a.m. to midnight and will offer delivery service. Board members had expressed concern over traffic problems in the area at the Sept. 7 meeting.

This week, Atty. Neil Kerstein, representing the applicant, said that six to seven parking spaces could be leased at nearby Harry's Linoleum when that store is not open and restaurant business is heaviest.

Kerstein also said that the pizza shop in the area which was burned out in a fire earlier this year will not be reopening in that location and adding to the traffic.

Ward Councillor Stephen McGrath suggested the restaurant might be beneficial, according to Kerstein, who also said that the property has been vacant for seven or eight months.

"If this doesn't go in there, what's going in?" asked Building Inspector Allan MacDonald.

"No matter what goes in, there's going to be some kind of traffic."

Police Chief Francis Finn said he was concerned that patrons would double park in the street, and that it would interfere with a bus stop in front of his shop.

After more debate, the board unanimously granted the license.

At Former Capitol Market Mini Mall For The Parkingway?

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN

The License Board is scheduled to vote next Tuesday at 10 a.m. on license requests for a mini mall at the former Capitol Market in the Parkingway, Quincy Square.

Applying for the licenses are Denis Slawsky of Weston, Jeffrey Slawsky of Sharon and James Degnan of Weymouth, who comprise Jedco, Inc.

The licenses requested are common victualer and Lord's Day, as well as licenses for second hand goods. Hours will be Thursdays and Fridays, 9 a.m. to 9 p.m., and Saturdays and Sundays, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Denis Slawsky told the board this week that the Capitol Market, owned by his family, closed at 150 Parkingway in July, 1980, and Capitol Liquors in May.

He said that his family still has a four and a half year lease on the property, and that rent and taxes come to $63,000 per year.

Slawsky said the family has had no luck in sub-leasing the building.

He said that food at the mini mall would be of the snack bar variety. Up to 75 per cent of the merchandise offered could be antiques, said Slawsky, and no used clothing would be sold.

Slawsky also said that the priests of nearby St. John's Church had no objections.

Board members seemed ready to grant the licenses when City Clerk John Gillis pointed out that the license requests had inadvertently been omitted from this week's agenda.

Gillis suggested that the board postpone a decision until next week when it will be officially listed on the agenda.

Total Value Of City Placed At $1.7-B

The total value of all the real and personal property in the city of Quincy is $1.7 billion and it may well be $1.8 billion by the time spring rolls around.

And those figures are important because total valuation and the tax levy are all that is needed to set a tax rate and, under Proposition 2½, the tax levy is determined on the basis of total value.

The city disclosed these figures Tuesday:

P.R.C. Jacobs, the Virginia firm that has spent the past year and a half revaluing the city, has come up with an estimated figure of $1.7 billion, including personal property and commercial values.

The city has hired Municipal Appraisal Services of Fall River to update the Jacobs figures, which are based on values Jan. 1, 1981, and, calculating the expected rise in values, the new figure should be $1.8 billion.

Mayor Francis X. McCauley said he is reluctant to comment on what the new figures will mean to the average homeowner when second half tax bills go out next spring.

"There are a lot of imponderables," he said. "We still don't know what route we will be going on classification. The higher the values the less problems we will have with Prop. 2½ but the higher the tax levy will be."

One thing, the new values will enable the city to reach a tax levy that is 2½ per cent of the total valuation, as required by Prop. 2½, in the next fiscal year.

The budget for fiscal 1983, the current year through June 30, 1983, was set at $48.3 million. Next year, fiscal 1984, the city will be in full compliance with $45 million, a $3.3 million cut.

Black Families Again Harassed In Germantown

Two more incidents of harassment of black families in the Germantown housing projects were reported in the past week, although police refused to call one of the incidents racial.

A beer bottle was thrown from a moving car through the window of an apartment occupied by a black family early Saturday morning and a 17-year-old youth was arrested on charges of wanton destruction.

Police said the youth, identified as Donald Noll of Taffrail Rd., Germantown, expressed remorse for the incident and they said they were not treating it as racial.

Last Thursday morning, however, a rock was thrown through the window of an apartment occupied by a black family while members of the South Shore Coalition for Human Rights were conferring with them.

Jeffrey Isaacson, an attorney for the SSCHR, said he chased four boys, 10 to 14 years old, down the street but did not catch them. There had been four other incidents at the same home.

John Comer, director of the Quincy Housing Authority, has pledged to evict from public housing any residents found guilty of racial harassment.

Drohan Apartments Dedication Oct. 22

Federal, state and local officials as well as tenants of the building have been invited to the dedication ceremony for the Arthur V. Drohan Apartments, 170 Copeland St., West Quincy, Friday, Oct. 22, at 11 a.m.

The apartment building, which is administered by the Quincy Housing Authority, is being named for the former Ward 4 city councillor (1932-33) and longtime West Quincy civic leader.

Tires Stolen

Five new truck tires and three recaps plus rims were reported stolen Monday from the New England Tractor Training School at 542 East Squantum St., North Quincy. Their value was placed at $2,760.

Burger King Robbed

Two black males armed with a handgun held up the Burger King Restaurant at 505 Quincy Ave., Quincy Point, after closing time Monday morning and escaped with the contents of the safe.

Police said the men knocked on the door about 3:30 a.m., told the cleaning man that they were from the Braintree police, forced him to lie on floor, took the money and left.

In Court Suits

Insurance To Protect Officials?

By TOM HENSHAW

Mayor Francis X. McCauley is considering the possibility of purchasing insurance policies to cover city officials in the event that they are sued as individuals for their acts as city officials.

The matter of such liability was first brought up by City Councillor Richard J. Koch Jr. at the Sept. 7 Council meeting when he asked for a study leading to a city policy for handling such suits.

McCauley himself and Public Works Commissioner Paul Anderson were sued as individuals recently over the firing of Owen Eaton as water superintendent. Acting as their own lawyers, they won their case.

City Solicitor William Golden told the Council:

"The litigious nature of our society has brought an epidemic of law suits against public officials. The question has to be addressed. The time is now."

McCauley said he has asked a Quincy insurance man to obtain information of what is available in the way of insurance to cover city officials and employees on such suits and how much it would cost.

When he was president of the Presidential Cooperative Bank, he said, members of the board of directors were insured up to $1 million against such liability and three-year premiums were $2,500 to $3,000.

The mayor noted that Mayor Kevin White of Boston is currently the defendant in a multi-million dollar suit over the shooting of a high school football player by another youth not connected with the city.

"How can they blame Kevin White?" he said. "Is he going to have a special detail of cops to watch for people who might shoot

Over $170,000 In Early Tax Payments

Some 23,000 property tax bills for the first half of fiscal 1983 went into the mail to taxpayers Friday and by the close of business Monday about $170,000 in taxes had been collected.

And a good crowd was reported at the Treasurer's Office Tuesday ready to pay their estimated bills that are based on one half the tax paid in fiscal 1982.

Mayor Francis X. McCauley said it is the first time since 1974 that the bills have gone out on time, one month prior to the earliest due date of Nov. 1.

In the past, McCauley said, it has cost the city some $35,000 a month in interest on tax anticipation notes to keep the city government operating while waiting for tax money to come in.

The second half bills will be mailed in the spring once the city has a 1983 tax rate based on 100 per cent of fair market value of real property.

In order to be on time in the spring, bills should be in the mail by April 1 to meet a May 1 due deadline.

Council Transfers Land In Lieu Of $165,000

The City Council Monday night voted to return 13 acres of the landfill in West Quincy to the developer it was taken from in 1972 — unless the city comes up with $165,000 to buy it by Nov. 9.

City Councillor James A. Sheets explained that the land was taken from the Pacella Development Corp. in 1972 with an eminent domain award of $6,500 for use as part of the landfill.

Pacella sued for more money and won a $90,000 judgement against the city, which, with interest, now totals $165,000. The land was never given to its intended use as a landfill.

"My concern is that this land be retained by the city as a park and buffer area to development of the rest of the landfill area," said Sheets. "But where do we get $165,000?"

The execution order of the judgement was issued Sept. 9 with a deadline of Oct. 9 either to return the land or get up the money. Sheets said an extension to Nov. 9 was negotiated with Pacella.

"I recommend this evening that we sign an order transferring the land," he said. "The mayor will then sign the order but will not execute the deed until Nov. 9.

By that time, the city either will or will not have the money and Pacella either will or will not have the land, which contains the site of the old Granite Railway Quarry.

Litre And Wedge Denied All Alcoholic License

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN
The Quincy License Board denied a request Tuesday for transfer of a retail store all alcoholic license to Litré and Wedge, Wine and Cheese Shoppe, Inc., 230 Washington St., Quincy Point.

The license had been purchased at public auction and was formerly held by Capitol Liquors, Inc.

Sheila Trifone is manager of The Store which holds a wine and malt beverage license.

Atty. James Castleman told the board the store would principally remain as a market if the all alcoholic license was granted.

Castleman said there have been no problems at the family run operation, and he presented a petition signed by 500 people favoring the license.

Ward Councillor Ted DeCristofaro led off opposition to the license.

"I'm definitely opposed," said DeCristofaro who pointed out that his opposition was not to the Trifone family, a sentiment reiterated by others who opposed the license.

DeCristofaro said the license would not better The Community.

Mrs. Angela Carroll, president of the parent advisory board at Point Webster Complex, commented on problems with youths and alcohol, and said there was already a number of establishments in the area with liquor licenses.

Also opposed were members of the Ward 2 Civic Association Robert Allison, Charlotte DiGiacomo, Phyllis Bagen, founding president Owen Eaton, and Anthony DiGiacomo; and Carmela Lynch.

Atty. L. Paul Marini, an abutter to the store, didn't oppose the license but asked that gas tanks for the Trifone's personal use be removed if they aren't being used.

Nicholas Trifone said he would remove the tanks if the board requested it.

Rep. Robert Cerasoli said Trifone runs a "very nice store" which is an improvement over the gas station that had been there previously.

He said he has heard no complaints against the store, and would not oppose the all alcoholic license.

Area resident David Perdios favored the license.

"I don't think a package store is like an all alcoholic pouring spot," said City Clerk John Gillis, "here's an opportunity for a Quincy Point boy to make out and I'll give it my vote."

"We're concerned with the license, not who gets it," said DeCristofaro.

Police Chief Francis Finn discounted the petition submitted by the applicant, and said that his vote rested on how the community felt.

Voting against the request along with Finn were Fire Chief Edward Barry and Building Inspector Allan MacDonald.

City Clerk John Gillis was in favor of the license.

Condon Asks MDC To Study QSD Traffic Lights

City Councillor Joanne Condon has asked the MDC to study the feasibility of installing full working traffic lights in place of the existing flashing signals on Quincy Shore Drive.

She also asked the MDC to improve the street lighting along the drive, which has been the scene of many late night accidents, some of them fatal, in recent months.

Capt. William J. Pendergast, district commander of the MDC police, in a letter to Condon, promised some lighting improvements and pledged "constant and strict enforcement" of traffic laws on the drive.

"The existing mercury vapor streetlighting will be changed to high pressure sodium for improved visibility," he wrote. "Some have already been changed in the areas of the Nostalgia Lounge and Sachem St.

"The existing traffic signals should not be placed on full signalization as unwarranted traffic control devices can exacerbate highway safety problems, especially where pedestrians are involved at mid-block locations."

Vandals Hit Clubhouse

Vandals did an estimated $250 damage to the clubhouse at Louisburg Square South on Quincy Shore Drive, North Quincy, battering a wall, ripping out wiring and stealing the timer from the hotbaths. The action occurred over the weekend.

Mini Mall Approved At Old Capitol Market

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN

A mini mall at the former Capitol Market in Quincy Square, with merchandise of up to 75% in antiques, could be open by mid November now that licenses have been granted by the License Board.

Common victualer, Lord's Day and second hand licenses were granted Tuesday to Denis Slawsky of Weston, Jeffrey Slawsky of Sharon and James Degnan of Weymouth, who comprise Jedco, Inc.

The Slawsky family owned the Capitol Market at 150 Parkingway, which closed in July, 1980, and Capitol Liquors, which closed in May, and still has a four and a half year lease on the property.

Hours of operation will be 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. Thursday and Friday, and 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday and Sunday.

Atty. John J. Doyle, representing the applicants, said that Fr. William McCarthy, pastor of nearby St. John's Church, was concerned with parking and traffic problems on School St. Sunday mornings.

Doyle said that Fr. McCarthy agreed to a two month trial period. "The solemnity of the day is my main concern," said Fr. McCarthy.

Kenneth P. Fallon, executive director of the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association, said the QCBPA didn't oppose this type of operation.

Fallon said that the business group wanted to make sure merchandise offered was consistent with that offered in the area.

"We want no flea markets in the downtown area," said Fallon.

Denis Slawsky said he couldn't guarantee that only antiques would be offered, and that there would be some crafts and collectibles.

"The typical flea market vendors are not what we want," said Slawsky.

Police Chief Francis Finn reminded Slawsky that vendors of second hand gold or precious metals must be licensed in Quincy.

CVS, Shop 'n Save In Discussion Stage

Negotiations are still in the discussion stage between Consumer Value Stores and the Shop 'n Save supermarket: that could lead to CVS occupying the supermarket building in South Quincy.

Arnold Limon, owner of Shop 'n Save, said he is also talking to several other companies interested in taking over the market section of the building on Independence Ave.

Any deal, said Limon, would include the supermarket and not the liquor store.

"It is management's responsibility to listen to all proposals presented to it," Shop 'n Save said in a statement. "As of this moment no agreement has been signed by either CVS or Shop 'n Save market."

The statement said the market "is remaining in business at this time."

"If there is any change to the contrary we will make an announcement," it said.

Planning Director James Lydon said last week that CVS had taken an option on the building and was seeking the necessary permits before moving its Quincy Square store to that location.

Judith Hamel Named To Cemetery Board

Mayor Francis X. McCauley has named Judith Hamel of 120 Colonial Drive, Quincy Center, to a three year term on the Cemetery Board replacing Howard Gunnison, who has left the city.

Her term will expire the first Monday in September, 1985.

Mrs. Hamel is the wife of Roger Hamel, owner of the Wickens and Troupe Funeral Home, Quincy Center.

McCauley also appointed the following members to the Quincy Youth Commission for terms that will expire on the first Monday in October, 1984:

John Mahoney, 134 Oxenbridge Rd.; Robert Fitzpatrick, 90 Standish Ave.; Mrs. Theresa Phelan, 53 Estabrook Rd.; Robert Tufts, 77 Adams St.; John W. Raymer, 3 Emerald St.; David Erickson, 35 Miller Stile Rd.; Mrs. Sarah Cobban, 125 Faxon Rd.

Color TV Stolen

A color television set was reported stolen Saturday from the apartment of Paul McCarthy on Sea St., Houghs Neck, by thieves who gained entry by an unknown method.

'An Appropriate Tribute'

Post Office To Be Named For James Burke

JAMES A. BURKE

The Quincy post office will be named for former Cong. James A. Burke of Milton, who maintained a local office in the building from 1958 to 1978 while he served the 11th District in Congress.

Cong. Brian J. Donnelly, his successor, said legislation naming the building on Washington St. received final approval from Congress last Friday.

Donnelly called it "an appropriate tribute."

"As Jim Burke's successor," he said, "I learned quickly that the people of the district consider the Quincy Post Office synonymous with Cong. Jim Burke and with his crusade to keep the federal government in close contact with the people he represented."

"The naming of the post office after Cong. James Burke is fitting recognition of both the gentleman and his distinguished career in the U.S. Congress," said Sen. Paul Tsongas.

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy

recalled that he "learned a lot from Jimmy Burke when he was in Congress for he understood the complex problems confronting our Commonwealth and he knew better than anyone how to get things done in Congress."

Burke, 72, is now living in retirement in Milton with his wife, Aileen.

A stipulation of the approval was that the type of entertainment offered remain the same, and no nude shows be allowed.

Opposes Pollard School As Police Station

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

On Thursday Sept. 30, at 7 p.m., Chief Francis Finn of the Quincy Police Department, was interviewed and televised by Quincy Cablesystems, concerning the problems of the Quincy Police Department.

During the telecast Chief Finn made considerable reference to converting the Pollard School into a police station. He spoke in favor of moving the present police station, to the Pollard School.

As a resident of Ward 2, living close to the Pollard School, I have much apprehension to this proposal and what it will do to my neighborhood. Because of this apprehension and concern for my neighborhood, I am writing this letter, to alert the residents of Ward 2, that the initial reaction to this proposal is a feeling of better police protection. This is a False Reaction.

Police officers report to the police station to start their tour of duty. After they are assigned, they leave to patrol their assigned area, for the remainder of their tour of duty. What is left at the Police Station is all Negative to a neighborhood.

A police station should be centrally located to serve all sections of the city equally. Location is very important for both residents of the community, and those coming to the City of Quincy looking for the police department. The nature of police work requires it to be easily located.

I would need many sheets of paper to explain in detail the many negative aspects of locating a police station in a residential neighborhood. I will list a few, as briefly as possible.

1. Loud noise from sirens going to and from the police station at all hours of the day and night.

2. Increased traffic on residential streets.

3. Prisoners being released from the police station lock-up will be released in Our neighborhood awaiting court appearances.

4. People down and out often come to the police station seeking shelter and a hand out. When they leave the police station, they will roam the neighboring streets.

5. People with emotional problems are attracted to the police station because they are crying out for help from anybody. An example: The confused veteran from Vietnam that was apprehended in Mount Wollaston Cemetery, at gun point, by many police officers.

6. Police stations have cell blocks for prisoners. One could consider this to be a mini Walpole State Prison, from time to time.

7. Juveniles in trouble are brought to the police station until their family arrives to pick them up. Parents going to get their child are not happy. This can become a very noisy and ugly situation. It will disrupt the peace and tranquility of a neighborhood.

In closing I ask you to ask Chief Finn or any police officer, if they would like a police station in their neighborhood.

Pay Raises Election Issue?

Just about now, the average person is thinking that Thanksgiving and Christmas are just around the corner.

And, just about now, the average politician is thinking the next city election is just around the same corner.

Political observers are already looking for signs as to who might run for what. But very little seems to be stirring.

There's speculation there will be a new challenger in the City Council at-large race—maybe a woman. One is thinking of it right now.

And there may be a few challengers for the ward seats. Including a woman.

But all's quiet on the mayoral front as far as candidates go. The only one in motion is incumbent Francis McCauley. He's definitely running for re-election.

The big question still is: will he go unchallenged?

City Council President John Lydon, City Clerk John Gillis and Councilor Joanne Condon have been mentioned as potential candidates. But because voters tend to give a first term mayor a second term (with rare exception) it seems unlikely they will make a bid in 1983.

Unless McCauley, who has been sailing on smooth waters since taking office, suddenly, runs into a few bad storms.

Some observers think he's in one right now, with his proposed pay raises for himself and the City Council.

He proposes a two-step hike from the present $25,000 for the mayor: to $37,500 Jan. 1, 1983 and then to $48,500 on Jan. 1, 1984. He would increase the City Council's pay from $3,000 to $7,500 Jan. 1, 1983.

A study committee appointed by McCauley recommended that the mayor get $48,500 starting in 1984—not 1983—and the City Council go to $4,500 in that same year.

The storm clouds have gathered over the fact that McCauley would have the raises go into effect in his second year in office rather than in 1984 for whoever would be mayor then.

HANNON

Few object to the mayor getting a pay raise. The $25,000 salary goes back to 1973 after Walter Hannon became Quincy's first full-time mayor. Prior to that mayors served part-time. Two wore dual political hats: Amelio Della Chiesa as mayor-state representative and James McIntyre as mayor-state senator. Before them, mayors had their own businesses or other jobs to tend to in addition to serving as chief executive.

The mayor's salary today would be considerably more than the present $25,000 if it hadn't been for one of McCauley's mayoral penny-pinching heroes. That, of course, was Della Chiesa who is still remembered for walking around City Hall turning off lights in empty rooms.

DELLA CHIESA

While he was mayor making something like $12,500, city councillors came up with the idea of raising his salary—and at the same time, their own. But he threatened them that if they came in with such a pay raise ordinance, he would veto it. It would have embarrassed the council, so no one dared to bring it in.

But, because money didn't mean that much to Della Chiesa, the mayor's salary fell behind the times and didn't catch up until Hannon.

Now, it's behind again.

Some of today's councillors seem a little skittish about voting the mayor and themselves a pay raise effective Jan. 1, 1983—in a year they will have to face the voters of Quincy. Voting a pay raise to become effective in 1984 is another matter. Theoretically, they wouldn't be voting McCauley or themselves a pay hike but the office of mayor and city council and whoever holds those offices in 1984.

The pay issue could become live political ammunition to be fired back at incumbents in the 1983 city election.

MEANWHILE, Mayor McCauley is gearing up for next year's re-election campaign. A fundraiser reception for him is set for Tuesday, Oct. 19 from 6 to 8 p.m. at the Quincy Neighborhood Club. Tickets ($50 per person) are available by calling 479-6230.

THE ANNUAL REPORT of Norfolk County, now out, is dedicated to the memory of Dennis F. Ryan, late clerk magistrate of Quincy District Court.

RYAN

County Treasurer James M. Collins notes the tribute to Ryan is "in recognition and appreciation of his humanitarian nature and friendship to all Norfolk County citizens for over 30 years, a man of uncompromising principles."

He'll get no argument on that.

SENATOR Paul Harold doesn't have to run hard for re-election this year because he's unopposed. But he's doing a lot of hard running, anyway—in most of the local road races. In a recent five-miler in Braintree sponsored by St. Francis of Assisi Church to celebrate the 800th birthday of St. Francis, Harold placed 27th in a field of more than 100.

Station personnel Lori Cohen and Tom Fahey assist in producing the program.

Programs to be aired in the next few weeks include: one hour special on the Quincy-South Shore area Red Cross; one hour special on housing and problems of Quincy senior citizens; Dr. M. Grace Hussey, city health commissioner and her views of the health of Quincy; Dick Donovan, Quincy realtor, as he reminisces about his pitching in game three of the 1959 Los Angeles Dodgers - Chicago White Sox World Series; Joseph Harold, longtime state adjutant of the Mass. Disabled American Veterans, as he gives his views on veterans affairs; Stephen Ricciardi, prominent Quincy contractor and President of Quincy Rotary, in a discussion of Quincy Rotary and its community services.

The role of The Quincy Sun as a weekly community newspaper will be featured on a one hour special.

The Harry Winkel Award

The first annual Harry Winkel Award was presented in absentia to Henry Bosworth, editor and publisher of The Quincy Sun, at Monday's City Council meeting.

The award was designed by Councilor Joseph J. LaRaia and presented "in recognition of distasteful journalistic qualities which closely resemble those same repulsive qualities of Editor Harry Winkel."

LaRaia explained to his fellow councilors that "this presentation is not complimentary."

Harry Winkel is the name of the editor of a weekly newspaper in the fictional city of Quarry in LaRaia's book, in which he sought to explain his two turbulent years as mayor of Quincy.

LaRaia complained that "for the last five years, I have been used as a punching bag" by Bosworth and The Sun, which are "hell bent on embarrassing, maligning and ridiculing me."

He was particularly critical of a column by Bosworth which appeared in the Sept. 23 edition of The Sun analyzing LaRaia's loss in the race for county clerk of courts and speculating on his future.

He called it "just another attempt to carry out a political vendetta."

"At the same time," said LaRaia, "he (Bosworth) had in his possession a press release presented by me asking him to publish the release asking the people of Quincy to take an interest in cultural activities and join the cultural commission."

"He has not seen fit to print that kind of information,"

Bosworth had this comment:

"If he was going to give me an award you would think he would at least have invited me to be present. But then, of course, that would have given me the opportunity to respond."

"At least I quoted him on his own analysis of the election in the very same column he is complaining about. I can't change the election results. He lost. Period."

"He also complains that he sent me a release about the Quincy-South Shore Cultural Commission but 'he has not seen fit to print that kind of information.'"

"Well, if he looks on Page 18 of the very same issue in which the column appeared, he will find it the top story on that page. Maybe he never got beyond the column."

"I think Joe is being overly modest. If the award is in recognition of distasteful journalistic qualities as he contends, then I really think he deserves it himself for his book."

"So, I'm afraid I'll have to decline it. I really think he deserves it more and so I nominate him as the recipient."

"I'm also beginning to wonder if Joe might have a garage full of his unsold books and is looking for a little free advertising to help get rid of them."

Trailer Camp Permit Request Causes Row

Mel-Thomas Rockwell, professor of philosophy at Eastern Nazarene College, lashed out at those officials who promised veterans everything while they were at the front and then denied them even a roof over their heads when they returned home from the wars.

Prof. Rockwell spoke at a public hearing on a trailer camp permit sought by Albert F. Hermes of 247 Sea St., Merrymount, so that two young veterans, both ENC students, and their wives could live temporarily on his land in their trailers.

"This is a disgrace and a shame to the Americanism and the patriotism of the people of Merrymount," said Prof. Rockwell, noting the opposition to the trailer permit raised by some nearby Merrymount residents.

"If it had not been for these men, there would be Germans located in trailer camps here and they would not have taken the trouble to come to the officials to get permits, either."

Healthier Commissioner Dr. Richard M. Ash took the matter under advisement pending a personal inspection of the site.

FIGHT TO SAVE ELM

The Forestry Department was fighting to save the city's oldest tree, an elm 21 feet in circumference in front of the home of Laughlin H. Cameron, 103 Bigelow St., Quincy Center, which was showing the symptoms of Dutch elm disease.

The tree, which was estimated to be between 336 and 672 years old, stood on the front lawn of the house that used to be the home of Ethelbert Nevin, composer of "The Rosary," and the late banker Clarence Burgin when he was first married.

OFF-SQUARE TERMINAL

State Traffic Engineer Edgar F. Copell, who recommended removal of the waiting room at the corner of Washington and Coddington Sts., agreed with city officials that an off-street terminal was the best solution to the problem of bus traffic in the square.

"A location on one side of the intersection would be much safer for all concerned," said Copell in a letter to Rep. William W. Jenness of Quincy. The present location of the waiting room forced passengers to cross streets in all directions.

SNUG HARBOR PURCHASE

The State Housing Board gave final approval for the purchase of the 73-acre Sailors Snug Harbor property in Germantown as the site of a $4,250,000 veterans housing project containing 400 family dwelling units. The cost of the land was set at $160,000.

Anselmo Assails Pay Raise Bid

School Committeeman Frank Anselmo came out strongly this week against a proposed pay raise for the mayor from $25,000 to $48,500 and the City Council from $3,000 to $7,500.

"If the mayor is not satisfied with his pay," he said in a statement, "he always has the option to resign."

Mayor Francis X. McCauley, whose proposal for pay raises for himself and the councilors is now before the Council's Ordinance Committee, declined to comment on Anselmo's statement.

Anselmo took particular umbrage at a statement attributed to McCauley that "the mayor should be the highest paid officials in the city."

"Let's think about this a little," he said.

"A candidate for mayor can capture the job, usually for two or four years, by competing for votes against four or more candidates, reduced to two candidates in the finals."

"It is primarily a popularity contest. A young high school graduate can run and be elected."

The mayor may do a good job or turn out to be a flop; the voters will then bounce him out."

Other city officials who make more than the mayor currently, he said, "are professionals in their own respective fields. To win their jobs they just compete with more candidates and show more credentials than any candidate for mayor."

"Any one of these individuals could fill the job of mayor but I doubt that the average mayor could fill any of these jobs that the mayor compares himself with salary wise."

Koch Club Appeals For New, Used Toys

The Koch Club of Quincy is planning its 12th year of collecting, repairing, cleaning and distributing toys for needy children in the Quincy, South Shore and Greater Boston Area.

The club is seeking the co-operation of residents of Quincy and surrounding communities with the project.

An early start is necessary to accumulate the large number of items needed to provide gifts for the many boys and girls served by charitable, social service and church organizations who contact the Koch Club annually for assistance.

With many planning their fall house and garage cleaning, a number of dolls, bicycles, games or other toys may be found in good condition but may no longer be needed. Those persons are invited to join the Koch Club in donating the articles for Christmas giving.

Dolls in good condition are needed for cleaning, dressing and distribution. Last year, Mrs. Rita Kelliher and volunteers from the Bryan Post VFW Ladies Auxiliary prepared several hundred dolls and other gifts.

Mrs. Ginny Derringer of South Weymouth will coordinate the collection of toys in the South Shore. Mrs. Simone Koch may be contacted at 241 Newbury Ave., Quincy, for information on the materials needed."

Richard J. Koch, Executive Director of the Koch Club, stated that the cooperation and donations of organizations and people in Quincy and the South Shore resulted in hundreds of adults and children in Quincy, adjacent communities and Greater Boston being provided with food, gifts and clothing because of that public response.

The cooperation of the Granite City Grange and students of the Parker, Massachusetts Fields, Woodward, St. Joseph's and Sacred Heart Schools allowed the Christmas Charity Committee to provide gifts for the Boston Indian Council, Catholic Charities and churches in the Boston Hispanic area.

Cultural Commission Has $7,100

The Quincy-South Shore Cultural Commission, now 20 members strong, will meet Tuesday, Oct. 12, at 7:30 p.m. in the conference room in the new City Hall.

City Councilor Joseph J. LaRaia, who formed the commission in 1976 when he was mayor, reported to his colleagues Monday night that the commission has $7,100 in its treasury.

The fund-raising started in 1976 with the Ruth Gordon 80th birthday celebration.

LaRaia said it was planned for the commission to meet twice monthly to formulate plans for a Summerfest program to bring talent and entertainment to Quincy.

Beauty Hints

By Sabina
of Sabina Beauty School

Today's Beauty Hints are for those who would like to know what makes for an effective shampoo. An effective shampoo must remove all dirt, oils, cosmetics, and skin debris from the scalp without adversely affecting the scalp or hair.

There are many types of shampoos available. Depending on your type of hair you may choose plain, soapless oil, liquid cream, cream or paste, acid-balanced, anti-dandruff, henna, medicated shampoo, egg shampoo, all-purpose herbal shampoo, and a number of others.

Plain shampoo, may be used on virgin hair in good condition but never on lightened, tinted, or damaged hair. Soapless oil shampoos, are effective in both hard and soft water, rinse out easily and do not leave soap scum on the hair. Liquid cream shampoos are used primarily on dry hair, while creams or paste shampoos make the hair feel softer. Acid-balanced shampoos prevent the stripping of tints or toners from the hair, while anti-dandruff shampoos control a dandruff condition. Henna shampoo adds brightness to darker shades of hair, while medicated shampoos may be used for people in nursing homes or sick people who cannot use water on their hair. Egg shampoo and all-purpose herbal shampoo can be used on all kinds of hair. Most of these shampoos can be purchased locally. More on shampooing and rinsing next week.

MAYOR FRANCIS X. MCCAULEY extends a congratulatory handshake as well as official city recognition to Austin Wickens as Mrs. Mary Wickens looks on.

Business Community Honors Austin Wickens

A grateful Quincy business community paid tribute to Austin Wickens for his work toward establishing Quincy as the business center of the South Shore.

Wickens has retired after five years as executive director of the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association, a job he took on after his retirement from Sears Roebuck, where he worked for 40 years.

"I consider him one of the deans of the business community here in Quincy," said Bernie Reisinger, president of the QCBPA. "He has a summer home on the cape and a winter home in Florida but his first and strongest loves for the city of Quincy and its business community."

Wickens, a native of Quincy and a past commodore of the Quincy Yacht Club, was honored at a testimonial at the Neighborhood Club last week. Attending with him was his wife, Mary.

Sen. Paul D. Harold presented him with a senate citation, noting that after he retired from Sears "he stayed to help out Quincy. He has played a role in establishing Quincy as the business center of the South Shore."

Mayor Francis X. McCauley, noting Wickens' role in helping to bring Robell's Department Store to Quincy in the old Touraine building, presented him with a certificate of appreciation from the city.

Wickens brought down the house in acknowledging the number of people who came to the testimonial.

"It's quite an honor to have a turnout like this," he cracked. "I hope it happens at my funeral."

"Five years ago," he added, "I was asked to serve as executive director for a short time until they found somebody else. That was in 1977. This is 1982. That shows you how fast the time goes."

Mark Bertman of Rogers Jewelry was chairman of the event and emcee. David Leitch of Burgin Platner was co-chairman.

CONGRATULATIONS are offered to Austin Wickens on his retirement by Sen. Paul D. Harold, who brought a senate citation to the testimonial.

Wollaston Recreation Granted One Day Liquor License

The Quincy License Board approved a request Tuesday for a one day all alcoholic license for Oct. 23, noon to midnight at the Wollaston Recreational Facility.

This is the second such license granted to the facility which was granted a beer and wine license earlier this year.

A memorial golf tournament for the late Mr. John Mullen, 38, is planned, according to his brother-in-law, Peter Kerr.

John Nourse, facility administrator, told the board that another golf tournament held recently at the site "went off very well".

"We received almost $1,000," said Nourse and we're operating on a surplus basis.

"We're up 30% over last year."

"We're also trying to keep good relations with the neighbors," Nourse said. "We're trying to iron out any complaints."

McCauley Looking Into Insurance To Protect City Officials football players on Saturday afternoon?"

On his own case, McCauley said:

"We made a decision in the Owen Eaton case based on our best judgement. We went strictly by seniority as we have in all city layoffs. Despite that, we wound up in court.

"As it happened, we won. But it could have cost us a lot of money just to hire a lawyer. And it could have been serious. If you lose one case everything you own can be in jeopardy.

"It will be difficult to get people to run for mayor, city council or school committee if this keeps up."

Golden told the Council last month that the matter arose out of a discussion that he had with some of the city's police officers, who, of all city employees, are most likely facing some legal action.

"They asked me if the city solicitor would represent them in court," he said. "I told them that there would be a conflict of interest. I have to defend the city's best interests and sometimes they are not the same as theirs.

"So the city stands without an answer for those police officers."

"You," he told the councillors,

"and all city employees are exposed to such suits. Even if you are innocent the cost of defending yourselves is tremendous. The burden should be removed.

"Word should go out that the city is committed to fight tooth and nail to help an employee who is sued. This will serve to discourage such litigation."

They can all tell you what they're going to do . . .

BOB CERASOLI

can tell you what he's done!

"A Code of Ethics isn't something you just post on the bulletin board. It's something you live every day."

Suddenly everybody seems to be rediscovering ethics. Bob Cerasoli set the recent trend in motion.

When Bob entered the Legislature in 1975, he requested an assignment to the Joint Committee on Election Laws.

In order to stop campaign fraud and corruption in Massachusetts he immediately set to work rewriting Chapter 55 of the General Laws which now provides for full disclosure of campaign contributions and expenditures.

RESULTS!!

Today, Massachusetts has one of the toughest Campaign Finance Reporting Laws in the country and Bob Cerasoli has since become the youngest Chairman ever appointed to the House Ethics Committee.

If you have been reading the newspapers during the last four years, then you know Bob Cerasoli has played a major role in working to eliminate graft and corruption in Massachusetts' politics.

At a time when people have become frustrated with the political system and its leaders, others were just talking about tough Ethics Laws. Bob co-authored and co-sponsored with Common Cause/Massachusetts one of the strongest State Ethics Laws ever enacted in the United States.

RESULTS!!

Today, Massachusetts has its first State Ethics Commission, a strong Conflict of Interest Law and mandatory Financial Disclosure. All a direct result of Bob Cerasoli's legislation.

He worked hard. He got results. He'll do it, again.

Drug treatment for crossed eyes may be a safe alternative to surgery, according to a San Francisco doctor. Small amount of drug, injected into the eye muscle, eventually helps the two eyes work together.

Doctors have found that patients with Meniere's disease and other kinds of dizziness seem to have trouble managing fats and carbohydrates. High-protein, low-fat diet appears to help.

Baby Dedicated At First Squantum Church

The congregation of the First Church of Squantum joyously observed the Lord's Supper Sunday as a baby was dedicated, new members were received and members of the church renewed their covenant with God and with each other.

The Covenant Renewal service, held in the Squantum Church twice each year, began with the congregation reciting together the Hundredth Psalm (King James Version).

Lisa Jane Guerrero, baby daughter of Jose and Joan Guerrero, was presented for dedication to the Lord. Welcoming her into God's family, in behalf of the church were the pastor, the Rev. Dr. Gene Langevin, and Deacons Donald Frazer and Renee Johnson.

The pastor also presented to the congregation five persons who had been recommended for church membership by himself and the Board of Deacons. They were Ed and Marie Reister, Mary Ruth Scott, Jim Stamos and Sue Sullivan.

The congregation voted during the service to receive these five as members. They were then given "the right hand of fellowship" by the pastor and the two assisting deacons to welcome them into the church.

Dr. Langevin preached a sermon entitled "Our Covenant With God" based on a text from the Scripture of the morning, Genesis 17:1-9 (Revised Standard Version).

Church members renewed their covenant in writing and by reading the church covenant together just before the Lord's Supper. Seated with the pastor at the Lord's Table were Deacons Leon MacIntyre, Evelyn Ahearn, Ralph Dougherty, Hazel Mayne and Thomas Williamson.

Hymns sung during the service included "Our God, Our Help in Ages Past", "We Gather Together", "How Firm a Foundation, Ye Saints of the Lord," and a benediction written by the pastor to the tune of Edelweiss. Members of the Youth Choir and the Chancel Choir combined to sing the offertory anthem "I Believe" by Gene Bartlett. Mary Ruth Scott directed.

Greeters for the service were Wallace and Ruth Danforth. The Fellowship Hour was hosted by Janet, Sandra and James Sumner, Jr.

After the service an all-church business meeting was held in the sanctuary to vote on proposed changes in the church by-laws and to elect two new members to the church Board of Trustees, Helen Miller and Gloria Cutler.

Three new committees were established for the church and their members elected. They were: Stewardship Committee, Luther Swenson, Barbara Anderson, Fred MacMillan, Roy Hansen, Helen Miller, Si Porter, Stewart Scott, Diane Lindblad and Gloria Cutler; Property Committee, Calvin Bumpus, Dana Olson, Luther Swenson, Si Porter, Paul Paulson and James Stamos; Security Committee, Carl Anderson, Luther Swenson and Dana Olson.

The Nominating Committee also proposed a number of other changes in the by-laws to be put to a vote Oct. 31.

Next Sunday, there will be two services at the church again: one at 8 a.m., and the other at 10:15 a.m. The sermon will be on the subject of the Second Coming of Christ.

PREVENT KITCHEN—RANGE FIRES

An estimated 100,000 burn accidents are associated with kitchen ranges each year. The majority of these fires occur when cooking oil, or fat on meat. A little advance knowledge may prevent some pain and suffering.

When fire starts in the oven or broiler, close the door. Turn off the source of heat and keep the door closed. With limited air, the fire should go out within minutes.

If a fat fire should start in the cookware on the range-top, immediately cover the pan and turn off the source of the heat. If the fire should spread, use a fire extinguisher. (All kitchens should be equipped with a multi-purpose, dry chemical fire extinguisher.) If you do not have an extinguisher, throw baking soda on the fire. Never try to carry flaming cookware outside or to the sink, and do not throw water on a grease fire. Water only causes grease fires to spread.

FALL HOME IMPROVEMENT

Helpful advice on how to check your home for energy efficiency

Would you like to significantly increase your home's energy efficiency and comfort this winter? You can, by taking a few simple steps.

Energy experts agree that one of the best ways to reduce energy usage is to make sure your home is properly insulated. To help you determine the correct amount of insulation for your home, Manville Building Materials Corporation offers a free "Homeowner's Guide to Installing Fiber Glass Insulation." It includes helpful hints on ways to conserve energy at home and also provides step-by-step instructions for installing fiber glass insulation.

Your attic is one of the first places you should check to see if you have enough insulation. If your attic is unfinished and unfloored, but has some beams to walk on, you can easily find the R-value of the existing insulation. It will be printed on the top or bottom of the batts.

If your existing attic insulation is loose fill, you will need to measure the depth of the insulation between the framing members. If the insulation is fiber glass, you can use the following guidelines to determine the approximate R-value. Other types of insulation may yield different R-values.

Depth of loose fill insulation	Minimum R-value
3"	R-7
9"	R-21

Once you know how much insulation you have, you can determine how much more you need. Just subtract the R-value of the existing insulation from the recommended R-value for your geographical area. Since R-values differ from climate to climate, you will need to consult your local building materials dealer for the recommended R-value in your area.

If your unfinished attic has a floor, use a ruler to poke through the cracks and around the edges to see how much insulation, if any, is there. If there is less than four inches, consider adding more.

The next place to check is your exterior walls. You can determine whether or not they are insulated by removing the cover from a light switch on an outside wall. Turn off the power first. Shine a flashlight into the space between the switchbox and the wall and see if you can see insulation. If not, you may want to consider putting some inside that wall.

Your decision will be guided by the size of your energy bills and the amount of room inside the wall for insulation. A professional contractor can give you a free cost estimate and help you determine if additional wall insulation is feasible.

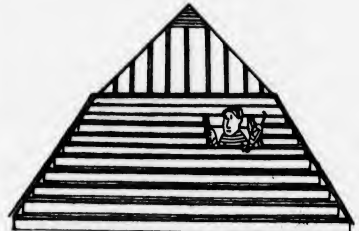

Next, check for adequate insulation under floors, in crawl spaces and next to foundation walls. If you live in a climate where heating costs are above average, consider insulating in these areas.

In addition to insulating your home, you can also gain energy efficiency with a few simple improvements. Heated and cooled air can escape from your house through cracks around doors and windows. You can stop drafts along these areas with caulking and weatherstripping.

Several additional steps require only a slight change in the way you do things at home. For example, set the thermostat at 65°F in winter, 5°F lower when sleeping or away, and 78°F in summer. If you are elderly, you may need to keep your thermostat set above 65°F in the winter.

Lower the water heater thermostat to 120°. Fully load clothes dryers and dish washers, and turn on lights only when and where you need ATTIC INSULATION CHECK: If your attic is unfinished, check the R-value of the existing batts to determine whether or not you need more insulation. Manville's "Homeowner's Guide to Installing Fiber Glass Insulation" shows you how to determine the proper amount of insulation for your home.

Your Dealer Knows

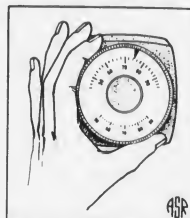

Home Comfort Is More Than Degrees

Total home comfort! What is it?

When your heating and air conditioning dealer uses the term, he's talking about four critical environment considerations: heating, cooling, humidification, and air cleaning.

Heating, of course, is essential in all colder climates. Summertime cooling, whether by a central system or one or more room air conditioners, is relatively common.

It's easy to take these two essential systems for granted. When was the last time you had a heating and air conditioning dealer to the house to give your systems their annual check-up?

Talk to a local dealer about buying a service contract for this valuable inspection and filter replacements. It's a lot better to catch a problem before it turns into an expensive breakdown.

While he's taking a look at your heating and cooling systems, ask him about the last two environmental considerations, humidification and air cleaning.

If you've had it with the damaging effects of dry air and annoying dust and pollen in your home, it's time to install a central humidifier and a high-efficiency air cleaner.

The benefits of controlled indoor humidity during the heating season can be enjoyed in any home, regardless of the type of heating system used.

Your dealer also can discuss with you the advantages of a non-electronic high-efficiency air cleaner over a more expensive electronic unit. Not only is the installation and operation of the non-electronic cleaner less, its efficiency increases with use.

A Space-Gard unit, for example, will remove more than 90 percent of all household dust, tobacco smoke and smudging particles, and 99 percent of all pollen from the air circulating through it.

Here's a money-saving idea. Have your heating and air conditioning dealer install both a central humidifier and an air cleaner during a single visit.

There's more to total comfort in your home than simply regulating the temperature. Your local dealer can show you how to improve the quality of the air you and your family breathe.

EXPECTED DROP IN MORTGAGE RATES BY 1990

Interest rates on new-home mortgages will peak slightly above 16 percent in 1982 before declining to about 12 percent by 1990, according to a forecast by an affiliate of the Wharton School.

The firm predicts rates will drop enough to enable financing of "pent-up demand" for houses as credit conditions ease.

Create clean, cozy home by eliminating winter woes

Button up your overcoat and bundle up your abode — take steps to conquer the cold by adding some safe, secure and warm touches to the home in preparation for the winter months ahead. While it's almost time to pull out the wools and zip in the linings, it's also time to wrap up the house or apartment against the chilling winds to come.

With no end in sight to the energy crunch, it's up to individuals to take advantage of some simple money-saving ideas that will keep heat inside to work extra hard to warm the home.

By sealing the house against winter winds, home dwellers can be warmer while reducing energy costs, but unfortunately they may also suffer the effects from irritating chemical fumes emanating from cleaning compounds that are locked into the home when windows and doors are shut tight.

Clean indoor air

Before tightening up the leaks from foundation to roof top, consider adjusting the indoor cleaning program to include only non-irritating products to maintain clean air indoors all year long.

Some safe substitutes include oxygen bleaches instead of chlorinated brands; olive oil, lemon oil or beeswax in place of commercial furniture polish.

• Strategic planning. With a plan for clean indoor air in the works and a few warm days left in the forecast, take some time to schedule various house-bundling activities on the calendar for the weeks ahead.

This way, daylong jobs can be determined in advance while tasks that require little time can be managed around already planned events. Ideally, outdoor activities should be carried out first while inside tasks can be scheduled later in the season.

• Give windows the works. Get ahead of the cold drafts by tackling the windows early. Storm windows are an excellent means of stopping cold air from penetrating into the home. And, sparkling clean windows serve an additional purpose by allowing the greatest amount of sun rays in to warm the air.

Take advantage of warm autumn days by thoroughly polishing both storm and regular windows, inside and out, with a safe and effective cleaning agent

Weatherstripping important

Once windows are in place for the season, it is important to weatherstrip around them to prevent the slightest amount of air from leaking in. On cloudy winter days, blinds or curtains should be closed for extra insulation.

• Don't forget the doors. If there is more than one entrance to the home, consider closing one off for the winter months by sealing the gaps with weatherstripping material. To keep air from getting under doors that are regularly used, place draft dodgers or cozy kittens, which are long, decorated tubes filled with fibers or sand, along door bottoms.

Since sliding glass doors are great heat losers, consider installing a window quilt, a layered polyester item covered with decorative fabric, during the cold season.

• Energy-efficiency in every room. Furniture placement within each room can be critical in achieving the greatest warmth. Large items should be moved away from heating registers so that air flow is not obstructed. Sofas and chairs might be moved away from doors and windows so they aren't chilled by any possible cool air creeping inside.

An added warming touch is to lay throw rugs on hard floors which are not only kinder to bare feet, but also improve the insulation factor in the room.

Caulk any small cracks in walls, ceilings and floors where air may leak in or out to eliminate any additional drafty spots, remember to close the damper on the fireplace when not in use.

Bath water warms

Even the bathroom can become an energy-saver. By limiting the use of fans, less heated air is able to escape. Then after a hot bath, allow the water to stand before draining, to put additional warmth into the air.

Double-duty oven

To keep the kitchen cozy, get double use of the heat in a just-used oven by warming plates or rolls before a meal or by opening the door to let the heat escape. A heat reducing tip is to use glass or ceramic baking dishes which require a lower setting, as much as 25 degrees.

If you're energy-wise, now's the time to winterize

Although the mercury is only beginning its annual descent toward colder temperatures, energy-wise homeowners should be aware that now is the time to winterize and ward off higher energy bills.

The first step—and one which offers the greatest potential savings—is to see if your attic is adequately insulated. What's adequate? It depends on the climate where you live.

Experts at the CertainTeed Home Institute say that even six inches (R-19) of insulation generally means an under-insulated attic.

If you live further north, where winters are severe, you should have 12 inches (R-38) of fiber glass insulation or more. And, in the south, six inches (R-19) or less will be inadequate when it comes to controlling year 'round energy consumption.

Check windows and doors next

Once you've taken care of your attic, the next energy-wise step is to check around windows and doors.

Hold a lighted candle around the frames and sashes of your windows. If the flame dances around, you need caulking or weatherstripping.

Try slipping a quarter under the door. If it goes through easily, you need weatherstripping there.

Both caulking and weatherstripping are easy and inexpensive do-it-yourself projects. You'll find everything you need for the job at a local home center.

More energy-wise steps

Now that you have taken the biggest steps toward winterizing your home, the CertainTeed Home Institute experts recommend the following to save even more:

- Check your furnace for efficiency.
- Repair hot water faucet leaks.
- Pull draperies shut at night.
- Open draperies to let in sun during the day.
- Turn down the thermostat at night and when you're away from home.
- Close the fireplace damper when not in use.

Energy-saving steps pay for themselves

In a recent study by the National Association of Home Builders, a home with a number of energy-saving features, including upgraded levels of insulation, used 70 percent less energy for heating than a similar home without the energy-saving features.

In fact, energy experts at the CertainTeed Home Institute report that upgraded levels of fiber glass insulation can pay for themselves through energy savings in just a few years. (Savings vary. Find out why in the seller's fact sheet on R-values. Higher R-values mean greater insulating power.)

For more information on fiber glass insulation, how to insulate your attic yourself, and the recommended amount of insulation for the area in which you live, write for the free booklet "Insulation Facts." It's available free from the CertainTeed Home Institute, P.O. Box 860, Valley Forge, PA 19482.

If you'd like information on finding a contractor to do the work for you, ask the Institute for "Tips on Choosing an Insulation Contractor."

Foam or caulking: when to use what

Homeowners have two excellent, time-tested ways to seal, insulate and protect their homes from the approaching winter season — polyurethane foam sealant and siliconized acrylic caulk. But how can you tell which to use, and when?

- How big is the area, hole or crack to be filled and sealed? If it is one quarter of an inch or larger, foam is usually best to use. Foam is ideal for filling voids, the larger the better, since one can of foam equals 15 tubes of conventional caulk.

Caulk small cracks

Foam naturally fills the entire space and is less likely to have unseen gaps. Small, thin cracks, however, are more easily filled with caulk. The resilience and body of acrylic caulk make it the best long range bet for use in crevices and small corners and near edges.

- How deep or hard to reach is the area to be filled?

Polyurethane foam's ability to expand and conform to deep recesses and hard-to-reach areas make it the choice for jobs such as filling the area around electrical boxes in walls.

- How about moisture? Both foam and caulk, once in place, are excellent sealants against water. If the surfaces to be sealed are moist in the first place, however, polyurethane foam should be used. Not only is foam adhesion not affected by water, but moisture present actually helps to cure it.

Choice for kitchens, baths

For areas around the kitchen and bathrooms, however, caulk's color, workability, and mildew resistance make it the choice.

- How about appearance? Both foam and caulk can be applied in neat beads, particularly when dispensed from convenient aerosol cans. Both can be painted as well. However, if the filled surface is to be perfectly flush with the existing surface, caulk is usually easier to smooth at the edges.

Keep both materials around the home to keep out moisture, dust and insects while keeping expensive heat in this winter.

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

"Short and to the point." Everyone has heard the expression. It has more meaning that most people suspect. Let's think about it — Our eyes and ears see and hear tens of thousands of words every day. In advertising alone, the average family sees or hears more than 1,500 ads a day. Most of what we see and hear is quickly forgotten. Why is this? These illustrations may help to explain...

Compare the nature of these tens of thousands of words with the number and nature of the world's most widely known words. The Lord's Prayer has only 56 words! The most important piece of writing the world has ever seen has only 297 words! — The Ten Commandments! There are only 300 words in the Declaration of Independence! Lincoln's immortal Gettysburg Address has only 286 words! St. John wrote: "Jesus wept." Just two words, but they stir one's feelings with understanding.

By comparison, a written order by the government was issued covering the price of a head of cabbage. It was almost 27,000 words long! Get the point? We think you will...

Police Alert

Quincy Police Dept.

Purse Snatching

Purse snatching is the category of crime in which older persons are particularly vulnerable.

The best way to avoid purse snatching is, of course, not to carry one. This is not as impractical as it might first appear. The chief reason a woman carries a purse is force of habit. It might be worth modifying that habit to reduce the opportunity for crime.

It is always a wise idea to carry your house keys separately from your other things. That way, if your purse is stolen, the keys won't be there along with your address. You might even carry your house key on a chain around your neck.

Put a small amount of cash or credit cards in either a wallet or a compact cosmetic case and carry it concealed in a coat pocket. Some women have small hidden pockets sewn in their coats for the same purpose.

If you must carry a purse:

Don't dangle it by your side in a way that a thief can run by you and grab it. Carry the purse close to your body, preferably in front.

If possible, carry your purse upside down with your hand on the clasp. In that way, if someone tries to grab it away from you, you can open the purse so the contents will spill on the ground.

Bulky purses are the easiest to spot and grab, although shoulder bags are harder to get free. Don't wrap the strap around your wrist; you're likely to get hurt if the robber yanks hard.

If someone does grab your purse, don't attempt to resist or fight him off. You're likely to get injured in the process.

Sit down. If you're carrying a whistle, blow it repeatedly and observe the robber closely and try to get a good description for the police.

The clinic will be under the direction of Jane Mudge, R.N. she says past clinics have been successful and "benefit anyone who has decided to stop smoking." She uses films, behavior modification, relaxation techniques, and the American Cancer Society's "I Quit" kit in the clinic.

WE'RE FIGHTING FOR YOUR LIFE

Quincy 20, Revere 0

By TOM SULLIVAN

Quincy football coach Tom Fitzgerald is still on Cloud 9 following his team's third straight victory, but he is more than a little worried as the Presidents prepare for their biggest test of the season Saturday when he realizes he could be brought down to earth again.

Quincy, following impressive wins over Cambridge Rindge and Latin (33-16) and Everett (39-16), defeated Revere, 20-0 last Saturday at Revere.

But it could be a far different story this Saturday when the Presidents host Waltham (2-0) in a Suburban league game which will be one of the top games in Div. 1. Waltham bombed Brookline, 43-6, and last week topped Malden, 19-7, as it invades Quincy Veterans Stadium for a 1:30 p.m. meeting.

"We will have to do a lot better against Waltham than we did at Revere, especially in the first half," Fitzgerald said. "We just didn't execute well in the first half and were fortunate to be leading at halftime. We did improve in the second half, but it was our defense which carried us through."

"Waltham is always tough and they have an outstanding team this year. That boy (Steve) Giusti is as good a back as we'll face all year."

Quincy operated without fullback Ted Walsh, still sidelined following a hip injury suffered late in the Everett game, but big Chris McCray did well in his place.

Quarterback Bob Mudge had another good day as he threw his seventh touchdown pass and fifth to Capt. Kevin Riggs, and handled the ball well. Mike Notarangelo, Chris Draicchio, Mark Righini

Quincy Scoring

	TD	PAT	Pts.
Riggs	5	0	30
Draicchio	3	0	18
Righini	2	0	12
Harte	0	8	8
Notarangelo	1	0	6
Cullen	1	0	6
Mudge	1	0	6
Gilbody	1	0	6

and Greg Keefe all ran well.

The offensive line played another good game with John Carr, Bob Willard, Jamie Gravales, Joe Harte, Dan Mahoney, Paul Gilbody and Mark Glynn turning in excellent performances.

Defensively everyone shone and Fitzgerald had words of praise for Willard, Harte, Gravales, Kevin Cabezas, who filled in at linebacker when Riggs suffered a knee injury; McCray, Rich Ready, Brian Callahan, Mike Miller, Glen Oriola, Chris Shaughnessy, Righini, Carr and John O'Donoghue.

Quincy scored in the second quarter when Mudge hit Riggs with a 69-yard scoring pass and Harte kicked the point.

Late in the half Harte just missed on a 40-yard field goal try and the Presidents held a 7-0 halftime edge.

In the third quarter Notarangelo broke loose for a 40-yard touchdown run. A rush for the two points was stopped.

Draicchio scored the final TD in the last quarter from the four-yard line and Harte kicked the point.

Pappas Stars, Quincy Upsets Weymouth, 14-6

Charley Pappas, the floating end, scored one touchdown on a pass interception and set up another when he forced a fumble as the Quincy High School football team upset Weymouth, 14-6, at Quincy Municipal Stadium.

Pappas, whose defensive work played a major role in earlier victories over Brookline and New Bedford, intercepted a pitch out with a clear field ahead on his own 48 yard line and romped 52 yards for the score that gave Quincy a 7-0 lead.

In the fourth period, with Weymouth only a point in arrears, Pappas popped Maroon quarterback Jack Coveney so hard that he fumbled on the Weymouth 18 and three plays later Charley Sacchetti bulldozed into the end zone to put the game away.

GILBODY SPARKS NORTH

Jack Gilbody replaced the injured Jack McGuigan at quarterback and piloted the North Quincy High School football team to a 28-7 rout of Hingham in a game in which teammate John Santasuosso rushed for three touchdowns.

North scored the first time it laid hands on the ball with Santasuosso bucking over from the five-yard-line after a sustained march of 90 yards that included a 30-yard-run by Vernon Young and a 16-yard pass from Gilbody to Dick Worthley.

Gilbody, who completed six of seven passes for 151 yards, scored the final Raider touchdown himself in the fourth quarter, running 12 yards to pay dirt after Joe Collins had forced a Hingham fumble on the 37-yard line.

The North lineup included: Wray, Marr, Yondette, ends; Doherty, Collins, DiBona, tackles; Creedon, Wright, guards; Bohannon, Dodd, centers; Gilbody, Worthley, Jensen, Welch, Nelson, Young, Santasuosso, Black, backs.

UNBEATEN MANETS WIN

Capt. Dick Grey blocked a punt and guard Ray Pece recovered the ball for a touchdown to send the Quincy Manets off to a 20-0 victory over the Hartford Pros at Municipal Stadium and gave the Manets a 6-0 record atop the New England Pro Football Conference.

The kicking of Wally Williams kept Hartford in constant trouble as the former Boston University star got off boots that included one of 73 yards and another of 60 yards. Lanny Lombardi and George Sullivan scored the other Quincy touchdowns.

The Manets lineup included: Murphy, Roberts, Lynch, ends; Kilrain, Scarborough, DiBona, Caruso, tackles; Dorr, Pece, Leahy, Oteri, guards; Grey, center; Williams, Lombardi, Fortin, Mannome, St. Peter, Dudman, Conroy, Salvucci, Morelli, Halpin, backs.

FIRST REFEREE

Douglas J. "Doug" McKinnon of 70 Sealund Rd., Montclair, a former amateur and pro fighter, became the first licensed boxing referee in Quincy when he received a license from the Massachusetts Boxing Commission.

McKinnon, whose boxing career was managed by Jimmy Gardner and who trained with Jack Sharkey, Tommy Loughran and Jim Maloney, was best remembered as the only man to knock out Big Boy Burlap, the sensational 6-foot-3, 270 pound black heavyweight.

AIMOLA TD WINNER

Big Dolph Aimola crashed over from the two-year-line with the only touchdown of the game as the Whiteman AA of Quincy upset the Dorchester Falcons, 6-0, at Municipal Stadium for their second straight victory. Mario Casale recovered a fumble to start the TD drive.

FIRST WOMAN

Virginia Doyle of Wollaston became one of the first women to play in a Professional Golf Association tourney when she was named by Wollaston Pro Charley Molloy as one of his partners in the Cape Cod Indian Summer Pro-Amateur at Hyannisport.

MANETS SWAMPED

The travel-weary Quincy Manets were held to minus 11 yards on the ground and in the air during the course of a 41-0 thrashing at the hands of the Charlotte Clippers in Charlotte, N.C., the worst defeat in the 26-year history of the club.

FARRELL, McHENRY STAR

Terry Farrell ran and Gerry McHenry passed the Quincy Warriors to a 26-12 victory over the Randolph Town Team despite a sensational performance by Randolph's George Hoeg, who passed for both his team's touchdown, including one on a 70-yard heave.

Raiders Seek 2nd Win Against Cambridge

Ken McPhee has his first victory as North Quincy's football coach after two frustrating weeks and he hopes his Raiders don't go into Saturday's game against Cambridge Rindge and Latin thinking they'll have a breeze.

North, after being walloped by Milton and Brockton, got into the win column last Saturday with an impressive 17-8 victory over Suburban League rival Newton North at Newton.

This Saturday the Raiders meet Cambridge in a 1:30 league game at MIT Field and Cambridge's 0-3 record (33-16 loss to Quincy, 43-6 to Leominster and 26-0 to B.C. High) could make them a bit overconfident.

"I have to guard against that, as teams like Cambridge can wreck you if you take them lightly," said an obviously pleased McPhee following the big win at Newton. North Quincy's first win over Newton North since 1977.

North played without its top two quarterbacks. Vin Barry was sidelined and No. 2 Dan Ceurvels is out for the season.

McPhee went all the way with sophomore Dave Zurums, who had shown promise at Brockton after the top two were hurt. He threw two interceptions, but had an excellent day as he completed 10 of 14 passes for 88 yards.

North's defense, which was very disappointing in the first two games, made a complete turnaround and turned in an excellent performance.

"We made a few adjustments and they paid off," said defensive coordinator Jack Raymer. "Everyone of them did a superb job and Newton's only touchdown came after we fumbled on our own 12-yard line."

Raymer had good words for everyone, praising Jim Kelly, Nick Gelsomini, Gerry Connolly, Fred Peterson, Rich DeLuca, Dave Ceurvels, Bob Leonard, who played another superlative game; Jim McNamara, Mike Gill, Jack Bolster, Jim Kennedy, Shawn Cunningham, Rich Tapper, Rich Brown and Bobby Walker.

"We gave them two excellent opportunities thanks to intercepted passes, but we stopped them both times," Raymer said.

Dave DiCarlo had his best day and sparked the offense with 125 yards rushing and two touchdowns. McPhee also had good words for Scott Messina, Brown, Mike Cullen and John Kozlowski

Gill, who had never kicked in a game, kicked a 29-yard field goal and both extra points and could be a key in close games in the future.

North clicked off 13 first downs as the offensive line had its best day. Connolly, Kelly, Gelsomini, Pete Clark, Ken Wright, Brian McGuinnis, Brian Ellis, Neil Leonard and Jack Hannan all played outstanding ball.

DiCarlo put North on the board first in the opening quarter with a six-yard run and Cullen kicked the point.

Gelsomini fell on a Newton fumble and, with 11 seconds left in the half, Cullen kicked his field goal to give North Quincy a 10-0 halftime edge.

DiCarlo put the frosting on the cake on the first play from scrimmage in the second half when he raced 62 yards for a TD and Cullen again kicked the point.

New Motorboats Must Be Registered

Boatowners who move to Massachusetts must now register their motorboats in this state, even if they are registered under the laws of another state or the U.S.

government, says Sen. Paul D. Harold.

New legislation, now in effect, requires that after 60 days, a motorboat registered in another jurisdiction must have a Massachusetts boat registration.

Formerly, federally-registered motorboats did not have to be registered in Massachusetts, and those registered in another state had a 90-day grace period before a Massachusetts registration was required.

Harold noted that if the out-of-state registration expires before the 60 days is up, the motorboat must be registered here immediately.

North, Cambridge Tie 1-1

The North Quincy boys' soccer team, tied for second place in the Suburban League, played to 1-1 stalemate with Cambridge Rindge and Latin and Newton North last week.

The Raiders will host Sharon in a non-league game Friday, will be home to Waltham next Tuesday in a league game and will play at Oliver Ames of North Easton next Wednesday in a non-league.

The North defense has given up only three goals in the last three games against strong teams.

North scored first against Newton as Peter McGillicuddy's throw-in was skimmed by Jim Boudreau to Mike Bourikas, whose head shot beat the Newton goalie. North dominated play throughout the first half and just missed going up, 2-0, when Greg DiBella's hard shot from 25 yards out just cleared the crossbar.

North had a goal called back early in the third quarter and Newton tied the score with 11 minutes left in that quarter.

DiBella, Alex Coutts, Mike Cocce and Jaime Paz keyed the defense, which held Newton to six shots.

The Raiders also tied league-leading Cambridge, which boasts the league's top scorer in Alvaro Ibanes. Ibanes showed all his best moves but was held in check most of the game by David Brown and Terry Stark. Ibanes tied the score in the second quarter to give his team a 1-0 lead at the half.

North saved its best soccer for the last quarter, fired up by the inspired play of Coutts, playing with a severely bruised ankle, and DiBella. With a minute and a half left McGillicuddy played the hero's role. He took a becoming punt from goalie Bob O'Brien and scored from 18 yards out to tie the score.

Scott Caldwell came in at full-back to replace Coutts and played well. Also playing well were Stark, Brown, Nunzio Carbone and George Dolbec.

North Girls Win, 4-0

North Quincy girls' soccer team, coached by Leo Donovan, defeated Cambridge Rindge and Latin, 4-0, last week, to even its record at 2-2-1. Debbie Kiley, Liz Toland, Lisa McCormack and Mary Holleran scored the goals.

North had opened its season with a 2-0 win over Weymouth South as Kiley and Lisa Reynolds scored the goals. Sheila Graham played well in goal.

The Raiderettes played well against Brookline but dropped a 1-0 squeaker in the final minute.

North went to Brockton where it lost, 4-1, with Holleran having the Raiderettes' goal on a penalty kick.

North then played an outstanding game to tie Suburban League champion Newton North, 1-1. Kiley tied the game with Holleran assisting. The entire team played an inspired game.

The varsity squad comprises Tri-Captains Kiley, Lisa Julian and Janet Zdzankowski, Michele Burke, McCormack, Toland, Holleran, Graham, Debbie Mosher, Debbie Cavanaugh, Lisa

● Cross Country

Raiderettes Defeat Waltham

The North Quincy girls' cross-country team started last week where it left off a year ago as it defeated Waltham, 20-35.

The Raiderettes, 10-1 last season and Eastern Mass. Div. 2 champs the past two years, were led by Sheila Barrett, who covered the 2.35-mile course in 14:17.

North's other scorers were Linda Kennedy, third; Diane Lindenfelzer, fourth; Meg Leary, fifth and Tracy Corrigan, seventh. Maryann Kelleher was eighth.

North's boys were not so fortunate as they dropped a 22-35 decision to Waltham.

Ventola, Michele Ceurvels, Karen Bryan and Marie McGurl.

The junior varsity is coached by Kevin Jago and the squad is made up of Jo-Ann Zdzankowski, Patricia Grant, Kathy Stark, Nancy Leonard, Katie Wilson, Lisa Strykes, Michele Miller, Lisa Corbett, Erin Fitzgerald, Ellen Burke, Michele Fisk, Mary Fitzgerald, Debbie Doherty, Susan Durkin and Susan Amendolare.

The Raiderettes will play at Waltham Tuesday at 3:30.

'Pirates Of Penzance' To Be Presented At ENC

Gilbert and Sullivan's musical "The Pirates of Penzance" will be presented at the Mann Student Center Auditorium on the campus of Eastern Nazarene College Oct. 21-24, 26-27.

"Pirates" follows last year's performance of "Oliver" and will be produced and directed by Ronda Rice Winder, who directed productions as "Man of La Mancha," "Fiddler on the Roof," "Shenandoah," and "Pacific Overtures."

Written by Gilbert and Sullivan

In 1880, "Pirates" has been revived by New York producer Joseph Papp into an upbeat musical comedy in which pop-star Linda Ronstadt played one of the leading roles. This production of "Pirates" has received critical acclaim throughout the nation and is still playing on Broadway.

Starring in ENC's homecoming production of "Pirates" are: Duane Hespell, a sophomore from Souderton, PA, as Frederick; Senior Cathy Given of Weymouth, MA, as Mabel; sophomore Michael Kreitman of Quincy, MA, as the Major General; junior Bill Stadler of Acton, ME, as the Pirate King; James Byrne of Weymouth, MA, as the Sergeant of Police; and sophomore Joanna Wilcox of Harrisburg, PA as Ruth. Directing the Orchestra is Kelly Lambert from South Lyon, Michigan. In all, there are over 40 cast members involved in the production.

Performance dates are: Oct. 21 at 7 p.m.; Oct. 22 at 6 and 9 p.m.; Oct. 23 at 6 p.m.; Oct. 25 and 26 at 7 p.m. For more information or tickets call (617) 773-6350.

STARSCOPE

by Clare Annsweil

WEEK OF: OCTOBER 7

AQUARIUS - January 21-February 19

Spend a little more time pursuing short-term goals; they can be yours by Wednesday. Rivals are using new tactics, but don't try to beat them at their own game.

PISCES - February 20-March 20

Seeking appraisals is highlighted, but sell nothing till you've checked with several authorities. Family life will deepen unless you're willing to make at least the first two moves.

ARIES - March 21-April 20

A decision involving principles dominates this period. Follow your own advice over that of well-meaning friends. Financially, an optimistic week; intuition is strong in this area.

TAURUS - April 21-May 22

Face to face encounter with someone you've avoided could take place on the weekend. News from faraway place is unexpectedly encouraging. Financial forecast shows signs of gradual recovery.

GEMINI - May 23-June 21

Yours is the role of mediator, settling disputes among family and colleagues alike. Pets can figure in the picture - you may adopt one, or vice-versa. Romance is upbeat through weekend.

CANCER - June 22-July 22

Postponements and delays slow you down, but romantic and family reconciliations pick up your spirits. Competitions are spotlighted; this could be the week you take home 'the trophy.

LEO - July 23-August 22

Forecasters are not as reliable as you and they seem to think, in doubt refer to past history. Ideas may come under fire, absorb the criticism before stating your case.

VIRGO - August 23-September 22

Don't expect to coast on recent success. To prosper now, inventiveness is your key word. Emotional ups and downs are settling; by Tuesday, it's smooth sailing for romance.

LIBRA - September 23-October 22

Ideas not fully developed can backfire. Care and thoroughness will pay large dividends. Financial suggestions are on the right track but need further clarification.

SCORPIO - October 23-November 21

Health concerns become a priority; take no short cuts in this area. Travelers brighten; the key now is to find an appropriate companion - you don't have to look far at all.

SAGITTARIUS - November 22-December 22

Friend's criticisms are unusually harsh, perhaps reflecting some strain he/she is under. A financially flush week, the time may be right to pamper yours truly.

CAPRICORN - December 23-January 20

Take advantage of family's unanimity, which lasts through the weekend. If dealing with other people's emotions or finances, pursue a more conservative approach.

Council Committee OKs Data Processing Dept.

Mayor Francis X. McCauley's proposal to set up a Data Processing Department in the city government got the wholehearted approval of a special study committee Monday night.

The proposal includes the transfer of equipment from the School Department and the creation of three new jobs, a director at $42,000 a year, a program analyst at $25,000 and a scheduler at $15,000.

"There are advantages to immediate implementation," said the report of the special committee, which was chaired by City Councillor Richard J. Koch Jr.

"The minimal cost involved in obtaining equipment from the school system, the reserve capacity in that system, and the savings of over $100,000 in taking over the duties which the city now contracts out, such as parking tickets and tax bills, are a few advantages."

Koch said the committee reviewed the proposed salaries "and feels the salaries are justified."

"It is also the wish of this committee that the director, through the mayor, report back to this council with a proposed goal on upgrading the system within an 18-month period," said the report.

It was suggested that one city councillor be added to the data processing advisory committee.

Members of the special study committee included Koch, Councillors Stephen J. McGrath and Joanne Condon, assisted by James Bartlett, head of Northeastern's Computer Science Institute.

The committee's report was forwarded to the Ordinance Committee for further hearing.

Glaucoma Screening Clinic Oct. 20

Dr. James Will, Quincy dentist, announces that the Quincy Lion's Club and City of Quincy will co-sponsor a glaucoma screening clinic, Wednesday Oct. 20, 2-4 p.m. and Wednesday Nov. 3, 2-4 p.m.

Those persons who have glaucoma will not receive treatment since the purpose of this examination is to detect the disease.

All persons over 45 years old should have this painless test done.

Glaucoma is one of the leading causes of blindness in the United States today. Increased pressure within the eye causes damage to the vision, creating what is commonly called "tunnel vision". The victim loses side or peripheral vision first. "When detected early, Glaucoma is treatable", says Dr. Will.

All residents of Quincy are urged to call, 773-1380 Ext. 219, Kennedy Health Center, for an appointment.

NFPA Host

The National Fire Protection Association (NFPA) in West Quincy is host to another world-wide conference this week, this time for the Building Electrical Installation Committee of the International Electrotechnical Commission.

The Commission is currently trying to develop an international electric code which would include a standardization of wiring practices that can be universally followed.

Committee members were welcomed Monday by NFPA President Robert W. Grant, Gov. Edward J. King, Mayor Francis X. McCauley and Sen. Paul D. Harold. The conference goes on to Friday.

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy was scheduled to address the conference yesterday (Wednesday).

Racial Study Sought Mayor Asks For More Evidence

By TOM HENSHAW

The South Shore Coalition for Human Rights has asked Mayor Francis McCauley to appoint a commission to study racial problems in Quincy, which last week was called "probably the most racist city in America" by a state official.

McCauley said he would have no comment until he had seen the request, which was contained in a letter that was sent to him Tuesday by Coalition President Abe Cohen of Quincy.

The letter praised John Comer, director of the Quincy Housing Authority, for his handling of recent incidents of racial harassment in public housing in Germantown and asked the mayor to take the issue one step further.

"In our opinion," said the letter, "a committee appointed by you to look into the situation thoroughly would be effective at this time."

"We do agree with you, Mr. Mayor, that Mr. Comer's handling of recent incidents of racial harassment in Germantown was correct in bringing the problem into the open and handling it publicly.

"By following Mr. Comer's example and bringing the issue of racism in Quincy into the open we can improve this unhealthy situation."

"The Coalition is ready to cooperate with you in any way that might be productive to our joint goal of making Quincy a better city in which to live."

While McCauley had no comment he did say that he would prefer to wait for more substantial evidence before acting on the racism charge, which was made by David Harris of Randolph, deputy commissioner of the State Department of Commerce and executive director of Minority Business Assistance.

"There is nothing to investigate," said McCauley. "I have asked Mr. Harris to document his

Makeup Flu Clinic Set For Oct. 19

The Health Department will hold a free makeup flu clinic for Quincy residents only Tuesday, Oct. 19, from 3 p.m. to 7 p.m. at the John F. Kennedy Health Center, 1120 Hancock St.

Health Commissioner Dr. M. Grace Hussey said the special clinic is for adults age 29 and over who were unable to attend previous free clinics.

She said shut-ins should call the Health Department at 773-1380, Extension 458, to arrange a house visit as soon as possible.

Flu vaccine will be administered to persons under age 29 only at the written request of a physician.

Dr. Hussey said annual immunization against the flu is recommended for persons in the older age group, particularly those over 65, and persons in rest homes and other elderly facilities.

Lydon Resolve Supports Of Anti-Obscenity Bill

City Council President John J. Lydon Jr. plans to file a resolve at Monday's Council meeting in support of legislation that would permit cities and towns to regulate obscene book stores by zoning.

The bill was filed in the State Legislature by Rep. William R. Keating of Sharon, whose constituents in Stoughton have been fighting an adult bookstore in the downtown area for several months.

Keating's bill was passed by the House and is presently before the State Senate.

Lydon said he feels that cities and towns should have the right to regulate such establishments and he is asking fellow councillors to urge a favorable vote from the Senate.

Tax Collections Top $1 Million

Mayor Francis X. McCauley reported Tuesday that the city has collected $1,049,530 in property taxes in the first five days since bills for the first half of fiscal 1983 went out Oct. 1.

"I want to thank all those who paid their bills in advance of the Nov. 1 due date," said the mayor. "It has enabled us to end our short term borrowing and save on interest costs."

The first half tax bills are estimated based on one half the tax paid in fiscal 1982.

After 64 Suspensions 4 Fired At Shipyard

Four of the 64 suspended union workers at the General Dynamics Fore River Shipyard were fired Tuesday in the dispute between Local 5 and the company over overtime.

Jonathan Brandow, president of Local 5, said two of those who were dismissed were union officers, shop stewards Louise Waldstein and Henry Benda.

Brandow said 57 workers were suspended for three days and seven were suspended indefinitely and 300 others received disciplinary warnings for refusing to work overtime.

Fellow workers at the shipyard held a rally on their lunch hour last Thursday in support of those who were suspended and a gate collection was taken Friday for the support of their families.

Evelyn Murphy, spokesman for the shipyard, said the company would have no comment on the demonstration.

Just before the rally began at the main gate on East Howard St., Henry Benda, a shop steward and a chipper, walked out of the gate and said he had been suspended for refusing overtime last weekend.

Benda said his "reasonable excuse" for not accepting the over-time work was that he had to attend a union meeting, a reason he said had always been accepted before.

Brandow accused General Dynamics of mismanaging the shipyard and "trying to get the people to wildcat (strike) so they can close the yard and blame it on the workers."

General Dynamics, whose work force is down to 2,300, has been laying off workers recently due to lack of work. A multi-million dollar Navy contract has been secured but work won't start until next spring.

Brandow said that since members of his union have been refusing overtime, the number of layoffs has been slowed down "which tells us they were using overtime to speed up the layoffs."

The union president said Local 5's contract with the company specifies that "reasonable excuses" can be used to turn down overtime.

He said that a worker whose wife had just had both legs amputated was told that his excuse of wanting to be with her in a time of emotional need was "invalid."

Another worker, he said, was told that "he had no right to take his children to a religious school on Saturday, even though he has done so for years."

Brandow said the union is trying to build a legal case around the large number of suspensions, some of which he said were selective. He also proposed that the matter be taken to arbitration.

High School Graduates Survey Starts Oct. 20

The Quincy public schools will conduct a telephone survey of all 1982 graduates from North Quincy High School, Quincy Vocational-Technical School.

Tax Signs Stolen

Those signs in front of City Hall restricting parking to those who are paying their taxes were newly installed Tuesday.

Tony Siciliano of General Services said the old ones, all 12 of them, were stolen over the weekend.

Boats Looted

Three boats were reported burglarized over the weekend at the Bay State Yacht Sales at Boston Harbor Marina.

Included in the loot was a Mercury outboard motor, a propeller, two canvas chair covers and a used boat. The items totalled $3,000 in value.

The questions are brief and if the graduate is not present any adult member of the family may respond.

The telephoning will be during early evening hours approximately 5 to 7:30 p.m. beginning Oct. 20 and will continue one week to complete the survey.

The cooperation of the graduates and their families will be greatly appreciated.

Koch Takes Charge Of Cemetery Dept.

Richard J. Koch, executive secretary to the Park and Recreation Department, took command of the Cemetery Department officially Tuesday and already the comments have been favorable.

"I've had a couple of positive comments about conditions in the cemeteries," said Mayor Francis X. McCauley, noting that Koch's men from the Park Department have been working there for two weeks.

Koch said his men made a pass through the big Mount Wollaston

Cemetery, cutting all the grass to enable the smaller cemetery staff to catch up on maintenance.

"We are trying to bring things under control so we can get off to a head start next spring," said Koch.

Koch said he found that workers in the Cemetery Department "have been discouraged as are all city employees under Proposition 2½" and he hopes that morale will improve with the extra help.

J. Vincent Smyth remains as superintendent of cemeteries under Koch.

"I met with Supt. Smyth and the two foremen to seek their cooperation," said Koch.

"I have learned in my 20 years with the Park, Recreation and Forestry Departments that success is brought about by a team effort with the cooperation of key people.

"I also realize the concerns that have been expressed by people who have loved ones buried there and we will move ahead to see that the cemeteries are better maintained."

Donnelly Scores Reagan On Shipwork To Japan, Korea

Cong. Brian Donnelly has condemned the Reagan administration for its decision "to ship tens of thousands of American jobs to Japanese and Korean shipyards while our shipyards are shutting their gates."

"During a two-day period last month," he charged, "the administration allowed more than $600 million worth of ship construction work to be diverted from American shipyards to other countries."

The Maritime Administration on Sept. 29 and 30 approved plans for six shipping lines to construct or reconstruct ships at foreign shipyards without jeopardizing their federal operating subsidies.

"American shipyards and the American steel industry have collapsed," said Donnelly. "11 million American workers cannot find jobs and the administration is trying to encourage shippers to build their vessels in other countries."

"During the one year that American shippers have been allowed to build overseas without penalty, the Reagan administration approved the export of $1.6 billion in shipbuilding work."

"That's work that should be going to the depression-racked domestic shipbuilding industry and that's more than half a million tons of American steel that will never be sold."

3 Video Games Requested For ENC

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN

Students at Eastern Nazarene College, Wollaston, are proposing to put the video game craze to work raising funds for the student council.

William Dymont and Dale Hathaway of the student council appeared before the License Board Tuesday to request three video machines.

The matter was continued for one week pending a routine police check of MagnaVend which will supply the machines.

Income from the machines will be used for social, spiritual and recreational aspects of campus life, as well as for improvement of the campus, according to Hathaway.

The only people allowed to use the games will be those associated with the school and who hold a school identification card, Hathaway stated.

Game room hours will be Monday, 9:30 a.m. to 11 p.m.; Tuesday, 10:30 a.m. to 11 p.m.; Wednesday, 11 a.m. to 6 p.m., and 7 p.m. to 11 p.m.; Thursday, 10:30 a.m. to 11 p.m.; Friday, 9:30 a.m. to 11 p.m.; and Saturday, 4:30 p.m. to 11 p.m., stated Hathaway.

Quincy Junior College was granted two video machine licenses for a similar purpose last June.

NFPA Asked To Help Boarding House Safety

The federal government has asked the National Fire Protection Association of Quincy to find ways of reducing the danger of fire in boarding houses and retirement homes.

Cong. Brian J. Donnelly said the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services asked the NFPA to help develop licensing standards, enforcement procedures and training programs.

The NFPA will work with the National Conference of States on Building Codes and Standards.

"Two million people live in boarding houses in the United States," said Donnelly.

"That population continues to grow as residential treatment and community-based care replaces large institutions for treatment of the mentally ill and the developmentally disabled."

"The need for this type of safety program has been tragically demonstrated in the past few years," added Donnelly, noting that over an 18-month period 119 people perished in boarding house fires.

Document Racist Charges

David Harris' recent racism charge against Quincy has to be a shocker to anyone who has grown up here.

His condemnation is troubling. It's hard to accept — and, frankly, difficult to believe.

"I have travelled over the entire country, and Quincy is probably the most racist city in America," he alleges. "It is certainly the most racist city in New England. I can attest to that."

Ironically, Harris, who is deputy commissioner in the state Department of Commerce and executive director of the Office of Minority Business Assistance, made the charge last week while being honored here.

Harris, who is black, was presented the Citizen of the Year Award of the South Shore Coalition for Human Rights at Quincy Center United Methodist Church.

He should be congratulated on being selected for the honor. But his remarks leave a few questions.

His words are a strong indictment against the city of Quincy and the people who live here.

Quincy has often been referred to as one of America's great "melting pots" where people of all nationalities and religions came as immigrants to begin a new life in a new world and who lived together pretty much in mutual respect and harmony. So have their children and their children's children.

It's been a community where people judge others not by race, nationality or religion but by the kind of person they are.

Now along comes Harris calling Quincy "probably the most racist city in America" ... "Certainly the most racist in New England."

At that point, Harris should have given specific reasons on what he based the two charges. Evidence to back them up.

He says he has travelled all over the country. Does that really make him an expert on racism throughout the country?

Has he really been to EVERY city in the United States and to EVERY city in New England? Has he made a study of EVERY city in the United States and EVERY city in New England? Does he have facts and figures from EVERY city?

And, if he doesn't have facts and figures from every city, can he document his charge?

Quincy is far from perfect. There are racial and other problems here.

There have been recent harassments of two or three black families in the Germantown housing projects. A rock and a beer bottle have been thrown through windows.

The city has moved swiftly to keep these problems from growing.

"We're not going to take that baloney," warned John Comer, executive director of the Quincy Housing Authority.

He vows that anyone involved in racial harassment in Quincy's public housing will be evicted.

Is that a racist city?

Kennedy Says: Democrats Can Win White House With 'Constructive Alternatives'

By TOM HENSHAW

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, who may have a personal stake in the matter, says he feels the Democrats can win the White House in 1984, but first they'll have to offer "a constructive alternative" to the present economic policies of the Reagan administration.

"It isn't enough to talk about the negative aspects of the current economic policy," he said on a visit to The Quincy Sun. "If we are able to get positive alternatives and regain the confidence of the American people then we'll be successful."

As to his own participation in the 1984 election, Kennedy said: "I want to go back to the Senate and represent the people of Massachusetts and let the future take care of itself. Speculation about my political ambitions has been going on since I arrived in the Senate. I understand that. There's not very much I can do about it."

In between probings about his political future, Kennedy found the opportunity to get off a strong indictment of the economic policies of the Reagan administration "that basically work a hardship and unfairness to millions of Americans."

"It's not a new idea to halt inflation by increasing unemployment," he said. "Herbert Hoover did that in the Depression. It's no secret that you can take care of inflation by throwing men and women out of work. But there are other ways of dealing with it."

He suggested that some of those ways include a fair an equitable tax system, investment in human resources, greater stimulation and assistance for small business and "getting the Federal Reserve to respond on the issue of interest rates and extensions of credit."

It is in the interests of changing the country's economic policies, Kennedy explained, that he is making appearances outside of Massachusetts in the midst of his re-election campaign.

"If you're going to change the economic policies you have to do it with the majority members of the Congress," he said. "So I'm going to assist those people who would urge change to gain responsible positions in the Senate. That's why I involve myself in other campaigns."

"This administration is the most like Hoover's of all Republican administrations. If we continue on this course there will be increased unemployment, increased hardship, increased tension in society, increased frustration and an increased danger to the basic fibre of society."

Kennedy said that, with 22 Democrats and 11 Republicans running for re-election to the Senate "it is improbable but not impossible for Democrats to regain control of the Senate. I think we'll make some modest gains in the House, maybe 15 to 18 seats."

On other subjects:

Kennedy said he supports a nuclear freeze because "we have sufficient weapons to destroy all life in the Soviet Union. They have the same. They're ahead in some areas, we're ahead in others. But each of us has the capability to destroy each other many times over."

"It's like two people in a basement up to their waists in gasoline. One has nine matches, the other has eight and they are saying, 'Look, we each have got to have 15 matches.' What possible sense does it make?"

Kennedy said recent contracts awarded to the Fore River Shipyard for construction of pre-position cargo ships for the Navy delivers a clear message that "the shipyard is going to remain open. The medium and long term view of the shipyard is strong. The real problem is the short term."

"The undersecretary of the navy has called the Quincy yard one of the four best in the country. The question is whether we can find ways to get short term repair work in there to cushion the current situation until we get into the long term construction."

Racial Study Committee Asked charges. Unless he comes forward with specific incidents there is not much we can do. Those were rather broad statements he made against the residents of Quincy."

Harris made the charge last Wednesday as he accepted the Citizen-of-the-Year Award from the South Shore Coalition for Human Rights at the Quincy Center United Methodist Church. He said:

"I have traveled over the entire country and Quincy is probably the most racist city in America. It is certainly the most racist city in New England. I can attest to that."

McCauley said he spoke to his aides, Peter Kenney and Arthur Foley, after Harris' charges were made public and, he said, "we have gotten no calls whatsoever reporting racist activities in Quincy. If there are, we'd like to hear about it. We certainly don't want that to happen to anyone."

The 1980 U.S. census indicated that there are 203 black persons living in Quincy out of a total population of 84,743, which comes to 0.2 per cent.

Recently there have been racial problems in the public housing projects in Germantown, where there are six black families among 580 tenants. Most of them have moved in within the past year and there have been incidents of harassment.

John Comer, director of the Quincy Housing Authority, has informed other tenants that they will face eviction if members of their families are found guilty of racial harassment.

"I have been in contact with Mr. Comer and Police Chief Francis X. Finn," said McCauley, "and I back them up 100 per cent. We will see that anyone's right to live in tranquility is not infringed upon."

Truman, Quincy Skip Each Other At Whistlestop

President Harry S. Truman ignored Quincy on his whistle-stop train tour of New England and Quincy gave him the brush-off, too.

The train carrying the President roared through Quincy Depot at 7:42 a.m. bound for Brockton from Boston at a mile-a-minute clip on a campaign swing on behalf of Adlai Stevenson for president against Republican Dwight D. Eisenhower.

The small crowd at the station was made up mostly of commuters waiting for trains to Boston but there were a few people carrying Eisenhower signs and one Quincy couple, Mr. and Mrs. Paul J. Quilty of 37 Eddy St., with a Stevenson-Truman banner.

"Stevenson's radio and television talks won us over this time," said Mrs. Quilty, who said that she and her husband had been registered Republicans for 29 years. "We feel that he is the man for the common people."

Joseph F.X. Doherty, chairman of the Democratic City Committee, and City Councillor David J. Crowley, the Democratic candidate for Congress, were aboard Truman's Boston to Brockton train.

Doherty announced that Stevenson himself would make a 15-minute whistlestop in Quincy on Monday, Oct. 27, arriving at the depot at 9:30 a.m. en route to Brockton.

ON MARRIED TEACHERS

The resignation of Miss Carmela Pepe, a teacher, to be married and her request to be hired on a long-term substitute's basis raised once again the thorny issue of the School Committee's policy of not hiring married women as teachers.

The Rev. Joseph D. Parkman told his colleagues that "this would be a good time to open up the question of married women teachers" and Carter Lee, long a critic of the policy, moved unsuccessfully to rescind the policy on the spot.

"There's justification for the policy," said vice chairman A. Wendell Clark. "We've been trying to encourage youngsters to go into the teaching profession. What will they think if we fill up our system with married teachers, locking the door to them?"

Beauty Hints By Sabina

After shampooing, a hair rinse is used, consisting of water or a mixture of water combined with a mild acid, coloring agent, or special ingredients.

An acid rinse is used to remove soap scum from the hair which forms when the minerals in water and fatty acids in the shampoo combine. Acid rinses make the hair soft, pliable and bright.

A cream rinse may be used to make the hair easier to comb and handle, and because of its low acid properties, is not effective as a soap curd remover.

Other types of rinses are acid-balanced, reconditioning, medicated, color and henna.

Follow the manufacturer's instructions as to the use of these products.

In selecting a shampoo, bear in mind that strongly alkaline shampoos should not be used because they make the hair dry and brittle. Soft water, i.e., rain water or water that has been chemically softened, should be used for shampooing because it contains very small amounts of minerals and lathers freely. Hard water or water containing minerals is not as good.

Briefly, acid-balanced rinses prevent the stripping of color after a tint application, a reconditioning rinse is used after a tint application, while a medicated rinse contains certain medicinal properties which aid in the control of minor dandruff problems. Color rinse is used to add temporary color to the hair while a henna rinse is used as a final rinse to give an auburn tinge to the hair.

4 Firefighters Injured In 2 Fires

Four Quincy firefighters were injured in two fires Friday, one of which was started when a house was struck by lightning.

Lightning struck the chimney of a three family, wooden structure at 59 Mill St., Quincy Point, resulting in a two alarm blaze which caused $25,000 to $30,000 damage.

Two firefighters were injured but remained on duty fighting the fire.

Firefighter Joseph Goodwin suffered a twisted ankle and firefighter David Anderson was cut by flying glass. Both were treated at the scene.

The roof and attic of the building were destroyed and there was heavy water damage to the first and second floors, both of which were occupied.

The owner of the building, Maiga Dambis, lives on the second floor. Two apartments on the first floor were occupied by Raymond Lawyer and Terry Falcone.

Two firefighters and a tenant suffered smoke inhalation after a second fire Friday in a four family house at 56 Tirrell St., North Quincy.

Firefighters James P. Kelly and David DiTullio and tenant Christine Jaime were treated at Quincy City Hospital and released.

According to fire officials, the fire broke out when a curling iron, still plugged in, was left on a bed.

There was an estimated $1,000 damage in the fire which was contained to a second floor bedroom of the building owned by Lorraine Warlick.

There were no reported injuries in a third fire Friday at the home of Joseph Ciruolo of 40 Albertina St., South Quincy. Damage was estimated at $500 in the fire which began when a frayed lamp cord ignited and scorched a wall in a first floor living room.

Bethany To Dedicate Ramp Sunday

Bethany Congregational Church, Coddington and Spear St., Quincy Centre, will dedicate a newly constructed ramp Sunday.

The ramp is located on the Spear Street side of the sanctuary and leads through the large doors into the church library.

Bethany's main sanctuary and parish house are now accessible to handicapped persons for worship and fellowship activities.

On the first floor of the parish house are the Allen Parlor, kitchenette, meeting and class rooms, nursery, library, church office, both pastor's studies, telephones and restroom facilities.

All steps and physical barriers have been eliminated on this floor, for those who are dependent on a wheel chair for mobility, as well as those persons who find a gradual incline with railings easier than using steps.

Bethany Church organized in 1832, is celebrating its sesquicentennial this year. At the annual meeting in January, the congregation voted to adopt ramping the church as its special anniversary year project. The ramp expresses Bethany's intent to be open to all persons, able and disabled.

During the Church School hour, 10 to 11 a.m., special handicap awareness sessions will be held. Lisa and Jerry Birr, and Donna Hansen Bailey, all of whom are blind, will meet with the classes and share how their lives are the same as, and different from, those of sighted persons.

At the 10 a.m. worship service, the prayers, scriptures, hymns and sermon by the pastor, Rev. J. William Arnold, will also focus on the concerns of the handicapped.

At the close of the worship service, about 11 a.m., the congregation will exit through the library door, down the newly completed ramp, and gather on the lawn between the chapel and sanctuary for a brief dedication ceremony. The church school children will also share in the dedication, processing down the ramp carrying banners.

All handicapped and disabled persons in the community regardless of church affiliation or religious background, as well as disabled members of the congregation, are invited to attend as the special guests of Bethany.

NAT'L LUPUS AWARENESS Week will be observed Oct. 18-22. Mayor Francis McCauley presented such a proclamation to Burton and Helen Cook of Quincy, vice presidents of the Mass. Lupus Erythematosis Foundation.

Lupus Awareness Week To Feature Open House

Burton and Helen Cook of 87 Ames St., West Quincy, are vice presidents of the Mass. Lupus Erythematosis Foundation which is observing Lupus Awareness Week Oct. 18-22.

An open house will be held 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. during the week at the Boston office, 120 Tremont St., Tel. 426-1084.

The Cooks, owners of Tags Furniture of Quincy, invite local residents to attend the open house which will feature films, educational material and refreshments.

Locally, Mayor Francis McCauley has proclaimed Lupus Week in Quincy.

Residents are encouraged to learn more about the disease which involves malfunction of the body's defense system. There is no known cause or cure for the disease which fools the body into attacking its own tissue instead of such outside invaders as viruses. Individually tailored medical treatment can bring relief, control and sometimes remission, but not a cure.

It claims 5,000 lives each year, and is more common than muscular dystrophy, multiple sclerosis and leukemia.

The Cooks, Quincy residents for 30 years, are in charge of fundraising for the organization.

Mrs. Cook helped form the National Lupus Foundation in Chicago in 1976. She recently returned from Buffalo, N.Y., where she was a representative of the Mass Chapter at the National Foundation meeting.

In the past, Burton Cook has served as chairman of the nominating committee and vice president of the Mass Foundation.

Active in city affairs, the Cooks are parents of Marcia Cantor of Ottawa, Canada; Laurie Slosberg of Newton; and Susan Ross of Waltham. They also have two grandchildren.

Police Alert

By LT. WILLIAM MURPHY
Quincy Police Dept.

When You're Home And A Burglar Breaks In

The chances are you'll never meet a burglar. They prefer to work with no one else around. They want to be long gone by the time their victims return home.

But what if he breaks in not realizing that you are at home? First and foremost, don't confront him. Chances are if you don't provoke the burglar, he won't harm you.

Don't pull a gun or other weapon on him. He might take it away from you. Or he might use his own weapon.

Don't fight him unless you are attacked. Then fight him with any means at your disposal.

If you have to deal with a burglar face to face, be cooperative but try to remember how he looks — his approximate height and weight, how he is dressed, etc. This will help police identify him later.

If possible, avoid meeting him at all.

Close and lock a door between you and the burglar. Then call police and open a window and shout.

If you wake up and find a burglar in your room, pretend to be asleep until he is gone.

If you come home and see signs that your house has been burglarized, don't go in. The thief may still be inside. Instead, leave the area and call police from a neighbor's phone. Don't enter the house until it has been checked out.

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

Sports fans admire and often hero-worship good athletes. They are imaged as men among men in a man's world. When they return to their locker room with bone-ragging weariness, sweaty bodies and soggy socks, physical competitive confrontation is over. Usually dejected in defeat, smiling and sometimes hilariously happy in victory, their moods vary. Fans and spectators often share their mood. The late Grantland Rice, prominent sports writer, mingled with and knew all the great sport celebrities of his time. He was admired and respected by all who knew him. Perhaps his greatest contribution to sports journalism were his words: "When the One Great Scorer comes . . . To mark against your name . . . He writes, not that you won or lost . . . But how you played the game." . . . We think his words apply to ALL of us, in and out of sports. As usual, your comment pro or con on this thought (or any thought) you read here is welcome and warmly appreciated . . .

'Wild West Barbecue' By The Way Up

Cowboys and cowgirls will be "serving up the grub" and providing after supper entertainment Friday, Oct. 22, when the young people of The Way Up hold their "Wild West Barbecue".

The event, at Union Congregational Church of East Braintree and Weymouth, is open to the public.

Western fare for the night will include apple juice, a deviled egg, salad, barbecued chicken and barbecued spare ribs, Wyoming potatoes, green beans baked with cheese, a squash-carrot casserole, whole kernel corn, Old West Johnny cake and Texas orange custard pudding.

Tickets can be reserved by calling Muriel Burnhauser at 328-6649, mornings.

The barbecue is the second fundraising dinner sponsored by The Way Up this fall.

It is part of a program of dinners to be put on by The Way Up, a teen-managed restaurant experience. Proceeds from the dinner will support the work of the Way Up, specifically a teen employment program and a fund to take South Shore teenagers to a Christian summer camp.

A specialized Christian ministry with unchurched teen-aged girls and boys and their parents, The Way Up is sponsored by South Shore Protestant churches and located at the First Church of Squantum.

Rev. Dr. Gene Langevin, an American Baptist minister and pastor of the Squantum church, is director of The Way Up.

In his role as director, he also serves as chaplain to youth in Quincy Juvenile Court, the District Attorney's Juvenile Diversion Office, and other youth serving agencies.

Pony Express Stewardship Campaign At Faith Lutheran

More than 200 members of Faith Lutheran Church will become saddlebag-carrying "trail bosses" and "route riders" within the next few weeks in their church's Pony Express stewardship campaign.

The Rev. James Kimmell, pastor, said the campaign this year is based on the same concept as the Pony Express of more than a century ago - teamwork.

Christine Ferguson, general manager of the campaign, said 25 leaders of the church have been designated trail bosses, to supervise the relaying of the saddlebags to each of the church's families on Pony Express "run" routes.

Each saddlebag bears the names of 10 church families on the run route. A family fills in an "estimate of giving" card, seals it in an envelope and inserts it in the saddlebag, which then is hand-carried to another family on the route.

"We decided to use this unique approach because we believe stewardship campaigns should be exciting and pleasurable, in addition to," having their serious moments," she said. "And, many dedicated members of the church are hesitant to solicit pledges from their friends and neighbors. With this Pony Express program, there are no solicitations and no pledges."

The Rev. James Kimmell explained that each member is asked simply to estimate the amount he or she will be able to give to the church during the coming year. "Each family makes their decision in the privacy of their home, without any over-the-shoulder "supervision" of someone from the church."

JULIE CHRISTENSON explains to Jimmy Kimmell the coming Pony Express Stewardship drive at Faith Lutheran Church.

He said the Pony Express theme was chosen because of the example set by the highly dedicated riders of the original Pony Express. "In addition to their personal commitment, the secret of their success lay in their ability to work as a team -- each rider dependent on the other to make the relay system work and speed the mail on to its final destination.

Likewise, he said, the success of the church depends on the dedication, commitment and teamwork of each member. "We trust each family to act responsibly in making a decision about the support they will give their church during the coming year."

'Situation Under Control' Sermon At Squantum Church

The congregation of the First Church of Squantum heard the first of a series of four eschatological sermons Sunday when Rev. Dr. Gene Langevin, pastor, preached on the Second Coming of Christ.

The sermon was entitled "Situation Under Control."

Series schedule will be "The Antichrist," Oct. 17; "The Last Judgement," Oct. 24; and "The Consummation of the World," Nov. 7.

The sermon on Reformation Sunday will not be a part of this series.

Scriptures for the morning were taken from 1 Thessalonians 4:13-18 and 5:1-11. Hymns included "Come, Ye Thankful People Come," "All Hail the Power of Jesus' Name," and "Jesus Will Reign Where'er the Sun."

The Chancel Choir sang "How Great Thou Art" as traditionally sung by George Beverly Shea. Mary Ruth Scott directed.

Greeters for the morning were Kathryn Kelly and Barbara Frazer. The Fellowship Hour was hosted by Ida Von Riegers and Delana Dougherty.

The service next Sunday morning will begin at 8 a.m. and 10:15 a.m.

Jerusalem, Holy Land Meeting Oct. 21

Two Quincy religious leaders are members of the board of trustees of the Massachusetts Bible Society which is sponsoring a meeting on Jerusalem and the Holy Land Thursday, Oct. 21.

The meeting will begin at 7:30 p.m. at East Congregational Church, 610 Adams St., East Milton.

The local religious leaders are Rev. Bedros Baharian of 1000 Southern Artery and Rev. Steele

Martin of Christ Church.

Dr. Gary Pratico, a curator of the Harvard University Semitic Museum, will give a presentation with slides about "A Pilgrimage to the Bible Lands."

The public is invited.

In celebration of its 175th anniversary, the society will conduct a pilgrimage to Israel including Jerusalem departing Boston Feb. 9, 1983 and returning Feb. 15, 1983. For more information, call 698-9827 or 542-2224.

'Scripture And Faith' St. John's Series

Fr. Lenny Tighe will present a six week series of talks "Scripture and Faith: From Then to Now", beginning Sunday, at 8 p.m. in St. John's lower church, Quincy Center.

Topics will include the Bible, how God reveals Himself in Scripture, our personal God, God in the flesh today, the community of God.

All are welcome.

QJC Extending Services To Business Community

Quincy Junior College took a major step toward extending its programs and services to the business community when representatives of 16 South Shore banks met in Quincy.

Charles A. Pearce, president of Quincy Savings Bank and a member of the college's board of trustees hosted the breakfast session where Dr. Lawrence P. Creedon, acting president of the college, described ways in which the college can aid banks with seminars, employee training programs and other on-campus and off-campus services.

Through a continuing series of sessions with the banking community, Pearce will be making recommendations to the college for ways in which the two-year institution can serve both the banks and their employees.

Creedon requested assistance from the group in helping the college develop its financial planning. "You are a valuable resource for us," he said.

Taking part in the meeting were William B. Austin, South Shore Bank; William E. Kelley, Hancock Bank; Quinlan J. Sullivan, Jr., U.S. Trust Co.; Lindsay L. Tait, Braintree Savings Bank; David Burr, Old Colony Bank; Richard Coleman, Colonial Federal Savings; John Spruce, Rockland Trust Co.; Edward Piarra, Baybank Norfolk Trust; Roger Goldberg, Hull Cooperative Bank; Luis C. Over 100 QNHS Corporation members and friends gathered at St. John's Hall, Quincy Center, for a business meeting, Italian dinner and celebration of a successful year of community revitalization.

Through the efforts of the Quincy Neighborhood Housing Services "partnership" area residents, city officials, and local lenders and businesses - nearly $450,000 has been invested in housing and capital improvements in Southwest this year.

"A Code of Ethics isn't something you just post on the bulletin board. It's something you live every day."

Suddenly everybody seems to be rediscovering ethics.
Bob Cerasoli set the recent trend in motion.

When Bob entered the Legislature in 1975, he requested an assignment to the Joint Committee on Election Laws. In order to stop campaign fraud and corruption in Massachusetts he immediately set to work rewriting Chapter 55 of the General Laws which now provides for full disclosure of campaign contributions and expenditures.

RESULTS!!

Today, Massachusetts has one of the toughest Campaign Finance Reporting Laws in the country and Bob Cerasoli has since become the youngest Chairman ever appointed to the House Ethics Committee.

If you have been reading the newspapers during the last four years, then you know Bob Cerasoli has played a major role in working to eliminate graft and corruption in Massachusetts' politics.

At a time when people have become frustrated with the political system and its leaders, others were just talking about tough Ethics Laws. Bob co-authored and co-sponsored with Common Cause/Massachusetts one of the strongest State Ethics Laws ever enacted in the United States.

RESULTS!!

Today, Massachusetts has its first State Ethics Commission, a strong Conflict of Interest Law and mandatory Financial Disclosure. All a direct result of Bob Cerasoli's legislation.

FONDUE POT PERILS

One of the most dangerous cooking fads to come to the entertaining scene today is fondue pot cooking. Basically it is dipping meat into an open pot of hot oil or molten cheese. It's elements of hot oil and open flame are burn accidents waiting to happen.

Although fondue cooking adds a touch of ceremony, it also adds a touch of danger. Here are a few recommendations from the National Safety Council for the safe use of a fondue pot.

Place an electric fondue pot close to an outlet so no one will trip over the cord and unplug the pot.

Never completely fill an alcohol burner. Alcohol, expanding with heat, can overflow and set fire to table covering. Reduce spattering when cooking meat by adding a teaspoon of salt to three cups of oil and blot the meat dry before adding to the pot.

Ignore recipes telling you that oil is ready when it bubbles. It could smoke and blaze before that. Test with a piece of meat.

Presidents Look To Rebound At Newton N.

By TOM SULLIVAN

The Quincy football team, after three wins in a row, suffered its first defeat last Sunday and Coach Tom Fitzgerald hopes to bounce back Saturday when the Presidents play at Newton North at 1:30 p.m.

Quincy, which sorely missed Capt. Kevin Riggs (he had caught five touchdown passes and was outstanding on defense), who was sidelined with a knee injury, had its offense completely bottled up as Waltham took a 20-13 victory at Veterans Memorial Stadium. Riggs is expected to miss at least two more games.

Although Saturday's opponent, Newton North, has been disappointing with a 0-4 record (losses to Brockton, North Quincy, Natick and Medford), it gave Brockton a tough battle last week before losing 26-14, and Fitzgerald expects plenty of trouble.

"Newton is always tough and they have an outstanding coach in Norm Walker. They are always up for us and we will have to play much better on offense than we did against Waltham," Fitzgerald said.

Steve Giusti, following in the footsteps of his brother John, had another outstanding day as he ran for 130 yards and scored two touchdowns for Waltham.

While he was gaining 130 yards himself, Waltham's big line held the entire Quincy team to a net gain of 65 yards on the ground. The Presidents were able to add only 40 yards passing as quarterback Bob Mudge had a rough time (3 for 12 and one interception) without his favorite receiver, Riggs.

Waltham controlled the ball for most of the game and ran off many more plays than Quincy. It kicked off 16 first downs to Quincy's six.

Quincy had its chances as it recovered three Waltham fumbles but, despite good efforts by Mike Notarangelo, Willie Cullen and Mark Righini, just couldn't run against the Waltham defense.

"We couldn't move the ball today and you have to give plenty of credit to their defense," Fitzgerald said. "We did miss Riggs, but I'm not using that as an excuse, we should have been able to move it better."

Defensively Quincy played well and Fitzgerald singled out Brian Callahan, Dennis Obert, who replaced Riggs on defense, John Carr, Mike Miller, Bob Willard, Jamie Gravales, Bob Burns, Rich Ready, Shawn Wynn and Glen Oriola for their performances.

Offensive coach Pete Cella had good words for Gravales, Dan Mahoney and Willard in the offensive line.

"Penalties hurt us today," Fitzgerald said. "We had one drive to their 19 but were hit with a 15-yard penalty and we were stopped."

Waltham took the opening kickoff and drove downfield, picking up five first downs and Giusti scored from the eight. Darren Marcou kicked the extra point.

Seconds later Quincy had it tied up as Notarangelo, behind fine blocking, took the ensuing kickoff and ran it back 81 yards for a score. Joe Harte kicked the tying

No Game At Stadium

For the second time this season, there will be no game at Veterans Memorial Stadium Saturday.

North Quincy was able to add only one game to its schedule when Weymouth North and Weymouth South dropped out of the Suburban League and has an open date.

Quincy recovered the second of its three fumbles on Waltham's 14 and five plays later Mudge scored on a one-yard sneak, but Harte's kick went just wide.

In the second quarter Quincy had fourth down and two on its own 48 and took a gamble rather than punt.

Waltham stopped the rush, took over on the Quincy 48 and went on to score, with Marcou taking a nine-yard pass for the score and kicking the tie-breaking point.

The 14-13 score remained until the final minute of the game when Giusti ran 29 yards for a touchdown.

Earlier Quincy had reached Waltham's 19 but was set back by a 15-yard penalty and Harte's attempt at a 40-yard field goal fell short.

Quincy, North Players Shine On College Teams

A large number of former Quincy and North Quincy High football players are starting this fall in college, many of them at New England schools.

Among those having outstanding seasons are former North teammates Jack Leone and Joe Dudek.

Leone, one of New England's premier place kickers, has a perfect record in kicking points after touchdown at the U. of Maine and is 27 for 27, following a four-for-four effort in last week's 28-14 win over Lafayette. Leone, a sophomore, also has kicked five field goals for the Black Bears.

Dudek has had a fantastic season at Plymouth, N.H. State, having run for 652 yards and scored 13 touchdowns in five games. Dudek, a freshman, three times has scored four touchdowns and three of the first four weeks was named ECAC Division 3 Rookie of the Week. Two weeks ago he received the Div. 2 and 3 Coca Cola Gold Helmet Award.

Dudek was injured early last week and was scoreless for the first time as Plymouth State rolled to its fifth straight easy win, 35-0, over previously unbeaten Mass. Maritime Academy.

With Dudek sidelined, Coach Jay Cottone switched from the running game to the passing game and a former Quincy High star, sophomore tight end Scott Anson, caught a school record 11 passes for 139 yards and three touchdowns.

Plymouth St. has outscored its five opponents, 24-14.

Another former Quincy standout, Ed Mackey, is doing an excellent job as a sophomore defensive tackle for undefeated Worcester Tech (4-0).

Mackey played exceptional games in all four games, wins over Fairleigh Dickinson, Coast Guard, Colby and Lowell.

Bill O'Malley, a junior from Quincy, is excelling as a defensive back for Amherst College. Following a 35-14 victory over Bates O'Malley was named to the ECAC Div. 3 weekly honor roll as he intercepted two passes, one setting up the go-ahead touchdown. He also starred in a 43-0 romp over Bowdoin and last week's 12-10 loss to Middleboro.

Sean Burke, former Quincy all-scholastic, is a 6-5 sophomore end for Boston University and has played fine ball. A defensive end at the start of the season, he has been playing offensively lately.

One of the top offensive weapons for Bridgewater State College is the passing combination of North Quincy's Kevin Cobban to Quincy's Vin Hart.

Maroons Halt Quincy Drives, Win, 14-13

Two last period drives by the Quincy High School football team fell short on the 29 and seven yard lines and the Blues bowed to Weymouth, 14-13, in the top schoolboy match of the year that left 10,000 spectators at Veterans Memorial Stadium limp with excitement.

It was only the second time in three years that perennial powerhouse Weymouth had to come from behind to win.

Weymouth scored first in the second period after a brace of Maroons pounced on a fumble on the Quincy 31. Don Aikens, Glenn Allen and Normie Wright carried the ball to the three and Allen knifed into the end zone.

Quincy's Charlie Furtado matched the touchdown with a lightning strike, intercepting a Hobie Ellis pass on his own 46 and romping 54 yards for the score. Don Cirillo's kick for the point went wide and Quincy trailed 7-6 at the half.

Quintilliani and Bob Vespaziani fell on a Weymouth fumble on the Maroons' 22 and Oriola and Ronnie Walker alternated for a first down on the 12. Then Pollara pitched twice to Furtado, the second time for a touchdown.

Moments later, a 39-yard-run by Aikens put the ball on the Quincy 34. Aikens and Allen then bulled their way to the Quincy 18 from which point Wright ran around left end to tie the score. A Wright rush also added the winning extra point.

NORTH WINS 28-13

The North Quincy High School football team spotted Norwood a 6-0 lead in the first period and then roared back with four straight touchdowns, two of them by Joe Crowley, for a 28-13 victory, sparked by a defensive line that allowed only 68 net yards rushing.

Guard Kenny Sargent blocked a punt to set up the first North Quincy touchdown, which was scored by Jack Allen. Jack Gildbody found Phil Bergamo in the end zone with an eight-yard pass and the Raiders led, 14-6, at halftime.

Crowley scored both North touchdowns in the third period, running 36 yards down the sideline for the first and smashing two yards for the second after Allen had carried the ball into scoring position with a run of 22 yards to the Norwood 11.

The North Quincy lineup included: Meleady, Rizzo, R. DiStefano, Fone, ends; Rielly, Menslage, D. Baker, Nelson, Penzo, tackles; Sargent, Norton, J. Baker, Wojciechowski, B. Fallon, J. Fallon, guards; Lyons, Stevenson, J. DiStefano, centers; Gildbody, Crowley, Bergamo, J. Allen, Higgins, Mahoney, Creedon, Rodgers, W. Allen, Butts, Alexander, Joy, backs.

McPhee's System Starts To Click

When Ken McPhee took over as North Quincy football coach this fall, he installed an entirely new system.

His young and inexperienced squad took a while to get accustomed to it and the Raiders dropped their first two games to Milton and Brockton by scores of 21-6 and 37-8.

Two weeks ago at Newton McPhee saw his charges operating much more smoothly as they upset Newton North, 17-8, and last Sunday the Raiders really clicked as a unit, unleashing their most potent offense of the year and turning in a superb defensive effort as they came from behind to roll over Cambridge Rindge and Latin, 35-14, at the MIT Field.

North Quincy is idle this week before taking on tough Waltham on Oct. 23.

"Ordinarily I don't like open dates, but we have some boys injured and it may be just as well we don't play this week," said McPhee. "Dave DiCarlo, who ran for 126 yards against Newton, missed the Cambridge game with an injury and probably wouldn't be back this week. But he should be ready for Waltham."

North handed Cambridge two touchdowns but fought back and, after the opening minutes of the second period, outclassed the home team.

"We have a young team with little experience and it took the boys a while to get used to my new system," McPhee said. "But they have learned it and I was delighted with our showing at Cambridge. Both Cambridge touchdowns came as a result of our mistakes and the defense was just superb. We ate them up after tying the score and the offense also clicked well."

With DiCarlo sidelined, Scott Messina, Rich Brown, Mike Cullen and John Kozlowski all ran well and more than took up the slack.

Sophomore quarterback Dave Zuroms turned in another fine effort, completing six of 10 passes, two for touchdowns, and Vin Barry, the starting quarterback when the season opened, came back from an injury and played well.

North Quincy had 450 total yards, gaining 240 on the ground and Zuroms passing for 210 more. The Raiders needed only nine first downs.

"The defense played an outstanding game," said defensive coordinator Jack Raymer. "Their two touchdowns came on our mistakes and I'll take the blame on the first one, as we had a little mixup."

Raymer had good words in particular for the secondary. Jack Bolster and Jim Kennedy had pass interceptions and Bob Leonard, Mike Gill and Rich Tapper were outstanding.

Also starring defensively were Fred Peterson, Pat McDonough, Gerry Connolly, Jim Kelly, Shawn Cunningham, Kevin Kelly and Jim McNamara.

"We really played as a team

today and the second defensive unit also did a great job," Raymer said.

At one time junior Kevin Kelly and his sophomore brother Steve were in the lineup together and did a fine job.

The offensive line also did an outstanding job and offensive coach Mark Mulvaney had good words for all of them.

"Gerry Connolly, as usual, played well as did Neil Leonard and Jack Hannan, who is only a sophomore," Mulvaney said.

"Ken Wright and Nick Gelsomini also played fine games. Most of these boys are young but what I like about them is when they make a mistake, they come right back and don't make the same mistake again. They are gutsy kids and always give 100 percent."

North fumbled soon after the opening kickoff and Cambridge recovered. The Warriors soon scored and added the two extra points for an 8-0 lead.

The Raiders came back and Messina scored from the nine, but the extra point try failed and North still trailed 8-6.

A bad pass from center gave Cambridge the ball on North's two and the home team scored to make it 14-6.

North Quincy bounced back again to tie it up. Zuroms ran 33 yards on a keeper and, after a penalty set the Raiders back, Zuroms hit Jim Kelly for 27 yards and Kozlowski, who is playing his first year of football, scored his first touchdown from the three. Messina rushed for the tying points.

Later in the second period Zuroms threw a bomb to Messina good for 67 yards and a score and Cullen kicked the point as North led, 21-14, at the half.

The second half was all North as Zuroms passed to Kelly for 42 yards and a TD and Cullen kicked the point, and Cullen scored from the three after Brown had run 27 yards. Cullen kicked the final point.

North Jayvees Win, 15-0

A 46-yard pass from Steve Hogan to Danny Baker scored the first touchdown in the opening quarter. Baker made a nice catch, ducked under a would-be tackler and raced for the score.

Sophomore line backer Mike Barry tackled the Cambridge quarterback in the end zone for a safety to give the young Raiders an 8-0 lead.

Joe Bangs raced 50 yards for the second North touchdown and Barry kicked the extra point.

Ted Sadowski's North team looked impressive before varsity coach Ken McPhee, who made the trip to Cambridge to watch the underclassmen. McPhee was pleased with the showing, looking ahead to the next few years.

Sadowski singled out Jack Burke, John DeLappe, John Comeau, John Panaro and Jim White for their efforts and also had good words for John Reney, Rich Ragusa, Richie Horrgan, Jim Martin, Vic DiGravio and Paul Penzo.

Also playing well for North were Phil Ilocabacci, Steve Dever, who blocked a punt; Richie Brooks, Brian Ellis, Mark Wilkins, Peter Farren and Steve Kelly. Ellis, who made several fine runs, is the grandson of the late Walter "Cap" Bryan, a legend at North Quincy.

formances.

"We were setting our blocks up well and as long as we kept that up, we were going to be successful," said Fitch. "I probably shouldn't have played our second squad as much as I did, but I wanted them to play."

Theresa Munroe, Chris Gallery, Sue Beven, Karen Marnell and Colleen Dunn paced Quincy as it easily won the second game, jumping off to a 9-0 lead.

In the final game the Raiderettes, led by Lisa Tenaglia, Cindy Sweatt and Susan Ayles, cut a 7-2 Quincy lead to 8-7. But the First Ladies outscored North, 7-1, to win the game and the match.

Over 20 Bands, 18 Floats For Christmas Parade

George F. White, general chairman of the Quincy Christmas Festival Committee, expects "another tremendous crowd" at this year's Christmas Festival Parade Sunday, Nov. 28.

"This year there has been greater interest in float category participation than I can ever remember," says White.

The committee met last night (Wednesday) at 7:30 p.m. at Civil Defense Headquarters, 55 Sea St., to discuss plans.

The parade will begin at Elm and School Sts., and proceed north on Hancock St. to North Quincy High School.

Over 200,000 people were along the parade route in 1981, according to White who says that inquiries about the parade are coming in from out-of-staters as well as Bay State residents.

Mrs. Frances Flynn, float coordinator for the committee, reports that participation interest has increased greatly and there are 18 floats committed with expectations for several more.

Organizations interested in participating may call Mrs. Flynn at 479-4519.

According to Bill Morrill, veteran band activity coordinator, band activity for 1982 will be comparable to the past with 20 to 25 bands.

The Boston Motorcycle Drill Team and Ronald McDonald and his friends will be returning.

Keeping with tradition, Santa Claus will be participating in week-end activities. He will arrive by plane and parachute onto Faxon Field, Saturday, Nov. 27.

Christmas lights will be turned on in the city Friday evening, Nov. 26, according to White.

Quincy Woman Finds $5,000 Under A Bottle Cap

Anne Marie Murray is the first, and very likely the only Quincy resident who will ever become $5,000 richer by looking under a bottle cap.

How lucky can you get? Twenty year old Anne Marie, a behavior training specialist, was one of only nine New Englanders who could possibly win the top prize in the Pepsi-Cola "Under-the-Crown Matching Money" contest.

Like thousands of others, Anne Marie had been carrying a Pepsi-Cola bottle cap in her purse hoping to win $5,000 by finding a matching bottle cap.

It happened when Anne Marie stopped at a neighborhood Curtis Compact store to cool off with another Pepsi. Before she could take a sip she knew she had the matching cap. Two $5,000 caps meant she had hit the jackpot.

John Webster, General Manager, who runs Pepsi-Cola of Milton thinks it's wonderful that Anne Marie has tucked the money away in the bank for safe keeping. As he approved the $5,000 check for her noted:

"That money left right there in the bank at savings account rates will make Anne Marie rich some day, thanks to Pepsi and Anne's thriftiness."

Health Violation Fines Hiked To $200

Persons who violate local board of health regulations may now be fined up to $200, Sen. Paul D.

Harold warns. New legislation, now in effect, increases the maximum fine for violations from the old $20 limit, last revised in 1937.

To be effective, local health board regulations must be published in a local newspaper as notice to all persons.

Harold said the new $200 limit does not apply to violations whose penalties are otherwise provided by law.

Board Licenses Body, Handicapped Vans, Shop

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN
Licenses for Ayers Auto Assembly, which will construct vans for the handicapped as well as do auto body work in North Quincy, were granted at Tuesday's license board meeting.

The board approved storage permits for 200 gallons of gasoline, paint thinner and paint, aboveground, as well as a body shop license for the business to be located at the west end of the Boston Harbor Marina area.

Atty. Marie Capelotti represented applicant Charles W. Ayers of Quincy who transferred his repair shop license for Holbrook Rd., Wollaston, to the new location.

The lease for the old location is about to expire according to Miss Capelotti who said that the new business will be located in Building 18 on land owned by Boston Edison.

There was no opposition at the meeting to granting of the license which is for three years, coinciding with a board of appeals permit.

"I think it's a great idea," commented City Clerk John Gillis after the meeting. "It's practical and it will serve the handicapped."

License Board Briefs

The city License Board took the following action at Tuesday morning's meeting at City Hall.

- Granted a permit to the Presidential Convalescent Home, 43 Old Colony Ave., for a Christmas Fair in the dining room of the home Saturday, Nov. 13, 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

There will be arts and crafts, used and new articles, baked goods and refreshments. No used clothing is to be sold.

Proceeds will go to the residents' activities fund.

- Granted the Committee to Elect William Arienti a one day all alcoholic license for a fundraiser Wednesday, Nov. 10, 8 p.m. to midnight at the Fore River Clubhouse.

The committee is to check with the Health Department with regard to serving food, and a police officer is to be present at the function.

- Continued for two weeks, at the request of the police department, a request from Halim Awde for gasoline and repair shop licenses as held by Charles Spitzer at 588 Adams St.

The licenses include 500 gallons of gasoline above ground, and 15,100 gallons under ground.

- Denied, when no representative appeared at the meeting, a request from the South Shore Outboard Association, Inc., for a one day all alcoholic license for a club masquerade party Saturday, Oct. 16, at Clark Craft Marine in the Boston Harbor Marina.

- Placed on file a hearing to show cause why the Motor 1 (new car) license of Quirk Ford, Inc., 540 Southern Artery, should not be revoked because of noise caused by the operation.

The board instructed Daniel J. Quirk to discuss the problem with area resident Antonio Bertonio who brought the complaint to the Board's attention.

Postponed until Oct. 19 a request from 7-Eleven Stores, Franklin and Pearl Sts., South Quincy, for common victualer and Lord's Day licenses.

Extra Police Patrols To Combat Racial Acts

Extra police patrols have been instituted in Germantown to combat the rising number of incidents of racial harassment involving at least two of the six black families living among the 580 public housing tenants.

Lt. William Murphy informed the Mayor's task Force on Housing of the beefed up patrols during a task force meeting Tuesday at which racial problems in Quincy were discussed.

Meanwhile, police were summoned to Sextant Circle four times Monday in response to threatening notes received by Emma Johnson, the black woman whose family lives there.

And the Harborview Residents

Association held a special meeting Monday night, attended by three or four of the black families, in a show of community concern for their well-being.

John P. Comer, director of the Quincy Housing Authority, called it "a great meeting. Mrs. Johnson was pleased with it. It indicates that these incidents are caused by a few insecure screwballs."

The problems of racial harassment in Quincy were brought into sharper focus two weeks ago when a state official called it "probably the most racist city in America."

Later, David Harris, deputy commissioner of the State Department of Commerce and executive director of the Office of Minority Business Assistance, backed off a bit from his initial hyperbole.

"Maybe Quincy is not the worst, but it's certainly among the top five," he said. He did not name the other four.

The South Shore Coalition on Human Rights, at whose function Harris made his remark, called on Mayor Francis X. McCauley to appoint a commission to look into the racial situation in the city.

McCauley's response was to appoint two new members to his Task Force on Housing, Lt. Murphy and Donald Hansen, the city's director of personnel.

'Politics' Charged In Rent Office Break

For the third time in four weeks the Rent Grievance Board office in the JFK Health Building was broken into early Monday morning and Jane Reikard thinks the thieves were looking for more than just loot.

"It's got to be political," said Reikard, who is the executive secretary of the board. "What they were looking for was votes in the next election."

Reikard said the thieves made off with the Rent Grievance Board records and other documents.

"All the condo conversion records are gone," she said. "The names and addresses. All the political campaigns I worked on. The names and the numbers.

"That's where all the votes are and they know it."

The Police Department journal for Monday morning records a break in the Visiting Nurses' office in the same building in which nothing was taken.

But, Reikard said, she was on vacation Monday and did not discover the loss until Tuesday morning.

"It was too sophisticated to be just a sneak thief," she said. "I went through the boxes in the offices and files were removed and other papers put there in their place.

"It had to be a group of people and they had to be in there a long time."

She said she doubted that the thieves gained access to the building by breaking a window in her office.

"The glass is too jagged," she said. "No one could get in through that window. Somebody had to get in some other way."

Police were to visit the Rent Grievance Office Tuesday afternoon to investigate Reikard's charges.

under a contract with the city that will include validated parking by merchants.

McCauley said Kinney is in the process of sending an agreement to the city's law department for review before signing.

McCauley Says:

Pay Raises Dead For Rest Of Term

By TOM HENSHAW

The subject of pay raises for the mayor and the City Council is dead, at least for the remaining 14 months of Mayor Francis X. McCauley's term.

The City Council Monday night, in a series of moves that bewildered some, killed both pay hike bids, even after McCauley had watered them down to make them more palatable.

"I don't plan any further action in 1982 or 1983," said McCauley. "That ends the situation as far as I'm concerned."

The final vote on the Council raise was 9-0 against. The vote that killed the mayor's raise was 5-4 in favor, with a two-thirds majority, or 6-3, needed to pass.

"It could be revived at the next Council meeting if one of those who voted against it asks for reconsideration," said McCauley. "I don't plan to contact any of the councillors about it."

"I will not take any further action regarding a pay raise for the mayor or the City Council for the balance of this term in office."

McCauley said he believes that the failure of the two raise ordinances to pass was due to the inability of the councillors to work out a suitable compromise on their own raises.

"The basic reason for the defeat is that certain councillors would not vote to increase the mayor's salary unless they got one themselves," he said.

He emphasized that he was not making any charges nor was he angry with any of the councillors.

"We tried to work out something but there wasn't an area for suitable compromise," he said.

McCauley had asked a raise from $25,000 to $37,500 next Jan. 1 and to $48,500 on Jan. 1, 1984. For the Council he proposed a hike from $3,000 to $7,500 effective Jan. 1.

Monday night, he sent a special message to the Council in which he noted:

"My conversation with individual members of the City Council indicated that there was not sufficient support among the members to adopt my recommendations."

With that, the mayor dropped his request to $45,000 for the mayor on Jan. 1, 1984, and $6,500 for the Council, also on Jan. 1, 1984.

That was shot down by votes of 7-2 on the mayor's salary and 8-1 on the Council's pay. Councillor Helen Duffy Reassigned In Public Works Dept.

Helen Duffy, longtime administrative assistant to the public works commissioner, has been reassigned to the department's street lighting and special fuels accounts.

Commissioner Paul Anderson called the job switch an "increase in responsibility."

"She will be in charge of our two biggest problem accounts," said Anderson. "Those two accounts had a deficit of $175,000 last year and she is the best person to straighten them out.

"What we are trying to do is give people specific areas of responsibility for certain things."

Anderson said a review of street lighting done recently by the Boston firm of Touche Ross and Co. remarked that the city had no one person handling street lighting.

Street lighting, said the report, had a deficit of $150,000 in fiscal 1982.

Maine To Chatham 4 Months By Sea Mail

Happy Hour was over aboard the windjammer "Victory Chimes", some 20 miles off the Maine coast at Penobscot Bay, and there were four or five empty wine bottles on the table.

So Marion and Dick Sprague of 469 Furnace Brook Parkway did what anyone steeped in the lore of the sea would do. They wrote notes, stuffed them into the bottles and tossed them over the side.

That was last June 28. This past weekend, the mail brought a note from Bill Dean of Himrod, N.Y.

He was in Chatham on Cape Cod last week, he said, and he had just told his girl friend, "Gee, I'd like to find a bottle with a message in it," when, son of a gun, if he didn't.

It was the Spragues' bottle, which had traveled all of 150 miles as the cod swims.

"I was hoping it would get to France," said Mrs. Sprague, who is the secretary to President John Herbert of the Quincy Cooperative Bank. "But maybe one of the other three or four bottles will get there."

Validated Parking Hearing Nov. 4

A public hearing on validated parking in downtown Quincy has been tentatively set for Thursday, Nov. 4, at 8:30 a.m. in the City Council chamber at City Hall.

Mayor Francis X. McCauley said the commuting and shopping public is invited to attend the hearing to which downtown businessmen have been asked to air their input.

Herman A. Pasquerella, president of the Quincy Education Association, has assailed the Mayor, the City Council and the School Committee for considering raises for themselves but not much for teachers.

"Money, money, everywhere but not a drop for the teachers," he said in a statement. "Our School Committee is offering us a 2 per cent raise for 1982, a court case for 1979 and nothing for the future."

Mayor Francis X. McCauley declined to comment on Pasquerella's remarks.

Pasquerella noted that Brockton and Weymouth gave their teachers 4 per cent raises in September with another 4 per cent due in January and Braintree has negotiated a 7 per cent salary hike.

"Also," he said, "be mindful that Boston, a bankrupt city, bailed out by the Tregor Bill, has given its teachers back pay raises, a 7.5 per cent raise for 1982 and an 8.5 per cent raise for 1983."

"Remember, please, the Tregor Bill that has bailed out Boston is being paid for by our tax dollars. We are subsidizing raises without getting one."

Negotiations for a new contract for Quincy teachers have been going on since last November and currently are in mediation. The QEA is scheduled to meet with the School Committee and the mediator Oct. 27.

A 5 per cent raise negotiated for the teachers in 1979 has never been paid and the teachers' suit to get it is somewhere in the court system under appeal.

Pasquerella said he takes exception to a statement by Mayor Francis X. McCauley in the Patriot Ledger that implied that Quincy has the best paid teachers in the state.

Quincy teachers, he said, make about $25,500 with a masters degree and 30 credits beyond, plus 12 years in the system. The equivalent figures for Lincoln-Sudbury is more than $31,000, he said.

The Quincy License Board approved three video games Tuesday for Eastern Nazarene College, 23 East Elm Ave., Wollaston.

The approval was pending a police check of MagnaVend which will supply the machines.

According to Dale Hathaway of the student council, income from the machine will be used for social, spiritual and recreational aspects of campus life, as well as for improvement of the campus.

Hathaway also stated that only people associated with the school and who hold a school identification card will be allowed to use the games.

"There's nothing wrong with the location or use," said Building Inspector Allan MacDonald. "They run a tight ship."

State OKs City's Sewer User Charge

The State Department of Environmental Quality Engineering has approved the city's new sewer use ordinance, making Quincy eligible for federal funds for sewer renovation and construction.

The ordinance provides for an ad valorem sewer use fee for residential and small commercial sewer users with major industrial users and tax exemptions charged on the basis of water use.

Public Works Commissioner Paul N. Anderson has a meeting scheduled with state officials Wednesday, Oct. 27, to finalize the terms of a $3.8 million grant to fund sewer improvements in South West Quincy.

The City Council Monday night voted to authorize the mayor to borrow up to $500,000 for sewer improvements.

Anderson said $300,000 of that sum would go for studies of the sewer system around the city in preparation for application for federal grants. The $300,000 is reimbursable, he said.

The other $200,000 would be used for actual construction of sewers and drains.

In another action Monday night, the Council approved the taking of land in South Quincy to make way for the Fort Square sewer pumping station.

Merit Upgrading Plans Continued By Board

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN

Plans for upgrading the Merit Gas Station at 238-252 Hancock St., North Quincy, will have to be revised before they are given the go-ahead by the Quincy License Board.

"I don't want to hold you up," Building Inspector Allan MacDonald told Joseph Doucet, Merit real estate representative, Tuesday.

"I just want it to be right when you're through," said MacDonald.

MacDonald explained to board members that the existing traffic pattern allows motorists to drive on the sidewalk to exit after being served at the gas pumps.

"There's no separation of public sidewalk and private property," said MacDonald. "I counted half a dozen cars in a half hour (exiting that way)."

"There's something radically wrong with the layout," MacDonald said.

MacDonald also suggested that the area be "softened with landscaping" so it won't look like "a black-top jungle."

"I certainly don't think they should be driving over the sidewalk like they are now," agreed City Clerk John Gillis.

The matter was continued until Doucet and MacDonald work out plans acceptable to the board.

The plans also include tearing down the existing building, putting up a smaller building on the lot, and erecting a new canopy, according to MacDonald.

The board granted additional storage permits for 20,000 gallons of gasoline at the station Sept. 21, for a total of 40,000 gallons.

Council Approves Data Process Dept.

The City Council Monday night voted its approval for a Data Processing Department in the city and setting the salary for its directors at $47,000 a year.

Robert Brennan, who currently runs the School Department computer program and will head the new department, told the Council the salaries requested at "on line with current rates in the industry."

The department also will include a program analyst at $25,000 a year and a scheduler at $15,000.

Neighborhood Committee To Watch Mass Fields School

City Councillor Stephen J. McGrath has announced the formation of a neighborhood committee to monitor the status of the recently closed Massachusetts Fields School in Wollaston.

McGrath said David Smith of Muirhead St., Robert Quinn of Beach St., Mary Johnson of Hamden Circle and Ceil Sterin of Beach St. have agreed to serve on the committee.

"The committee will have three areas of concern," said McGrath, "the upkeep of the physical plant through the Department of Public Works, police patrol of the area and future use of the building.

"By the formation of the neighborhood committee we are attempting to head off any problems at the school building before they occur.

"This will raise neighborhood awareness of the condition of the building as well as underline the Police and Public Works Departments that our neighborhood is concerned about the school."

Quincy Ave. Resurfacing added to the bridge work.

City Councillor Theodore P. DeCristofaro has been informed that the State Public Works Department plans to resurface Quincy Ave. next fall as soon as a sewer line in Weymouth is completed.

DeCristofaro said the DPW also told him that antisid devices were placed on the Fore River Bridge during recent reconstruction and will eliminate most skidding accidents.

The councillor had suggested that the anti-skid material be

Readers Forum 'Home Sweet Home'

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

Congratulations on your recent editorial concerning Quincy as the "most racist city in the country."

You are absolutely correct in stating that anyone living in Quincy should be upset. With the exception of my time in the service and my undergraduate college years, I have resided in Quincy. My entire family (five boys and 1 girl) and my children attended Quincy Public Schools and with one exception, continue to reside with their children in Quincy.

My first year out of college I taught English in a Boston school that was completely 100% black. The outfit I was attached to in the service was 75% black. Many of the athletic teams I was involved with over the years had many blacks as members. Many of the jobs I have held over the years put me in touch with people from all walks of life. I recall back in my high school days there was a black family named Teixeira who had three children attending North Quincy High. We all admired and respected the girl Mildred Teixeira, enough to have her classmates elect her Vice president for the Class of 1950.

My involvement and relationships with blacks doesn't qualify me to state that Quincy is free from racism. However, my interaction with young Quincy people, their parents, the police, the courts, and the schools, does give me a perspective that few people enjoy.

Quincy is the community that all people can relate to; black or white, red or brown. We are educationally sound, populated with concerned and caring citizens. There is a sense of security that is provided by the police and fire departments. We have superior teachers (some are black), and we have resources scattered throughout Quincy for disturbed youngsters, physically and mentally handicapped, organizations and agencies to help people of all colors and ages with their different problems. There isn't a city or town that can compare with our record to date as it relates to helping people. Does this mean we don't have a certain percentage of people who don't like blacks? Certainly not! However, I submit those same people don't like anybody, including themselves.

Let's look at the real issues. Mr. Harris should have realized that 1956 was a land mark date for Quincy. The Southeast Expressway literally bypassed Quincy forcing businesses to move to the South Shore Plaza. I suggest that if one follows the sequence of events over the past twenty-five years they saw Quincy change economically, not socially.

It is normal for individuals, black or white, moving from the city of Boston to continue to communities further south because there are more homes and land available on the market. Families stay in Quincy and their homes are passed on to their children. Consequently, the turn over of homes is not as great as you would find in most communities. Moreover, there is little property to build new homes. Couple this with a large percentage of senior citizens (God Bless them, my mother is part of that population) and the geographic makeup of Quincy, we have a very unique community in all ways. A community which I love and a uniqueness I define as Home Sweet Home.

Salary For School Board?

Should the School Committee receive a salary or go on working free?

That's the next question — and maybe next controversy — facing Quincy.

Proposed pay raises for the mayor and City Council which had kicked up quite a fuss, were in effect killed by the council this week. For the time being, anyway.

Now, School Committee members are looking at a new state law which allows school committees to draw a salary.

The School Committee first has to adopt the legislation. And in the final analysis the mayor and City Council would set the salary.

Until Monday night's City Council action, it was thought the School Committee might vote on the legislation this week. Now, as this is being written, there is speculation, the School Committee might let it sit awhile longer.

How much is a School Committee member worth salary wise? If a City Councillor draws $3,000, what should a School Committee member get?

Committee Vice-Chairwoman Mary Collins suggests a $3,000 salary beginning Jan. 1, 1984. The City Council and School Committee would then be equal moneywise.

Mayor Francis McCauley who lost his bid Monday for a raise (from $25,000) to $37,500 Jan. 1, 1983 and then to $48,500 Jan. 1, 1984 apparently wouldn't draw a salary as School Committee chairman. That, of course, is the other hat he wears by virtue of his office as mayor.

Mrs. Collins and other School Committee members note they spend many hours a year at meetings and hearings while their expenses for serving, their donations, the cost of campaigning, etc. keep going up.

Most people probably will agree that if the City Council deserves a salary, the School Committee should too.

But some wonder if it might not open a Pandora's box with every municipal board starting to look for some kind of compensation.

The difference, of course, is that the School Committee, like the City Council, is elected — not appointed. And there are costs that go with campaigning and, other expenses that go with an elective office.

In fairness, the School Committee should get a salary. The big question: how much?

Can City Council members — who will have the first word — say they are more important than the School Committee and that the latter should get less than them?

As they say, never a dull moment.

Morrissey Committee

Finds Sick Leave Abuse

The House Post Audit and Oversight Committee has concluded that mismanagement of the state's $78 million sick leave program for 78,000 state employees is costing $52 million in lost productivity.

"Sick leave can be an inviting target for abuse within state government if it is not closely monitored and controlled by management," said Rep. Michael W. Morrissey of Quincy, a member of the committee.

Morrissey said a preliminary study of more than 9,000 employee records shows that the average sick leave usage by state employees in Massachusetts is about 12 days.

The same average is 10.4 days in New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania and personnel specialists for private industry have recognized eight days as the acceptable usage level.

"Management controls and recommendations suggested could help reduce the state's higher average," said Morrissey. "If the rate were to drop by just one day per year, it would save the commonwealth $5.2 million."

Morrissey said weaknesses found in the program include inadequate record-keeping, inconsistent enforcement of regulations and lack of effective monitoring.

"The committee found it difficult to determine the level of absenteeism each year because of the state's failure to have a centralized management information system," he said.

The committee has authorized the Post Audit and Oversight Bureau to conduct a more detailed review of the program with final recommendations due in six weeks.

Pay Raise Dead For Rest Of Term Says McCauley

Richard J. Koch Jr. voted "yes" both times and Councillor James A. Sheets joined him on the mayor's vote.

Councillor Joseph J. LaRaia then moved for a mayoral salary of $37,500, effective on Jan. 1, 1984 and that amendment passed 6-3 only to founder on the final vote, 5-4.

Councillor Leo J. Kelly, who switched his vote, said he voted for the amendment only to give his fellow councillors a crack at voting it up or down in the final vote.

Voting for the mayor's raise of $37,500 were Councillors Joanne Condon, Patricia Toland, Koch, LaRaia and Sheets; voting against were Theodore DeCristofaro, John J. Lydon Jr., Stephen McGrath and Kelly.

McCauley noted that earlier Monday night the Council voted a $47,000 salary for the director of the new Data Processing Department "yet the mayor is not worth more than $25,000."

But some of the councillors at least felt that the mayor was indeed worth more than $25,000.

"I have long believed that the mayor should get more than $25,000," said Sheets. "With the size of the city budget and the responsibilities, the mayor should not also have the burden of maintaining a household on $25,000."

"I concur with Councillor Sheets," said LaRaia. "The mayor holds office for two years. He is leaving one career to go into another and he should not have a disruption of income or life style."

LaRaia said he differed with McCauley only on the amount of the salary.

"We all agree that the mayor is underpaid," said Toland.

Before proposing the pay raises, McCauley named a committee to study the subject and that committee recommended a $48,500 salary for the mayor starting in 1984 and $4,500 for the Council.

The mayor's final recommendation went beyond those guidelines but McCauley said he didn't feel that was a tactical error.

Mayor Lists 58 City Owned Vehicles

Mayor Perley E. Barbour reported that the city of Quincy owns 58 motor vehicles, the oldest being a 1917 Maccar three and a half ton truck used by the Sanitation Division to haul rubbish and ashes.

The Police Department listed four vehicles:

A 1919 Cadillac patrol wagon, valued at $4,200, used for patrolling purposes and driven by the department chauffeur.

A 1925 Reo patrol wagon, valued at $1,300, used nights and in bad weather as a patrol wagon, also as a relief when the Cadillac is being repaired. It is also employed in putting up signs, street painting and carting liquor.

A 1923 Buick Coupe, valued at $1,947.85, used by the police chief.

A 1926 Chandler, valued at $860, used nights as a motor patrol and days by lieutenant inspectors on investigations.

The Health Department also had a 1926 Ford coupe for use specifically by nurses to call on contagious disease cases.

MERRYMOUNT ZOO

City Councillor Welcome G. Young, noting that a herd of 300 buffalo was being rounded up in the west for sportsmen to shoot, proposed that some of the animals be obtained to start a zoo in Merrymount Park.

"I understand the city of Boston has made application for some of the buffalo to be placed in the zoo at Franklin Park," he said.

"Now we have a large tract of land at Merrymount Park and it would be a great asset to this park if we could have a zoo on a small scale here in Quincy."

CAPTAIN NAMED

Mayor Barbour skipped over Lt. Jeremiah Hinchon at the top of the Civil Service list and named Lt. Daniel H. Doran to fill the captaincy on the Quincy police force made vacant when Ernest H. Bishop was appointed chief.

The mayor also asked Abe Cohen of Quincy, the president of the Coalition, to contact Task Force Chairman Gerry Kavanaugh of the Planning Department about specific incidents of racism in housing.

"I would also suggest," he added, "that you furnish my office and the office of Police Chief Francis X. Finn with any specific incidents of harassment or violation of rights of any people who live, work or pass through our city."

With this in mind, Arthur Foley, the mayor's aide who is also a member of the task force, told his colleagues Tuesday that he plans to write to Quincy business organizations asking for specifics of racial incidents.

Included in Foley's survey will be the South Shore Board of Realtors for its assessment of racial problems on the housing market in Quincy.

"We are seeking specifics that can be addressed by the task force," said Kavanaugh. "We have addressed problems such as energy and code enforcement and this is another one."

McCauley had asked Harris to cite specific incidents to back up his charge that Quincy is "probably the most racist city in America" but Harris declined.

Instead, he called McCauley's decision not to create a special study commission "totally irresponsible."

"It is totally irresponsible for anyone running a city this size not to take a look and see if there is racism," he said. "If there were an effort in Quincy to address the problems I would be more than happy to change my tune."

QHA Director Comer said Monday night's meeting was the first time that any of the black families had attended a gathering of the residents association. Also attending were two priests from St.

Boniface Church, Germantown.

"We're doing all we can to nip this in the bud," he said. "Police have been working under cover on this for the past month following through on leads. I can't praise them enough."

Comer has pledged to evict any tenants of public housing who are found guilty of racial harassment.

Mrs. Johnson's home on Sextant Circle has been the particular target of latest incidents of harassment.

Over the weekend, paint was sprayed on the windows of her apartment and threatening notes were left at the back door. Comer said the notes read something like "get out of town" and "you're going to die."

Similar notes were left Monday night on four occasions and Lt. Murphy said the handwriting on the messages appeared to be that of children "but we're taking them very seriously."

City May Purchase Granite Rail Quarry

It looks like the 13-acre Granite Rail Quarry in West Quincy will remain a city land thanks to financial help from the state and a conservation group.

Ward 4 Councillor James A. Sheets said the state Department of Environmental Affairs has agreed to contribute $128,000 and the Appalachian Mountain Club, $37,000 to purchase the land.

It will be preserved as open space says Sheets of the land which is used for hiking and climbing, and was also part of the first commercial railroad in the country.

The city took the land by eminent domain 10 years ago. Recently, however, a judge ruled that the takeover was illegal and ordered the land returned to Paella Development Co.

Paella has given the city until

Dec. 31 to work out the legal details, according to Sheets who has coordinated efforts to keep the land.

The Friends of the Blue Hills and the Quincy Historical Society have also helped to prevent development of the land.

Katherine Bacon To Be Honored On 90th Birthday

More than over 400 guests, including many former students, are expected to attend the party honoring Miss Katherine Bacon on her 90th birthday.

The event will take place at the Woodward School, 1102 Hancock St., Sunday, Nov. 7 from 3 to 6 p.m. where Miss Bacon served as headmistress for 43 years, almost half of the school's history.

Headmaster Robert L. Johnston said the Alumnae Association will announce the establishment of the Katherine Bacon Scholars program in recognition of the former headmistress.

"Each year, one or more seventh grade students will be designated as Katherine Bacon Scholars for outstanding academic potential and achievement," stated Johnston, who pointed out that the Bacon Scholars will be awarded substantial tuition grants.

"By becoming a Katherine Bacon Scholar at Woodward, a young woman will establish herself as deeply committed to academic excellence," added Johnston.

Beauty Hints

By Sabina

of Sabina's Beauty Schools

24 Cottage Ave.
Quincy 472-1673

476 Boylston St.
Boston 267-5534

Today's hints have to do with hair coloring or tinting. Briefly, hair coloring is both the science and art of changing hair color and involves the addition of an artificial color to the natural hair pigment, or the addition of color to lighten hair. Hair coloring falls into three main categories: temporary, semi-permanent, and permanent.

If you want to retouch newly grown hair between tintings, then you are advised to use crayons which are good for temporary hair tints. Use color rinses or highlighting color shampoos for temporary tinting if you want to add color to the hair until the next shampoo.

If you have partially grey hair, you might consider using semi-permanent tints which are formulated to last 4-6 weeks, are self-penetrating, and are applied without peroxide.

Finally, if you want to change your hair color permanently, you might want to use henna which deposits a thin coating on the hair, penetrating aniline derivative tints, or metallic or mineral dyes such as lead acetate or silver nitrate. These last types of tints make the hair unsatisfactory for hair lightening or tinting.

If you think you may have used a metallic or compound dye on your hair, please be sure to ask your hair colorist to give you the test for metallic salts which will confirm the presence or absence of these dyes.

Until next week!

Police Alert

By LT. WILLIAM MURPHY
Quincy Police Dept.

Seniors: Beware When Traveling

One of the times when people, particularly senior citizens, are most vulnerable is when they are traveling.

Whether you drive or use public transportation it is always safer to travel with at least one other person.

If you use a bus regularly, know the schedule so you will minimize the length of time you will have to wait, perhaps alone, at the bus stop.

If you own a car, keep it locked at all times, even when you are driving it. Keep the windows rolled high enough so that an intruder can't reach inside.

If you are harassed by someone on foot, honk your horn in short blasts and drive off.

If you are followed by another car, honk your horn the same way and pull into a police or fire station, drive-in restaurant, gas station or some other well-lighted place.

Never go home while you are being followed. That will give away your address to the person following you.

Have your key ready to unlock the door immediately when you return to your parked car. Look inside to make sure no one is hiding there.

If you have car trouble, raise the hood and turn on the emergency flasher, then wait inside the car with the doors locked. If people stop to help, don't get out. Ask them to call the police.

Faith Lutheran Rummage Sale To Benefit World Hunger

A rummage sale to benefit world hunger will be held Friday evening and Saturday morning at the Faith Lutheran Center, 65 Roberts St., South Quincy.

answer to the appeal of the Lutheran Church of America.

The L.C.A. will use the funds to help people in parts of North America and 50 countries of the world.

Donations for the sale will be greatly appreciated by the church.

Coffee, punch and other refreshments will be served both days.

Apartment Entered

A sneak thief entered the apartment of Dennis McParland on Farrington St., Wollaston, Sunday morning and was chased out by the McParlands after he stole $10 in cash and two bottles of medication.

He was described as 18 to 25 years old, 5-foot-8, 140 pounds, medium build and wearing a light jacket, dark pants and desert boots.

Earlier Sunday Opening Approved For Dayce's

After no opposition was expressed by a neighboring church, the Quincy License Board approved a change in the Sunday opening and pouring hours at Dayce's Place, 211 Sea St., Merrymount.

The establishment can now open at 11 a.m. Sundays rather than 1 p.m., and alcoholic beverages can be served at noon.

The changes are for a trial period ending Dec. 31.

Rev. Peter T. Martocchio, pastor of Our Lady of Good

Pontiac Stolen

Scott V. McDonald of 15 Boardway, Quincy Point, reported to police Sunday that his 1974 Pontiac Firebird was stolen from the parking lot of his building

Counsel, 227 Sea St., wrote a letter to the board stating that the Parish Council voted not to oppose the changes.

"We understand that this will enable the Luciano Room situated on the premises of Dayce's to provide brunch for their patrons on Sunday," stated Fr. Martocchio.

Building Inspector Allan MacDonald questioned whether there would be a conflict in parking since the church uses Dayce's parking during Masses.

Dayce P. Moore said he didn't think there would be a problem, and said he may increase his parking by clearing another piece of land next year.

'Beauty Of Autumn Colors' Right Here, Notes Koch

Richard J. Koch, executive secretary to the Park - Recreation Board, announces residents unable to travel any distance to view the foliage in Northern New England and Eastern Massachusetts will find "the beauty of autumn colors" within the Quincy area.

He cited the Blue Hills joining the West Quincy area and many of the municipal parks.

Those limited to local travel or transportation because of health or illness, will find excellent viewing for the fall tree color array at Squaw Rock in Squantum, a site overlooking Boston Harbor including the Kennedy Library, University of Massachusetts the Harbor Islands and Quincy shoreline, Koch said.

Faxon Park offers a variety of colors from the heavily wooded parkland dominated by many oak trees while Pagant Field.

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

Conscience is usually described as an inner voice that tells us what is right and what is wrong. This is not entirely true. Here is an exaggerated example to indicate why... If you have a ring of bologna and wonder whether you should slice it thick or thin, no inner voice is going to tell you one way is right, the other wrong. Nor is any inner voice going to condemn you after you cut it one way or the other. In either decision, no moral infringement is involved.

Conscience is a self-consciousness of personal morals. The inner voice we hear — which we either reject or respond to — is a realization of moral consciousness. Conscience works in two stages. First, conscience forbids us to do what we know is morally wrong. Secondly, it condemns us if we do. If we listen to our conscience in the first stage, we need never worry about having a clear conscience in a second stage...

"TRAIL BOSS" Croce Verrochi hands a saddlebag to route rider Laura Johnson as part of a Pony Express run which has begun at Faith Lutheran Church.

(MacFeeley photo)

Pony Express Runs Begin At Faith Lutheran

A "Trail Boss" breakfast and worship service Sunday signaled the start of a Pony Express "Run" at Faith Lutheran Church.

Twenty-nine members filling the roles of trail bosses and station agents were on hand for the breakfast briefing and a meal prepared by Chief Cook, Michael Benard, and his helpers.

Christine Ferguson, general manager of the stewardship campaign, explained how church families on the Pony Express "run" will be relaying the stewardship saddlebags to gather "estimate of giving" cards. Her enthusiasm about the "run" lent to a spirit of teamwork and, at the same time, competition.

She said the teamwork is similar to that of the Pony Express riders of a century ago, knowing they can count on the next rider to relay the mail to its next destination. The competition comes in the eagerness of the Trail Bosses to see that their run is completed before another's is finished.

During the Pony Express Commissioning Service, Christine Ferguson handed out the saddlebags and run route lists. Rev. James Kimmell, pastor, administered oaths to the 24 trail bosses and to the rest of the congregation as route riders.

A relay of the saddlebags among church members began immediately after the morning worship. "We're excited because of the enthusiastic reception the plan has received thus far," Rev. Kimmell said. "It's good, healthy competition for a good cause."

Each trail boss is responsible for supervision of the relaying of one saddlebag to 10 families. Each family fills in a giving estimate card, seals it in an envelope and inserts it in the saddlebag pouch and then hand-carries the saddlebag to another of the families on the route. The trail bosses report periodically to station agents.

Station agents are: Vic Anderson, Donna Benard, Barbara Berg, Harry Johnson and Bill Satterlund.

The church extends a special thanks to Brookdale Stables for letting Soxie pose with the "cowpokes".

O'Connell Brothers Donate $300,000 For ENC Center In Memory Of Mother

A gift of $300,000 toward the Edith F. Cove Fine Arts Center at Eastern Nazarene College has been made by Peter and William O'Connell of Quincy in memory of their mother, Phelma Shaffer O'Connell.

Mrs. O'Connell attended Eastern Nazarene College in the early 1930's.

In response to the memorial gift, the board of trustees has voted to name the 500-seat auditorium the "Phelma Shaffer O'Connell Auditorium".

During her years at Eastern Nazarene College, Mrs. O'Connell studied music extensively under Professor Edith F. Cove, in whose memory the building has been named.

The O'Connells operate the O'Connell Brothers Construction Company, a division of which is constructing the fine arts building. The same firm built the Samuel Young Apartment Building on the campus, and has done extensive renovation and construction work for ENC.

A service of dedication of the auditorium is planned in March 1983, to mark the first anniversary of the death of Mrs. O'Connell, who served with the construction company during its formative years.

President Stephen Nease stated, "Bill and Peter O'Connell have consistently demonstrated concern for the work of ENC. We are delighted to accept this memorial gift which represents the largest individual gift ever given to our college."

"It is a fitting memorial to Mrs. O'Connell, who was an exemplary mother, inspiration, and guide to her family."

County Board Votes To Oust Hospital Head

The Norfolk County Advisory Board, with Quincy voting in opposition, recommended last week that trustees of the Norfolk County Hospital in Braintree dismiss John A. Barmack as administrator.

Management of the chronic respiratory disease hospital has been the subject of controversy for several months.

Quincy's vote, which is weighted at 10.64 out of 100, was cast by Mayor Francis X. McCauley, who called the proposed ouster of Barmack "premature."

"The county is looking into the possibility of a hospital management firm taking over the hospital," he said. "Let them judge if Mr. Barmack should stay or go."

Proposals from management firms, including Hospital Corporation of America, which runs Quincy City Hospital, are scheduled to be opened Thursday night.

Voting with Quincy against Barmack's dismissal were Braintree, Cohasset, Holbrook, Milton, Randolph and Stoughton.

QUINCY PUBLIC SCHOOL NOTICE

The Quincy Public Schools today announced a free & reduced price meal policy for school children unable to pay the full price for meals served in schools under the National School Lunch Program, School Breakfast Program and Commodity School Program. The following family size income criteria has been established for use in determining eligibility.

FAMILY SIZE AND GROSS INCOME SCALES

Family Size	Maximum Gross Income for Free Meals	Maximum Gross Income for Reduced Price Meals
One	$ 6,080	$ 8,660
Two	8,090	11,510
Three	10,090	14,360
Four	12,090	17,210
Five	14,090	20,050
Six	16,090	22,900
Seven	18,100	25,750
Eight	20,100	28,600
For each additional family member add	2,000	2,850

Children from families whose income is at or below the level shown are eligible for free or reduced price meals. In certain cases foster children are also eligible for these benefits. Applications may be submitted any time during the school year. If, during the school year, there are changes in your family size or increases in income of more than $25 a month you must report these changes to the school.

Applications now require names and social security numbers of every adult family member. Section 9 of the National School Lunch Act, as amended, mandates the collection of social security numbers of all adult household members 21 years of age or older as a condition of eligibility for free and reduced price meals. The social security numbers on the application may be used to verify the income information on a sample number of applications. Failure to provide the social security numbers shall result in denial of benefits.

All children are treated the same regardless of ability to pay. In the operation of child feeding programs, no child will be discriminated against because of race, sex, age, color, handicap, or national origin.

Applications may be requested from the principal's office at the school your children are presently attending.

If a parent is dissatisfied with the ruling of the official, he/she may wish to discuss the decision with the approving official on an informal basis or make a request either orally or in writing for a hearing to appeal the decision to your local school principal.

Application forms for the Free or Reduced Price Meals have been sent home to all parents of children in the City or they may be obtained from the following agencies:

Raiders Host Strong Undeclared Waltham

The North Quincy football team (2-2), idle last Saturday, will return to action Saturday when it hosts undefeated Waltham in a 1:30 p.m. Suburban League game at Veterans Memorial Stadium.

The Raiders, under new head coach Ken McPhee, started slowly, with an almost completely new team trying to learn McPhee's entirely new system.

North dropped a 28-6 decision to Milton and a 37-8 decision to Brockton, but bounced back to top Newton North, 17-8, and Cambridge Rindge and Latin, 35-14.

"I took a while for the boys, mostly new, to learn my system," McPhee said. "But it looks like they have it down and we should do all right the rest of the season."

Last week's day off may have been a break for the Raiders. Dave DiCarlo, who ran for 126 yards and scored twice against Newton North, was injured and missed the Cambridge game. He probably wouldn't have played if there had been a game last week, but will return against Waltham.

McPhee will continue to go with sophomore quarterback Dave Zurorns, who turned in two outstanding performances after taking over for the injured Vin Barry. At Cambridge Zurorns passed for 210 yards and two touchdowns.

Barry returned at Cambridge and saw some action and McPhee, although starting young Zurorns, will also use Barry, alternating the two.

"My assistants and I saw Waltham last week (7-0 win over Arlington) and they have a very good team," McPhee said. "They have two excellent runners in (Steve) Giusti and (Darren) McCoun, and we will have our hands full stopping both of them."

Waltham also defeated Brookline, 43-6; Malden, 19-7, and Quincy, 20-13.

Raiderettes Defeat Cambridge Rindge

The North Quincy girls' cross country team continues to roll along despite the loss of three of last year's top runners.

The Raiderettes last week defeated Cambridge Rindge and Latin, 22-36, to improve their record to 3-0. It was Cambridge's first loss in five meets.

Today (Thursday) the Raiderettes will run at Brockton. (It was erroneously reported last week that the meet was last Thursday). Next Tuesday the North boys and girls will meet Quincy over the course that starts and finishes at Adams Field.

Thayer Plante, Cambridge's outstanding runner, won the meet against North Quincy in a record 13:26 over the 2.5-mile course.

North took the next three places with Sheila Barrett second, Linda Kennedy third and Diane Lindenfelzer fourth. Each had an identical 14:55 clocking.

North's other scorers were Meg

Leary, sixth, and Maryann Kelleher, seventh. Tracy Corrigan finished eighth.

It was the 28th straight victory for the North girls in cross country, winter and spring track and put them in first place in the Suburban League.

Sheila Barrett and Linda Kennedy made fine showings in the recent Bonnie Bell road race in Boston. Barrett finished in the top 125 and Kennedy in the top 200 among the 8000 starters.

Coach Lou Tozzi paid tribute to his assistant, Mike Burke, who won the City of Presidents marathon last Sunday. "I have added administrative duties this year and they take up a lot of my time," Tozzi said. "Mike has had to take the squad over on several occasions and he is doing a terrific job. My other assistant, Ricky O'Brien, one of my former North runners, is also doing a fine job for me."

North In 2 Big Wins Takes Over League Lead

The North Quincy boys' soccer team, enjoying its finest season ever and unbeaten in its last seven games, has taken over the Suburban League lead with big wins over Waltham and Brookline last week.

Coach Paul Gregoli's Raiders have a 4-1-2 league record and are 6-1-2 overall.

North, which played Brockton Tuesday, will host Newton North Friday and Cambridge Rindge and Latin Tuesday at 3:30 at the Veterans Stadium field and next Wednesday will play at Whitman College at 3:15 in a non-league game.

In going unbeaten in its last seven games, North has allowed only five goals.

Bobby O'Brien, the league's leading goalie with a 1.14 goals-against average, recorded his first shutout of the season as North edged Waltham, which had been leading the league, 1-0.

Tri-Capt. Greg DiBella who had an outstanding game defensively, overlapped from his fullback spot and blasted a shot at Waltham's goalie from 30 yards out for the winning goal.

The Raiders outplayed the Hawks in every phase of the game as they won every head ball and outhusted Waltham to every loose ball.

Particularly effective were Terry Stark and Mike Cocce. Stark dominated the middle and completely outplayed the league's No. 2 scorer, Gino DiStefano. North lost George Dolbec with a badly bruised foot in the second quarter but junior wing Andy Curtis filled in well.

Other standouts for the Raiders were Jaime Paz and Alex Couits. The next day North traveled to North Easton and defeated Oliver Ames for the second time, 4-1, in a non-league game.

North's Mike Bourikas, Curtis and Peter McGillicuddy had good scoring chances but the Raiders didn't score until late in the first quarter when Bourikas' wing to wing pass found Curtis all alone in front and he scored from 10 yards out.

A rare North defensive lapse allowed the Tigers to even the count at the half when Brian Evans scored.

In the third quarter Stark and Cocce began to control midfield along with John Joseph and Steve Golden. Golden was especially effective with his hustling play.

Nine minutes into the quarter McGillicuddy shot from 20 yards out and it was deflected by the goalie and Bourikas banged it home. It wasn't until DiBella's penalty kick found the mark early in the fourth quarter that North appeared to be in complete control.

Late in the game Dwayne Wilcoxon, in only his second game back since having an operation, scored from 15 yards out with Mark McGowan assisting.

Dave Marchant played well after relieving O'Brien in goal and Todd Caldwell saw considerable service at fullback and played well. Last Friday the Raiders avenged their lone loss of the season by defeating Brookline, 3-1.

Although North put the pressure on the visitors early in the game, Brookline scored with 39 seconds left in the first quarter as Chris Cardona scored on a penalty kick.

North tied the score early in the second quarter when McGillicuddy hit a beautiful corner kick to Jimmy Boudreau, who skinned the ball to DiBella, who slammed it in the net. Boudreau, playing his finest game of the year, was then sent in by Bourikas five minutes later and Boudreau scored from 12 yards out. Midway in the fourth quarter McGillicuddy was tripped in the penalty area and DiBella scored his sixth goal with his second penalty shot of the game.

The key to the game was the midfield play of Stark, Nunzio Carbone and Boudreau.

"The boys played with a lot of heart all week," Gregoli said. "The defense is playing super ball, especially Couits, DiBella and Stark."

Leo Donovan's North Quincy girls' team, following a 2-0 loss to Waltham, despite a fine defensive effort, blanked Brookline, 2-0, to improve its record to 4-3-1.

Debbie Kiley scored both goals with Liz Toland assisting on the first. Goalie Sheila Graham stopped eight shots to record her fourth shutout.

The Raiderettes will play at Newton North Friday and will be at Cambridge Tuesday. Both games start at 3:30.

LeCain, Deehan Help Quincy Upset Arlington

The Quincy High School football team uncovered a new star in Bud Deehan to complement workhorse Jimmy LeCain and together they led the underdog Quincy eleven to a 13-0 upset of Arlington, the Presidents' first victory of the season after three straight losses.

Deehan gained yardage consistently on the ground and his long booming punts kept Arlington deep in its own territory for most of the afternoon at Pfaffman's Oval.

Quincy's first touchdown drive began with an Arlington punt late in the second quarter. LeCain and Deehan alternated carrying the ball for gains of four to eight yards until LeCain went through tackle for the score. Deehan added the extra point.

The second touchdown also began when Arlington was forced to punt from behind its own goal line. Deehan passed to Reynolds for a first down and LeCain added two more first downs before Deehan crashed over for the score. The try for the point was blocked.

TROJANS IN SCORELESS TIE

Quarterback Philbrick crossed the goal line in the third period but the ball was knocked out of his hands for a touchback as the Quincy Trojans and the Bedham AA battled to a scoreless tie at Stone Park, Dedham.

Trojan star Bill Nichols demonstrated his versatility by playing left halfback in the first half and center in the second.

Dedham failed on two glorious opportunities to score in the second period, first when a pass brought the ball to the Quincy three-yard-line where the Trojans held for downs; and then when a field goal try failed from the Quincy 20-yard-line.

SHULTZ WINS MEDAL

Roger Shultz, captain of the Quincy High School track team, won a gold medal for being the first high school runner to cross the finish line in the annual Harvard interscholastic cross country run at Cambridge. Prep schooler Elmer Fogg of New Hampton, N.H., won the race.

Shultz was clocked in 13 minutes, 18 seconds over the two-mile course, three and two-fifths seconds behind Fogg.

The Quincy team finished third in the race with Chapman 14th, Gilman 17th, Baltzer 28th and MacKenzie 45th. After the race, the runners were guests of Harvard track coach Bingham at the Harvard-Tufts football game.

HARDWICK GREATEST

Huntington R. (Tack) Hardwick, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. Theodore Hardwick of 50 Chestnut St., a star at Harvard 15 years ago, was called the greatest all-around football player he ever saw by William S. Langford, the veteran referee.

"There was not a single flaw in his playing," said Langford. "Hardwick could always be counted upon to carry out his assignment perfectly. He could run, kick, tackle and interfere with equal skill. I would name 'Tack' Hardwick first on any all team."

FOOTBALL NIGHT AT MOVIES

Members of the Quincy High School, Quincy Trojans and Quincy Point Tigers football teams were invited to "Football Night" at the Quincy Theater to watch Richard Dix in "The Quarterback" and film of the St. Louis Cardinals beating the New York Yankees in the World Series.

ATLANTIC AC WINS

Cavanaugh intercepted a pass and ran 60 yards for a touchdown, then scored the extra point on a pass from Wade to give the Atlantic AA a 7-6 victory over the Scituate TT at the Civic Center playground in Scituate.

SPORTS BITS '26

Francis Devlin at quarterback guided the South Quincy Bulldogs to a 24-18 victory over the Cranch School team at Baxter's Field behind the old police station . . . Prime scored the only touchdown on a three-yard plunge as the Quincy Point Tigers edged Hingham at the Ward Two playground . . . Morris (Mush) Lubarsky, son of Mr. and Mrs. David Lubarsky of 307 Water St., South Quincy, was elected captain of the 1927 baseball team at Burdett College . . . Presidents Under Lights At New Bedford

By TOM SULLIVAN

Quincy's football team is back on the win trail after suffering its only loss of the season.

Friday night the Presidents will face New Bedford, which always gives them fits, in a 7 p.m. arc-light non-league game at Sargent Field in New Bedford.

Quincy rebounded from its loss to undefeated Waltham with a 20-13 victory last Saturday over Newton North at Newton to improve its record to 4-1.

New Bedford (2-2) has always given the Presidents trouble. This season the Whalers have wins over Fairhaven and Somerset and have lost to unbeaten Brockton and Dartmouth.

"We saw New Bedford this week and, although it lost to Dartmouth, 18-13, we were very impressed with them," said Quincy coach Tom Fitzgerald. "They have a good-sized team with an outstanding passer and some fine running backs. We expect plenty of trouble from them."

Last week's victory at Newton was a costly one as Mike Miller, one of the Presidents' top defensive backs, suffered a fractured ankle early in the game and will be out for the season.

Following the game the players voted to give Miller the game ball.

Quincy scored all its points in the second period and had to hold off a fighting Newton squad, which has yet to win a game but has given everyone trouble.

"It was a tough game and Newton has a good team," Fitzgerald said. "Bob Mudge played another fine game at quarterback, running the team well and doing some good passing. Mark Righini, Chris Draicchio, Ted Walsh, Mike Notarangelo and Willie Cullen all ran well."

Assistant Coach Pete Chella had good words for Jamie Gravales, Bob Willard, John Carr, Dan Mahoney, Brian Callahan and Paul Gilbody in the offensive line.

"Willard played an excellent game and the two ends, Callahan and Gilbody, were outstanding," Chella said. "Callahan made a great catch and run to set up our first touchdown and Gilbody blocked well as well as making some key pass receptions."

On defense Fitzgerald singled out Callahan, Dennis Obert, Willard, Gravales, Bob Burns, Righini, Kevin Cabezas, Darren DeCoste, Chris Shaughnessy and Glen Oriola.

Newton took a 7-0 lead in the opening quarter when Fritz Phillips scored from the four-yard line and Billy Pearson kicked the point.

Quincy got rolling in the second quarter. Callahan made a fine catch and run to the Newton five and two plays later Draicchio QUINCY's interior linemen have been doing an outstanding job and have played a large part in the President's 4-1 record. scored from the 10 and Joe Harte kicked the tying point.

A few minutes later Quincy drove downfield and Righini scored from the one. Harte again kicked the point.

Just before the half ended Mudge threw his eighth touchdown pass of the season (he is leading Div. 1 in this department) to Draicchio for 30 yards. A pass try for the two points failed.

Quincy twice drove inside Newton's 20 in the second half but was stopped.

The game was far from over. Newton scored in the third quarter when George Clastin scored on a nine-yard pass from Tom Brandon.

Late in the game a booming Newton punt was downed on Quincy's three-yard line. Leading by only seven points, the Presidents moved the ball out of danger and the win was clinched.

Quincy Freshmen Tie Hull, 6-6

The Quincy freshman football team, coached by Jerry Quintiliani, opened its season last week, playing to a 6-6 tie with Hull.

Quincy's touchdown came in the first quarter on a 60-yard punt return by Donnie Parry. Steve Constas' kick for the extra point was no good.

Quincy's tough defense held Hull scoreless in the first half with Ron Luisi intercepting two passes and John Picarski and Joe O'Brien recovering fumbles. The young Presidents sacked the quarterback three times.

In the second half two Quincy drives were stalled by penalties and pass interceptions. Hull's only touchdown came late in the third quarter and a try for a two-point conversion failed.

Quincy's offensive line did a fine job with Dave O'Keefe, Paul Munafio, John Heath, Picarski and Constas playing well. Parry connected with Dave Herbert for some fine passes and Tony Venturelli and Steve Rosher ran well.

"I was a little disappointed we didn't win, as we controlled the game and outplayed Hull in every phase of the game," Quintiliani said.

Earlier Quincy had lost a tough 22-21 decision in a scrimmage against Braintree.

Quincy's first drive was engineered by Parry's fine passing and the running of Venturelli, Bob Hunter and Walt Rollins. The young Presidents scored first on a keeper by Parry. Constas kicked the point.

Braintree scored when it recovered a bad snap from center in the end zone and added the two extra points.

Venturelli raced 50 yards to the Braintree five and a pass from Parry to Venturelli accounted for the TD. A rush for extra points failed.

Trailing, 23-13, Quincy drove downfield led by Rosher and Hunter. Parry completed two passes to Herbert and Derbes and Hunter ran 35 yards for the final Quincy score. Hunter also ran for the two extra points.

Rollins, Herbert, Freedman, O'Brien and Picarski all played well on defense.

Leone Maine Standout Giordani Brothers Shine At New Haven

While other Quincy and North Quincy players have been grabbing the headlines, Quincy brothers Mark and Jeff Giordani, former Quincy High standouts, have been doing their usual outstanding job at the U. of New Haven.

Mark has been a man for all seasons throughout his New Haven football career. He's filled in at halfback, defensive back and quarterback for the Chargers.

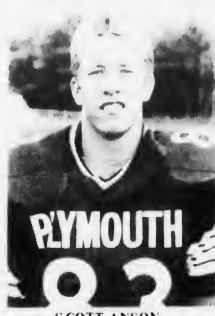

Three weeks ago he was given the call to call the signals and performed well. He has remained in that spot ever since and, after New Haven had lost its first three games, Mark led the team to wins over Lock Haven State and last week over U. of D.C., 19-9.

He has been pacing the team in total offense with his passing and running, while his brother Jeff has continued as one of the club's outstanding defensive backs. He has had several pass interceptions and has been an all-around stickout on defense.

Former North Quincy star Jack Leone continues his outstanding kicking for the U. of Maine and last week was six for six in extra points as the Black Bears rolled over UMass, 42-24.

Leone is a perfect 33 for 33 in kicking extra points in addition to his five field goals.

Plymouth State rolled to its sixth straight win and fifth shutout, topping Framingham State, 37-0, despite the absence of North Quincy's Joe Dudek, who was sidelined with a sprained ankle. Former Quincy end Scott Anson, who set a school record with 11 interceptions (three for touchdowns) the previous week, caught another TD pass and North Quincy's Steve Lee also had a touchdown. Anson had been honored by being selected to the ECAC weekly football honor roll after his performance against Mass. Maritime Academy.

Former North Quincy quarterback Kevin Cobban threw two touchdown passes and scored once himself in packing Bridgewater State to a 28-21 win over Western Connecticut. Cobban was 13 for 28 for 181 yards.

The North Quincy Apaches edged the Houghs Neck Manets, 8-6, Sunday at Veterans Memorial Stadium to remain unbeaten in the Quincy Youth Football League.

The Manets took a 6-0 lead at halftime, despite some outstanding defense by the Apaches' George Hartford, Dan McCarthy, Gary McNamara, Tim Kelly, John Broadbent, Larry Taglieri, Brian Dargin, Steve Miller and Wes Crowley. The Apaches clicked on offense several times with good yardage by McCarthy, Hartford and McNamara, but were stopped by a rugged Manets' defense.

Broadbent raced 60 yards on a keeper to score the tying touchdown for the Apaches in the third quarter and Hartford rushed for the two winning points.

Sunday the Manets will play the West Quincy Elks at 1 o'clock and the Apaches will face the Quantum Sailors at 2:30.

The Apaches' junior varsity defeated the Manets' jayvees, 22-8, last Saturday.

A 30-yard pass from Paul Moody to Mike Shields gave the Apaches their first touchdown in the opening quarter.

In the second quarter Keith Gott scored on a 20-yard run with fine blocking by Scott Fitzgerald, Mike Shields, Bob Herman and Matt Norton.

The Manets scored early in the third quarter but the Apaches came back when Moody scored on a 20-yard run on a keeper.

This was the first win in over two years for the Apaches' jayvees and they were sparked by David Francoeur, Sean and Rob Geary, Mike Ainsley, Tom Walsh, Brian Tobin, Ed Herman, Richard Fraser and Joe Robichaud on defense.

CHIMNEY FIRES

With more fireplaces in regular use, fire chiefs throughout the country report more chimney fires than they have seen in the last quarter century.

Chimney fires are usually the result of soot buildup in the flue. Whenever you have a fire, carbon particles rise - especially when green wood is burned - and coat the inside walls of the chimney. Old brick or stone fireplaces with their rough surfaces are particularly vulnerable, but even modern homes with their smooth tile flue liners are not immune. Soot buildups - some are two or three inches thick - burn like charcoal once they are ignited. While there is little danger that such a fire will get past a tile liner in good condition, there is plenty of danger that it can work its way through the decaying mortar joints of old brick or stone chimneys. By the time such a smoldering fire is discovered, it may have a head start that cannot be overtaken.

The easiest - and most expensive - way to take care of your chimney is to hire a professional chimney cleaner ("sweep")

A Dramatic Comeback Burke Wins Presidents Marathon With Courage

Mike Burke, a 34-year-old resident of Randolph and assistant cross country and track coach at North Quincy High School, was the winner of the third annual City of Presidents marathon Sunday. And there is a story of grit and determination behind his victory in the record time of 2:26:54.

His time topped the previous best of 2:29:00 set last year by Rocky Greene.

Burke, an outstanding distance runner for several years, was paralyzed on his left side two years ago when his van went out of control in Mexico and crashed into a ditch.

"I couldn't walk, let alone run," he said. "I hurt my back pretty bad. It was a sciatic nerve and I bumped a few vertebrae around. I just wanted to be able to run, that's all. The doctors said it (paralysis) would go away, but nobody expected me to run competitively again."

But Sunday he made a triumphant return to road racing as he out-kicked 268 runners and not only won the 26.2-mile marathon, but in record time.

Alan Milld of Dedham, the runnerup, also broke the old course record with a 2:28:33 timing. Joe Catalano of the BAA, former Quincy High track coach, husband of Patti Catalano, one of America's top women runners and an outstanding distance runner in his own right, finished third, Stephen Gay was fourth and Bill Kone, the first Quincy resident to finish, was fifth.

Kone's wife, Patricia, was also the first Quincy woman finisher, covering the course in 3:44:10.

Patti Catalano, formerly of Quincy, running unofficially, dropped out at the 16-mile mark. She was using the race to train for the Dec. 12 Honolulu Marathon.

Although Burke felt Sunday's win was an important one, the win over his injury looms as a bigger accomplishment than winning a race.

"After the accident, I had to take it step by step and it took nearly a year before I could really say I was running again," he said. "I couldn't expect to run competitively, but I wanted to run for health. Now, I've worked myself into the best shape I think I've ever been in. I think a lot of people were holding back and that's why I was alone most of the race.

Burke received the Mayor's Trophy from Mayor Frank McCauley for winning the race.

Kone was awarded the Stop and Shop Trophy for being the first Quincy finisher and his wife was presented the South Boston Savings Trophy for being the first Quincy woman finisher.

The first female finisher in the open division was Jane Tompkins of North Easton (3:16:00), the first male master (40 and over) was Ronald Hoy of Somerset (2:54:37), and the first male senior (50 and over) was Quincy police lieutenant Fran Mullen (3:14:31). Fran is now a resident of Hingham.

The Quincy residents who finished were Kone (2:42:16), followed by Barrett Powell, Fred Myers, Peter Francoeur, Michael J. Welch, Gerard Raines, Billy Mullin, Patricia Kone, Paul Duddy Jr., Kenneth Farrell and Sheila Reynolds.

Race director Bob Seamans did an excellent job in organizing the race.

"The race was conducted very well," Burke said.

Seamans planned an October marathon because the past two races were held in early September and on very hot days. Sunday it was the other extreme, 42 degrees with a stiff wind blowing in the runners' faces for most of the 13.1-mile, two-lap course.

The finishers:

1. Mike Burke - 2:26:54
2. Allan Milld - 2:28:33

WEEK OF: OCTOBER 21

AQUARIUS - January 21-February 19
Self-indulgent streak emerges. Offering yourself rewards for work done may help you survive this lazy period. Youngsters appreciate the constructive advice you pass along this week.

PISCES - February 20-March 20
In matters of the heart, take a backward glance and learn from recent situations. Fad health and diet programs should be discouraged for yourself and family. Travel ideas are executed with flair.

ARIES - March 21-April 20
Don't hesitate to voice your novel ideas. You offer a nice combination of logic and originality. One caution: tend to minor mechanical problems before they become major ones.

TAURUS - April 21-May 22
Familiar places and people bring cheer - there's no need to venture far afield now. Financial goals become clearer and it may be time to do some long-range planning.

GEMINI - May 23-June 21
Communication lines become disrupted, leading to delays but affording more time to work on social life. Relative's plans cry out for advice: don't be afraid of being labeled a meddler.

CANCER - June 22-July 22
You lean toward extravagance and it may be wise to hide credit cards this week. Health programs should get doctor's nod before you proceed. Brand new relationships are spotlighted.

LEO - July 23-August 22
Your quick wit can be your worst enemy - go easy on the sarcasm, especially if higherups are your victims. If considering changes, weigh tangible against intangible benefits.

VIRGO - August 23-September 22
Ingenuity is your strength, indecisiveness a potential weakness now. Recent conflict comes to satisfactory finale by Friday. Loved one may be surprisingly high-brow.

LIBRA - September 23-October 22
Romantic expectations may be unrealistically high with partner immersed in work or family matters. Finances brighten and you'd be wise to give them prompt attention.

SCORPIO - October 23-November 21
Risks can be unwise in a week that favors an even, conservative, familiar approach. Introductions to people from abroad are spotlighted. There are possibilities for romance here.

SAGITTARIUS - November 22-December 22
Health and diet are accentuated. This is a key time for taking off pounds, taking on fitness programs. Weekend cancellations can provide you with some very productive private time.

CAPRICORN - December 23-January 20
It's a week in which you're nominated to make all the big decisions. Be sure to get the credit you deserve. Be meticulous in matters concerning budgets, investments, bookkeeping.

BIRTHDAY THIS WEEK
Romantic, mysterious, and stubborn. Loyal, determined, and suspicious. Cultivate your positive traits, and you can realize a pair of personal goals early in 1983. Long-term domestic tensions/expenses show signs of easing over the next eight months.

BORN THIS WEEK
October 21st, musician Alexander Schneider; 22nd, actress Catherine Deneuve; 23rd, actress Diana Dors; 24th, comedian Sol Saks; 25th, singer Helen Reddy; 26th, actress Jaclyn Smith; 27th, actress Ruby Dee.

BOB CERASOLI

can tell you what he's done!

- A New Vandalism Law.
Bob wrote a law making parents of minor children (7 - 18 years of age) liable for up to $1,000 for any damage they cause to another person's property or to any state, county, municipal or cemetery property. It's time to start teaching the vandal respect for other people's property and that respect can only begin with the parents at home.

- Two new laws to help prevent Welfare Fraud.
Bob worked hard for the passage of a law creating the Bureau of Special Investigations to provide new authority to examine records in connection with welfare fraud cases. Bob also was instrumental in the passage of a bill increasing the penalties for Medicaid vendors who charge inflated prices or who solicit bribes and kickbacks for Medicaid services.

With tough controls we have the welfare error rate down from 24 to 6 percent; and we are working to reduce even that.

In the last three years, welfare fraud complaints have multiplied thirteenfold — from 3100 to 42,000; and that is good management.

In 1981, our battle against welfare fraud has resulted in over 660 guilty findings, sixteen times the 41 such findings in 1978.

- A new law outlawing the sale of drug paraphernalia.
A loop hole had existed in state law prohibiting the sale of certain drugs, but allowing the sale of items used in ingesting the drugs. A bill Bob co-sponsored with the Governor will outlaw the sale of drug paraphernalia intended to be used with illicit drugs, close all the headshops and make sale of these items to children a much more severe offense.
- A new law providing Mandatory Prison Sentences for Drug Dealers.
Bob was one of the floor leaders for the passage of a law to provide for mandatory sentences for persons found guilty of trafficking in major amounts of heroin, cocaine and marijuana. The law comes down especially hard on those who sell drugs to children.
- A new law providing for mandatory prison sentencing for car thieves.
Bob worked hard for the mandatory sentencing of car thieves, but more importantly, Bob insisted that the convicted car thief be forced to pay full restitution to the victim and/or the insurance company. And now it's a law. It's about time the thieves start paying for their crimes instead of the victims.
- A law raising the drinking age from 18 to 20.
Bob sponsored and worked for a law raising the drinking age to 21. When this law failed to pass, Bob voted for a 20 year age limit in order to help get alcohol out of the hands of high school students.
- Rep. Cerasoli received the highest rating of any Democrat on the South Shore from the Citizens for Limited Taxation, CLT is the organization that sponsored Prop. 2½. He has received CLT's endorsement for his support in seeing that Proposition 2½ is implemented fairly and properly.
- College scholarship aid for needy students.
In 1977, Rep. Cerasoli set up two ongoing scholarship funds for college students.

The Robert A. Cerasoli Scholarship at Quincy Junior College presented annually to two students from Weymouth and Quincy attending Quincy Junior College and the Robert A. Cerasoli-Coaches Basketball Scholarship presented annually to a college bound graduating senior on the Quincy High School Basketball team.

He worked hard. He got results.
He'll do it, again.

But, How Much?

Mayor Favors Salary For School Board

By TOM HENSHAW

The School Committee has opened the door to be paid for its services to the city and Mayor Francis X. McCauley thinks it's a good idea but no one is sure just where to go from there.

Committee members, by a vote of 6-0, with McCauley absent, last week adopted the provisions of a new state law which authorizes the city to compensate its school board.

"When you compare the responsibilities of the School Committee with those of the City Council," said McCauley, "I would have to say the School Committee is deserving of compensation."

"But I'm not prepared to say how much it should be."

The School Committee receives no pay for its work in running the School Department and members of the Council receive $3,000 each. The Council recently rejected a raise for itself and the mayor.

McCauley said he has asked City Solicitor William Golden to look into the procedures that should be followed in order to grant compensation to members of the School Committee.

"I can't say what action we will take," he said. "I'm sure it will require Council action but would it need a two-thirds vote like the Council raise? When would it be effective?"

The mayor said there is a possibility that the School Committee could give itself a salary simply by placing the item in its budget since the Council controls only the bottom line of the school budget.

McCauley, who is ex-officio chairman of the School Committee by virtue of his office, said he does not think the mayor could expect to be included in the compensation.

"Just the six elected members of the committee," he said.

Members of the School Committee themselves could not agree at last week's meeting just how much they feel they should be paid and in what manner.

Frank Anselmo's motion to set the salary for school committee members at $3,000 per year effective Jan. 1, 1984 was tabled.

A motion by John Sullivan to provide $135 a month for each member, similar to the city councillors' expense allowances, was also tabled.

Arguments were put forth by Sullivan and Anselmo in support of salary and expense compensation but the hang-up came on the effective date of such compensation.

Half the school board members would be starting another term Jan. 1, 1984, if they are successfully re-elected in 1983.

The new school fiscal year commences July 1, 1983. Budgets for that year are now fixed.

Mary Collins, presiding as vice-chairman in the absence of McCauley, pointed out that the new state law was quite specific and did not include expenses.

74% Voter Turnout Seen

5 Questions May Steal Election Spotlight

A governor, a U.S. senator and a passel of lesser officials will be elected next Tuesday but the big draw on the ballot may turn out to be the five referendum questions.

City Clerk John Gillis, who has been monitoring such things for upwards of 20 years, estimates that there will be a turnout of about 74 per cent of the 48,530 registered voters.

That's comparatively high for an off-year state election.

"The referenda will do it," said Gillis. "There are no local contests to speak of and there's not much interest in the governor's fight."

The referenda includes two questions on nuclear energy and weapons, and one each on the death penalty, state aid to private schools and the so-called Bottle Bill.

Locally, the only contest on the ballot pits Rep. Robert A. Cerasoli of Quincy against Gerard E. Lawler of Weymouth in a rematch of the 1980 race won by Cerasoli.

Lawler, a Republican, is an ex-Marine who is a small businessman and a teacher at Dorchester High School. His highest previous elective office has been that of Weymouth town meeting member.

Cerasoli, who lives in Quincy Point, is campaigning for his fifth term in the State House of Representatives. He won by a margin of 11,532 to 5,128 two years ago, 6,131 to 1,447 in Quincy.

The governor's contests which has excited so little interest has Michael S. Dukakis, the Democratic former governor of 1975-78, making a comeback against Republican John Sears. Dukakis is favored.

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy is an overwhelming favorite to win a fourth six year term in the U.S. Senate over Ray Shamie, the Republican businessman from Walpole.

The referendum questions, all of which have aroused the passions of voters, are these:

— A constitution amendment that would remove the present constitutional prohibition against the use of public funds to aid or maintain private primary or secondary schools.

The amendment was approved overwhelmingly by the State Legislature sitting as a constitution convention.

— A constitutional amendment that would permit the Legislature to enact laws authorizing state courts to impose the death penalty for crimes yet to be specified by law.

The amendment was approved, again overwhelmingly, by the Legislature in constitutional convention.

— A proposed law that would require legislative review and approval of a majority of voters in a statewide election before a new nuclear power plant or low-level radioactive waste facility could be built.

The Legislature has not taken a vote on this initiative petition.

Traffic Supervisor For Central School

A fulltime traffic supervisor may soon be assigned to the Central Middle School on Hancock St., where a 13-year-old girl was struck by a car last Thursday.

Gail Saluti of 312 Farrington St., Wollaston, was not seriously injured.

Peter Kenney, the mayor's aide, said Anthony Pollara of the Quincy Police Traffic Division is writing a letter to City Francis X. Finn recommending the assignment.

Mayor Francis X. McCauley is all for it, too.

"The area is chaotic when school lets out," he said. "There are two entrances to the school and kids run out in all directions when school is over. They're crossing the street both ways."

Kenney said that in the past the police have had a cruiser at the spot but frequently it gets called away at critical times.

JACK-O-LANTERNS like this one are being readied for Halloween Sunday. At left, is Erin O'Connor, 6, at right, Stephanie Robinson, 3, both of North Quincy.

Referenda May Steal Election Spotlight

— A law requiring that a refundable deposit be paid for certain beverage containers sold in Massachusetts. This is the so-called Bottle Bill.

The bill has been passed by the State Legislature and will become law next Jan. 17, unless it is repealed by a majority of voters on this referendum.

— An advisory for the President and the Congress of the United States that the people of Massachusetts desire a nuclear weapons moratorium and reduction, with appropriate verification.

The question is advisory only. There will be the usual Democratic-Republican battles for lesser statewide offices with Democrats favored. The races include:

Francis X. Bellotti of Quincy, Democrat, seeking re-election for attorney general against Richard L. Wainwright of Brockton, Republican.

Michael Joseph Connolly of Boston, Democrat, seeking re-election for state secretary against Jody DeRoma Dow of Brookline, Republican.

Robert Q. Crane of Boston, Democrat, seeking re-election for treasurer against Mary J. LeClair of Mashpee, Republican.

John J. Finnegan of Boston, Democrat, seeking re-election for auditor against Michael S. Robertson of Berkley, Republican.

The Libertarian Party has also entered a full list of candidates for statewide office, including:

Howard S. Katz, Lexington, U.S. Senator; Rebecca Shipman, Easton, Governor; Michael Reilly, Brockton, Attorney General; Robin D. Zarula, Medford, Secretary; Freda L. Nason, Cambridge, Treasurer; Donald E. Washburn, North Adams, Auditor.

In addition, there is an independent candidate for governor on the ballot, Frank Rich of Saugus.

Running unopposed on the ballots in Quincy, all Democrats are: Brian J. Donnelly, Boston, Congress; Peter L. Eeley, Quincy, governor's council; Paul D. Harold, Quincy, state senator; Thomas Brownell and Michael W. Morrissey, both Quincy, state representative.

William D. Delahunt, Quincy, district attorney; Nicholas Barbadoro, Quincy, clerk of courts; Barry T. Hannon, Braintree, register of deeds; David C. Ahearn, Norwood, county commissioner.

All but Barbadoro are seeking re-election.

City Council Backs Bottle Bill

The City Council has endorsed the Bottle Bill, which will appear on next Tuesday's referendum for the voters of Massachusetts to confirm into law.

The law is scheduled to go into effect Jan. 17 unless it is repealed by the voters.

Councillor Patricia Toland, who introduced the resolution at the last Council meeting, said:

"By encouraging recycling of bottles and cans, the Bottle Bill will do a great service to our city by getting those containers out of the garbage and off the streets and playgrounds.

"When there's less solid waste to pick up and dispose of, our city government will be able to save tax dollars as well."

The Quincy Committee to Save the Bottle Bill is listing a number of other prominent Quincy civic leaders as endorsing the bill.

They include Sen. Paul D. Harold, Reps. Robert A. Cerasoli, Thomas F. Brownell and Michael W. Morrissey as well as the League of Women Voters and the Parks and Recreation Department.

Those interested in helping man the polls for the Bottle Bill on election day should contact Mary Quinn at 471-6974.

DeCristofaro For Condon Against Mayor's Raises

The Quincy Sun last week inadvertently listed City Councillor Theodore P. DeCristofaro as voting against the mayor's raise and City Councillor Joanne Condon as voting for it. In reality it was the other way around.

Those voting for the raise were DeCristofaro, Richard J. Koch Jr., Joseph J. LaRaia, James A. Sheets and Patricia Toland.

Those voting against were Condon, Leo J. Kelly, John J. Lydon Jr. and Stephen J. McGrath.

The raise failed to pass since a two-thirds majority, or a 6-3 vote, was needed.

McCauley, Justice Dept. Confer On Quincy 'Racism'

The U.S. Justice Department has been in touch with city officials in regard to allegations of racism in Quincy.

Edward D. McLure, a community relations specialist for the Justice Department, visited with Mayor Francis X. McCauley last Friday and the mayor said they had a "good talk."

"From what I could glean," said McCauley, "no one has come forward to make a formal complaint. He was trying to get our ideas on the subject and we brought him up to date."

City Solicitor William Golden and McCauley's aides, Arthur Foley and Peter Kenney, also attended the 45-minute meeting with McLure, who is one of the Justice Department's five specialists in New England.

McLure said last week that the department is conducting an inquiry, but not a formal investigation, into the allegations of racism in Quincy.

Earlier this month, David Harris, assistant commissioner of the State Department of Commerce, called Quincy "probably the most racist city in America" and there have been racial problems in the public housing in Germantown.

McLure said that if evidence of wrongdoing is found, the matter could be referred to the U.S. Attorney or to the State Attorney General.

McCauley said after the meeting that McLure told him he plans to talk to the people in the city and that he would be back to talk with the mayor in a week to 10 days.

McCauley said there appeared to be no specific incident that started the Justice Department inquiry.

"I think it was Harris' remarks that touched it off," he said. "The press picked up on it, the Boston media and television. There was not a heck of a lot of substantiation."

Harris later stepped back a bit from his original remarks, saying that Quincy was not necessarily the most racist city in America but he placed it in the top five.

WALK FOR YOUTH, an annual event by the American Legion to raise money for "Horizons for Youth", was held Sunday. Mayor Francis McCauley and John P. Comer of Quincy, state chairman for the 18 kilometer event, confer at Merrymount Park where the walk started and ended.

W. Quincy Dog Pack Concerns Sheets

City Councillor James A. Sheets says he is very concerned about the number of complaints he has received of a pack of dogs that are reported to be running wild in the Forest Ave. area of West

Quincy.

Sheets said the pack appears to come from the sanitary landfill area and present a potentially dangerous situation to residents of the area, particularly youngsters, and city employees at the dump.

Anyone with information about the dog pack, said Sheets, should contact the police or the City, Council office or Councillor Sheets.

Lydon Scores MDC For FB School Brush

City Council President John J. Lydon Jr. has complained to the MDC that its summer work crews missed a critical 100-foot section of brush along Furnace Brook Parkway near the Furnace Brook School.

"This area," Lydon said in a letter to Francis McCarran, the MDC's director of parks, "serves as a principal route for children walking to the Furnace Brook School.

"I am especially concerned with the upcoming snow season."

The particular section between the school and Willow St. is overgrown with underbrush, he said, and will make it impossible for bombadiers to plow after a snow storm.

8th Break Reported In Counseling Office

It isn't easy to figure the motive of the people who keep breaking into the offices of the Furnace Brook Counseling Center at 72 Washington St.

They broke in Monday for the eighth time in recent weeks through a rear door. And, for the eighth time, the desks and file cabinets were searched but nothing was taken.

Community Center Break

A break was reported in the Germantown Community Center, 9 Bicknell St., Sunday but it was not immediately determined what was taken.

Alicia Hirl, president of the center, said an inventory will be taken.

Entrance was gained by breaking the plywood panel on a rear door and a cellar door was tampered with.

Beauty Hints

Last week, we discussed the three types of hair coloring: temporary, semi-permanent and permanent. This week, we will discuss permanent hair tinting with metallic and mineral dyes and how to determine the presence and types of these metallic salts which remain in the hair after tinting.

If you have used a permanent hair dye on your own, chances are that you purchased a metallic or mineral dye. These products are available commercially and are never used by a professional beautician. Hair treated with a metallic or mineral dye may be dull, without highlights and harsh and brittle to the touch.

If you want to change the color of your hair and you have already used such a dye, your cosmetologist is required to check for the presence of silver, lead or copper elements in your hair before he or she can do anything else.

A strand of your hair immersed in a solution of peroxide and ammonia water for thirty minutes (this is the test for metallic salts) will reveal the presence of silver if there is no reaction whatsoever. It will reveal the presence of lead if the hair changes color immediately, often turning much lighter. Further, the presence of copper is indicated if the hair strand is hot and gives off a disagreeable odor.

After removing the metallic dye, your hair colorist can then go on to treat your hair with professional hair coloring products.

Have A Safe Halloween

Youngsters and parents both know how much fun Hallowe'en is. Remember to keep it that way. Here are some suggestions as to how you can do it.

For Youngsters: Go trick-or-treating in groups, never alone, and always tell your parents where you are going. Confine your travels to your own immediate neighborhood.

Stay clear of traffic by walking between houses on the sidewalks. When you have to cross the street, use the crosswalks and look both ways.

Wear light-colored clothes when you are out so that people can see you better.

If you get lost, look for a policeman or use a telephone to call home.

After trick-or-treating, make sure your parents examine all your snacks before you eat them.

By remembering these tricks, you'll treat yourself to a safe Hallowe'en.

For the parents: Take extra precautions with your child this year.

Discard candy with loose or torn wrappers if your youngster brings them home. Cut fruit into small pieces to make sure there is nothing inside.

Know your child's route, his supervision and what time he or she will return home. Children should carry a flashlight.

Costumes should be non-flammable, light in color and afford the child clear vision.

Do not leave your residence unattended. Lock doors, windows and keep the house well lighted. Watch for signs of vandalism and report suspicious activity to the police.

Happy Birthday, Ruth

Ruth Gordon, with the bounce and energy of a high school cheerleader, will celebrate another birthday Sunday. Her 86th!

And, that's hard to believe. She, of course, was a member of the Class of 1914 at Quincy High School. But she could easily get by claiming to be in the Class of 1941.

That 1914 class is the famed "worst class", so dubbed, the story goes, because no one made the honor roll. School officials doubted if any one of them would ever amount to much.

Fortunately, the kids didn't listen to them. Miss Gordon went on to become one of the great actresses on the Broadway stage and in movies and in television. She's won Academy and Emmy awards and numerous other accolades.

Chester Stedman became an admiral and Andrew Deane vice-president of the U.S. Steel Co. Fred (Ted) Rollins and Leon White went on to put Dr. in front of their names. Harry Burr became a bank executive and Francis Duggan owner of an auto agency. There are others success stories out of that class, too.

As speaker at the Dana Hall School Class of 1982 commencement, Miss Gordon recalls saying to her father, Clinton Jones:

"Papa, graduation day, when we go to pick up our graduation diplomas, I am going to lead my whole class."

"Why, Snuggie," he said. "Are you the smartest in your class?"

"And I said, 'No Papa, I'm the shortest.' "

(Five feet tall).

She was later told in New York "you show no promise".

Well, she vowed, she'd show them. Just wait and see. Well, she sure showed them. And, still is.

And though her success has taken her to many places, her heart has remained in Quincy. She returns quite often to attend a class reunion or to just slip quietly back to make a sentimental tour of Winthrop Ave. in Wollaston where born at No. 41 or stroll the corridors of the present Central Middle School which was Quincy High School when she graduated.

And since leaving Quincy as a teen-ager with a dream in her heart she has been Quincy's roving "Ambassador of Good Will" and a one-woman Quincy Chamber of Commerce.

To what does she attribute her success and longevity?

Maybe it's what she also told the Dana Hall School Class of 1982:

"All right, All right. The world is full of trouble. The world is full of all good things, all bad things, and you got to share them, you share them, and you live through one trouble, and another one comes along, and you say, O.K. I lived through that one; damn it I'll live through this one. I've got the hang of it now. And then a boomer comes along and, and you look wow, oh, oh. Here I am, I'm up again, I'm up again. "And one thing remember: have some fun. No use living your life just working at it, struggling with it, conquering this, conquering that. Have some fun. It's kind of like making your digestion work.

"Get up some fun, and never mind how you do it."

"Be sorry if it's wicked afterwards, but have fun. And underneath everything, get that muscle going. Strengthen it. Courage, courage, always have courage. It's your life, it's your work, it's you. Think it over."

Happy birthday, Ruth. And many, many more.

WELL, former City Councillor Tom Gilmartin is back again with some of his fearless pre-election predictions.

He's picking Mike Dukakis, John Sears, Frank Rich and Rebecca Shipman in that order. Says Senator Edward Kennedy will get 60-62 per cent and not 65 per cent of the vote over Ray Shamie.

Gilmartin sees all current state officers winning with Secretary of State Michael Connolly and Jody Dow in the closest battle.

He's picking Margaret Heckler over Barney Frank in the 4th Congressional District what he thinks will be the closest of all the races. And, says he, if she wins she will go on to defeat Paul Tsongas to become the first woman senator from Massachusetts.

And, in the 10th Congressional District, Gilmartin sees realtor Jack Conway unseating Gerry Studds.

In the September primary, Gilmartin missed with Ed King but picked the top three lieutenant governor candidates in order: John Kerry, Evelyn Murphy and Sam Rotondi. And predicted Nick Barbadoro would top the eight candidate field for Norfolk County Clerk of Courts.

Gilmartin also has a non-political prediction: The New York Post will buy the Boston Herald American in 1983.

MEMBERS OF THE Quincy School Committee now have another hat to wear: fire helmets, gifts of the Riley & Kiely Insurance Company via George Riley.

The company last week offered — and the school committee accepted — a donation of an estimated $1,000 in fire education materials for distribution to youngsters in the primary grades.

Each member of the committee was then given a replica of a firefighters helmet. Mayor Francis McCauley and the other members of the committee donned the helmets and looked pretty sharp.

Maybe Fire Chief Edward Barry could use them as auxiliary firefighters in a two-alarm pinch.

247th Birthday Of John Adams Sunday

The public is invited to a wreath laying ceremony, Sunday at 10:30 a.m. at First Parish Church.

President Ronald Reagan has sent a wreath to Quincy to be placed on the sarcophagus of John Adams on his 247th birthday.

The wreath will be delivered on behalf of President Reagan by Commander Timothy Falkenstein of the U.S.N., accompanied by an entourage from the Quincy Recruitment Center.

Mayor Francis X. McCauley will receive the wreath on behalf of the city and Forrest Neal, president of church, will accept the wreath on behalf of the church.

Also participating will be a color guard delegation from the Ancient and Honorables arranged by Ernest Montilio.

Remarks will be given by Steven Lewis, representing the National Parks. Mrs. Doris Oberg, president of the Quincy Historical Society, will display memorabilia of John Adams on loan from the Historical Society's collection. She will also deliver a paper on "Abigail and October."

The program will be coordinated by Rev. Keith C. Munson, Minister of First Parish. Mr. Munson will also deliver a brief expose on "A Nation of Rebels."

Though John Adams' birthday is on the 30th, the ceremony is being held on the 31st to accommodate the participants. All are welcome to attend this historic event.

The first legislative assembly in America was formed in Jamestown, Virginia, in 1619.

Bad Publicity Causes Problems And Resentment In Germantown

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

"It's time to fight back, we're sick of being on the front page of the Ledger, T.V., and Boston Globe, I'll sign the petition."

"Do you know what really happened the night the white boy was suppose to have broken the window. What about my house being broken into. I think it's a shame, we are good people. We have a few problem kids but show me an area on the South Shore that doesn't."

These were some of the statements made on Saturday night at St. Boniface's bingo as they signed a petition to the Ledger for the harassments from them.

I lived in Germantown for 19 years, made wonderful friends and good relationships. Whenever there was a personal crisis, the whole area came out in full force to help.

One of our private home neighbors was being harassed by a few youths, we tried to take care of the matter. They broke a picture window, pulled out pieces of fences and threw rubbish in the yard. We found out who those youths were and talked to their mothers.

There were other homes with similar problems, however, the neighbors handled it. These problems didn't hit the front page.

One of my pet peeves, is how a few people can change the lives of so many (like our prayers in school), one man (Mr. Harris) coming down on Quincy because we don't have more blacks here. We had three black families that moved in and moved out in less than a half year.

How many white families are there in the black area, and are they harassed? I think this publicity has caused resentment and created some of the problems here. The children are all playing together, aren't they the most important ones?

The people of this community are very disturbed by all this bad publicity and for once would like to see some positive statements made about the Germantown area.

Favors Pollard School As New Police Station

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

I read with interest the views of Mr. Richard Crespi in your excellent newspaper under date of October 7, 1982, in which he opposes the use of the Pollard School as a police station.

Mr. Crespi's article is replete with contradictions and groundless fears. In one paragraph he says that when the officers begin their tour of duty, the personnel that is left behind at the station is all negative to the neighborhood, and at the same time he worries about the loud noise from sirens going to and from the station at all hours of the day and night.

He also fears that persons released on bail would be hanging around the neighborhood waiting for the court to open. Nothing could be farther from the truth, because the person released wants to put as much distance as possible between himself and the police station.

Furthermore, unfortunate people in need of assistance or with emotional problems are not turned out by the police department to roam the streets, but are delivered to the appropriate social service agency for help and treatment.

I feel that the proposal to use the vacant Pollard School is both far-sighted and practical.

An exterior view of the building shows tremendous potentials for an efficient use of the school both from a space standpoint and because of its excellent location on a main artery of our city.

The uniformed branch of the police department could be transferred to this building and be given some much needed space for offices, guard room, locker room, gymnasium and so on.

The present police building could remain as police headquarters and be used for the Administrative Offices, The Detective Bureau with its various units, The Fingerprint Division and The Radio Broadcasting Turret.

I believe that if the Pollard School building is properly designed it will serve the needs of the City of Quincy as a police station for many years to come. There should be little or no opposition from the neighborhood if the people would consider the added protection they would be receiving.

Having been a police officer in the South End of Boston many years ago, I can assure the people there is no safer area in a city than in the environs of a police station. There is no reason why the police department of a progressive city like Quincy must be housed in a building that was built so many years ago, and has outgrown its usefulness.

A 'Thank You' For Christmas Island Efforts

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

I would like to take this opportunity to say "Thank You" to City Councillor Leo J. Kelly for a job well done. For the past several months, we here at Burgin, Platner & Co., and I'm certain many others in the vicinity, have watched as Christmas Island took shape. It is rather fitting that through his efforts a group of volunteers put together a living memorial to Mr. Volunteer himself, George Fay.

I understand that he and George White of the Patriot Ledger thought that Christmas Island would be a proper place to display the City, State and National Flags

- this area being one of the most historical sites in the Country and the only place in the Country where two presidents are interred. Well, when Councillor Kelly gets an idea in his head, he really goes to it. The people and organizations who worked with him on this should be given a big thank you. They are as follows:

George Cavanaugh, Four Seasons Decorators (donated flagpoles and flower pots).

Campanelli Bros. (sodding and landscaping).

Germantown Garden Club (planted flower boxes).

Alquist Florists (donated flowers on median strip).

Congressman Brian J. Donnelly (the National Flag that flew over the Nations Capital).

John M. Gillis (State and City Flags).

The Planning Department, Department of Public Works, Park Department and Water Department all participated with planting, painting and watering of Christmas Island.

The people of Quincy can be proud of Councillor Kelly when someone like him takes the time and puts in the effort to get together the above volunteers and create such a fitting memorial.

Sincerely,
David W. Leitch

FR Shipyard, Workers Reach New Agreement

The Bethlehem Steel Co. and the Industrial Union of Marine and Shipbuilding Workers of America reached agreement on a new contract covering some 15,000 workers in the company's East Coast shipyards, including 5,100 at Fore River.

The wage section of the agreement provided for raises of nine to 22 cents an hour the first year and seven to 10 cents the second and third years for workers who are currently making $1.71 to $2.27 an hour and some specialists making more.

Other improvements under the agreement included four hours call-in pay instead of two, one more paid holiday (Feb. 22) making seven in all, changes in the vacation plan plus better pension and insurance plans and elimination of "in between pay rates."

Meanwhile, the Fore River management filed suit in Suffolk Superior Court for a temporary injunction to restrict picketing by 300 members of the draftsman union, who were striking for a new contract. Their picket line had halted production at the yard.

And Donald Edmonston was reelected president of the Shipbuilding Workers Local 5 with 1,560 votes to 1,350 for his opponent, Stanley Kyler of the pipe shop. Edmonston also was reelected to the local's negotiations committee.

SCHOOL OVERSPENDING

Purchasing Agent Joseph A.E. Erickson, told the City Council he can prove that the School Department "is going to spend a lot of unnecessary money" for equipment for the new Broad Meadows Junior High School. The cost is already $30,000 over estimate, he said.

City Councillor Thomas S. Burgin assailed an item in the Broad Meadows contract that called for some $5,000 in travel expenses for the architects to fly back and forth between Boston and Chicago. The city had already received two bills for $250 each.

STOP QUARRY DUMPING

Health Commissioner Dr. Richard H. Ash said he plans to give owners of Craig and Richards quarry a written order to stop creating a health nuisance by dumping in the quarry near Adams St., Furnace Brook Parkway and Mr. Ararat Rd.

LIVELY HALLOWE'EN

Police Chief William Ferrazzi, anticipating a lively Hallowe'en, announced that 150 auxiliary police will be patrolling the city on that night and all persons caught causing malicious damage will be brought to court.

Full police honors, including a procession down Hancock St., were in evidence Monday at the funeral of Quincy Police Officer Richard J. Flynn, 38.

Mr. Flynn died of a heart attack Oct. 21, at South Shore Hospital, Weymouth.

He was stricken at his Weymouth home after jogging two miles.

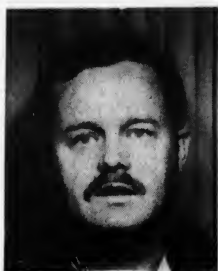

"He was very well liked," said Quincy Police Capt. Paul Nestor, a sentiment evidenced by the large number of people who filled St. John's Church for the funeral Mass.

The eulogy was given by Rev. Neil DiStefano, Boston City Hospital Chaplain. Rev. Joseph Byrne gave the sermon.

Also participating in the Mass were Rev. William D. Walsh, Quincy City Hospital Chaplain; Msgr. James J. Scally, pastor of St. Ann's Church, Wollaston; Rev. Thomas Reilly, Boston police chaplain; and Rev. Richard O'Donovan, pastor of Sacred Heart Church, Weymouth.

Some 150 uniformed Quincy police officers, led by Chief Francis Finn, marched in the procession through Quincy Square to Mt. Wollaston Cemetery after the Mass, according to Capt. Nestor.

A Boston Police honor guard

RICHARD J. FLYNN

was also among the marchers. The Boston, Weymouth, Braintree, Milton, and Metropolitan District Police also had representatives in the procession, as did the Norfolk County Sheriffs and Registry of Motor Vehicles.

Burial was in the policemen's section of the cemetery, according to Capt. Nestor.

Pall Bearers were Quincy Police Officers John Kelly, Jr., Terrence Kelly, Daniel Kennedy, Stephen O'Brien, Gerald Nichol, John Donovan, Paul Quinn and William Horrick.

Born and educated in South Boston, Mr. Flynn joined the Quincy Police Department Dec. 6, 1971. He was assigned to Wollaston Center and Houghs Neck.

In 1980, Mr. Flynn received a police commendation when he assisted in rescuing a family from a burning building in Wollaston.

Mr. Flynn was secretary to the Quincy Police Betterment Association.

He was also an active sportsman and ran in road races, hunted, fished and played racquetball.

Mr. Flynn was also coach of a youth soccer team in Weymouth.

He is survived by his wife, Mary (Tyrell) Flynn; three children, Debbie Flynn, 14; Richard Flynn, 13; and Christopher Flynn, 11; his mother, Teresa Flynn of South Boston; three brothers, Charles W. Flynn of Rockland, Douglas Flynn and Tony Flynn, both of South Boston; and three sisters, Eleanor J. Rogers, Denise Flynn and Lisa Flynn, all of South Boston.

Funeral arrangements were by Lydon-Russell Funeral Home, 644 Hancock St., Wollaston.

Donations may be made to the Officer Richard J. Flynn Scholarship Fund, Sacred Heart High School, 81 Commercial St., Weymouth, 02188.

Steven Lamberti, 19

A funeral Mass was celebrated Monday in St. Boniface Church, Germantown, for Steven Lamberti, a despondent kitchen worker who shot himself in the cellar of the Knotty Pine Restaurant.

Lamberti, 19, died Friday, two days after Quincy police Sgt. Francis S. Buckley came within minutes of talking him out of the suicide attempt.

"All I can say is, 'God rest his soul,'" said Buckley. "He didn't know what he was doing."

Police were summoned to the Knotty Pine shortly before 11 a.m. Wednesday on a report that one of the restaurant employees had barricaded himself in the cellar and was holding a gun to his head.

Buckley spent an hour trying to talk Lamberti out of shooting himself. The youth would not permit him within 20 feet of him, occasionally pointing his gun in a non-threatening way at the officer.

Suddenly, Buckley said, the youth turned the gun on his head and pulled the trigger.

He leaves his parents, Henry and Evelyn (LeGrice) Lamberti of Quincy; three sisters, Maria, Kathleen and Cynthia Lamberti of Quincy; his grandparents, Helen Lamberti of Hull and Andrew and Annie LeGrice of Quincy.

The funeral was from the Keohane Funeral Home, 785 Hancock St., Wollaston. Burial was in St. Mary's Cemetery.

Wallace E. Bowser

nephews, a grandniece and several cousins.

Rev. Dr. Eugene Langevin, pastor of the First Church of Squantum, officiated at the service. Burial was in Mt. Vernon Cemetery, Abington.

Donations may be made to Labourer Junior College, 2120 Dorchester Ave., Dorchester, 02124.

A funeral service for Wallace E. Bowser of Quincy, a retired inventory control manager and accountant in the Shoe Fabrics Division of West Point-Pepperell Mfg. Co., was held yesterday (Wednesday) at Deware Funeral Home, 576 Hancock St.

Mr. Bowser died Saturday at Carney Hospital, Dorchester, after a long illness.

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

"Stubborn as a mule." No one seems to know how or when the saying started. The Bible says something about it. In Psalm 32 we read, "Be not as the horse or as the mule which have no understanding."... Maybe the saying comes from there.

Some people are more stubborn than others. Stubbornness can be described as hard-headedness, hard to get along with, set in one's ways and so on. When one is in such a mood or has that attitude, it is often impossible to reason with that person. At such times, they have no understanding. When special meaning, it takes patience to try to reach an understanding. When understanding is reached, stubbornness vanishes like a smoke ring...

When two people stubbornly hold opposing views, it is impossible to reach an understanding because neither one strives with understanding for an understanding. When an issue is big enough, it is important for at least one of the two stubbornheads to have an understanding of the other fellow's lack of understanding...

School Board To Check Standish School Covenant

Only two speakers appeared before the School Committee last week to discuss the possible leasing of the Myles Standish school in Squantum to the Quincy Lodge of Elks for a clubhouse.

A public hearing was held by the committee to obtain a consensus of opinion on leasing the closed building for a temporary clubhouse for the Elks.

The many charitable and community service projects the Elks have conducted in Quincy since 1904 for the young, old, disabled, veterans, and needy, were noted.

The lodge needed another facility on a temporary basis until a new home can be built on land purchased on Quarry St.

The present Hancock St., Quincy Center home is costly to operate and maintain having been built in 1924. The Elks home had to cut back on donations to some deserving causes because of the high maintenance costs.

Mrs. Eleanor Johnson of Squantum said she was not appearing for or against the proposal, but was seeking answers to questions she had previously asked in advance of the hearing.

She wanted to know how long the lease would be for, who would be responsible for the upkeep of the school building for the period of the lease, who would obtain the zoning variance to permit the Elks to serve liquor at the leased premises.

She also asked about a covenant with the federal government which stipulates that the school building must be kept as a school building until the year 2029.

She was told the Elks would be responsible for maintaining the building and for obtaining the variance in zoning.

As for the covenant, vice-chairman Mary Collins, presiding in the absence of Mayor Francis McCauley, said the school legal counsel would check further into such a covenant.

Mrs. Johnson declared that such a covenant did exist and was on record at the register of deeds office.

John Osterman, assistant superintendent, who was substituting for School Supt. Dr. Lawrence Creedon, said he was aware of two plots that could be involved in such a covenant. One plot related to the Squantum Gardens, a federal housing project for Navy personnel, and the second plot referred to the school building and its premises.

Both Dr. Creedon and Mayor McCauley refrained from participating in the hearing because of a possible conflict of interest. They are both members of the Lodge of Elks.

No action was taken on the lease. It is the usual or customary policy of the school board not to take action on a proposal the same night on which a public hearing on the matter is held.

Central Association To Meet Thursday

Central School-Home Association members are encouraged to attend the first meeting of the school year today (Thursday) in the Learning Center at 2:45 p.m.

This is the first meeting of parents and staff with Central as Middle School.

The school's new principal Louis DiMartini will work with the organization and with students who are running for classroom office.

Student elections for senate representatives and for mayor of the school will parallel state elections this year.

Students who are running are being coached by their teachers with speeches they will deliver to their teammates. Candidates for eighth grade office — mayor, deputy mayor, secretary and treasurer will address the class Monday, Nov. 1.

The program is billed as "Classmates, Meet the Candidates!" and these students will be coached by Mary Catherine Iannoni.

Bulletin boards bear heavy evidence of the enthusiasm for running for office.

Board Continues Request For Pub Expansion

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN

Owners of the Adams Pub at 35-37 Franklin St., South Quincy, appeared before the License Board Tuesday and requested the board's approval to expand and upgrade the establishment.

But a neighborhood resident asked that the board direct the owners to "correct flagrant activities observed this past summer" before considering the request.

The board voted to continue to Nov. 9 the request which would extend the square footage of the premises from approximately 1,381 to 2,381 square feet.

Atty. Robert Langlois, representing owners Maurice Foley of Braintree and J. Enda Hayes of South Boston, said plans would have the establishment extend into a vacant store next door.

Langlois said seating capacity would be increased from 65-99, and that the owners would like to attract a more family oriented clientele.

City Clerk John Gillis said that the board received complaints such as doors being left open during the warm months and customers drinking outside.

Langlois replied that the owners found themselves "betwixt and between" with regard to keeping the doors closed during the summer, as directed by the board, since there was no air conditioning at the establishment.

He said the plans would include a vestibule area and air conditioning.

Langlois also indicated that problems related to customers drinking outside may have been related to "very difficult tenants" who have now left the area.

John Schmuck of 42 Franklin St., and owner of a business at 42 Franklin St., opposed the expansion and gave the board a petition signed by 27 area residents who shared his views.

Schmuck complained of noise from outside and inside the bar until late at night, the front door left open, beer bottles and cans in the street, parking lot, lawn and sidewalk, customers drinking on the sidewalk, fighting and noise from automobiles.

"I can only assume," said Schmuck, "that an expansion of the Adams Pub to twice its size will only result in twice the noise, twice the rowdy gangs, twice the traffic, twice the drinking, yelling, screaming, hollering, crying, loud music, loud cars, loud motorcycles, and obviously twice the grief and sleepless nights for our neighborhood."

Schmuck also gave the board some photos of the pub's door open, and persons outside with bottles.

Langlois said that "improving the physical plant is desirable under any circumstances.

"It's very difficult to change the clientele without changing the operation."

For 'Mayor Of West Quincy' Arthur V. Drohan Apartments Dedicated

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN
Former Mayor Thomas S. Burgin called him "a distinguished Mr. West Quincy."

Mayor Francis McCauley referred to him as "the Mayor of West Quincy".

Whatever the descriptive phrase used, the message was clear at the dedication of the Arthur V. Drohan housing for the elderly and handicapped at 170 Copeland St.

They couldn't have picked a more appropriate person to honor by naming a landmark after him.

The Quincy Housing Authority voted to name the 40-apartment complex after Drohan, 77, on the recommendation of Rep. Michael Morrissey.

The Drohan family ran a neighborhood store, newspaper agency and post office on Copeland St. for more than 60 years. Drohan recently retired due to ill health.

While he ran the establishment,

Chevrolet Stolen

Joseph Ferrullo of 2 Buckingham Rd., Wollaston, reported to police Tuesday that his 1976 Chevrolet Malibu was stolen from the home address.

"he was the epitome of neighborhood involvement" Morrissey said before the crowd of some 200 persons on hand for the dedication.

Jean Babcock of the U.S. Post spoke of Drohan's commitment to West Quincy and presented him with a kiss and a certificate of appreciation.

Tributes were also made by Peter Curley, a seventh grader at neighboring St. Mary's Church, Joe Hajjar, assistant project manager for the housing authority, Theodore Rouillard, owner of Rouillard's Cafe on Copeland St.; and Ward 4 Councillor James Sheets.

Rev. John McMahon, pastor of St. Mary's who has known Drohan since he was assigned to the West Quincy church 18 years ago, helped unveil a portrait of Drohan in the lobby complex.

Throughout the ceremonies, Drohan sat quietly and wore a smile on his face.

He wished residents of the complex a long and happy life, and expressed surprise and appreciation at the tributes.

"I must have done some good," he mused.

He wouldn't have gotten a single argument.

THE ARTHUR V. DROHAN housing for the elderly and handicapped at 170 Copeland St., West Quincy, was dedicated recently before a crowd of more than 200 people. Mayor Francis McCauley, left, presented a certificate of appreciation to Mr. Drohan, 77, whose family ran a neighborhood store, newspaper agency and post office on Copeland St., for more than 60 years.

When You Shop Here at Home You Help Create More Jobs

Many years ago, when our town was just beginning, it had few people, fewer stores and no manufacturing as we know it today.

Our community grew because more people moved here in our trade area. Soon there was a demand for more stores and a need for local manufacturing.

"People moving here meant building more homes, more stores meant more jobs and our industries needed workers. The word got around, and a steady stream of people looking for work and homes settled here.

Today, the more business our stores do the more people they hire. More jobs in our industries mean more business for all, and help spread and lower the tax burden.

Nothing very mysterious about it. Nearly every community grew the same way. So, shop at home and do YOUR part to help us all continue to grow.

Dr. Hussey Guest On Ch. 3 Cable Talk

Dr. M. Grace Hussey, City Health Commissioner, will be a guest on the Quincy Cable Ch. 3 program Cable Talk, Thursday Nov. 3 at 7:30 p.m.

Dr. Hussey will be interviewed by John Noonan, of The Quincy Sun, on her responsibilities as the top public health official in the city. Dr. Hussey was appointed last summer to the health post by Mayor Francis X. McCauley at the height of the controversy concerning the roll back in hours at drinking establishments in the city. She cast the deciding vote to roll back the hour to 1 a.m.

Dr. Hussey will also discuss pollution of Quincy bay, regulation of food handling establishments in Quincy, child health care, and preventive medicine programs conducted by the Health Department.

The program will also feature Kay Borek and Bob Gohl. A filmed segment on the Ruth Gordon Amphitheater will be narrated by Borek and a commentary on volunteerism will be by Gohl.

Cable Talk is a news magazine type program aired weekly by Quincy Cablesystems on Ch. 3. The program is filmed and produced by a group of volunteers including Steve Mitchell, Diane Solander, Mike Greene, Ken Runge, Hugh McLeod, John Noonan, Gohl, and Borek.

Future Cable Talk specials will include: an hour special on the blood donor and emergency services programs of Quincy-South Shore Red Cross; mission and outreach programs of Quincy churches featuring Rev. Winston Clark, Quincy Point Congregational Church, Rabbi David Jacobs, Quincy Temple Beth El, and Rev. William McCarthy, St. John's Church; a demolition derby highlighting Quincy participants; Stephen Ricciardi, president, in a discussion of Quincy Rotary and its community services.

The role of a community newspaper, The Quincy Sun, will be telecast in December. This one-hour special will feature Henry Bosworth, publisher and The Quincy Sun staff as an edition of Quincy's only community newspaper is prepared for publication.

Other featured interviews to be aired later will include: Clement O'Brien, former Executive director of The Quincy Housing Authority, Lt. William Murphy of the Quincy Police Department and Quincy Sun columnist on crime prevention; Deputy Chief Carl Valenti on fire prevention; and Arthur Chandler, President of the Quincy Citizens Association.

Four students of the Quincy Public Schools, recently sworn-in to represent their respective schools at meetings of the school committee, will participate in a panel discussion concerning their views on the city's education system.

Atty. Tanya Kaye Konjola of the firm of Murphy, Lamere and Murphy, South Shore Plaza, will discuss consumer law and consumer rights. She is a feature columnist for the Boston Globe and a former consumer reporter for a Boston television station.

New Pediatric Unit Open At Hospital

Quincy City Hospital recently celebrated the opening of its new Pediatric Unit on Ward S-1.

The community was invited to an "open house" which included puppet shows, guided tours, McDonald's characters, balloons and refreshments such as "Pac Man" cookies.

Nurses on the pediatric staff explained to visitors the pre-hospitalization program which offers the opportunity for parents and children to visit the hospital and learn and prepare for hospitalization.

They were also introduced to the pediatric teaching programs, rooming-in for parents, extended visiting hours policy and the play therapy program.

Quincy City Hospital director

James E. Lowenhagen, stated, "the creation of a suitable environment for our pediatric patients has been a longstanding need of the hospital."

"I am proud that through the use of our own resources, hospital personnel and money generated from operations, we have been able to correct this deficiency in our continuing efforts to offer the excellent medical services that the residents of Quincy and the surrounding communities expect and deserve."

For further information on pediatrics or for physician referral, call 773-6100 Ext. 300 or 302. For hospital tours, call community relations at 773-6100 Ext. 218.

'Sober Thoughts' Forum At City Hall

"Sober Thoughts", a community forum sponsored by American Cablesystems Corporation, was scheduled for last night (Wednesday) at 7 p.m. at the City Council Chambers, City Hall.

The forum was to provide an opportunity for South Shore residents to express their opinions on the Massachusetts drunk driving law which took effect in September.

The forum's agenda included a panel discussion moderated by Quincy resident Attorney Thomas Finnerty. Panelists were Quincy's Sen. Paul Harold, Quincy District Court Judge Lewis Whitman, Assistant District Attorney for Norfolk County Timothy Spillane, Lt. William Murphy, Defense Attorney Albert Johnson, Mothers Against Drunk Drivers' spokeswoman Carol Lawler, Director of the South Shore Drunk Driving Program Paul Deignan and the owner of the California Disco in Quincy, Carl Miranda.

Videotaped interviews on the initiation and implementation of the new law were planned. Included were interviews with Gov. Edward J. King, South Shore Senator Allan McKinnon and South Shore Representative Mary Jeannette Murray, prime mover of the drunk driving bill.

Also interviewed were family members of a drunk driver's victim. General opinions were taken from South Shore residents.

The forum was videotaped from the council chambers by American's programming staff. A question and answer period followed the panel discussion with a call-in phone bank for television viewers.

"With this forum, American Cablesystems is providing a vehicle for community input regarding the new law and this very serious problem, a problem recently highlighted by several tragic accidents on the South Shore," states American's Community Relations Coordinator Terry Murray.

"The effort put into planning and producing this program is indicative of the high level of commitment American makes to the communities it serves," states Murray.

American Cablesystems is a Massachusetts based cable television company. The company has systems in Quincy, Milton, Arlington, Newburyport, Newbury, West Newbury and recently won the Scituate franchise.

STANLEY KUBRICK. BRAVO.

In November, Bravo salutes one of the most creative artists in American cinema, director Stanley Kubrick, with a festival featuring four of his most celebrated films.

The uncanny 2001: A SPACE ODYSSEY continues to overshadow its many imitators, both in terms of its spectacular special effects and its absorbing, dream-like story. We have BARRY LYNDON, an enchanting, hypnotically beautiful epic set in 18th Century England. LOLITA is Kubrick's brilliant adaptation of the classic Nabokov novel. And finally, the famous A CLOCKWORK

ORANGE, also set in the future, is the riveting tale of a gang of thugs bent on aimless destruction.

The Stanley Kubrick Film Festival is a very special reason to get to know Bravo in November. So call today.

Mayor Favors School Pay

(Cont'd from Page 1)

She said it would be considered illegal for the School Committee to pass a motion adopting a fixed stipend for expense allowances.

McCauley was absent when the vote was taken. He left the meeting earlier because of a public hearing on a proposal to lease the Myles Standish school to the Quincy Lodge of Elks.

McCauley was advised that, as a member of the lodge, he could be considered in conflict of interest if he presided or participated in the lease negotiations.

AFTER THE PARTY FIRE

Party-goers are often careless while smoking. They may jar a cigarette off an ashtray, or they may bump into each other knocking ashes and burning coals into sofas and easy chairs. If those incendiaries fall on a rug or carpet, you might smell smoke fairly soon. But if they drop into upholstery, it might take 40 minutes or more to smell danger.

Most fires that cause multiple deaths in the home occur during the sleeping hours - 10 p.m. to 6 a.m. During those hours, you and your family are highly vulnerable because fire gets a foothold before anyone awakens. Then, time for escape is short - sometimes too short.

Precautions: Before a party, provide plenty of large, deep ashtrays. After the party, remove cushions from furniture and feel around for ashes with your hands. Hundreds of fatal fires begin in chairs and sofas. Finally, gather up all ashtrays and place them in the sink. Then go to bed...and sleep a lot safer.

Improved Raiders At Brookline Saturday A.M.

By TOM SULLIVAN

North Quincy's football team, coming along fast and improving every week, turned in its best performance of the season last week end, although the Raiders didn't win, new coach Ken McPhee couldn't have been more pleased with their performance.

The young North team, which had to learn an entirely new system installed by McPhee, had won two in a row following losses in its first two games and, following an off-day, faced undefeated Waltham last Saturday at Veterans Memorial Stadium.

The Raiders played extremely well both offensively and defensively and, with a break here and there, might have handed the Hawks their first loss.

However, two fumbles and three interceptions halted North drives and Waltham took home a 14-6 victory, its fifth in a row, and North fell 2-3.

This Saturday North Quincy travels to Parsons Field in Brookline at 10 a.m. to meet a Brookline squad which has yet to win a game.

It lost to Wellesley, 19-0; Waltham, 34-6; and Brockton, 43-7, and tied Everett, 8-8, and Cambridge Rindge and Latin, 20-20.

"Our biggest fear is having a letdown after such a fine showing against Waltham," McPhee said. "Brookline has given us trouble in the past and I just hope we will be up for the game."

"I couldn't have been more pleased with our showing against Waltham. The boys did just a super job both ways, but two key fumbles and three pass interceptions stopped us when we were moving well. Our offensive line did a fine job and our backs all ran well. And defensively the boys were outstanding again."

Despite two interceptions, sophomore Dave Zuroms continued to play well at quarterback. He completed six passes for 109 yards and several other long passes just missed connections.

Dave DiCarlo, Mike Cullen, Scott Messina, John Kozlowski and Bob Leonard all ran well as

North Quincy Scoring

Kozlowski	1	0	0	6

North gained 130 yards on the ground.

Waltham's No. 1 runner, Steve Giusti, who had ruined Quincy earlier, didn't play and the No. 2 runner, Darrell Marcou, was the workhorse and gained 118 yards until injured early in the third quarter. Then Mike Little took over and did the bulk of the ball carrying. The Hawks stuck to the ground and had 201 yards rushing. Waltham threw only four passes, completing three for 40 yards.

North Quincy ground out 18 first downs, while Waltham had 12.

North's offensive line, looking better every week, did an outstanding job.

"I hate to single out anyone in particular because they all did an excellent job," said offensive coach Mark Mulvaney. "But I have to mention Gerry Connolly, Jack Hannon, only a sophomore improving in every game; Ken Wright, our man in the middle; Neil Leonard, Nick Gelsomini and Jim Kelly, who did some outstanding blocking. These six boys are the mainstays of the line. They give me 100 percent every week and show improvement all the time."

Defensive coordinator Jack Raymer also was pleased with his group, which did another bang-up job.

He had praise for ends Kelly and Pat McDonough, tackles Connolly and Fred Peterson, linebackers Jim McNamara, Shawn Cunningham and Kevin Kelly and backs Rich Tapper, Mike Gill, Bob Leonard, Jack Bolster and Jim Kennedy.

It didn't take Waltham long to score as it drove 57 yards from the opening kickoff. Marcou scored from the two and also kicked the point.

Following the ensuing kickoff, Zuroms electrified the crowd with a long pass to Kelly, who made a great catch and was downed on Waltham's 42, the play covering 33 yards. But North fumbled three plays later and the Hawks recovered on their 32.

The North defense held and Waltham punted to the Raider 32. Here North began a good drive, picking up three first downs and reached Waltham's 20 as the first quarter ended. The big gainer was a 16-yard spurt by DiCarlo on a pitchout from Zuroms, a play which worked well all day.

Waltham's defense stiffened and, on fourth down, the Raiders faced a field goal and DiCarlo's pass was intercepted by Bob Walters on his 20.

Waltham was forced to punt again and this time North drove 78 yards for its touchdown.

Cullen, Kozlowski, Leonard, DiCarlo and Messina all took turns carrying the ball and four first downs later DiCarlo scored from the three. However, Cullen's kick for the tying point was wide.

North's Mike Gill intercepted a pass on his 24 and the Raiders were on the march again as they drove to the Waltham nine, thanks to three 15-yard penalties against Waltham and a 23-yard pass from Zuroms to Steve Clark.

Sports

Zurom's pass was intercepted but Waltham immediately fumbled the ball back to the Raiders with 22 seconds left in the half. However, another Zuroms pass was intercepted and the half ended with Waltham in front, 7-6.

Waltham kept the ball for most of the third. After as it marched 64 yards in 1 plays, clicking off five first downs and Rich Bartleman scored the clincher from the three. Joe Kohler kicked the point.

North continued to move the ball well but its last opportunity went out the window when another fumble was recovered by Waltham on the Hawks' 35.

North In 4-Way Tie For First Place

The North Quincy boys' soccer team was 1-1-1 last week to make its record 7-2-3 and left it in a four-way tie with Waltham, Cambridge Rindge and Latin and Brockton for first place in the Suburban League.

The Raiders, needing seven more points to qualify for the Eastern Mass. Tournament for the first time in seven years, played at Cambridge Tuesday, met Whitman-Hanson in a non-league game yesterday (Wednesday) and will meet Quincy Friday at 3:30 at the Veterans Stadium field.

North had its seven-game unbeaten streak snapped by Brockton, 5-1, last week. The Raiders outplayed Brockton for most of the first quarter until a defensive error enabled Lelo Cyrus to score for Brockton. Jack Xavier made it 2-0 for the Boxers.

North scored when Mike Bourikas converted a pass from Greg DiBella.

Brockton made it 3-1, then added two more goals as North's Dave Marcham, who took over from Bob O'Brien in goal, had his scoreless streak stopped.

North rebounded by shutting out non-league opponent, Sharon, 4-0, scoring early as DiBella took a pass from Bourikas and scored his seventh goal. Five minutes later Peter McGillicuddy skimmed a ball to Bourikas and Mike's shot beat the goalie short-side. Midway in the second quarter McGillicuddy scored from 35 yards out and Andy Curtis closed out the scoring as he put in a rebound of a Dave Brown shot.

North tied Newton North, 1-1, for the second time last Friday.

The Raiders opened the scoring seven minutes into the game as McGillicuddy took a pass from Bourikas and unloaded a 25-yarder that found the mark.

North controlled play thanks to the stellar midfield play of Terry Stark, Steve Golden and Mike Cocce.

It appeared North had the win locked up with two minutes to play as Newton had a goal kick from deep in its own end. Magnus, an exchange student from Sweden, broke outside the defense and sent a ball into a maze of players in front of the net. Several North attempts to clear the ball struck teammates or Newton players and finally Magnus deflected the ball past the group. It hit the near post and trickled across the goal line.

North Girls Eye 3rd Undefeated Windup

The North Quincy girls' cross-country team, seeking its third straight unbeaten Suburban League season, finishes the regular season Friday when it hosts Newton North.

Lou Tozzi's amazing Raiderettes, with a 4-0 mark this fall, faced Quincy Tuesday and will compete in the all-league meet next Tuesday at Franklin Park.

The North girls, with 29 straight wins in cross country, winter track and spring track, shut out Brockton, 15-41, last week as Linda Kennedy set a new Brockton course record of 19:59.

Meg Leary finished second at 20:25 as the Raiderettes swept the first six spots. Their other scorers were Diane Lindenfelzer, third; Maryann Kelleher, fourth, and Tracy Corrigan, fifth. Joan Molloy finished sixth and Laura Barrett 10th.

Doring, McGee Lead North Over Milton

George Doring and Larry McGee ran up 201 of the Raiders' 229 yards rushing and scored a touchdown each as the North Quincy High School football team walloped Milton, 27-7, at Veterans Memorial Stadium.

Fullback Jack Cooke raced downfield under the opening kickoff and recovered the free ball on the Milton 37-yard-line from which point Doring and McGee took turns carrying to the three where quarterback Kevin Mahoney bucked over.

A double reverse with Doring carrying for 13 yards accounted for the second Raiders score in the second period.

Tom Kelly recovered a Milton fumble to get the next North scoring drive under way. McGee ran around right end for a 39-yard gain during the drive and plunged over himself for the score that made it 21-0 at halftime.

A six-yard pass from Mahoney to Doug Grutchfield produced the final North touchdown in the fourth period.

The Raiders' regular quarterback, Eddie Deane, who had been out of the lineup with an early season injury, made a brief appearance in the first period, made one unsuccessful attempt to pass and then limped off the field.

The North Quincy lineup included: Grutchfield, Baldwin, Fontaine, ends; Dixon, Flanagan, Polvere, Kenny, tackles; Frazier, Robbins, Ash, Pronack, DeStephano, guards; Sweeney, Murphy, centers; Mahoney, Doring, McGee, Cooke, Deane, Matson, Kelly, Morrissey, Gherardi, Quintiliani, Ames, backs.

QUINCY DUPMS SOMERVILLE

The Quincy High School football team found an equal balance between offense and defense that enabled the Presidents to overpower Somerville, 25-6, one of the most one-sided defeats ever administered by Quincy to a Class A opponent.

"Before the season opened I had the conviction that this squad liked contact work," said Coach Bill Sullivan, "and now I'm sure of it. We're blocking as a team and tackling as a team now, and we have balance."

Two passes — Ron Ivil from a fake punt 13 yards to Jack Powers and Quarterback Tommy Connors 19 yards to Ralph Larsen — set up the first Quincy score, which was carried in by Connors.

Connors passed 12 yards to Ivil for the second touchdown; 146-pound Sonny Seppala ran 30 yards to set up the third and scored it from the five; and Powers tallied the fourth from the five after ripping off gains of 40 and 28 yards.

The Quincy lineup included: Alsop, Larsen, Osborne, Hietela, Devine, Whiting, Eindad, DiMattio; Gelsomini, Wainio, Mullaney, Parker, Cavanaugh, Petton, tackles; Claire, Lennon, Ricciarelli, Heap, Pierce, Thomas, Zanotti, guards; Chase, Marrocco, Leander, centers; Connors, Seppala, Balducci, Ivil, Salvaggio, Powers, Light, Reardon, Bifolchi, Derbes, Kelly, backs.

NORTH TAKES LEAD

Paul Sadlier, Dick Riley and Dick Cooke provided the foot power as Coach Ken Rickson's North team romped over South, 16-6, at Veterans Memorial Stadium to give the Raiders sole possession of first place in the close Junior High School Football League race.

The North lineup included: Lebreque, Holmberg, ends; Cross, Walker, tackles; Swirbalus, Conarty, guards; Pierce, center; Van Meter, Cooke, Conroy, Riley, Sadlier, backs.

HARRIERS EDGED

Even though its best runner, Don Buckley, finished third, the North Quincy High School cross country team came within a point of upsetting Needham in a triangular meet. Needham finished with 33 points, North with 34, and Rockland a poor third with 53.

Presidents Hosts Undefeated Fitchburg

Quincy's football team suffered a frustrating defeat at New Bedford last Friday night and the Presidents face a tough obstacle as they try to rebound Saturday.

Tom Fitzgerald's Quincy team took a 4-1 record into New Bedford for the Whalers, who have proven a jinx for the Presidents every year, pulled out a 12-7 victory in the final 20 seconds of play in a penalty-filled game.

Saturday Quincy must face undefeated Fitchburg, a new opponent and the top-rated Div. 1 team in Central Mass., in a 1:30 game at Veterans Memorial Stadium.

Fitchburg brings a 6-0 mark into the game with wins over Shrewsbury, St. Peter-Marian, Wachusett, St. Bernard's, Holy Name and St. John's.

"I don't want to use the officials as an excuse for losing at New Bedford, but that was the worst-officiated game I've seen in a long while," Fitzgerald said. "They wrecked us but they also made a lot of bad calls against New Bedford."

"We marched up and down the field but they hit us with penalty after penalty (11 of them) and many were real bad calls."

"A couple of key pass interceptions also hurt us. It was a real frustrating loss."

"We drove to their 10-yard line one time and Ted Walsh, who did some super blocking for us, was called for clipping. It was a bad call as it was a legitimate block, but it set us back and we couldn't push it in."

The game pitted Quincy's Bob Mudge, the top touchdown passer in Div. 1, against New Bedford's Rob O'Berry, the tops in Div. 3. Neither had much luck as each had two interceptions, one giving Quincy its score.

"Mudge called a good game, Mark Righini and Mike Notarangelo ran well and Walsh blocked very well," Fitzgerald said. "In the offensive line Jamie Gravalese, Bob Willard and Paul Gilbody were outstanding."

On defense Fitz had good words for Chris McGray, who had his best game of the season, Gravalese, Brian Callahan, Dennis Obert, Glen Oriola and Gilbody, who played defense for the first time in place of Mike Miller, who for the year with a broken ankle. The Quincy coach also praised John Conti for his punting. He had two fine punts of 50 yards-plus.

Neither team scored in the opening half as the officials were the leading ground gainers.

Midway in the third quarter O'Berry passed from his goal line, McGray deflected the ball into the hands of Gravalese, who realized a lineman's dream of scoring a touchdown. Joe Harte kicked the extra point.

Midway in the final quarter two holding penalties pushed the Presidents deep into their own territory and the Whalers' Chris Horn scored from the one. The try for two points failed and Quincy still led, 7-6.

With two minutes left in the game New Bedford had the ball on its own 20. Due largely to Reggie Andrade's 52-yard run, the Whalers moved downfield and, with just 20 seconds remaining, Andrade scored to pull out the win.

Youth Football

Apaches Scuttle Sailors, 22-0

The North Quincy Apaches continued unbeaten in the Quincy Youth Football League with a 22-0 victory over the Quantum Sailors Sunday at Veterans Memorial Stadium.

Dan McCarthy returned the opening kickoff 30 yards and Gary McNamara, George Hartford and McCarthy brought the ball downfield and McNamara scored from the one. McCarthy rushed for the two conversion points.

In the second period John Broadbent intercepted a pass to set up the second touchdown. McNamara, McCarthy, Jim Mulvey and Hartford brought the ball to the nine from where Hartford scored.

After Wes Crowley and Larry Taglieri sacked the Sailors' quarterback and Taglieri blocked a pass, the Apaches took over with Brian Durgin running 17 yards and McCarthy 43 for the TD. Paul Moody passed to Mike Shields for the final points.

Crowley, Taglieri, Steve Miller, Mark Carnevale, Tim Kelly and Paul Hanscom played outstanding defense. In the second half the jayvees played a good deal and Keith Gott, Ed Herman, Moody and Jack Mullen picked up good yardage but couldn't score.

The Apaches' junior varsity defeated the sailors' jayvees, 14-6. Gott raced 50 yards for the first touchdown and Moody passed to Shields for the points.

Bright Spots Showing For QJC Basketball

The Quincy Junior College basketball team has been working out for two weeks and already some bright spots are appearing.

Led by sophomore guard Capt. Ken Mann and last year's Greater Boston Small College Conference MVP Jim Conboy, the Jaguars are looking to bounce back after last year's 4-19 season.

Coach Brian Buckley, in his fourth year at the helm, is impressed with this squad's depth. "Already some of the players have shown they have an intelligent feel for the game," he said, "and court sense is very difficult to teach. Much of it comes naturally."

"Some of the players showing early promise are returnees from last year's team. Guard Fran McEachern has some real quickness. Last year he was a green freshman but he has improved tremendously. Tom Dunscombe has also worked on improving his game."

But Buckley is especially enthused about the incoming crop of freshmen. "This is the largest group of experienced freshmen players I've coached," he said. "Some of them have played for Ed Miller, Joe Amoroso had Bob Barrett and I know that they'll be fundamentally sound."

"The leading freshmen are guard Fudge Gill and guard-forward Steve Belcastro, who played at North Quincy, guard Gary DiNardo, who played at Quincy, and forward Paul Fobes, who played at Abp. Williams."

Other first-year players who will see plenty of action are forwards Tom Keegan of Marshfield, Dave Bregoli of Braintree, Keith Realini and Brian Connolly, both of Quincy.

Back from last year's club are forward Tom Pound and Paul Stevens, along with guards Mike Jaehrig and Rick Anderson.

The Jaguars don't have a lot of height with Conboy the biggest player at 6-foot-4. But, with a balanced attack, QJC should be competitive.

QJC plays its home games at the Quincy Vo-Tech gym at 7 p.m. and some will be against pretty stiff competition. "We play 16 games in the league and 14 non-league games," Buckley said. "The league teams are all pretty even, while Brandise junior varsity, the Harvard Classic and Massasoit Community College will be real strong in non-league games."

Koch Club Basketball Program Opens Nov. 4

The Koch Club of Quincy will begin its 34th season of youth basketball Thursday, Nov. 4, at 6 p.m. at the Atlantic Junior High School Gymnasium on Hollis Avenue, North Quincy.

Richard J. Koch, executive director and founder of the organization, said boys from age 7 through 13 years throughout the city are welcome to participate in one of the oldest established privately sponsored recreation programs on the South Shore.

The Broad Meadows and Montclair Districts of the Koch Club were compelled to terminate their basketball leagues two years ago when the gymnasium hourly cost was increased by four times the previous amount. However, the original North Quincy District continued into the fourth decade of its basketball activity for Quincy youth.

Ages 7 through 9 years, are to report at 6 p.m. each Thursday evening while 10 to 13 years old should attend at 7:15 p.m. for their weekly session.

The fee is $1 to members of the basketball program nightly to defray gymnasium custodial costs and must be paid weekly to comply with the rental schedule of the School Department.

Registration forms will be available at the first session Nov. 4. Parents must approve the children's application. Following several weeks of practice games, teams will be balanced and assembled for a regular league competition season of play.

There will be no tryouts. Each registrant will be assigned to a team and actively participate.

Organized in 1949 at the original North Quincy High School gym, the Koch Club basketball program has provided a third of a century of wholesome leisure enjoyment for thousands of youth from all sections of the city.

Fathers and older brothers of league members are urged to volunteer as coaches and referees in the winter recreation program.

Directing the program will be Richard J. Koch, Jr. assisted by Robert Woods, Donald J. Murphy Robert Woods, Donald J. Murphy, Simone Joanne Koch and Larry Heffernan.

Quincy Girls Suffer First League Loss

The Quincy High girls' volleyball team seeking another tournament berth, suffered its first Suburban League loss last week to Brockton, 2-1, after easily winning the first game.

The First Ladies will play at North Quincy Friday night at 7:30, and expect another tough battle. They had to go all-out to top the Raiderettes in their first match.

Quincy had no trouble with Brockton in the first game, breezing, 15-2, as it led all the way. Brockton came back in the second game, 15-13, scoring six straight points. Senior Barbara Fain made some exceptional serves, while Christine Gallery, Ellen Deady, Cindy Morell and Theresa Munroe turned in line performances. The defensive play of Susan Beven, Gallery, Munroe and Carolyn Leonard was outstanding, especially Gallery, whose flying dives resulted in remarkable shots.

Brockton won the third and deciding game, 15-9. Trailing, 13-6, Quincy's Deady and Munroe put down two spikes in a row each.

The St. Moritz Youth Hockey team rebounded from two straight losses to blank Suburban, 6-0, in the Metropolitan Boston League, evening its record at 2-2.

Paul Carey had a hat trick and Terry McKinnon, Gary Lussier and Tim O'Brien one goal each. John Fennah had two assists and Steve Jennings and Jim Bille one each. Lloyd Wentzell and Peter White shared the goal tending chores and each was outstanding.

BOB CERASOLI

can tell you what he's done!

- A New Vandalism Law.
Bob wrote a law making parents of minor children (7 - 18 years of age) liable for up to $1,000 for any damage they cause to another person's property or to any state, county, municipal or cemetery property. It's time to start teaching the vandal respect for other people's property and that respect can only begin with the parents at home.

- Two new laws to help prevent Welfare Fraud.
Bob worked hard for the passage of a law creating the Bureau of Special Investigations to provide new authority to examine records in connection with welfare fraud cases. Bob also was instrumental in the passage of a bill increasing the penalties for Medicaid vendors who charge inflated prices or who solicit bribes and kickbacks for Medicaid services.

With tough controls we have the welfare error rate down from 24 to 6 percent; and we are working to reduce even that.

In the last three years, welfare fraud complaints have multiplied thirteenfold — from 3100 to 42,000; and that is good management.

In 1981, our battle against welfare fraud has resulted in over 660 guilty findings, sixteen times the 41 such findings in 1978.

- A new law outlawing the sale of drug paraphernalia.
A loop hole had existed in state law prohibiting the sale of certain drugs, but allowing the sale of items used in ingesting the drugs. A bill Bob co-sponsored with the Governor will outlaw the sale of drug paraphernalia intended to be used with illicit drugs, close all the headshops and make sale of these items to children a much more severe offense.
- A new law providing Mandatory Prison Sentences for Drug Dealers.
Bob was one of the floor leaders for the passage of a law to provide for mandatory sentences for persons found guilty of trafficking in major amounts of heroin, cocaine and marijuana. The law comes down especially hard on those who sell drugs to children.
- A new law providing for mandatory prison sentencing for car thieves.
Bob worked hard for the mandatory sentencing of car thieves, but more importantly, Bob insisted that the convicted car thief be forced to pay full restitution to the victim and/or the insurance company. And now it's a law. It's about time the thieves start paying for their crimes instead of the victims.
- A law raising the drinking age from 18 to 20.
Bob sponsored and worked for a law raising the drinking age to 21. When this law failed to pass, Bob voted for a 20 year age limit in order to help get alcohol out of the hands of high school students.
- Rep. Cerasoli received the highest rating of any Democrat on the South Shore from the Citizens for Limited Taxation, CLT is the organization that sponsored Prop. 2½. He has received CLT's endorsement for his support in seeing that Proposition 2½ is implemented fairly and properly.
- College scholarship aid for needy students.
In 1977, Rep. Cerasoli set up two ongoing scholarship funds for college students.

The Robert A. Cerasoli Scholarship at Quincy Junior College presented annually to two students from Weymouth and Quincy attending Quincy Junior College and the Robert A. Cerasoli-Coaches Basketball Scholarship presented annually to a college bound graduating senior on the Quincy High School Basketball team.

He worked hard. He got results.
He'll do it, again.

Duffy Questions Motives In New PW Assignment

Helen L. Duffy, longtime assistant to the public works commissioner, feels her recent reassignment to the department's special fuels and street lighting accounts is more than just another job transfer.

Commissioner Paul Anderson called the switch an "increase in responsibility" to handle two accounts that have shown a deficit of $175,000 in the past year.

Said Duffy in a statement: "I read with great amusement Commissioner Anderson's response to questions concerning my 'reassignment' in the Public Works Department, and it prompts me to ask the following questions of Mr. Anderson:

"Why, after 31 years of honorable and dedicated service to this city which I love, did he give me one hour to vacate my office area?

Why was an order given by Mr. Anderson that day to change all locks on the Public Works Administration office and outside doors? ... and, of course, I was not on the list of those given keys for the new locks.

"Why was a memo sent to all Public Works Administration employees that only certain people were to be permitted in the Public Works Administration office prior to 8:30 a.m., after 4:30 p.m., evenings or week ends? ... and, of course, I was not on the list of those employees.

"Why were specific parking spaces assigned for my 'new' office in the form of an order ... the only other assigned spaces in the past have been by courtesy and only 3 to 4 in number.

"May I join with all other Public Works employees in asking why the Highway Superintendent's position is not to be filled from within the ranks of experienced Departmental employees, as has been the past practice?

"May I ask why the reason given by Mr. Anderson for my 'reassignment' was to better control two areas where there have been deficits? Both street lighting and Special Fuels formerly were just a small part of my duties, and the word 'deficit' is not appropriate in this case since shortfalls in the accounts were as a result of cutbacks under Proposition 2½.

"Is my 'reassignment' a 'thank you' from Mr. Anderson for my defense of Owen Eaton, a man of experience, dedication and love of his City who was removed from his position as Water Superintendent by Mr. Anderson to the detriment of the best interests of the people who live in the City of Quincy."

70.9 Per Cent Turnout City Goes With State In Election

By TOM HENSHAW

Quincy voters went along with their counterparts throughout the Commonwealth Tuesday in voting by wide margins to reelect Sen. Edward M. Kennedy and return Michael S. Dukakis to the governor's office.

In the only local contest on the ballot, Rep. Robert A. Cerasoli easily defeated Gerard Lawler of Weymouth to win a fifth term in the state legislative seat shared by Quincy and Weymouth.

Cerasoli, who lives in Quincy Point, drew 9,212 votes, 4,945 of them from Quincy, in topping Lawler for the second time. Lawler had 3,972 with 1,127 of them coming in Quincy.

The election, in which much of the interest centered in the five referendum questions, drew a solid 70.9 per cent of the city's 48,530 registered voters, 34,351 going to the polls.

The closest race in Quincy came on referendum question No. 1, which would have removed the present constitutional prohibition against public aid to private schools.

The negative prevailed, 16,663 to 14,020, considerably less than the margin statewide.

All other questions—the death penalty, restrictions on nuclear waste, the bottle bill and the nuclear freeze, won by wide margins in Quincy and throughout the state.

Sen. Kennedy, who was seeking a big margin of victory over Republican Ray Shamie to aid his presidential chances in 1984, got 63 per cent of the vote statewide but only 59 per cent in Quincy.

In Quincy, the count was 20,312 for Kennedy and 13,000 for Shamie, the Walpole millionaire who gave the Kennedy campaign some bad moments during the campaign. There were only 765 blanks.

Dukakis, who was seeking to regain the post from which he was ousted four years ago, breezed past Republican John W. Sears by a 2-1 margin in the state and with 58 per cent of the vote in Quincy.

The Quincy balloting in the gubernatorial contest was 19,818 for Dukakis and 12,211 for Sears.

Frank Rich, the Democrat turned Independent who turned out to be sort of a gadfly in the campaign to the two major candidates, collected 1,277 votes in Quincy, about the same percentage statewide.

The referenda contests in Quincy turned out like this:

Question 1, state aid to private primary or secondary schools, Yes 14,020, No 16,663.

Question 2, the death penalty, Yes 20,280, No 10,887.

Question 3, restrictions on construction of new nuclear plants and low-level radioactive waste storage, Yes 21,947, No 8,801.

Question 4, the Bottle Bill, Yes, 18,663, No, 13,514. The law requiring refundable deposits on beverage containers now goes into effect on Jan. 17.

Question 5, the nuclear freeze advice to the President and Congress, Yes 23,032, No 7,327.

The victory by Dukakis also brought into the lieutenant governor's office John Kerry of Newton, the former assistant district attorney of Middlesex County.

His vote was tied to the governor's vote, as was that of Leon Lombardi to Sears on the Republican side.

QEA Head Seeks Debate On Teachers, Committee Pay

Herman A. Pasquerella, president of the Quincy Education Association, has challenged any member of the School Committee to a series of debates on raises for teachers and salaries for committee members.

"Let the issues rest with the public," said Pasquerella in a statement. "Does the School Committee warrant a $3,000 consideration while the teachers are offered but $500?"

"Let the public decide if generals should feed while soldiers march on empty stomachs!"

Pasquerella suggested that there be a series of three debates held during American Education Week, one on cable television, another on WJDA and the third in the auditorium of North Quincy High School.

He noted that the School Committee has "for 12 months repeated the theme — 'There is no money for raises.'"

"Now the scene rises on a School Committee determined to gift itself with $3,000 stipends and is finding money where there was no money. A member of the committee further suggested that these stipends be made retroactive."

"The Quincy Education Association suggests that these (teachers') raises be made retroactive to Sept. 1, 1979 and be made subject to funding. Our 1979 raise, which was subject to funding, is still in the courts."

"The School Committee puts a high premium on their visibility and their impact on the educational system," Pasquerella went on.

"The QEA would like to conduct a survey among Quincy public school graduates to see who really establishes ideals for the youth of Quincy."

"Do they best remember their fifth grade teacher, their junior high school gym teachers, their high school history teacher — or who their favorite School Committee member was?"

Firefighters Hurt In Courthouse Blaze

Two firefighters were injured Tuesday afternoon battling a smoky fire in the garage at the Quincy District Courthouse.

Lt. William Connolly collapsed at the fire from apparent inhalation of fumes and was taken to City Hospital where his condition was being evaluated.

Firefighter Thomas Field suffered a back injury when he fell during the fire. He was treated on the scene.

A Fire Department spokesman said the fire was in some plastic used in floor lamps that was stored in the garage.

Council Asks Maximum For Cemetery Vandals

The City Council, at the behest of Councillor James J. Sheets, has asked District Court Judge Albert Kramer to throw the book at persons convicted of desecrating graves in Quincy cemeteries.

Over the weekend, several tombstones and mausoleums in Mt. Wollaston Cemetery, including that of former Mayor Amelio Della Chiesa and his family, were defaced by vandals.

Sheets told his fellow councillors that acts of vandalism in the city's cemeteries is not confined to last week.

"I have received a lot of calls from people complaining about these acts," he said. "Is nothing sacred anymore, even the places where our loved ones are buried?"

He noted that the State Legislature recently increased the penalties for cemetery vandalism to jail sentences of up to 2½ years and fines of up to $5,000.

His resolution asked the presiding justice at Quincy District Court "to administer this punishment fully" to persons convicted of desecrating graves.

The Council also voted to ask the city sign department "in a judicious way" to put up signs warning would be vandals that it is a criminal offense to deface cemetery property.

Board Mulls Evening Meeting For 7-Eleven Request

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN
City Councillor James Sheets has requested that the License Board schedule an evening meeting to discuss an application by Sousa-7-Eleven for licenses for Franklin and Pearl Sts.

The board normally meets Tuesdays at 10 a.m. Licenses requested are common victualer and Lord's Day.

"Many residents of the area have indicated that they wish to be heard on this matter, and I feel that the gentlemen who work during the day should have the opportunity to address the board," stated Sheets.

The matter has been continued since the Oct. 5 meeting when it was briefly discussed. Building Inspector Allan MacDonald explained that the store would be erected on land where a house used to be located.

Police Chief Francis Finn said he was concerned about making traffic problems worse. City Clerk John Gillis commented that gangs seemed to congregate at the 7-Eleven in West Quincy.

A decision was deferred until next week when a full board is expected to be present. City Clerk John Gillis, chairman of the election commission, was not at this week's meeting.

Dutch Treat Owner To Appear Before Board

The owner of Dutch Treat, 388 East Squantum, will be requested to appear at next Tuesday's License Board meeting to answer claims of illegal signs and misrepresenting to the board the product sold.

Owner Thomas Powers will be asked to show cause why the establishment's license should not be revoked.

According to Building Inspector Allan MacDonald, the signs do not meet the requirements of his department.

MacDonald also said that pizza is reportedly being sold at the establishment as well as the donuts which the board was told would be sold.

Pin Found In Halloween Candy Bar

Only a half dozen youngsters showed up to trick or treat at the home of Mrs. Mary Fennessey, 7 Royal St.,

North Quincy, Sunday night and it may have saved someone from serious injury.

There were a lot of Milky Way bars left over and the television was full of warnings of tampered candy, so Mrs. Fennessey and her daughter, Donna, decided to investigate the leftovers.

Sure enough, inside one of the candy bars was a pin.

"I have no idea how it could have gotten in the bar," said Mrs. Fennessey. "The bag wasn't even opened after we brought it home from the store."

Quincy police are investigating.

Hancock St. West Side Parking Sought

Parking — past, present and future — took up considerable City Council time Monday night.

Bernie Reisberg, president of the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association, appeared to ask the Council to remove the No Parking signs on the west side of Hancock St. in downtown Quincy.

The signs would be replaced by 15 minute live parking signs from School to Granite Sts.

"There always has been some form of parking on that side of the street," said Reisberg. "I would like to see the people who come to Quincy to shop treated more fairly."

The Council forwarded the request to the Traffic Commission and asked that it make its recommendations before the Nov. 15 Council meeting.

Parking Clerk Robert Denvir appeared at the meeting to ask for $5,000 more with which to repay illegally collected surfines on old parking tickets.

The city had collected some $150,000 in such surcharges until District Court Judge Albert Kramer ruled them illegal.

Denvir said he has already made refunds of $38,830 and has requests for $2,600 more. He said he had only $40,000 in the refund account.

Councillor Joseph J. LaRaia took the occasion to ask Mayor Francis X. McCauley to suspend the use of parking meters for the Christmas season.

"Quincy shows a tremendous amount of insensitivity in handing out parking tickets," he said. "I'd like to see all of the money returned."

McCauley said he would have to analyze recent parking meter receipts to see how much revenue would be lost before permitting free parking for Christmas.

"Receipts from the parking meters are funding the Parking Clerk's operation," he said. "We would have to estimate lost revenue before making such a move."

Rock Island Group Gives Land To City

The Rock Island Cove Improvement Association has donated 3,000 square feet of land on Allerton St., Houghs Neck, to the city for use as park land.

The lot will be added to some 12,000 square feet of adjoining city-owned land which has also been designated for use as a park.

Councillor Leo J. Kelly suggested that the new parkland be

Heirloom Missing

Judith Mulvey of 60 Presidential Drive reported to police last week that an heirloom ring, valued at $1,000, was stolen from her apartment sometime during the last three weeks.

Mulvey said she went to get the ring from her jewelry box and it was gone. The last time she saw it, she said, was about three weeks ago.

It was described as a one-third carat blue-white diamond in a gold setting. It belonged to her grandmother, Mulvey said.

State St.-Norfolk Downs Buses Win Council Approval

The City Council Monday night endorsed a 20-day trial period in which a trolley-bus will run for three hours daily between the State Street South complex and the Norfolk Downs shopping area.

The bus will start running the day after Thanksgiving, Nov. 26, and continue until the day before Christmas, Dec. 24, at a cost of $1,000 in community development funds and $1,000 from local business people.

The 10 or 15 minute trip will be free to riders.

City Councillor Joanne Condon
Dart Stolen

Josephine Mason, of 3 Moreland Rd., Merrymount, reported to police Sunday that her 1966 Dodge Dart was stolen from the home address.

told her colleagues that if the trial period is successful, its North Quincy sponsors will be back before the Council for permanent approval.

The endorsement of the Council was needed Monday night so the operators of the trolley-bus can get approval from the State Department of Public Utilities.

Condon said she figures that 500 people per day would make the roundtrip from State Street South to Norfolk Downs during their lunch hours.

Animal League Needs Help

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

The Quincy Animal League, formed in June of this year is proving to be a potent force for animal rights in our city.

Since its inception, the league has held monthly meetings, held a 100-person march through Quincy Square in July protesting continued pound seizure of pets by Harvard, participated in a World Day for Animals Fair in Boston, Oct. 2, and has received press, magazine, radio and television coverage.

Attractive bumper stickers are available from us for a one dollar donation (or more) and our membership at $10 per year is open to all area residents. We are now in the necessary but expensive process of incorporation.

Our treasury will be very low after we pay for this. Because of this we would like to appeal to all readers concerned about decent treatment for animals to help in any way they can. Funds are urgently needed to meet printing, mailing, postage and legal expenses. If only each pet owner in Quincy could send just $1 to us in honor of his or her cat or dog, our work could really make an impact on the problems we are addressing.

Anyone wishing to contact us should write to us at P.O. Box 1373, Wollaston, MA. 02170. Our meetings are open to the public and we welcome new members.

Donnelly: No Mayor Run

If you like to write to your congressman the name for the next few years, at least, will still be the same: Brian Donnelly.

And, if you're a politician and dreaming of some day going to Washington for more than just a visit, forget it for now, anyways.

Despite all the speculation, Donnelly is not planning to run against Boston Mayor Kevin White next time out. He was re-elected to his third term (unopposed) Tuesday and will be re-elected probably as long as he wants to be.

Donnelly reveals on the "Quincy Newsmakers" program on Quincy Cable Systems Ch. 3 tonight (Thursday) that he's not going to run against White. The show, video taped last week, can be seen at 7 p.m.

Donnelly, however, says he did consider running for mayor of Boston. And there were people ready to back him.

"I was flattered that people urged me to run," he says. "But I would only take the job if it were handed to me on a platter and they don't do things like that in Boston politics."

Donnelly, who lives in Dorchester, leaves no doubt he's unhappy with the way White has run the city. And, would support almost anyone against him.

sentence.

"It appears that many young people thoughtlessly cause damage to graves and markers without considering the pain they cause the loved ones and friends of those buried there," says Harold.

"Perhaps they will think more carefully when a fine of several thousand dollars and possible jail sentence becomes the price they must pay for such so-called pranks."

Now, let's hope there's a judge around to give the maximum sentence when people like this are caught and convicted.

Tough penalties mean nothing unless the judge is tough, too.

WELL, if you're interested in Gov. Edward King's observations on Tuesday's election results, comments on his administration and his future plans, tune into WUMB-FM (91.9 FM) tonight (Thursday) from 7 to 9 p.m.

It will be King's first radio appearance since the September primary election.

Transportation To Memorial Dedication For Vietnam Veterans Families

Widows and parents of young men from Quincy who died in the Vietnam war will be offered transportation to Washington Nov. 13 for the dedication of the National Vietnam Veterans Memorial.

Cong. Brian Donnelly announced that a committee has been formed to raise $10,000 to send to the ceremony the survivors of 133 servicemen from the 13th Congressional District.

Co-chairmen of the Vietnam Memorial Transportation Fund are Donnelly, Thomas McDonald of Quincy, former state commander of the VFW, and Governor's Councillor Peter Eeley of Quincy.

"Until recently," said Donnelly, "the men who served their country in Vietnam have not been honored in the same way as those who fought in previous wars."

"Sad to say, the people who lost their children in Vietnam have not been treated in the same manner either."

"If we can't raise $10,000 in two weeks to send these people to Washington on the day that their sons are at last being honored, then shame on us."

Donnelly kicked off the fund raising with a contribution of $1,000. Checks for $250 from Eeley and $200 from Arthur F. Shaw Jr., chairman of the First American Bank for Savings, were added.

Contributions to the fund can be mailed directly to the Vietnam Memorial Transportation Fund in care of the First American Bank, 77 Granite St., Quincy, 02169.

Families who lost loved ones in Vietnam are urged to contact one of Donnelly's three offices in the district as soon as possible. The numbers are 472-1800 in Quincy, 223-0038 in Boston and 583-6300 in Brockton.

Cultural Commission Sponsoring Logo Contest

The Quincy South Shore Cultural Commission invites South Shore students to participate in a logo contest for the organization which was formed in 1976 to encourage all arts and cultural activities.

Awards will be given to the top entry of each of the three categories: grades up to eighth, grades nine to 12, college students.

First prize will be $200; second, $100; and third, $50.

Entry forms may be picked up at the new city hall lobby or from school art teachers.

All entries must be left at the new city hall lobby no later than Dec. 1.

Design should symbolize the Cultural Commission, which has as its goal to sponsor cultural activities throughout the South Shore as well as to assist in completion of the Ruth Gordon Amphitheater.

Funds created by the events will help provide scholarships for students.

All entries must be rendered in black on white card or paper.

The logo must be placed on 12 x

12 inch white cardboard, with entry form attached. Straight lines must be ruled and circles must be made with a compass. Solid areas must be smoothly filled. Use a pen or brush for curves, sweeps or wavy forms.

The design must not resemble any existing symbol. It must be able to be reduced or enlarged in size and still be legible and recognizable.

Judging will be done by a non-partisan group.

Contest entries will be on display at the new city hall.

Politics Charged In School Bid To Change Rules

A proposal before the School Committee to change its rules of procedure came to an impasse when member George Abele charged it would open the way to political control and member Joseph J. Kendrick called it an attempt to oust Supt. James N. Muir.

Abele objected to a rule that would establish subcommittees.

This is only a committee of six," he said, "and it is the duty of each member to keep in touch with all matters. If we delegate authority to subcommittees there is a dangerous possibility of politics creeping into the schools."

Kendrick didn't think very much of a proposed rule change that would permit Muir to attend Committee meetings only at the request of the committee. He questioned its legality and the matter was referred to City Solicitor John D. Smith.

SMALLEST ELECTION FIELD

City Clerk Emery Crane announced that one of the smallest fields ever had qualified for the Nov. 16 city preliminary election with 31 candidates vying for eight offices.

The largest number were contesting for two seats on the School Committee — Stephen F. Follett, George W. Abele, Joseph E. Lund, George C. McKeen, Lyman W. Gardner, Roy Prout and L. Paul Marini.

The hottest Council contests were in Ward 5, where Clifton H. Baker was opposing Myron N. Lane; Ward 4, where Christian A. Burkhard was seeking to oust Neil A. McDonald; and Ward 6, where Frank N. Orcutt was pitted against Roy A. Means.

PARKING THREATENED

Napoleon J. Guay threatened to put a fence around his land, which the city used as an access to its 3,000 car municipal parking lot, unless he received $341 in back rent to offset his 1936 and 1937 taxes on the land.

City Auditor George H. Bonsall said he was surprised at the threat because Guay had never billed the city for the rent and there was $200 in the treasury earmarked to pay it in the 1937 city budget.

CONGRATULATIONS TO TOBIN

The Washington School Associates sent a message of congratulations to Mayor-elect Maurice J. Tobin of Boston, who attended the school briefly 31 years ago when his father, James Tobin, was employed at the Fore River Shipyard.

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

"If I had only known then - what I know now" . . . You hear it said quite often. It usually deals with mistakes in the past; wrong opinions, bad decisions. Inadequate or improper initiation in life by sinister influence, injudicious examples of other people, individual stubbornness or a know-it-all attitude are a few of many reasons that cause regret. In any event and regardless of reason, it is a sad revelation when it is realized one got to know too much too early and learned too little too late.

Though sad it may be, a wounding experience need not be - and should not be a fatal experience. We live and learn IF we have the will to do so. It benefits no one physically or spiritually to live with the thought: "Of all sad words of tongue or pen, the saddest are these: It might have been."

What is done is done. It is never too late to start anew . . .

QHA Approves Lease Negotiations For Health Center

By JOHN NOONAN

The Quincy Housing Authority commissioners have voted unanimously to permit the housing administrator and legal counsel to begin negotiations for the leasing of the old sailors home in Germantown as a satellite health center.

Representatives of the Manet Health Center appeared before the QHA commissioners requesting that the go-ahead be given to start negotiations for a five-year lease with the QHA for the first floor of the Old Sailors Home. The space will be used as a satellite branch of the Manet Health Center.

The leasing arrangements will be subject to review by the QHA officials. John Comer, administrator, and Paul A.M. Hunt, QHA legal counsel. The full QHA board must then give final approval of all arrangements negotiated.

The health facility will be open to all residents of the Germantown area. A physician, nurse practitioner, registered nurse and other health personnel will be available to render health services.

similar to those provided by the Manet Health Center.

The facility will be open at least 20 hours a week.

Comer said the QHA was quite happy that the health care facility will be housed in the Old Sailors home where it is accessible to many residents of the Germantown area including tenants of the QHA housing facilities.

He said there was a misunderstanding that the facility was to be located in the Snug Harbor school.

Hunt pointed out that it will be necessary to obtain more specific details about the proposal before a final lease is approved. He said there are questions as to what kind of renovations will be necessary, what kinds of services will be provided at the center. Other similar details must be spelled out, he said.

This week's tips are intended for those who wear glasses. Pay particular attention to your hairstyle and makeup habits. Your glasses should be modern, with large lenses for good vision. Never wear gaudy frames or heavy eye makeup. Wear hairstyles that fall naturally around the face.

If you have a round, oval or square face and big eyes, wear slender frames that match the color of your hair, with large visual lenses to show off your eyes and eye makeup. Wear a bouffant hairstyle.

If you have a heart-shaped or diamond-shaped face, wear smart, slender frames of medium thickness that give a lift to the eyebrows. Wear light makeup shades and delicate eye makeup, a full page boy style and open bangs which emphasize the width of the lower part of the face.

If you have a small, narrow or oval face, select large, modern frames that are not too gaudy. Wear only natural tones of makeup. The hairstyle should be short and have width and height.

If you have a pear-shaped face, wear large, oval-shaped frames to let the glasses reveal eyes wearing appropriate makeup. Proper eye makeup emphasizes beautiful, sparkling eyes. Emphasize the length of the face. A soft bouffant style around the face, with softness brushed forward on the cheeks reduces width and adds beauty.

Quincy Point New Target For Federal Funds

Quincy Point apparently is back on line to receive federal Community Development Block Grant funds from the Department of Housing and Urban Development.

City Councillor Theodore P. DeCristofaro announced Tuesday that HUD has once again designated the Point as a target area for housing rehabilitation, loan programs and street, sidewalk and playground work.

DeCristofaro said the first priority project will be an examination of the abandoned Pollard School for possible use as a neighborhood center.

Mayor Francis X. McCauley said that the city is more than willing to listen to community input into the future of the school building, which has not yet been turned back to the city by the School Department.

"We plan to go the same route with the Pollard that we have with the other schools," he said. "We are willing to listen to any proposals and if a local group wants to bid we will entertain it."

McCauley expressed some reservations about using a building the size of the Pollard School as a community center.

"How much would it cost to run a big building like that?" asked the mayor. "What would it cost in fuel bills to heat it? Where would the funding come from?"

The redesignation of Quincy Point as a target area came as something of a surprise.

Only a week ago Sunday, residents of the Point were told by Planning Director James Lydon that the area was not eligible for CDBG funds since it had been one of the first target areas in the early 1970s.

DeCristofaro and the Planning Department, however, working through the office of Cong. Brian J. Donnelly and local HUD officials, convinced Washington that it was worth another try.

"They were willing to accept from us the demographic figures that show the Point is a low income area," said Lydon. "It appears that they will allow us another target area there."

Lydon said that, since CDBG money for fiscal 1983 has already been allocated, there will not be any substantial money available for Quincy Point until the next fiscal year, which starts July 1, 1983.

Until then, he said, money from the CDBG contingency fund in the Planning Department will be used to get the program off the ground. DeCristofaro scheduled a meeting of Point residents with members of the Planning Department for Monday, Nov. 8, at 7 p.m. in the Fore River Clubhouse on Nevada Rd. to discuss the programs.

Lydon said members of the Planning Department who are closely associated with the black grants will be there.

They include Lydon himself, Gerry Kavanaugh, Elizabeth McElaney and Robert Luongo.

Paraments To Be Consecrated At Bethany Sunday

As part of the ongoing 150th anniversary year celebrations at Bethany Church, Quincy, a new set of green paraments will be consecrated Sunday at both the 9 and 10 a.m. services.

The Holy Communion will be celebrated at both hours, with the Associate Minister, Rev. Joel F. Huntington, preaching the sermon, "Do What, In Remembrance of Who?"

Lois Nordstrom will read the scripture lessons at 9 a.m. service, and Evelyn Kilbourn will be the reader at the 10 a.m. service.

The sesquicentennial moment will be presented by Marianna Fallon. The chancel choir under the direction of organist Dana Robinson, will sing the anthem, "The Lord is Mindful of His Own."

The senior minister, Rev. J. William Arnold, will serve as liturgist and officiate at the dedication of the paraments.

The green pulpit hanging in the chapel, with a triangle, trefoil and cross, symbolic of the Holy Trinity, will be presented in memory of Richard D. Chase, by his company, Nils F. Johnson, president. The dossal curtain behind the chapel altar, is the gift of Emma Stewart, in memory of Andrew M. Stewart and his wife, George.

In the sanctuary, the altar superfrontal has the word "Shalom" embroidered on the front, with creation stars and doves of peace. On the pulpit hanging is the symbol of the United Church of Christ, the crown, cross and orb.

The Missionary or Jerusalem Cross, emblematic of the worldwide Christian Church, is on the front of the lectern hanging. The book mark has a cross with the letters IHS, a monogram for the name, Jesus. These four items are all being given in memory of Blanche D. Willard, by her husband, Howard S. Willard, Sr., and her children, Gweneth and Howard, Jr.

The two matched clergy stoles, with the cross and open Bible symbolic of the Word of God, will be presented by Mr. and Mrs. Andrew J. Lund, in memory of Stanley Hyden Lund and Robert Norris Lund, both brothers of Andrew. The green paraments will remain in the chapel and sanctuary through Thanksgiving.

Quincy 14, Fitchburg 6 Upset Lifts Presidents For Brockton

By TOM SULLIVAN

If Quincy's football team needed a morale booster for Saturday's game at Brockton, it received it last Saturday when it had its best two-way game of the season.

Facing an undefeated Fitchburg club (6-0) that was ranked with unbeaten Leominster as the top clubs in Central Mass., the Presidents rebounded from a heart-breaking last second loss at New Bedford to upset Fitchburg, 14-6, at Veterans Memorial Stadium.

Quincy hasn't beaten Brockton since 1977 but last week's win, which improved its record to 5-2, should give it a lot of confidence when it meets Brockton at 2 o'clock at Marciano Stadium.

Brockton breezed through its first six opponents before bowing to Leominster, 27-19, last week. The Boxers had defeated New Bedford, 27-18; North Quincy, 37-8; Brookline, 43-7; Newton North, 26-14; Nashua, N.H., 26-0, and Cambridge Rindge and Latin, 40-10.

"This was a very big win for us as I feel we beat a really outstanding team," said a happy coach Tom Fitzgerald. "The boys were tremendous both ways. Our offensive line was at its best, the backs ran well and the defense was just terrific. It was the perfect time for such a big win with Brockton coming up next."

Mark Righini, who scored both touchdowns; Chris Draicchio and Mike Notarangelo all ran well as the line did some excellent blocking. Ted Walsh again blocked well from his fullback spot and Bobby Mudge, although just missing on several long passes, had a good day at quarterback.

"The offensive line played its best game of the season and they all did a great job," said offensive coach Peter Chella. "Kevin Rigg's return helped us a lot as he is a fine receiver and blocker. Jamie Gravales, whom I feel is the best two-way lineman in Eastern Massachusetts, was outstanding again as were Joe Harte, Bob Willard, Dan Mahoney and Rich Ready, who started his first game at center, and Paul Gilbody."

The Presidents made some defensive adjustments and they paid off as they bottled up Fitchburg's top runner, Bill Earley, and held the visitors to 85 yards on the ground. They were able to add only 15 yards through the air on three completions.

Playing outstanding defensive ball were Glenn Oriola, Chris McCray, who is improving every week; Gravales, Willard, Bob Burns, Brian Callahan, Riggs, Kevin Cabezas, Righini, Mudge and Gilbody, who had a key interception. Chris Shaughnessy also intercepted a pass.

Quincy dominated the game and could have blown Fitchburg out in the opening quarter when it kept the visitors deep in their own territory throughout the quarter but couldn't score.

With Righini and Draicchio leading the way in the first half and Notarangelo late in the game, the Presidents had 187 yards on the ground. Mudge added 88 yards with four completions. His receivers constantly out-ran the defenders but many of his long passes missed by inches. Quincy had 14 first downs and Fitchburg eight.

Fitchburg was stopped cold after receiving the opening kickoff and punted to the Quincy 44. On the first play Draicchio raced 34 yards to Fitchburg's 22 and the Presidents went for a first down on the 10. On fourth down Harte tried a field goal but it was blocked.

Fitchburg immediately fumbled and Quincy recovered on the 27, but was stopped on the 11. Quincy again held fast and Fitchburg punted to its 46. From here Quincy drove to a touchdown, which came on the second play of the second quarter.

On the first play of the second quarter Mudge passed to Willie Cullen for 32 yards to the three and Righini scored. Harte kicked the point.

Quincy began another drive but Riggs fumbled after catching a Mudge pass and Fitchburg recovered on its 37. Two plays later Gilbody came up with his pass interception on Quincy's 48. Another drive by the Presidents was halted when a Mudge pass was intercepted on Fitchburg's 18.

Midway in the third quarter Gilbody made a great diving catch of a pass on Fitchburg's 26 and a 15-yard penalty set the visitors back to their 11. Quincy made a first down on the one and Righini scored behind Walsh, who threw a key block. Harte again kicked the point.

Sports

Fitchburg's Quintin Tigs ran back the ensuing kickoff all the way to Quincy's 47 and it picked up a first down on the 30. But Shaughnessy intercepted a pass on the 12. Joe Conti's punt went only to Quincy's 30 and was returned to the 20.

On the first play of the fourth quarter Earley streaked around right end for 20 yards and a touchdown. The kick for point was wide.

Quincy got a break when a long pass was deflected and caught on Quincy's one but Fitchburg was penalized for having an illegal receiver downfield. McCray knocked down a fourth down pass and Quincy took over.

With Notarangelo doing most of the running, Quincy went all the way from its 28 to the Fitchburg one-yard line but time ran out before Quincy could add to its lead.

North Jayvees Edge Brookline, Battle Waltham To Tie

By PETE ZOIA

The North Quincy junior varsity-sophomore football team won and tied in two games last week.

The young Raiders played to a 6-6 tie with Waltham as Ted Sadowski's North team showed a great deal of hard hitting. North scored first when Mike Barry intercepted a pass and ran it back 27 yards for the score.

Waltham came back with a 56-yard touchdown drive.

For North Brian Ellis and Joe Bangs were outstanding on offense and Jerry Martin, John Reney and Jerry Coughlin sparked a strong defense.

North edged Brookline, 14-12, as Steve Hogan passed to Dan Baker for 42 yards and the first touchdown and Hogan passed to Coughlin for the second TD. The winning margin came when Martin broke through the line to nail the ball carrier in the end zone for a safety.

Richie Brooks did some fine passing and Steve Kelly ran back a kickoff 47 yards. Bob Flynn, Kevin Kelly and Steve Kearns were defensive standouts.

Flynn had a key fumble recovery. Kelly made tackles all over the field and Kearns saved the day by batting down a pass attempt for two extra points that would have tied the game.

Brookline tried an on-side kick but it was quickly pounced on by John Panara.

Leone, Dudek, Cobban College Standouts

Jack Leone, former North Quincy kicking star who had already broken the Div. I-AA record for successive points after touchdowns, added to that record last Saturday as the U. of Maine walked Northeastern, 31-0.

Leone was four-for-four in conversions, giving him a perfect 40-for-40 for the season.

Jack also kicked his sixth field goal of the season, a 41-yarder as the Black Bears improved their record to 6-3.

Plymouth State won its 17th in a row (the longest small college streak in the country) with a 28-6 win over Western New England. It was Plymouth's eight straight win this year but its streak of seven straight shutouts was ended when WNEC scored in the final quarter.

North Quincy's Joe Dudek, who has 13 touchdowns, returned after missing two games and, although he failed to score, he gained 124 yards in 17 carries, giving him 700 yards for the season.

Another former North Quincy star, Kevin Cobban, continued his outstanding play for Bridgewater State as he scored two touchdowns, including the game winner, and passed for the third TD in a 22-20 win over Nichols.

"Many police officers' sons and daughters have recognized talents," said general manager Sgt. Paul Leman. "We are hoping to bring these children together, forming a highly competitive hockey team.

"Each participant, beginner or advanced, will be taught the necessary skills and techniques of the game. We want to insure each child the best in coaching, training and sportsmanship. We would like area leagues to contact us for games. We are also looking for sponsors."

Anyone interested can call the association at Quincy Police Headquarters, 479-1212. Officer

Thomas Healy is head coach. Matthew Pollara assistant. Robert Hanna secretary and Charles Santoro in charge of public relations.

Raiders Defense Stops Quincy In Scoreless Tie

The North Quincy defense limited Quincy to a net 45 yards on the ground and 17 yards in the air as the Red Raider football team continued undefeated in their intra-city rivalry with a scoreless tie before 6,000 fans at North Quincy Stadium.

North had won three and tied two since the series started in 1933.

Quincy missed its only scoring opportunity in the second period after Ray Pece recovered a fumble on the North 15. Seven plays later, Eero Helin took a pass from Eddie Kroesser on the one-yard line where he was tackled as the half ended.

In the fourth period, North Quincy took the ball on its own 36 and drove down the field, with Roscoe Hanigan running and Bill Moody passing, to the Quincy three, where Hanigan fumbled into the end zone and Quincy got the ball on its own 20.

A try for a field goal by the Presidents' John Joyce from the North 28 in the first period went wide.

End Lennie Collins and guard Earl Christian played outstanding defensive games for the Apprentices and fullback Vic DiGravio tore off some nice gains on the ground and kept the Dorchester team pinned deep in its own territory with his punting.

The Fore River lineup included: Plant, Collins, Rotunno, Kay, ends; Ferguson, Clark, Alexander, tackles; DiTullio, Christian, Pray, guards; McCormack, Watt, centers; Pyne, Doucette, Moscardelli, Deveau, Hanson, Gramazio, Cislighi, DiBona, DiGravio, backs.

ROWE PACES QUINCY

Rowe took the lead in the last quarter mile and held it and Sibbold passed three North Quincy runners in the last 200 yards to take the Quincy High School cross country team to a 27-29 victory over the Raiders over North's flat course.

The time was 12 minutes, 10.1 seconds.

The order of the finish was 1. Rowe (Q), 2. Sibbold (Q), 3. Schofield (NQ), 4. Goodie (NQ), 5. Duron (NQ), 6. Quilty (Q), 7. Simpson (Q), 8. Cample (NQ), 9. Dunn (NQ), 10. Hatch (Q).

Bernie Lanoue, who was better known as a baseball player, scored all three Brockton touchdowns as the Shoe City Jayvees whipped Quincy's Seconds 20-7 at Faxon Field . . . Jimmy Mulroy of Quincy was attending Villanova on a boxing scholarship . . . Grace Seager and Evelyn Patten were elected co-captains of the Christ Church girls' basketball team . . . Freel took a pass from Hutchinson for an early touchdown and the President CC hung on for a 6-6 tie with the Hingham Town Team at Hingham . . . Raiders Host Somerville, Look For 4th Win North Quincy's football team is still coming on strong and the 50th meeting with Quincy this year is looking better and better every week.

The Raiders, who lost their first two games, won their third in the last four last week to even their record at 3-3 and this Saturday will host Somerville in a 2 p.m. non-league game at Veterans Memorial Stadium.

North completely outplayed Brookline last week but couldn't wrap up the 21-12 Suburban League victory until the final quarter. The win improved the Raiders' league mark to 3-2.

Somerville, a Greater Boston League entry that was added to the schedule when the two Weymouth teams dropped out of the league, has a 3-4 record. It defeated Peabody, 20-0; Everett, 14-6, and Chelsea, 13-0, while losing to Winchester, 8-7; Medford, 14-13; Malden, 27-6, and Waltham, 20-0.

"We played a fine game at Brookline," said coach Ken McPhee. "They might be winless but they have some very good players and their coach, Ed Shlutz, is one of the best football men I know. They have a far better team than their record indicates."

North moved the ball well all day, piling up 19 first downs to Brookline's four and gaining 288 yards, 198 on the ground and 90 passing.

Sophomore quarterback Dave Zuroms, who entered the game in the second quarter, continued to shine. He was seven for fourteen passing for 90 yards and a touchdown. John Kozlowski had his best day running and Scott Messina and Dave DiCarlo also ran well.

In the offensive line assistant coach Mark Mulvany praised Gerry Connolly, Neil Leonard, Ken Wright, Jim Kelly, Shawn Cunningham and end Peter Clark, who is improving every week as a pass receiver.

Defensively assistant coach Jack Raymer had good words for everyone, but singled out Jim McNamara, Cunningham, Fred Peterson, Kelly, Connolly and Mike Gill.

In the opening quarter North drove all the way to the Brookline one-yard line but a mixup stalled the Raiders. A blocked punt set up Brookline's first touchdown, Eric Sargent scoring from the nine. A rush for the points failed.

There was no scoring in the third quarter but in the final session the Raiders marched 79 yards for a score. DiCarlo and Messina led the drive to the 19, Zuroms picked up four and then hit Rich Brown for the touchdown. Cullen again kicked the point.

Later North marched 89 yards to pay dirt. A pass to Clark for 35 yards brought the ball to Brookline's 20, Messina picked up three and Kozlowski went the remaining 17 yards for the score.

Cullen kicked his third extra point.

North's kickoff went into the end zone and Brookline had the ball on its own 20. On the first play Steve Doran found his brother Eric in the clear and passed to him and Eric completed an 80-yard scoring play to wrap up the scoring.

Apaches Remain Undefeated, Panthers Claw Elks

The North Quincy Apaches continued unbeaten in the Quincy Youth Football League by defeating the Houghs Neck Manets, 14-6, Sunday, at Veterans Memorial Stadium.

The first quarter featured some fine defense by the Apaches' Gary McNamara, Brian Durgin, Steve Miller, Peter Quevillon, Dan McCarthy and George Hartford.

The Apaches began a march late in the quarter paced by Hartford, McCarthy and John Broadbent, and it continued into the second quarter with Broadbent passing to Chris Barry for five yards and a touchdown. They held the lead at the half as Joe Shea, Broadbent and Hartford played strong defense. Broadbent's interception set up another threat with McNamara, Hartford, McCarthy and Jim Mulvey picking up good yardage, but the clock ran out.

The Manets came out strong in the second half and tied it at 6-6. It stayed that way into the final quarter when Hartford and Broadbent picked up five yards each and McCarthy raced 50 yards for the TD. Hartford rushed for the two-point conversion.

The Apaches held the lead with the help of tackles by Tim Kelly, McCarthy, Broadbent, McNamara, Hartford and Larry Taglieri and a key interception by Brian Durgin.

The Quincy Point Panthers easily defeated the West Quincy Elks, 22-6, to stay right on the Apaches' heels.

The Panthers' first score came in the second quarter on a five-yard quarterback keeper by Mike Minichello. Chris Marshall caught Minichello's conversion for the two points.

David Britt, the Panthers' leading scorer, scored the first of his two touchdowns in the third quarter. Stood up on the line of scrimmage, Britt reversed his field and scored from the 20, making it 14-0 and Ricky Burns added the two-point conversion.

In the fourth quarter, with the ball on the two-yard line, Minichello handed off to Billy Roche, who drove straight up the middle but fumbled. Britt recovered in the end zone for his second score. The try for extra points failed.

The only score for the Elks came on a 65-yard run by Kevin Segalla. Matt O'Brien, Ralph Goodwin, Dennis Cronin and Billy Ryan stood out on defense for the Panthers, while Marshall, Jack Kilrain, Minichello and Britt were outstanding both ways.

This was the first league game taped by Quincy Cable Systems. The entire game, along with halftime entertainment by the Panthers' cheerleaders, will be seen in a few weeks on Quincy Community Television, Channel 3.

The Panthers' junior varsity remained in first place with a 14-12 win over the Elks.

North In Crucial Games For Tourney Bid

Needing at least a win and a tie in its last two games to make the Eastern Mass. tournament, the North Quincy boys' soccer team, with a 9-3-3 record -- its best in seven years -- finishes its regular season today (Thursday) at Waltham at 3 p.m.

The Raiders played at Sharon Tuesday.

Last week North blanked Whitman-Hanson, 2-0, and cross-town rival Quincy, 6-0, after dropping a 1-0 squeaker at Cambridge Rindge and Latin.

North played outstanding defense in the loss to Cambridge, holding the Suburban League's top scorer, Alvaro Ibanes, scoreless.

Cambridge scored the only goal of the game with five minutes left in the game as a centering cross deflected off a North player and rolled into the goal.

Terry Stark and Jim Boudreau played outstanding games, sharing the task of covering Ibanes.

North survived early pressure as Bob O'Brien made a great tip-out save. After five minutes, the Raiders controlled the game.

Peter McGillicuddy, Mike Bourikas, Dwayne Wilcoxon, Greg DiBella, Jaime Paz, Mike Cocce, David Brown, Alex Coutts and Steve Golden all played fine games and kept the pressure on the Cambridge goalie.

The Raiders played another strong defensive game against Whitman-Hanson and were able to sustain an offense. Early in the first quarter McGillicuddy rifled a shot from 35 yards out which deflected off a Panther fullback and into the goal. O'Brien made an excellent leaping save late in the quarter.

North made it 2-0 in the second quarter on a corner kick play. McGillicuddy's cross was skimmed by Boudreau to Andy Curtis, who got the ball to Stark. Stark rammed it in late in the half. John Joseph was sent in alone by McGillicuddy but he couldn't score.

The Panthers scored early in the third quarter but it was called back on an offside call. George Dolbec nearly connected with Mark McGowan midway through the third quarter but McGowan's shot was stopped and Dolbec's rebound shot was wide.

North pressured Quincy from the outset and controlled play throughout. Three minutes into the game, after a Quincy penalty, Boudreau put the ball in play with a long pass to Bourikas. Bourikas eluded the Presidents' defense and scored from 15 yards out.

Quincy's defense, keyed by Pat Ward and Andy Eames, stiffened and it wasn't until late in the second quarter that North would get on the board again. Dolbec crossed the ball to DiBella, who beat Quincy goalie Louis Sandonato.

Midway in the third quarter Wilcoxon scored his second goal of the year as Curtis found him open 20 yards away. DiBella collected his second goal of the game, Dolbec scored early in the fourth quarter and DiBella scored his third goal of the game and his 10th of the season. Earlier in the quarter Dave Marcham had made two fine saves to preserve the shutout. Quincy's Jim Norton and Rich Parker missed good chances to score late in the game.

North's outstanding defense, which gave up just one goal in three games last week, has given up just two goals in the last 20 quarters of play.

Coach Paul Bregoli had special praise for Coutts, who played injured in the Quincy game and did a superb job as a sweeper back.

O'Brien is the second leading goalie in the league with a 1.27 goals-against average. McGillicuddy and DiBella are tied for third place in scoring with 12 points each.

Lewis Resigns As North Hockey Coach

Kevin Lewis has resigned as North Quincy hockey coach after four years at the Raiders' helm.

"I'll miss it. I enjoyed coaching and the boys always gave me 100 percent and more," said Lewis, who lost his teaching job due to Prop 2½. "But I want to spend more time with my son. If I was still teaching I would still coach. But I've made a commitment to a new career and to my son."

"I'm a single parent now, and it's tough to find the time to devote my life to outside interests.

"We didn't have too much success as far as wins and losses were concerned, but the boys never gave up. I put everything I had into it and I can leave knowing I did all I could do. But the conditions weren't right and I didn't think I could devote the time to it anymore."

Lewis found it rough battling Suburban League powers like Brockton, Brookline, Newton, Waltham and the Weymouth teams.

"I think the program is about a year away from being truly competitive in the league and I wish them a lot of luck."

Lewis, who played his high school hockey under Bob Sylvia at Quincy, induced several boys, who had planned to go to other schools, to stay at North Quincy. The North and Quincy teams every year lose outstanding players to other schools.

Kevin is proud of the fact that many of his players went on to college.

"I want to thank everyone who supported me and I especially want to thank Carl Leone (athletic coordinator), Peter Chrisom (North's principal) and my assistant coach, Kevin Jago," he said.

With the hockey season fast approaching, it is expected a new coach will be named within two weeks.

BASKETBALL MOST DANGEROUS

You may be surprised to learn that, statistically, basketball is America's most dangerous team sport, causing more injuries than any other.

The game, with its constant twisting and turning, poses a particular threat to knees and ankles. Youngsters going out for basketball should make a special effort to put themselves in prime condition. Safety experts advise a program of leg-strengthening exercise. The stronger the muscles and tendons around those critical joints, the less likely a sudden wrench that results in a sprain or dislocation. Too-early return to play after an injury is frequently an accident factor, too. Stay out of play completely until you have medical word that the injury is fully healed, and make reconditioning a prerequisite for resuming the game.

Another major risk is borne by eyeglass wearers. Reduce the possibility of shattering by wearing only impact-resistant lenses and by securing glasses with a band around the head.

QJC In Small Conference Jamboree Saturday

The Quincy Junior College basketball team, along with nine other teams, will take part in the 1982-83 Greater Boston Small College Conference jamboree Saturday starting at noon at Essex Agricultural College. The nine league teams and Mass. College of Art will play five games and QJC will play last year's league runnerup, Bunker Hill Community College, at 3.

"I like the concept of the jamboree and the setup of the conference," said Coach Brian Buckley. "The jamboree introduces teams with other teams and helps promote good sportsmanship. The teams in our league try to give these young men a chance to play some pretty good organized ball and enjoy it at that."

While the Small College Conference is not known for its basketball powers, it has developed some fine players. A player from Hellenic College was drafted by the Celtics and was not released until just before the final cuts. Hellenic, which won the conference title the last two years, has moved into Div. 3 and the 1983 title should be up for grabs.

"We scrimmaged Hellenic last week and they are very strong again," Buckley said.

"Without them in the league there could be some surprises. North Shore and Northern Essex have new coaches. We have improved and Mass. College of Pharmacy is reported to have a real fine freshman center."

The first regular season game for the Jaguars will be Friday, Nov. 12, against Essex Agricultural.

City Goes With State

(Cont'd from Page 1)

Democratic incumbents for the lesser statewide offices prevailed easily over largely token Republican opposition.

In Quincy, the vote was: Attorney General - Francis X. Bellotti of Quincy, 27,686; Richard Wainwright of Brockton, 4,805.

Secretary - Michael Joseph Connolly of Boston, 24,737; Jody DeRoma Dow of Brookline, 6,229.

Treasurer - Robert Q. Crane of Wellesley, 23,913; Mary J. LeClaire of Mashpee, 7,040.

Auditor - John J. Finnegan of Boston, 23,444; Michael S. Robertson of Berkley, 6,727.

Locally, the only newcomer to office will be Nicholas Barbadoro of Quincy, who was unopposed for Norfolk County Clerk of Courts, succeeding now-Judge John Connannon of Braintree.

All the others on the ballot were reelected without opposition:

Brian J. Donnelly of Boston, congressman; Peter Eley of Quincy, governor's councillor; Paul D. Harold of Quincy, state senator; Thomas F. Brownell and Michael W. Morrissey, state representatives.

William D. Delahunt of Quincy, district attorney; Brian Hannon of Braintree, register of deeds; David Ahearn of Norwood, county commissioner.

First City Loan Since Prop. 2½ Goes For New Sewers, Drains

The City Council Monday night passed loan orders totaling a half million dollars, $200,000 of which is committed to the construction of new sewers and drains, including the Camden-Linden St. sewer siphon.

The rest of the borrowing, $300,000, will allow the city to continue its citywide system evaluation which is a condition for receiving federal funding for rehabilitation.

City Auditor Robert E. Foy III said the city probably would not make the borrowing, its first large one since the advent of Proposition 2½, for another 18 months.

The city's bond rating is now B-A. Foy told the Council, "but there is a good chance that we will go up one peg by the time we go to market."

Public Works Commissioner Paul Anderson told the Council that the total cost of the citywide study is about $282,000, which is eligible for 75 per cent federal reimbursement.

"But the City Council has to certify the funds up front," he said.

The $200,000 bond, he said, will go to replenish an account that is now empty since the funds are committed to pay the city's 10 per cent share of the South West Quincy construction project.

In addition to the $110,000 project to reconstruct the Camden-Linden St. sewer siphon, the money will go to:

- Drainage project and tide gate rehabilitation in the Wollaston Beach area.

- Drainage projects including manhole construction and reconstruction areas abutting Furnace Brook.

- Sewerage and drainage construction or reconstruction in areas abutting Town Brook.

New artificial knee has been designed so that patient's own bone cells will grow into it. Prosthesis will last longer than artificial knees that must be cemented in place (because cement eventually loosens), says a doctor-professor at Johns Hopkins in Baltimore.

Validated Parking Will Start After New Year

Validated parking in downtown Quincy will not go into effect until after the first of the year.

Mayor Francis X. McCauley said Tuesday that the city is currently working out a lease agreement with Kinney Systems and seeking capital outlay funds in the State House to set up the new parking system.

"We can't set a date on it," he said. "We're going to do it as quickly as we can."

Arthur Foley, the mayor's administrative assistant, met with some 70 downtown merchants last week to discuss the plans for validated parking.

Foley called it "a positive meeting" despite the fact that the representative from Kinney Systems, which has the contract to run the parking lots, did not arrive until the meeting was over.

Foley explained that one of the Kinney people was flying in from New York and had been delayed in landing by a malfunction in the computers at Logan Airport.

"The meeting was more to get input from the merchants than anything else," said Foley.

He said the business people expressed particular interest in the proposed parking fees and the validation system under which the store owners will purchase coupons for their customers.

Foley said he emphasized that the validation system would be voluntary among the merchants but that all of them would be encouraged to join.

Condon: Rollback Has 'Made Substantial Difference'

Councillor Joanne Condon thinks the license board's rollback of liquor establishment hours from 2 a.m. to 1 a.m. has "made a substantial difference in the quality of life."

And Tuesday she presented the board with statistics she feels back up her claim.

According to Mrs. Condon, the number of police calls after midnight to the 12 liquor establishments which had 2 a.m. closings has dropped from 14 in September, 1981, to five in September, 1982.

In October of 1981, there were 18 calls, stated Mrs. Condon, while in October of this year there were four calls.

"I am sure you will agree that the number of calls indicate a drastic reduction in the incidents related to these establishments," stated Mrs. Condon.

"I will continue to gather these statistics as well as others to relate to the board the positive effect this decision has had on the quality of life and public safety in the city of Quincy."

Wounded Security Guard In "Good" Condition

A 30-year-old security guard from Quincy was reported in "good" condition Tuesday at Mass General Hospital four days after he was shot in the head and leg during a holdup in Boston's North End.

Hospital spokesman Martin Bander said Kenneth McPhee of 18 Des Moines Rd., Quincy Point, may be able to go home in a couple of days.

McPhee and another guard were ambushed by three masked men outside a credit union office Friday morning after they had made a cash pickup at the First National Bank nearby.

Two suspects were captured and a third was sought following a brief gun battle with a motorcycle policeman on an adjoining street. About $15,000 was involved in the robbery.

McPhee and his female companion, who were employed by the First Security Service, were ambushed outside the Social Service Credit Union at 107 Salem St., near Old North Church.

'Fu Manchu' Robs Curtis Compact

A young white man with a "Fu Manchu" mustache, armed with a 10-inch hunting knife, held up the Curtis Compact store on Sea St., Adams Shore, Sunday night and escaped with an undetermined amount of cash.

The man entered the store about 11:30 p.m., showed the knife to the clerk and demanded money from the register. He wanted money from the safe, too, but the clerk told him he did not have the combination.

He was last seen heading in the direction of Gannett Rd. The man was described as about 22 years old, 5-foot-6, 165 pounds, light complexion, brown hair and mustache and wearing a blue and black ski jacket, dark pants and a ski hat.

Owe $1.2 Million

103 Tax Delinquents Face Court

By TOM HENSHAW

The city is going after another 103 real estate tax delinquents who owe a total of $1.2 million in back taxes.

Mayor Francis X. McCauley said Tuesday that he has directed City Solicitor William Golden to start legal proceedings against the 103 who owe a minimum of $5,000 each in taxes and interest.

"This represents the second phase in our continuing effort to collect back taxes which in some cases have been due since the 1960s," said McCauley.

Last spring, in the first phase of the campaign, the top 12 tax delinquents were targeted for legal action and, said McCauley, the move has brought more than $1 million to the city.

That includes $627,000 in payments during the past two months plus commitments to pay some $400,000 more.

Golden said the Law Department will first warn the delinquent taxpayers that he is about to start legal proceedings in order to give them one last chance to pay up.

"The taxpayers who dutifully pay their taxes on time should no longer be expected to bear the burden of those tax delinquents who year after year force the city to borrow funds to pay their share," said the mayor.

The widows and parents will assemble at the Howard Johnson's Restaurant at South Shore Plaza in Braintree for the bus ride to the national capital. They come from all over the 11th Congressional District.

They will remain in Washington until Sunday, staying over in Alexandria, Va.

Donations may still be made to the fund by mailing to the Vietnam Memorial Transportation Fund in care of the First American Bank, 77 Granite St., Quincy, 02169.

John W. McGowan has resigned as one of the two Republican members of the Board of Registrars of Voters in order to move with his family to West Palm Beach, Fla., where he has a new job.

McGowan was originally named to the board in 1979 and was reappointed by Mayor Francis X. McCauley to a second three year term this year.

McCauley said he expects to name a successor within the next two weeks to the board, which is made up of two Republicans and two Democrats.

Weymouth Man Highway Supt.

Robert E. Federico, a Weymouth construction man with considerable experience building roads and bridges, has been named highway superintendent of Quincy, effective Monday, Nov. 15.

Mayor Francis X. McCauley said the appointment is provisional "while we consider taking this important position out of Civil Service." The job is now held on an acting basis by William Gilcoyne, who is ill.

McCauley said Federico was one of 23 applicants for the post, which is under the supervision of the public works commissioner. The job pays $26,995 a year.

The mayor said Administrative Assistant Arthur Foley and Personnel Director Donald Hanson cut the list to six, then with the aid of Greg Doyle of the Public Works Department trimmed it to four.

"I made the final decision over the weekend," said McCauley.

McCauley said he followed one of Public Works Commission Paul Anderson's requirements that the new highway superintendent have extensive experience in the private sector.

Foley said Federico, who is 43 and grew up in Weymouth, recently returned to his hometown after working for five years with a construction company in North Hollywood, Calif.

He is a graduate of Boston Trade School, attended Wentworth Institute and holds an associate's degree in business management from Newbury Junior College. He has 25 years experience in construction.

McCauley said he has not yet decided whether to take the superintendent's job out from Civil Service, a move he has made at least once before when he named Hanson personnel director.

"It gives me more control over them if they don't work out," he said. "It will also give my successor an option of whether or not to keep them on the job."

McCauley said the problem in his mind is how far down to go into the ranks before reaching a cutoff level for Civil Service. The superintendents' posts in Public Works are not department heads.

The mayor indicated that he was also looking at the possibility of taking the water-sewer-drain superintendent out from under Civil Service.

That post is currently held by Robert Eranio, who has said he is considering retirement after the first of the year.

"If we do it for this (highway), maybe we'll do it for that," said McCauley.

Senior Citizens Olympics Set For Quincy In 1983

Mayor Francis X. McCauley announced Tuesday that the Senior Citizens Olympics will be held in Massachusetts for the first time in Quincy in June, 1983.

The event, which is patterned after the Olympic games for men and women 50 years old and over, will be sponsored by the Beechwood Community Life Center in cooperation with the city.

"While the Senior Olympics provide competition," said

McCauley, "they also emphasize the participation of many older persons in a day of activity and socialization which can result in lasting friendships."

Project director for the Senior Olympics will be Donald H. Strong, former director of the Quincy Council on Aging, and chairman of the board of directors of the Beechwood Center.

The Senior Olympics began in 1977 in East Brunswick, N.J., and similar events have been held in several states since then.

Frightens Off Intruder

Blanche Rimmer, 87, of 84 Narragansett Rd., Merrymount, was awakened about 1:30 a.m. Tuesday to find an intruder in her bedroom. She screamed and he ran.

Mrs. Rimmer is the mother of novelist Robert H. Rimmer, author of The Harrod Experiment and other books, who lives a few doors away on Narragansett Rd.

Board Approves Plans For Pub Expansion

By NANCY McLAUGHLIN

"I think it will truly be an improvement in the area," said City Clerk John Gillis Tuesday as the License Board approved plans for expanding and upgrading the Adams Pub, South Quincy.

The plans will include extending the establishment at 35-37 Franklin St. into a vacant store next door, according to Atty. Robert Langlois.

Langlois explained at an earlier meeting that seating capacity will be increased from 65-99.

He also said that owners Maurice Foley of Braintree and J. Enda Hayes of South Boston would like to attract a more family oriented clientele.

This week, Langlois showed the board an artist's rendering of the plans which include stucco over existing concrete block, and separate doors for the pub and restaurant.

"That's about as good as they can do with the existing structure," said Building Inspector Allan MacDonald.

Langlois indicated that problems over the summer resulting from the door of the pub being left open for ventilation will be alleviated when air conditioning is added according to the plans.

The open door was one of the problems cited two weeks ago by area resident John Schmuck who opposed the expansion. Schmuck was not at this week's meeting and no other opposition was noted.

Shocked At Desecration Of Mt. Wollaston Mausoleums

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

It was with shock and disbelief that I read about the recent desecration of the mausoleums in our Mount Wollaston Cemetery which are held sacred by those families who, at a substantial cost, had them placed there.

Shame and disgrace to those who were responsible for such an act of indignity during the weekend of October 30-31. I can only extend my sympathy to those who were subjected to this type of vandalism whether done intentionally or as a Halloween prank. Whoever they were, they certainly should have known better and I trust they will be apprehended and made to pay for the necessary corrective work to remove the unsightly damage.

If they were youths -- boys or girls -- it is indeed unfortunate that their act should reflect against the great majority of today's young people who, in my opinion, want to be good citizens. Their acts of kindness and thoughtfulness many times go unnoticed but they are being done every day to their everlasting credit. Their good standards should not be blemished by the despicable acts of a few. It was gratifying to read that the city council unanimously condemned the acts of vandalism in our cemeteries and recommended maximum penalties for such offenses. I am sure that the remarks of Councilor James A. Sheets voiced the sentiments of the entire city when he said, "Obviously, in our society today, nothing is sacred," after saying he was "disgusted" when he read about the cemetery vandalism.

I was particularly disturbed at the desecration of Mayor Amelio Della Chiesa's mausoleum which contains the mortal remains of both he and his dear wife, Evelyn, and a memorial tablet for their only son, Walter, who was killed in World War II.

"Mel" Della Chiesa was my friend and an outstanding mayor of our city. Were he living today I can only assume what he might say about vandalism in ANY cemetery, let alone to his family mausoleum which both he and Evelyn carefully planned for their final resting place, containing Walter's memorial tablet.

A Tribute To Arthur Drohan

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

A tribute to Arthur Drohan, at the dedication of the new senior home on 170 Copeland St., West Quincy, on October 22, 1982.

Art Drohan's the man you could buy your paper from. You could buy them at the store, or delivered to your home. You could always buy a stamp or two, or some candy and gum for you to chew. You could buy so many other things, like magazines, or coke, or even new shoe strings. You could send some mail most any day, to any where at all in the U.S.A. And cards, some with rhyme, some without reason, for any time or season. And now we dedicate this new senior home. God bless the folks here, may they never want to roam.

Another Koch To Run?

There may be another member of the Koch family stepping into Quincy's political arena.

Linda Bowes, daughter of Park-Recreation Board Executive Secretary Richard Koch, Sr. and sister of City Councilor Richard Koch, Jr. reportedly is giving "serious thought" to running for office next year.

She lives on Newbury Ave., North Quincy, So. . .

So, it would seem she's either eyeing the Ward 6 City Council seat occupied by Joanne Condon or considering a School Committee bid.

Mother of two, she's never been a candidate herself before. But she's been active in the campaigns of her brother, Richard, and School Committee members Harold Davis and Ruth Scanlan.

As a youngster, she helped distribute flyers for John F. Kennedy in the 1960 Presidential campaign, and she has also worked for Senator Edward Kennedy.

Two Kochs on the ballot next year would be quite interesting -- especially if both were City Council candidates. If she were successful running for Ward 6 and her brother were re-elected, it would be the first brother-sister team in the City Council's history. Or, if she ran for the School Committee and won and Koch was re-elected councillor, it would also be another local political first: first time two members of the same family served on the City Council and School Committee simultaneously.

Even though her name is now Bowes, she's still a Koch. And in Quincy, a Koch in the political arena is a formidable candidate.

Former Mayor Joseph LaRaia found that out three years ago when young Richard Koch, running for the first time, came within 97 votes of derauling LaRaia's comeback bid via the City Council. Most observers agree it would have been the political death blow for LaRaia, coming after perhaps the most turbulent mayoral term in the city's history.

If she decides to run for Ward 6 or the School Committee it would certainly liven things up a little.

SPEAKING OF THE KOCHS, Councillor

Tobin On Ch. 3's 'Quincy Newsmakers'

Former Mayor Arthur Tobin, now Clerk Magistrate of the Quincy District Court will be the guest tonight (Thursday) on Quincy Newsmakers, a public affairs program on Quincy Cablesystems Ch. 3 at 7 p.m.

Tobin will be interviewed by Henry Bosworth of The Quincy Sun, Ray McEachern of the Patriot Ledger, and Charles Ross of WJDA radio.

Topics to be discussed are: the mayoral administration of Tobin, the present administration of Mayor Francis McCauley, and the Quincy District Court.

Moderator of the program is David Keefe, general manager of Quincy Cablesystems.

Richard Koch and his wife, Nancy (Kelly) have another little constituent: Peter James, second child and second son, born Nov. 5 at Quincy City Hospital. Their first, Matthew Richard is one year, three months. The family will have a new address. They've bought a home at 70 Cross St., West Quincy, after renting an apartment on Lafayette St.

BOWES

AND, speaking (above) of Ruth Scanlan who served on the School Committee in the late 1960's, she had the potential for a bright political future. She had looks, personality and brains. There were those in the city who thought she would someday be Quincy's first woman mayor.

But she became disenchanted with politics and no longer lives in Quincy. She has a farm in Enfield, N.H. and is also a consultant to Polaroid.

THREE FORMER MAYORS were among relatives and close friends who attended an ecumenical memorial Mass for Muriel Chandler, administrative assistant to Mayor Arthur Tobin, last week at St. John's Church.

In addition to Tobin, the two other former mayors were James McIntyre and Walter Hannon. Also attending was Rep. Thomas Brownell.

Muriel, who was one of the most popular figures at City Hall died July 10 after a long battle with cancer. She was the wife of James Chandler.

Fr. William McCarthy, pastor of St. John's was the celebrant. Rev. Peter Corea, co-pastor of Houghs Neck Congregational Church was the eulogist. His wife, Rev. Alicia Corea, was also in attendance.

'Just For Today, I'll Try ...'

By ED SPARGO

Just for today I will try to live through this day only, and not set far-reaching goals to strive to overcome all my problems at once. I know I can do something for 12 hours that would appall me if I felt I had to keep it up for a lifetime.

Just for today I will try to be happy. Abraham Lincoln said, "Most folks are about as happy as they make up their minds to be." He was right. I will not dwell on thoughts that depress me. I will chase them out of my mind and replace them with happy thoughts.

Just for today I will adjust myself to what IS - I will face up to reality. I will try to change those things that I can change and accept those things that I have no control over.

Just for today I will try to improve my mind. I will try to be a mental loafer. I will force myself to read something that requires effort, thought and concentration.

Just for today I will do a good deed for somebody - especially showing concern for those elderly who are alone and sometimes forgotten. Remembering that, "There but for the grace of God go I."

Just for today I will do something positive to improve my health. If I'm a smoker I'll make an honest effort to cut down - or quit entirely. I won't rationalize my addiction to cigarettes with the self-serving "I know lots of folks who smoked all their lives and lived until almost 90." If I'm overweight, I'll eat nothing I know is fattening. And I'll force myself to exercise, hopefully every day - even if it's only walking around the block or to the store or to the mailbox. And using the stairs instead of the elevator.

Just for today I vow to be totally honest. If someone asks me something I don't know, I will not try to bluff - I'll not be too proud to admit "I don't know."

Just for today I'll do something I've been putting off for a long time. At long last, I'll finally write that letter, make that phone call, clean that closet, straighten out those dresser drawers or reciprocate for a thoughtful luncheon or dinner invitation.

I pride myself on always trying to pursue a policy of "action, not talk" but I will long regret procrastinating interminably in my long-cherished plan to visit "Jumpin' Joe" Dugan, the old big-league ball player, over in Norwood. But, alas, before I got around to it, Jolly Joe had ascended to baseball heaven to join old team-mates Connie Mack, Babe Ruth, Lou Gehrig, Bob Meusel, Everett Scott, Tony Lazzeri, Carl Mays, and a cast of dozens of Yankee, Red Sox, Athletic and Tiger mates. Error, E. Spargo. "If only I had..." Just as I regret failing to mention in a recent article I wrote, such baseball stars as Henry Johnson, Dave McKeag, George Clark, Joe Ogle, Les Wetmore, Paul Higgins, Ray Cattaneo and Johnny and Charley Fallon. Not to forget clever ambidextrous twirler, Harry Earl O'Brien, who often switched his glove from hand to hand, depending on whether the batter hit from the orthodox or the left side of the plate. Ah, those heart-warming memories as we savor what Rupert Brooke called "the red sweet wine of youth."

Just for today, before I speak, I will ask myself, "Is it true? Is it kind? Will it cause hurt feelings?" If the answer to any of these questions is questionable, I won't speak those words.

Just for today I will make a conscious effort to be agreeable. I will look as well as I can, dress becomingly, talk softly, act courteously and not interrupt when someone else is talking. (As an aside, if you'll forgive the personal reference, I had better pay particular attention to those words of wisdom involving good manners and common courtesy.) Just for today I'll try not to improve anybody except myself.

Just for today I will have a program. I may not follow it exactly, but I will have it, thereby saving myself from three pests: hurry, indecision and procrastination.

Just for today I will have a quiet half-hour to relax alone. During this time I will reflect on my behavior and will try to get a better perspective on my life. Remembering that "life is short" and we'll be a long time dead.

Just for today I will be unafraid. I will gather the courage to do what is right and take the responsibility for my own actions. I will expect nothing from the world, but I will realize that as I give to the world, the world will respond to me.

(These resolutions are based on the original credo of Alcoholics Anonymous. With my usual chutzpah, I've taken the liberty of doing that theme with my own variations.)

Police Alert

Quincy Police Dept.

Con Artist Returns

He is an elderly man, about 5-foot-3 with gray hair and glasses that hang low over his nose. He's not physically dangerous but he is so good at what he does that Quincy police would like to see him put out of action.

Recently, he approached a woman at Quincy City Hospital.

He was, he said, part owner of the Quinn Trucking Co. Not long ago, one of his trucks was carrying television sets when it overturned. The TV sets are perfectly good, but he has to get rid of them.

His wife is very ill so he's selling the TV sets at a steal — $50. The woman he met at the hospital drove him to the John Hancock Parking lot. She gave him the $50 and he promised to return shortly with the TV set. He never did, nor could he be found.

The man, of course, has nothing whatsoever to do with Quinn or any other trucking company. His profession is con man and he is very persuasive at it.

If you have any information about this man, please call the Quincy Police at 479-1212.

N.Q. MBTA Lot To Be Resurfaced

The MBTA plans to resurface and paint new stripes on the parking lot at North Quincy station with part of $796,000 grant from the federal Urban Mass Transportation Administration.

Five other subway and train stations will be renovated under the grant.

"By expanding and improving our parking facilities, the MBTA will provide added convenience and savings to commuters and attract additional riders," said MBTA General Manager James F. O'Leary.

QHA Purchases West Quincy Land For Vets Housing

The Quincy Housing Authority signed an option to purchase three acres of land on West St., West Quincy, on which to construct 13 or 14 four-family buildings for a $400,000 veterans housing project.

Frank C. Hendry, executive secretary of the QHA, said the site, which is on land owned by Quincy police officer James J. Sullivan, has been unofficially approved by the architectural advisor of the State Housing Board.

Hendry said the authority decided to build the whole project on one site instead of scattering it around the city because of the construction economies that could be effected.

Meanwhile, the City Council passed a resolution asking the mayor to submit an additional loan order for $600,000 to bring the amount available for veterans' housing up to $1 million.

Councillor Frank N. Orcutt, who introduced the order, pointed out that Watertown was spending $1.4 million, Worcester $2 million and Springfield $1.5 million while Quincy's $400,000 was far down the list.

Councillor David J. Crowley criticized his colleagues for their refusal to consider Snug Harbor in Germantown as a veterans' housing site, leaving the city faced with a shortage of possible locations.

"The Council did not see fit to pass anything until just before the election," he said. "Now look at some of the sites they are putting pressure on the Housing Authority to purchase — a hole, a rock pile and a swamp."

TRAFFIC ENGINEER NEEDED

The National Safety Council advised the city of Quincy that it needs a fulltime traffic engineer with power to adopt the most modern and streamlined engineering and safety measures.

The report pointed out that only six man-days were spent on traffic engineering investigations and surveys in 1946 while at least 52 man-days should have been devoted to studies of high accident locations alone.

Chief John J. Avery said he will ask for additional men to be used exclusively in the Traffic Bureau.

Beauty Hints
By Sabina
of Sabina's Beauty Schools

24 Cottage Ave. 476 Boylston St.
Quincy 472-1673 Boston 267-5534

Today's Beauty Hints have to do with the use of hairstyles and makeup to offset the shape of your nose. The following tips consider the nose in both profile and full face.

If you have a turned-up nose, sweep your hair back off the face at the sides in order to lengthen the line from the nose to the ear. The hair at the top of your head should be combed forward to minimize the appearance of the turned-up nose.

If you have a hooked nose, a large nose or a pointed nose, try to draw as much attention as possible away from these features. Bring your hair forward at the forehead.

If you have a crooked nose, style your hair in an off-center manner which will attract the eye away from the nose; if you have a wide, flat nose, your hair should be drawn away from your face. A hairstyle with a middle part and double curled bangs will draw attention away from your nose.

You may also want to use corrective makeup to minimize the shape of your nose. More on how to do this next week.

PHARMACY TOPICS

by Edward David R.Ph.

New scalpel tested at Albert Einstein College of Medicine in New York can be heated electrically to seal off blood vessels as they are cut. Its use limits blood loss, especially in debilitation of burned skin to facilitate grafting.

Propranolol — the high blood pressure drug — also seems to be of value as a deterrent to the recurrent gastrointestinal bleeding that often goes with cirrhosis of the liver.

New rabies vaccine is said to be safer, more effective, and less painful. Can be given BEFORE a bite to people at risk of being bitten.

To treat excess menstrual bleeding, researchers tested the use of mefenamic acid, a prostaglandin inhibitor. They report good results with few side effects.

Take pills with plenty of fluids, and don't lie down for a while. Army researchers note that many kinds of medication can irritate the esophagus if they remain there for a long time. Water helps flush them down.

HAPPY ANNIVERSARY!

One year ago today the Quincy Education Association and the Quincy School Committee sat down to negotiate a contract for the 1982/83 school year.

Negotiations began the same time leaves began to fall. Negotiations went through the snows of winter, the warmth of spring, the heat of summer, and once again the leaves of brown are falling down and STILL NO CONTRACT.

The Quincy School Committee has offered the teachers a 2% ($500) raise while suggesting $3,000 plus expenses for themselves. In their generosity they have also offered up to $100 a month to the administrators to operate their automobiles, and still the school committee continues to tell the teachers there is no money.

While our school committee continues to blame Proposition 2½ for Quincy's problems, the following communities have negotiated these raises for their teachers:

Abington	7%	Norwell	6% Sept., 1% Feb.,
Attleboro	7% 1st., 7% 2nd.		6% Sept., 1.5% Feb.
Avon	6%	Norwood	8% 1st., 7½% 2nd.

This School Committee appears determined to destroy the morale of the finest teaching staff in the state. It is the teachers who have the final responsibility of education. The teachers are the enlisted personnel of the armies. Teachers do battle against ignorance. No army ever emerged victorious in battle corrupted by poor morale.

We, the teachers of Quincy, have the arms, the determination, and the knowledge to do battle. Citizens of Quincy give us your support. Do not sit idly by while a school system is being dismembered. Support your teachers who support your children.

Once more, the President of the Quincy Education Association challenges the Quincy School Committee to publicly debate our differences. Let the public decide.

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

Veteran's Day . . . A day to review the inexorable march of history. A day for ALL of us to realistically control our minds and imagination. A day to commemorate thoughts of the past and prayers for the future. A day to concern ourselves how and why nations appear more interested in flexing their missiles instead of muscles. A day to honor those who, on battle-torn fields, faced difficult combat and crisis conditions. A day on which to recall brilliant and fabulous victories; also a day to retain memories of dismal defeat. A day to honor those who, in dreadful moments, faced a date with death in far away, remote parts of the world. A day to dignify the memory of all who fought and endured the hazards of war so that our nation might endure. A day on which we should make sure we do NOT lose respect for our uniformed men and the symbols they represent. A day to disavow those who disdain our American heritage. A day to scorn those who scorn our symbols. A day to disclaim the cynics, rebuke and repudiate their flippancies. A day on which all of us should rightfully be proud to say - "I am an American" . . .

Gospel According to E.T. At Squantum

"The Gospel According To E.T." will be the sermon title Sunday at 8:45 and 10:30 a.m. services at the First Church of Squantum.

Church pastor Rev. Dr. Gene Langevin has taken his theme from the popular motion picture fantasy "Extra Terrestrial".

There will be at least one "E.T." on hand for the service and perhaps more. Children in the church have been encouraged to wear their "E.T." costumes or bring with them any "E.T." paraphernalia that they might have. Children attending the earlier service will each receive an "E.T." balloon.

Last Sunday, Dr. Langevin completed the series of four eschatological sermons that he has been preaching on the topic "Heaven At Last".

During the early service, young people of the church presented a play depicting the Bible story of Jesus raising Lazarus from the dead.

Participating were Dave Williams, Jesus; David Scott, Lazarus; Susan Scott, Mary; Ann Lombardi, Martha; Andrew

Ogilvie, Messenger; Disciples, Sarah Mildram and Deborah Stohlberg. Michael Stamos and Jimbo McKim were ushers.

Mary Ruth Scott, Andrew Ogilvie, and Steve Williams played the guitars.

During the second service, the Lord's Supper was observed. Seated with the pastor at the Lord's Table were Deacons Katherine Hansen, Ralph Dougherty, Leon MacIntyre, Doris Longmire and Tom Williamson.

The Chancel Choir sang "Now Let Every Tongue Adore Thee" by J. S. Bach. Mary Ruth Scott directed.

On Reformation Sunday, the week before, the sermon was "What a Protestant Believes." The Junior Choir sang "We Are the Church" by Avery-Marsh. The Chancel Choir sang "Now, Let Us All Praise God and Sing" by Gordon Young.

Since it was also Halloween day, children of the church wore their costumes to the service.

The festive atmosphere was enhanced by the giant lighted jack o'lantern at the front of the sanctuary.

'Japan, Friend Or Foe' U.N. Council Topic

"Japan, Friend or Foe" will be the subject of David Winder, formerly Assistant Overseas News Editor of the Christian Science Monitor and now-roving correspondent for the Third World at a meeting of the United Nations Council of the South Shore in the Parish Hall of the Church of the Presidents, Quincy Sq., Thursday, Nov. 11, at 7:30 p.m. Admission is free.

Winder, originally from South Africa, has reported for the Monitor from Great Britain and the U.N. During his career he has travelled all over the world and has recently returned from Japan. He will discuss the trade relationship between the United States and Japan, which he believes is the most important trade relationship in the world. There is competition between the two nations, which raises the question of whether they are rivals or partners. There are also matters of defense and many cultural differences between the two countries of which he will give examples.

A special tribute will be paid to Geoffrey Godsell of the Monitor, for his help to the United Nations Council, and who often was also a guest speaker.

Before the meeting there will be a catered dinner in the Parish Hall at 6:30. To make reservations and for information on the cost, call 773-5019, 843-5094, or 479-4793. A few places are reserved for students at a reduced price.

WHEN CHILD HOLDS BREATH

Children sometimes threaten to hold their breath, and proceed to do so. It's possible for a determined child to hold his breath long enough to become unconscious. Nevertheless, he cannot kill himself, or even create a really critical problem. There are two things you can do: the choice is yours.

First, you can ignore the child. The moment he becomes groggy, the body's involuntary controls will automatically take over: the heightened carbon dioxide level in the child's blood will instantly trigger deep, rapid breathing, and the normal oxygen balance will be restored. We do not advise you to let things get to this stage unless the child is sitting or standing on something safe. Otherwise, he could fall to the floor or ground and in so doing, strike his head on something and really suffer serious injury.

Second, you can put a fast-stop to the performance by calmly and suddenly slapping the child's face. He will be startled; there will be an involuntary intake of breath, and that will be that.

Judge Whitman Keynote Speaker At Family Counseling Dinner

Judge Lewis L. Whitman of Quincy District Court will be the keynote speaker at the annual dinner of the South Arca Board of Directors of Family Counseling and Guidance Centers Wednesday evening Nov. 17 at the Neighborhood Club in Quincy.

President of Jewish Family and Children's Service since 1981, Judge Whitman shares a strong mutual concern with Family Counseling and Guidance Centers: a concern for the availability, quality and effective distribution of services to children in need.

JF&CS is the only agency in the New England area committed to finding foster homes specifically for Jewish children.

Through his involvement in the court justice system and community services, Judge Whitman's experience in the area of children's services is two-fold. He has seen the families and children who are desperately in need of help and is highly involved in the recruitment and distribution of the appropriate relief for these children.

As featured speaker, Judge Whitman will focus on "Children's Protective Services" such as foster parenting - a service that is in extremely high demand today. Children ranging in age from infancy through adolescence are in need of temporary or permanent placement in homes that can provide critical support and understanding.

In addition to his presidency of the local chapter of Jewish Family and Children's Service, Judge Whitman is a member of the Board of Directors of the National Association of Jewish Family and Children's Agencies

Soap Astrologer To Chart The Stars On Mary Soaps

Valerie Irving, a noted astrologer in the world of soap operas, will be the guest on the next segment of "Mary Soaps" Monday and Tuesday at 6:45 p.m. on Quincy Cable TV Ch. 3.

Host Mary Travers will discuss Miss Irving's recent trip to New York, the predictions she has made for the soap stars, and how she helps the stars plan their futures.

Miss Irving picked up a "soap opera" presence during a tarot card reading at a party a few years ago. The client she was reading for turned out to be the sister of Nancy Frangione, who plays Cecile Cory on "Another World." After meeting Nancy, she met other soap celebrities and started to chart their horoscopes. Now she does the horoscope readings for the stars of "Another World," "All My Children," "Ryan's Hope," "One Life To Live," and "Texas."

When not in New York "stargazing," she can be found charting horoscopes at Regina Russell's Tea Room in Quincy.

Mike's Corner

By Representative
Michael W. Morrissey

This is the 57th in a series of articles written by Representative Michael W. Morrissey.

After a short recess for the Elections of 1982 the Legislature is back in session and ready to deal with a number of controversial pieces of legislations. The recent election results have shown that the voters of the Commonwealth have authorized the Legislature to draft a law allowing the State to implement Capital Punishment. The debate could be underway at this writing. On Monday of this week the Governor submitted a special message to ask the Legislature to implement Capital Punishment. The vote in my Legislative district was 8356 in favor and 4269 against the proposal.

The Legislature is also expected to consider and give final enactment of a bill that would increase legislative, judicial and constitutional officers salaries. For Constitutional Officers (Governor, etc.) this would be the first increase in over 10 years. The salary of a legislator will be $30,000 under the proposal.

The Bottle Bill repeal fell far short of its goal to defeat the Legislative proposal. The Legislature has been asked to delay the implementation date and debate on that issue is expected in the near future.

If I can be of any assistance, I can be reached at home, 328-0900 or in the State House 722-2470.

JIM KELLY catches a Dave Zuroms pass for a long North Quincy gain in last week's game with Somerville.

NORTH QUINCY'S Rich Brown, who had his best day against Somerville last week, picks up good yardage.

Somerville 25, North Quincy 21

By TOM SULLIVAN

The North Quincy football team ran up against a one-man gang last Saturday and the one-man gang won.

The man in question was Peter Casparriello, a 6-foot-5 quarterback who turned in one of the finest performances seen at Veterans Memorial Stadium in some time to almost single-handedly give Somerville a thrilling 25-21 victory over the Raiders, dropping North's record to 3-4.

This Saturday North will try to rebound against Catholic Memorial when they clash at 1:30 p.m. at the Memorial field in West Roxbury, seeking its first win over the Catholic Leaguers.

Memorial, which has won all four meetings with North, has come along fast this fall and takes a 5-2 record into Saturday's game. Memorial defeated Austin Prep, Xaverian, Don Bosco, Concord-Carlisle and New Bedford, while losing to St. John's and Malden Catholic.

All Casparriello, an outstanding college prospect, did against the Raiders was pass for 186 yards and two touchdowns, run for 110 yards and score the other two touchdowns himself, kick an extra point and do the punting and kicking off.

He hit on 13 of 30 passes and at least five others were either dropped or were fumbled after being caught.

"He was really outstanding but we beat ourselves," said a disappointed North coach Ken McPhee. "We had no pass rush and put no pressure on him during the first half. We did a little better in the second half but still gave him too much room. And penalties killed us. I've never seen so many penalties against a North team and some of them really were costly."

The game wasn't decided until the final minutes as the Raiders trailing, 19-7, at the half, made a stirring comeback and just when it appeared they might score the winning touchdown, the costliest of many penalties nullified a pass

North Quincy Scoring

	TD	PAT	FG	Pts.
DiCarlo	6	0	0	36
Cullen	1	11	1	20
Kozlowski	3	0	0	18
Messina	2	2	0	14
Kelly	2	0	0	12
Brown	1	2	0	8
Barry	1	0	0	6

which took them to the Somerville 15.

"We missed too many assignments," said defensive coach Jack Raymer. "We knew they were going to keep passing but the defense just broke down. Three times we let them off the hook on fourth down and that hurt."

The bright spot for North was the running of Dave DiCarlo, who had a memorable afternoon. He rushed for 92 yards and scored all three Raider touchdowns. Rich Brown had his best day rushing and had 54 yards, John Kozlowski added 46 and Scott Messina had a 33-yard run that helped set up the first touchdown.

North rushed for 241 yards to 144 for Somerville. Sophomore quarterback Dave Zuroms completed seven of 15 passes for 132 yards but had three intercepted. Somerville had 19 first downs and North had 16.

Somerville received to open the game and marched 62 yards for a touchdown. Pat McDonough's first kickoff was deep and North apparently had the Highlanders stuck back on their 10 but North was offside and McDonough had to kick again from his 35.

Casparriello completed four passes on this drive, the last one an 11-yarder to Ty Snow for the TD. Casparriello kicked the extra point.

North came right back as Messina raced 33 yards to Somerville's 47, DiCarlo added 11 and Zuroms hit DiCarlo with a 34-yard scoring pass. Mike Cullen kicked the tying point.

Somerville was on the move again following the kickoff but the Raiders held this time and took over on their 18. The Raiders made two first downs but were held and Vin Barry's punt was clocked by Somerville's Bob Castor and the Highlanders had the ball on North's 27. Four plays later Casparriello again hit Snow in the end zone for a 13-yard TD play but his kick for the point was blocked.

Zuroms threw a bomb to Jim Kelly good for 47 yards which brought North to the Somerville 37 but Somerville recovered a Raider fumble. Casparriello's punt was partially blocked and the kick went only to the 50 but the Highlanders regained possession on an interception.

Somerville then marched 57 yards with Casparriello scoring from the two. A pass for the points was incomplete and Somerville led, 19-7, at halftime.

North took the second half kickoff and made two more first downs and went all the way to Somerville's 20 but another interception stopped the threat.

North held and Casparriello punted out on North's 41. Brown went for 14 yards, added 19 and DiCarlo went the remaining 26 yards for a TD. Cullen's kick made it 19-14.

Sports

North's joy quickly turned to gloom as Casparriello, on the third play following the kickoff, broke through the middle and raced 59 yards to put the visitors up, 25-14. He was stopped on a rush try for the points.

Again the Raiders fought back as they marched 73 yards after the ensuing kickoff. The key plays were a 22-yard run by DiCarlo, a 22-yard pass to Peter Clark and a 10-yard pass to Kelly. DiCarlo capped the drive by scoring from the eight and Cullen's kick left North just four points down.

When North held and Casparriello punted to the Raider 45, the Raider hopes again brightened. Things looked good when Zuroms passed to Brown on the Somerville 15 but the Raiders were set back by the ineligible receiver downfield penalty. This time Somerville held and ran out the clock.

North-Somerville Game Highlights On Ch. 3

The Quincy Cablesystems' weekly "Coaches Corner" tonight (Thursday) at 8 p.m. on Channel 3 will feature highlights of last Saturday's North Quincy 25-21 loss to Somerville.

North coach Ken McPhee will provide commentary on the game and answer questions phoned in at 471-9609. Awards will be presented to the outstanding players of the week.

Suburban Champs

North Girls Eye Eastern Mass. Title Saturday

The North Quincy girls' cross country team, which recently won another Suburban League championship with a 6-0 record, will seek its third straight Eastern Mass. title Saturday at Franklin Park.

"I think this year we will be fortunate to finish among the top four teams," said North coach Lou Tozzi. "There are five other league champions in Class B with us and Wakefield is the team to beat. Falmouth, always a powerhouse, and Weymouth North and South, which have been dropped to B, are also very strong."

Last week the Raiderettes won the all-league meet with 30 points, the lowest score in the history of the meet. It was the first time a team had all five scorers in the top 10.

Cambridge's brilliant Thayer Plante was the individual winner but North's Linda Kennedy was third, Sheila Barrett fifth, Diane Lindenfelzer sixth, Mary Ann Kelleher seventh and Meg Leary ninth.

The North girls clinched the league crown with 15-45 win over Newton North in the final league meet. Kennedy was the winner as the team took the first six places.

Barrett was second, Leary third, Lindenfelzer fourth, Kelleher fifth and Tracy Corrigan sixth.

Earlier North had blanked Quincy, 15-44, again taking the top six places. Barrett was the winner, followed by Kennedy, Leary, Kelleher, Corrigan and Laura Barrett. Laurie Post of Quincy was seventh, Sharon Barrett of North eighth, Mary Colby of Quincy ninth and Sue Nolan of Quincy 10th.

In the recent Weymouth K. of C. 5.3-mile road race Lindenfelzer was the winner in the 14-20 year old division and Kennedy second.

In last week's State Coaches Meet four Raiderettes won medals. In the 9-10 grade group Leary was seventh, Kelleher eighth and Lindenfelzer 12th. In the 11-12 grade division Corrigan placed 17th.

Harry Morash, the outstanding member of the North boys' team, did well in the 9-10 grade group but failed to win a medal.

"The Eastern Mass. meet starts at 10:30 and I hope a lot of North Quincy fans will be there to cheer our girls on," said Tozzi. "Their support will mean a lot to them."

Three former North standouts recently received All-American honors.

Mary Kate Kennedy, now a freshman at Northeastern, was selected a member of the 1982 National High School Track All-American team, while Michelle Millane, who set many records in the weight events, received honorable mention as did Rich Palma, one of the top members of the boys' team last season.

North Girls Outswim Quincy For 8th Straight

The North Quincy girls' swim team recently extended its undefeated streak over Quincy to eight straight years with a 94-76 victory before a good crowd at the Lincoln-Hancock School pool.

Quincy has never won a boys' or girls' meet against North, with the North boys having won seven straight years.

This years' girls' meet was

Presidents Host Winless Brookline

"We just didn't play football during the first half. It's as simple as that."

Those were the words of Quincy football coach Tom Fitzgerald following last Saturday's 26-8 loss at Brockton, during which the Presidents were outclassed by the once-beaten Boxers during the first two periods. The loss dropped Quincy's record to 5-3.

"I thought after our big win over Fitchburg, we would be sky high for Brockton and that we had a chance to finally beat them (Quincy hasn't defeated Brockton since 1977 and Fitzgerald has never beaten them)," Fitzie said. "But we had a poor week of practice and it carried over into the game. We were terrible in the first half and, although we improved in the second half, it was too late."

This Saturday the Presidents host winless Brookline at 1:30 p.m. at Veterans Memorial Stadium and Fitzgerald sees it as a "must" win.

"We have to win this game if we hope to have any momentum going into the North Quincy game," he said.

"I hate to play Brookline late in the season. Ed Shlutz is an outstanding coach and his teams improve every week. In spite of their record, I fear them. I just hope we wake up after the Brockton game."

Brookline has lost to Wellesley, Waltham, Brockton and North Quincy while tying Everett and

The Quincy coaches were reluctant to single out any players but Fitzgerald did mention the blocking of Ted Walsh and the defensive play of Brian Callahan.

Quincy couldn't move the ball and in the first three periods had just one first down and it didn't move into Brockton territory until the final quarter.

Quincy had the ball for only 18 plays in those three periods, while Brockton had 15 in the second period alone.

The Boxers (7-1) scored on its first three possessions and had a 20-0 halftime lead.

On its first possession the Boxers rolled 80 yards in eight plays, with Matt Frawley racing 55 yards for the touchdown.

Four plays later Brockton had the ball again on its 32 and moved 68 yards in five plays for the second score. The key play was a 36-yard pass from Frawley to Peter Marciano, who made a spectacular catch.

"I never thought he would make the catch, as we had him wellcovered," said Fitzgerald. Two costly penalties hurt the Presidents on this drive.

A penalty set Quincy back to its nine and Odell Wilson scored from there and it was quickly 12-0.

Three times Brockton intercepted passes, the second one setting up the third touchdown. Frawley returned an interception to Quincy's 45 and early in the second quarter Wilson scored from the 11. Rich Reagan fell on a fumble in the end zone for the two points.

Brockton took the second half kickoff and drove 48 yards for its final touchdown, Frawley passing to Sherrod Rainge for the TD.

Quincy scored its lone touchdown in the final quarter when it marched 65 yards with Mark Righini scoring from the 11. Bob Mudge passed to Kevin Riggs for the two points.

Brockton rolled up 211 yards rushing to just 71 for Quincy.

North Sophs Roll Over Braintree 26-12

North Quincy's sophomores football team tuned up for the annual meeting with Quincy on Nov. 20 by defeating Braintree, 26-12.

Hard-running by Mike Barry, who scored two touchdowns, one a 49-yarder up the middle, and a 52-yard run by Joe Bangs, set the pace for the young Raiders.

Quarterback Richie Brooks set up the first touchdown on an option run around his right end and Steve Kelly ran back kicks with abandon, paving the way for a score.

Brooks also did some fine passing, hitting Gerry Coughlin with a TD pass and Barry kicked two extra points.

There were several defensive standouts for North. Tony Palma was the standout with many tackles and he knocked down some key passes. John McGovern, Scott Coyne, Jim Martin, Bill Doherty, Al DiBella, Larry Nioletz and Coughlin all played well defensively.

Plymouth State With 'Q-N Look' Seeks 19th Straight At Curry

A large number of Quincy and North Quincy football fans are expected to be at Curry College field in Milton Saturday when unbeaten Plymouth State, dominated by Quincy and North players, ends its season as a top-heavy favorite to defeat Curry.

Plymouth, 18-0 over two years and 9-0 this season, last week clinched at least a tie for the N. E. Football Conference title with a 35-15 victory over Bridgewater State and has its eyes on a Division 3 playoff berth.

North Quincy's Joe Dudek, who missed three games with an injury, scored three touchdowns for Plymouth, giving him 16 for the season. He ran for 234 yards and has gained 1075 yards for the year, setting the school's all-time single season rushing record.

Dudek scored on runs of 35, four and five yards.

The game had a distinct Quincy flavor. Other Quincy and North players on the Plymouth squad are Scott Anson, Glenn Segalla, Steve Lee, John Taglieri, Neal Fisher and Ed Iodice.

North Quincy's Kevin Cobban, who has had an outstanding season at quarterback for Bridgewater, scored on a 10-yard run.

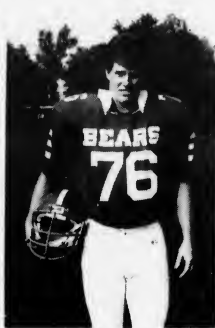

DARBY FLAHERTY

Also playing for the Bears are end Vin Harte, center Darby Flaherty and guard George McCarron, all former Quincy High players.

North Quincy's Jack Leone continued along his record-breaking way last week for the University of Maine, which clinched a tie for the Yankee Conference title with a 31-14 win over New Hampshire.

Leone, who had already broken the Division 1-AA record for kicking consecutive points after touchdowns, was four for four last week and is a perfect 44 for 44 this season. Leone also kicked his seventh field goal, a 27-yarder.

Quincy's Jeff Giordani ran back a punt 93 yards and his brother Mark threw a 31-yard touchdown pass in New Haven's 36-21 win over Coast Guard. The brothers are former Quincy High standouts.

Misses Tourney But:

North Winds Up Best Season In 5 Years

The North Quincy boys' soccer team needed three points in its final two games last week to qualify for the Eastern Mass. Tournament.

It failed, gaining only one point on a tie at Sharon, but Coach Paul Bregoli's Raiders did finish with a 9-4-4 record, their best since 1977.

Following a scoreless tie with Sharon, North had to defeat Waltham to make the tournament but the Hawks, defeated by the Raiders, 1-0, earlier, won, 3-0, to eliminate North.

Waltham goalie Tim Brown was the difference in the game as he had 10 saves, three of which had Bregoli talking to himself.

"He was tremendous and he made the best save I saw all year off Peter McGillicuddy," said the North coach.

Waltham controlled play early in the game with North forced to turn back several good Waltham chances. Mike Cocce, Alex Coutts, Jim Boudreau, and Terry Stark played brilliantly as neither team scored in the first quarter.

North began to take over the play, bolstered by the 60 fans who drove to Waltham for the game.

But a questionable pushing call on a North player enabled John Giordini to score on a penalty kick, beating goalie Bob O'Brien to his left.

North nearly tied it up on an indirect hit. Andy Curtis touched the ball to McGillicuddy, who hit a low hard drive on which Brown made his unbelievable save.

Still trailing, 1-0, North came out flying in the second half and its pressure nearly resulted in three goals. First Boudreau crossed a ball to DiBella, who had the ball slip pass the far post. McGillicuddy made a nice move to beat two defenders with his low shot just missing by inches. Finally, Dwayne Wilcoxon drove a ball at the net which struck Brown in the face. He never saw the shot coming through a screen of players.

Waltham made it 2-0 on a goal by Gino DeStefano and, with four minutes left, scored again.

Todd Caldwell, Frank Scanlan, Jaime Paz, George Dolbec, Mark McGowan, Greg DiBella, Steve Golden, David Brown and Mike Bourikas all played well.

Earlier in the week North had several good chances at Sharon but couldn't connect. O'Brien recorded his fourth shutout of the year. It was a frustrating game for North as it dominated the game from start to finish.

"This team had an outstanding season," said Bregoli. "I think when the players have a chance to reflect on it they will realize that they have brought the soccer program at North all the way back. They had desire, courage and did everything I could ask for.

"They are a credit to their school and their parents. They made this season a pleasure for me and I'm very proud of every one of them. Special praise should go to the seniors, who were the real leaders. Unfortunately, we play in a very strong league and some of the teams who qualified for the tournament are not in their class. They are in a class by themselves."

WEEK OF: NOVEMBER 11

AQUARIUS - January 21-February 19

Misunderstandings can be resolved with give and take - but don't give more than you take. Relatives excel in competitive events. Financial maneuvers are your strong point now.

PISCES - February 20-March 20

Conveniences may prove more trouble than they're worth - you might decide to opt for an old-fashioned approach as you reach a critical deadline. Small financial risk can pay off by Tuesday.

ARIES - March 21-April 20

An excellent week for trying to get work published; you shine in any project that involves writing. In romance, don't press issues. In diet, avoid spicy delicacies.

TAURUS - April 21-May 22

Professional acquaintance may ask for a personal favor; don't feel intimidated. Rumors are circulating but believe little of what you see and even less of what you hear now.

GEMINI - May 23-June 21

Your attention to detail is paying off now, but be sure you understand the larger concepts too. Be reluctant to question the wisdom or motives of an adviser - no matter how trustworthy.

CANCER - June 22-July 22

Standards for others may be unrealistically low. Encourage friends to try harder still. Relative may press for a decision; it's better to say nothing than to answer impulsively.

LEO - July 23-August 22

Week sees you devoting time and energy to domestic matters - anything from moving to decorating. Being direct but tactful wins points at work and in personal relationships.

VIRGO - August 23-September 22

Remote dreams can come true this week when your persistence combines with a highup's generosity. Family feud is put to rest thanks to the offbeat approach of a junior diplomat.

LIBRA - September 23-October 22

Doctor's orders - especially c, diet matters - should be followed seriously. Week finds you championing the underdog, though you can be taking on a lot more than you realize.

SCORPIO - October 23-November 21

Money maneuvers should be based on careful research, not mere intuition. Education is accented. Try learning a lot about a little - not the other way around.

SAGITTARIUS - November 22-December 22

If evaluating any object, the first appraisal may be unrealistically high or low. An aloof friend crashes down to earth when he realizes how drastically his values have changed.

CAPRICORN - December 23-January 20

Compensation for an injustice or injury comes your way after a long wait. You're quick to change your mind now; think out a situation and experiment before making a drastic move.

BIRTHDAY THIS WEEK

Personal magnetism is your famous trait, in any group, you're the center of attraction. On the flip side, you're highly impatient, highly secretive. In the coming months you're influenced by a force that encourages personal and/or professional partnerships.

BORN THIS WEEK

November 11th, comedian Jonathan Winters, 12th, actress Stefanie Powers, 13th, actor Charles Bronson, 14th, actor Brian Keith, 15th, singer Petula Clark, 16th, actor Burgess Meredith, 17th, actor Rock Hudson.
